Special Agent Career Development Files - a compendium of Civil Service Performance Evaluation and Ratings and all correspondence unique to the NIS Special Agent, including annual physical examinations, which has a bearing on world-wide assignability, promotion and general career assessment.

Weapons Inventory File - an automated file containing the credential number, badge, weapons and handcuffs assigned to each NIS criminal investigator.

Personnel Security Clearance File - an automated file containing the classified material access level and date of last security clearance for assigned civilian and military personnel of NIS.

Personnel Utilization Data File - an automated file designed to provide statistical information regarding the manner by which available NIS manhours are expended in the execution of its assigned investigative and counterintelligence mission. The file is formed by the submission (monthly) of individual manhour diaries. All assigned personnel input to this system; their manhours are categorized by function.

Freedom of Information and Privacy Requests File. Records relating to requests for information pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act of 1974, and responses thereto. Duplicate copies are also retained by the Naval Intelligence Command, 2461 Eisenhower Avenue, Alexandria, Va. 22331.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 U.S.C. 301; Departmental Regulations

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The Personnel Management System is used in preparation of virtually all personnel documents and personnel statistical studies. It provides such information as the average grade, the total number and composition of personnel at each NIS component and the past assignments of personnel. It is used on a daily basis by personnel technicians and management level personnel in the formation and execution of staffing actions for the various NIS components, informal verification of employee's tenure and the compilation of necessary statistical studies.

Special Agent Career Development Files - The information in these files is used for within-agency decisions regarding reassignment, promotion, career training and long-range development. They form within-agency repository for both adverse and favorable documents regarding Special Agents. The files have a long-range fuction - that of forming the basis for law enforcement retirement service certification. Though part of the file is duplicated in the Official File maintained by the Civilian Personnel Office, the Special Agent Career Development file is considered priviledged information and its contents are not released outside NIS. Within NIS, the files are maintained and controlled exclusively within the Career Services Division, NIS Headquarters and by assigned personnel to that Division. The files are released for review only to senior management personnel of NIS.

Weapons Inventory File - used to identify and inventory credentials, weapons, badges and handcuffs issued to authorized NIS personnel.

Personnel Security Clearnace File - used to informally verify and authenticate security clearances issued to NIS personnel. The file has a daily working purpose of acting as a check sheet for the updating of security clearances. It further is the file referred to when the director, NIS, is required to certify th access level of certain assigned NIS personnel to other Navy commands as well as civilian contractors.

Personnel Utilization Data File - a statistical file from which an indepth analyses of manhour expenditures are surveyed. The file is highly automated and used exclusively within NIS. The various analyses drawn from the file are used to modify the staffing levels at various NIS components based on actual work level. It further provides a tool to NIS management to gauge the efficiency of all components by comparing their workload with the amount of manhours available.

The records in this system are referred, as appropriate to authorized governmental units, such as Office of Civilian Manpower Management and Civil Service Commission, making various personnel determinations, e.g., retirement, awards, disciplinary action; to law enforcement personnel conducting criminal or suitability investigations; to DoD components, other agencies or industrial firms requiring confirmation of security clearance level; to higher authority for statistical purposes; limited response to credit queries; and medical records to personal physicians.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

The Personnel Management System, Weapons Inventory File, Personnel Security Clearance File and the Personnel Utilization Data File are stored on magnetic tape in an automated system. The Personnel Management System is composed of visible file cards and computer paper printouts; the Personnel Security Clearance File is composed of computer paper printouts and associated Department of Defense security certification documents, the latter being filed in individual file folders; the Weapons Inventory File and the Personnel Utilization Data File are composed of computer paper printouts only.

The Special Agent Career Development files are composed exclusively of paper records in file folders.

Retrievability:

Information is accessed and retrieved by name only in the Special Agent Career Development File. The Weapons Inventory File is queried by either name only or by item number (i.e., badge, credential, weapon, handcuff serial number).

The Personnel Management System is accessed by name and SSAN; retrieval is by individual data characteristic such as GS-grade level, duty-station, special qualifications, language qualifications or it my be retrieved by name only or in conjuction with the SSAN.

The Personnel Utilization Data File is normally accessed and retrieved by location and functional category of employment (i.e., Special Agent, clerical, etc.). The capability exists, however, to retrieve by SSAN. The Personnel Security Classificaton File is a subordinate file to the Personnel Management System. Accession is by name and SSAN. Retrieval is accomplished by computer paper printout in both alphabetical and duty-station format.

Safeguards:

All files in this system are protected by limited, controlled access, safes, and locked cabinets and doors. Futher, visitor control and secure computer software measures (where applicable) are utilized.

Retention and disposal:

Personnel indexed in the Personnel Management System and the Personnel Security Clearance File are deleted from the magnetic tape data storage upon termination of employment. Residual paper records are retained from two to five years.

Personnel indexed in the Weapons Inventory File are deleted at such time as assigned equipment is returned and accounted for. Residual paper printouts are destroyed at least semi-annually.

The Special Agent Career Development Files are semi-permanent and are retained, at least in essential skeletal format, indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Naval Investigative Service, 2461 Eisenhower Avenue, Alexandria, Va. 22331.

Notification procedure:

Requests from individuals should be addressed to the System Manager, above. Individuals submitting requests should provide their full name, date of birth, SSAN and dates of employment or assignment with NIS.

In the case of personal visits, individuals requesting access to files in this system will be required to present reasonable proof of identity to minimally include a drivers' license or similar document at least one of which must bear a current photograph and be able to provide (orally) some element of unique identifying data such as name of spouse or a past duty-station with NIS.

Record access procedures:

Access to files in this system may be gained by written notification or personal visit to the Naval Investigative Service Headquarters at the location specified above. Requests should be directed to the Information and Privacy Coordinator.

Contesting record procedures: The agency's rule for access to records and for contesting contents and appealing initial determinations by the inividual concerned may be obtained from the system manager.

Record source categories:

In the case of Personnel Management System and the Personnel Utilization Data System, the individual employee is the prime source of information both for initial access to the files as well as periodic update. The Personnel Security Clearance File information is obtained as a sub-file to the Personnel Management System. The information for the Weapons Inventory File is obtained from personnel charged with the issuance of various items inventoried therein (with verification by the personnel to whom the items are issued.)

Information for the Special Agent Career Development File is recieved from the individuals supervisors, from various Naval Commands and other Federal and State agencies with whom the Special Agent has had professional contact and from the individual himself. Also, this file contains copies of each physical examination required annually of assigned civilian Special Agents.

System name:

NIS Investigative Files System

System location:

Primary System-NIS Records Management Division Administration Department, NIS Headquarters, Hoffman Building, 2461 Eisenhower Ave., Alexadria, Va. 22331.

Decentralized Segments - Naval Investigative Service Offices (NISOs) retain copies of certain segments of the investigative files, and related documentation for up to one year. Addresses of these offices are included in the directory of Department of the Navy mailing addresses. Naval Investigative Service Resident Agencies retain copies of investigative reports during pendency and for 90 days thereafter. They also retain evidence custody cards on persons from whom evidence was seized. The number and location of these Resident Agencies are subject to change in order to meet the requirements of the Department of the Navy. Current location may be obtained from Naval Investigative Service Headquarters.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Persons in the following categories who require access to classified defense information prior to August 1972: Active and inactive members of the naval service, civilian personnel employed by the Department of the Navy (DoN), industrial and contractor personnel, civilian personnel being considered for sensitive positions, boards, conferences, etc., civilian personnel who worked or resided overseas, Red Cross personnel. Civilian and military personnel accused, suspected or victims of felonious type offenses, or lesser offenses impacting on the good order, discipline, morale or security of the DoN. Civilian personnel seeking access to or seeking to conduct or operate any business or other function aboard a DoN installation, facility or ship. Civilian or military personnel involved in the loss, compromise or unauthorized disclosure of classified material/information. Civilian and military personnel who were of counterintelligence interest to the DoN.

Categories of records in the system:

Categories of records in the system: Official Reports of Investigation (ROI) prepared by NIS or other military, federal, state, local or foreign law enforcement or investigative body on either hard copy or microfilm. NIS Information reports (NIRs). NIRs document information received by NIS which is of interest to the naval services or other law enforcement or investigative bodies. The information may be of criminal, counterintelligence or general investigative interest.

General Administration Reports (GEN). The investigative purpose of the GEN is to report the results of pre-employment inquiries on applicants for positions as Special Agents with NIS.

Investigative summaries, memoranda for the files and correspondence relating to specific cases and contained in the individual dossier.

Polygraph Data. A listing of persons who submitted to polygraph examination by NIS examiners. The data includes the examinee's name, location and results of the examination and the identity of the examiner.

Case Control and Management documents which serve as the basis for controlling and guiding the investigative activity.

Records identifying confidential sources and contacts with them.

Index to persons reported by 'Name Only'.

Wiretap Data Records. Automated listing of persons who were subjects of wiretapping or eavesdropping operations.

Case Control and Narcotics Data Records. Automated records used only for statistical purposes in accounting for productivity, manhours expenditures; various statistical data concerning narcotics usage and used solely for statistical purposes.

Modus Operandi Files.

Screening Board Reports. These reports set forth the results of oral examination of applicants for a position as a Special Agent with the NIS.

Executive Memorandum of 26 June 1939; Investigations of espionage, counterespionage and sabotage matters.

Executive Order 10450; Security Requirements for Government employees.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The information in this system is (was) collected to meet the investigative, counterintelligence and security responsibilites of the DoN. This includes personnel security, internal security, criminal and other law enforcement matters all of which are essential to the effective operation of the department.

The records in this system are used to make determinations of; suitability for access or continued access to classified information, suitability for employment or assignment, suitability for access to military installations or industrial firms engaged in government projects/contracts, suitability for awards or similar benefits; referral to other law enforcement or investigatory authorities for law enforcement purposes; use in current law enforcement investigation of any type including applicants; use in judicial or adjudicative proceedings including litigation or in accordance with a court order; insurance claims including workmens compensation; provide protective services under the DoD Distinguished Visitor Protection Program and to assist the U.S. Secret Service in meeting its responsibilities; Congressional interest including the General Accounting Office; respond to the Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts; use for public affairs or publicity purposes such as wanted persons, etc.; referral of matters under their cognizance to federal, state or local law enforcement authorities including criminal prosecution, civil court action or regulatory order; disclosure to federal intelligence/counterintelligence agencies of matters under their purview disclosure to foreign government organizations of criminal and counterintelligence information necessary for the prosecution of justice, or for mutual security and protection; advising higher authorities and naval commands of important developments impacting on security, good order or discipline; reporting of statistical data to naval commands and higher authority; disclosure to the National Archives; use by other investigative unit (federal, state or local) for whom the investigation was conducted; release to defense counsel, disclosure in course of acquiring the information, input into the Defense Central Index of Investigations; disclosure to victims of crimes to the extent necessary to pursue civil and criminal remedies.

Users of the records in this system include employees of the NIS who require access for operational, administrative or supervisory purposes; DoD criminal investigative, investigative and intelligence units; federal, state and local units engaged in criminal investigative, investigative and intelligence activities; federal regulatory agencies with investigative units, DOD components making suitability determinations; federal, state or local judicial or adjudicative bodies; Congressional bodies, including the General Accounting Office who require access within the scope of their jurisdiction for those authorized purposes enumerated above to the extent that those purposes are within the scope of their authority. Commercial insurance companies in those instances in which they have a legitimate interest in the results of the investigation, but only to that extent and provided an invasion of privacy is not involved.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper records in file folders, on cards and on microfilm. Automated records on magnetic tape.

Retrievability:

NIS permanent files are filed by terminal digit number. In order to locate the file it is necessary to query the Defense Central Index of Investigations (DCII) computer using the name of the subject and at least one other personnel identifier such as date of birth, place of birth, social security number or military service number. Files may also be retrieved by a case control number assigned at the time the investigation is initiated. Copies of the files in the NISOs and Resident Agencies are retrieved by name.

Safeguards:

NIS investigative files (permanent and temporary) are maintained and stored in open shelves and filing cabinets located in secured areas accessible only to authorized personnel. Dated files are retired to the Washington National Records Center where retrieval is restricted to NIS authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal:

Retention of completed NIS Investigative files on Personnel Security Investigations (PSI's) is authorized for 15 years unless adverse information is developed, in which case they may be retained for 25 years. PSI files on persons considered for affiliation with DOD will be destroyed within one year if the affiliation is not consummated. Special Agent applicant records are retained for one year if the applicant declines offer of employment and five years if the applicant is rejected for employment. Criminal files are retained for 25 years. Major investigations of a counterintelligence/security nature, of espionage or sabotage, may be retained permanently. Certain of the above records, when found to have possible historical value, may be offered to the National Archives for continued retention. Counterintelligence records on persons not affiliated with DOD must be destroyed within 90 days or one year under criteria set forth in DOD Directive 5200.27, unless retention is required by law or specifically approved by the Secretary of the Navy. Files retained in the NISO's and resident agencies are temporary and are destroyed after 90 days or one year, as appropriate.

System manager(s) and address:

The Director, Naval Investigative Service has ultimate responsibility for all NIS file holdings. Management of NIS permanent files is the direct responsibility of the Assistant Director for Administration. NISO Commanding Officers are responsible for files retained in their NISO subordinate Resident Agencies.

Notification procedure:

All requests relative to the retention and/or releasability of NIS investigative files should be addressed to the Director, Naval Investigative Service, 2461 Eisenhower Avenue, Alexandria, Va. 22331. Requests must contain the full name of the individual and at least one additional personal identifier such as date and place of birth, social security number or military service number. Personal visits by requesters should be confined to the Naval Investigative Service headquarters at the above address. It should be borne in mind that the vagaries of the automated indexing system might preclude a same day response. Persons submitting written requests must properly establish their identity to the satisfaction of the NIS. Where a question exists a signed, notarized statement or other certified form of identification will be required. Individuals appearing in person may present proof of identification in the form of military ID card, valid driver's license, or other suitable form of identification bearing a photograph and signature. Attorneys or other persons acting on behalf of a subject of a record must provide a notarized authorization from the subject of the record.

Record access procedures:

Individuals may make inquiries relative to NIS records maintained on them thru the NIS Information and Privacy Coordinator Naval Investigative Service Headquarters, at the address specified in the previous paragraph.

Contesting record procedures:

The Agency's rules for access to records and for contesting contents and appealing initial determinations by the individual concerned may be obtained from the SYSMANAGER.

Record source categories:

See EXEMPTION.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Any person described as a subject, a victim, or a cross-reference in an investigation completed by or for a DoD investigative element when that investigation is retained by the element and the name is submitted for central indexing.

Categories of records in the system:

Composed of locator references to investigations conducted by or for DoD investigative elements and retained by them. Index records contain the name and other personal identifying information on individuals who were indexed.

Reference to an investigation maintained by one of the investigative records repositories. It identifies the individual by name and personal identifiers, the custodian of the file, the year indexed and the number used by the repository to locate the file.

A record input by either Army investigative activities or DIS reflecting the existence of an investigation in progress. It identifies the subject individual by name and personal identifiers, the location of the open investigation, the year indexed and the number used to locate the investigative file.

Record of a National Agency Check (NAC) investigation in progress. It identifies the subject individual by name, personal identifiers, the case number, the category of the requester of the NAC, and the type of NAC being run.

A record of completed favorable national agency checks (e.g., no records). It identifies the individual by name and personal identifiers, the date the NAC was completed and the agencies that were checked.

Composed of names of persons referenced in files who are not fully identified, but about whom sufficient information exists that meets retrieval criteria. It identifies the individuals by name, custodian agency of the file, year of the index, and the number used by the repository to locate the file. Positive identification is impossible from the index and may well be impossible from the case file itself.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 U.S.C. 301 Departmental Regulations
44 U.S.C. 3101 Records Management

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

File tracing information is collected and maintained in the indices so that authorized users may determine the existence and location of DoD investigative records.

NAC history information is maintained for authorized users in granting clearances or access to defense installation, entry into military service or employment in sensitive civilian positions.

Activities listed under the LOCATION caption are the principal users and (with the exception of DISCO) the file custodians. Listed terminal holders (with the exception of DISCO) may release general DCII information to:

Other DoD investigative elements, DoD agencies and elements of the Military Departments designated by the departments.

Accredited representatives of the Secretary of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Accredited Federal criminal and civil law enforcement agencies including those responsible for conducting their own investigations as to the suitability for employment or access of current or potential employees formerly affiliated with the DoD.

State and local criminal law enforcement agencies.

Other accredited Federal agencies serviced by the Civil Service Commission but with a need to evaluate the suitability of potential employees formerly affiliated with the DoD.

Congress, including the Government Accounting Office.

The AUTODIN system which transmits formatted data over telecommunications circuits facilitates the collection of transactions from contributors to update the index and to disseminate index information to the requesters.

The Defense Case Control System (DCCS) and the National Agency Check Control System (NCCS) which are described separately in this notice.

It should be noted that information contained in the system is regarded as the property of the submitting activities. DIS can neither monitor, nor assume responsibility for the propriety or accuracy of all the data in the system.

Transfer of information from this records system to other DoD components is regarded as a routine intra-agency use under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a3(b)(1). The use of the DCII to refer inquiries to other DoD elements, where there is no release of DCII information itself is not deemed to require an accounting.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Master Index data is maintained in direct access storage devices, disk and data cell. It is also contained on magnetic tape for continuity of operations purposes to permit processing at alternate locations in the event of computer failure.

Name Only Index data is maintained on magnetic tape and microfiche. Each contributor is provided his portion on a quarterly basis.

Retrievability:

Master Index records are accessed through name and at least one personal identifier (PID). Personal identifiers are: date of birth, place of birth, social security number and the last four (4) digits of military service number. Inquiries may enter the system in card form or by being keyed in at remote terminals. A non-standard retrieval capability also exists which permits retrieval without PID, or on parts of a name, and produces references to all individuals by that name. It should be noted that in many cases, the subject's SSAN is necessary to make a positive identification.

Name Only Index records are accessed through the name or some portion thereof. Records are retrieved based on an exact match with the name submitted. Inquiries may enter the system only in card form.

Safeguards:

Generalized validation is provided in batch retrieval through program edits to prevent unauthorized access.

User terminals with access to the Master Index are located in controlled access areas. Access to the system is limited to specified time of the day. Terminals are connected via dedicated data circuits which prevent access from standard dial-up telephones.

Activities must be a part of DoD and accredited on the basis of authorized requirements before a new terminal is established or before batch requests will be honored and processed. Terminal holders and activities authorized to batch process requests are responsible for the authority and need to know of individuals and agencies on behalf of which they search the index.

The computer room is located within a building controlled by security personnel at all times. Identification badges are required for entrance. Access to the computer room is controlled by a combination lock on the entrance. Critical backup files are stored in locked fireproof data safes.

Retention and disposal:

Retained for as long as files are retained. When the record repository disposes of the file, they are responsible for deleting all index tracings pertaining thereto, in accordance with established procedures. Processing of a deletion transaction flags the computer record which precludes it being given out thereafter. Such flagged records are eliminated from the system during periodic file restructuring procedures.

Open Case Tracings. Retained for as long as the investigation is open. When the investigation is completed, the contributor replaces the open case tracing with a file tracing as described above.

NAC History Tracings. Retained for a period of four (4) years from the date of completion and then automatically deleted unless specific action is taken sooner to delete the record. Should a subsequent favorable NAC be completed, the entering of a new history record will delete the first history record.

NAC Pending Tracings. Retained until completion of the NAC at which time they are replaced by a NAC History or file tracing, unless deleted sooner by the originator.

Categories of records in the system:

Accidental Injury/Death Reports. Personnel Casualty Reports. Hospital Admission Reports. JAG manual investigations.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 USC 301 Departmental Regulations

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Accidental injury records are used to compile a variety of statistical reports which are routinely published or prepared at the request of Navy forces afloat and shore activities. Individual injury reports are selected and reviewed by Naval Safety Center analysts in order to detect problem areas relating to operating procedure, training and equipment usage and malfunction. Results of these studies which may include individual injury reports are provided to commanding officers and to all echelons within the Navy having responsibility for the allocation of resources or the implementation of the Safety Program. Individual injury records are correlated with data contained in other personnel files in order to detect unfavorable trends within an activity and to recommend appropriate corrective measures. Individual records and statistical summaries are provided on request to all Government activities having a legitimate need for such information. Individual records and summary data are provided to contractors and research activities in connection with projects either funded by or deemed potentially valuable to the Department of the Navy.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Magnetic tape. (Central location) File Folders/cardex (subordinate commands)

System name:

DODCI Student/Faculty/Senior Staff Biography System

System location:

Department of Defense Computer Institute, Washington Navy Yard, Washington, D.C. 20374.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

All faculty members, senior staff members, and guest lecturers currently instructing or managing at the DODCI. All students who are attending or who have completed a course of instructions presented by the Department of Defense Computer Institute: primarily DOD military and civilian personnel as regular students; personnel from other federal, state and local government agencies who have attended courses on a space available basis; military and civilian personnel from foreign governments who requested and were granted authority to attend courses; and personnel from private industry who are under direct contract to a DOD activity who sponsor their attendance.

Categories of records in the system:

Biographic summary forms individually submitted upon request by each DODCI faculty member, senior staff member, guest lecturer, or student. Students record consists of name, rank or rate, civilian grade, organization and division, office phone number, current and previous job titles and positions, number of months with present job title, major duties of present job, formal education completed, objectives for attending DODCI course, computer-related and other technical training and experience, information on usage of computers in present position, influence and authority student has over design of computer-based systems including security and privacy aspects, extent involved in planning and design of teleprocessing systems. Faculty/senior staff record consists of name, rank or rate, current and previous job titles and positions, former major duties, formal education completed, computer-related and other technical training and experience.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 USC 301.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Information contained in the student biographical summaries is restricted to internal use within DODCI. Used by Course Managers and functional Department Head to evaluate education level, computer related work experience, and general computer background of DODCI students. Establishes student qualifications to attend a requested course and if course objectives have satisfied personal objectives of students for attending course. Statistical summarization of information contained therein provides basis for modification and revision to course content. Also serves as vehicle to place student into appropriate laboratory and seminar group in courses requiring such a breakout.

Information on faculty/senior staff members contained in the biographical summaries is provided to students as an attachment to their student notebooks. Records are used to identify faculty and senior staff members, areas of data processing and information management expertise for consultationpurposes and as an expertise peamble to the next scheduled lecturer.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Retrievability:

By name for faculty/senior staff members. Course title and name for studets.

System name:

DODCI Course Evaluation System

System location:

Department of Defense Computer Institute, Washington Navy Yard, Washington, D.C. 20374.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

All students who have completed a course of instruction presented by the Department of Defense Computer Institute: primarily DOD military and civilian personnel as regular students; personnel from other federal, state and local government agencies who have attended courses on a space available basis; military and civilian personnel from foreign governments who requested and were granted authority to attend courses; and personnel from private industry who are under direct contract to a DOD activity who sponsor their attendance.

Categories of records in the system:

Individual student evaluation of entire course and random sampling of specific lecture presentations. Includes objectives for attending course; statement concerning realization of personal objectives, numerical or qualitative rating of overall course, lab sessions and/or specific lectures; list of strengths and weaknesses of course; list of lecture subjects of particular benefit or of little use to student; list of lecture subjects which should be expanded or reduced in coverage; and list of topics not covered in course but should be included. Comments concerning course content, sequence, lecture presentation, teaching techniques, audio visual aids, physical facilities and administrative support are solicited and recorded. Categories are posed as questions with ample space to encourage written response of student opinion in a structured but non-restrictive format. These Course Evaluation Forms also contain hard core factual information, i.e., course title, course dates, student name, rank/rate/grade, branch of service, duty station or agency, and present job title.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 USC 301.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Use of the student evaluation forms and the information contained therein is restricted to internal use within DODCI. Used to evaluate course, lecture, teaching techniques and individual instructor effectiveness. Provides basis for modification and revision to course content and sequence and lecture content. Provides input to long range plan for course update, additions and revisions. Copy is provided to unit education offices upon request. Student evaluations of all attendees to a particular course are reviewed as a composite group by DODCI faculty members to determine problem areas, trends, and provides a continuous evaluation of course effectiveness.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Retrievability:

Course Title and Student Name.

Safeguards:

Maintained in Scheduling Office which is locked after normal working hours, access controlled by Systems Manager and accessible only to authorized faculty members. Director of Administration, and Director or delegate on demand.

N65196 DODCI.04

System name:

DODCI Lecture-Instructor Inventory System.

System location:

Department of Defense Computer Institute, Building 175, Washington Navy Yard, Washington, D.C. 20374.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Current DODCI instructors.

Categories of records in the system:

Two disk files comprise the system of records. First master file contains instructor's name, functional group assignment code, projected date of departure; list of lectures instructor gives. Second master file contains lecture I.D., title, lecture primary, instructors giving the lecture.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 U.S.C. 301

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Provides the ability for functional managers to generate a list of instructors along with the associated lectures in which they are proficient or to specify a lecture title and determine which instructors are capable of presentation. This provides assistance in assigning instructors to course schedules, teams for on-site course presentations, determining lectures which are critical in flexibility of assignment, planning instructor assignments in the order of lecture priority.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Maintained on magnetic disks in a computer data base.

Retrievability:

Instructor's last name, lecture ID number, or functional group code.

Safeguards:

This system of records is maintained on magnetic disks in the computer operations center which is kept locked. Only the manager and assistant manager of the Computer Support office have access to the center during normal working hours and the security watch has access after hours. The mode of access to the computer-based system is via remote terminal and special passwords are required. Appropriate data base language commands (available only to authorized DODCI staff members) must be invoked to gain access to information in the system. Portions of the system can only be accessed by functional managers via controlled key work commands. An accounting log is maintained of all accesses to the system which contains identification of the user, log-on and off, station number, and date/time of last access.

Retention and disposal:

The system data base is retained indefinitely. Revisions are in continuous process, e.g., instructors' names being added upon arrival and deleted on departure, lecture titles added or deleted as they are developed or discontinued, lecture presentation capability expanded or deleted as appropriate.

System manager(s) and address:

Manager, Computer Support Office, DOD Computer Institute, Building 175, Washington, D.C. 20374.

Notification procedure:

DODCI faculty members are informed of existence and purpose of system. Individual instructors can request printout of information in system which pertains to them.

Record access procedures:

The Institutes rules for access to records may be obtained from the Systems Manager.

Contesting record procedures:

The Institute's rules for contesting contents and appealing initial determinations by the individual concerned can be obtained from the Systems Manager.

Record source categories:

DODCI functional managers maintain system and periodically revise data base by entering new data and deleting discontinued information. Additionally, the Systems Manager can enter information affecting printout format and contents.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

None.

The addresses of the activities are furnished in the Department of the Navy directory published in the Federal Register.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Department of the Navy civilian employees paid from appropriated funds and Navy military personnel included in the automated training record segment of NACMIS.

Categories of records in the system:

The system comprises automated and non-automated records describing and identifying the employee (e.g., name, social security account number, sex, birth date, minority designator, citizenship, physical handicap code); the position occupied and the employee's qualifications; salary and salary basis; employee's status in relation to the position occupied and the organization to which assigned; tickler dates for impending changes in status; education and training records; previous military status; functional code; previous employment record; performance appraisal and other data needed for screening and selection of an employee; referral records; professional licenses and publications; and reason for position change or other action affecting the employee. The records are those found in the five modules of NACMIS which are: Training and Employee Development Record System/Training Requirements and Information Management System (TRIM); Personnel Automated Data System (PADS); Navy Civilian Career Management Inventory and Referral System; and local automated personnel Information System (LAPIS).

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 USC 2951, Reports; 5 USC 301, Departmental Regulations; 5 USC 4103, Establishment of Training Programs; 5 USC 4118, Training; 5 USC 4115, Collection of Training Information; Executive Order 9397, Numbering System for Federal Accounts Relating to Individual Persons; Public Law 92-261, The Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Officials and employees of the Department of the Navy in performance of their official duties related to the management and administration of the Department's civilian personnel and civilian manpower planning programs and in the design, development, maintenance and operation of the automated system of records; employees and officials of the Department of Defense where there exists a need-to-know in the performance of their official duties; employees and officials of the Civil Service Commission in the performance of their official duties. The Comptroller General or any of his authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of duties of the General Accounting Office. The Attorney General of the United States or his authorized representatives in connection with litigation, law enforcement, or other matters under the direct jurisdiction of the Department of Justice or carried out as the legal representative of Executive Branch agencies. Officials and employees of other departments and agencies of the Executive Branch of government upon request in the performance of their official duties related to the screening and selection of candidates for vacant positions. Representatives of the United States Department of Labor on matters relating to the inspection, survey, audit or evaluation of the Navy's apprentice training programs or on other such matters under the jurisdiction of the Labor Department. Representatives of the Veterans Administration on matters relating to the inspection, survey, audit or evaluation of the Navy's apprentice and on-the-job training program. (EEO) complaint. Officials and employees of schools and other institutions engaged to provide training. Employee unions when unions are authorized to canvas employees or at the time of a union election. Designated contractors of the Department of the Navy in performance of their duties with respect to equipment and system design, development, test and maintenance.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Automated records are stored on magnetic tape, disc, drum and punched cards and computer printouts. Manual records are stored in paper file folders.

Retrievability:

Information is retrieved by Social Security Account Number (SSAN), name, or by specific employee characteristics such as date of birth, grade, occupation, employing organization, tickler dates; a combination of data elements contained in the Training Requirements Information Management (TRIM) subsystem, on apprentice program master files; academic specialty or education level. Specific subgroups of employees may be identified through the use of computerized indices. Manual records are retrieved by name.

Safeguards:

The computer facility and terminal are accessible only to authorized persons that have been properly screened, cleared and trained. Manual and automated records and computer printouts are available only to authorized personnel having a need-to-know. In the case of EEO data, output from the central Office of Civilian Manpower Management file is authorized only by the Department of the Navy Director of Equal Employment Opportunity or his Deputy. Output from the activity minority census files must be authorized in writing by either the head of the activity or the activity's deputy EEO officer.

Retention and disposal:

For TRIM and the apprentice programs the computer magnetic tapes are permanent. Manual records are maintained on a fiscal year basis and are retained for varying periods from 1 to 5 fiscal years. For the Department of the Navy's centrally-administered programs, files on selected candidates are maintained for 5 years (from date selection process is completed). Records of non-selected candidates are retained only for that period of time sufficient to permit appropriate review (usually less than 60 days). For PADS, computer magnetic tapes are retained permanently. Magnetic discs are erased after use. Computer printouts are destroyed after 3 months. Input documents (NAVSO12280/11) are destroyed after data is converted to machine readable form. Input punch cards are retained for 2 weeks. For career management computer magnetic tapes and discs are erased 5 years after they are created; manual records are destroyed 2 years after the employee has been dropped from the career inventory. Manual records are destroyed upon separation of the employee from the activity. For LAPIS, records are maintained in an active status until a separation action on an employee is completed. Historical records for LAPIS are maintained for a maximum of 5 years.

Training and Employee Development Record System

System location:

Office of Civilian Manpower Management (OCMM), Regional Offices of Civilian Manpower Management (ROCMM's), Capital Area Personnel Services Office - Navy (CAPSO-N), and Navy Staff, headquarters and field activities employing civilians. Mailing addresses are provided in the Department of Navy directory published in the Federal Register.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Navy civilian employees, full-time and part-time, U.S. citizens and foreign national direct hires receiving training supported by the Federal Government, paid from approprated funds. Navy military personnel may be included in the automated training information system, and non-appropriated funded personnel may be included in some of the stations' manual records

Categories of records in the system:

Under the Departments' Training Requirements and Information Management System (TRIM), or other locally developed systems, automated and nonautomated records are maintained reflecting information pertaining to the employees' identification, social security number, occupational status (series, grade level, and supervisory status), course identification, course length, category and purpose of training received, date on which training was completed, associated costs, pre-post test results, et.al. input documents for the system include, but is not limited to completed NAVSO Forms 12410/19 and /19A, Training Report, Authorization and Record, keypunched cards. The manual files are maintained in paper folders containing employee's registration and/or record of training documents. Under the Navy's Apprentice, on-the-job Training Program, and similar trainee intake programs, manual and automated records are maintained, reflecting information pertaining to subject employee's identification, date of birth, entrance date to program, dates and nature of personnel actions which occurred during fiscal year, student progress, and statistical data which effects the numbers of apprentices in training as of a given date. At OCMM, nomination documents (non-automated) for the Department of the Navy's centrally-administered education and training programs are maintained. The manual files contain the candidate's nomination documents, training request, enrollment and registration and other documents related to training. Manual files are maintained at OCMM, the ROCMM's, CAPSO-N, and the several naval installations regarding courses conducted on their premises, or for which they sponsor, listing such things as completion dates, and course participants. Additionally, manual files are typically found at the field activities containing information regarding an employee's supervisory status, an indication as to whether or not he/she has participated in supervisory training. Files are often maintained regarding an employee's certification/recertification or demonstrated proficiency in one or more of the Navy's skills areas; an activity-wide annual training plan should also be maintained, as well as individual training plans. Files are also maintained regarding professional licenses held by station personnel.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

REQUESTING RECORDS

Records are retrieved by name or by some other personal identifier. It is therefore especially important for expeditious service when requesting a record that particular attention be provided to the Notification and/or Access Procedures of the particular record system involved so as to furnish the required personal identifiers, or any other pertinent personal information as may be required, to locate and retrieve the record.

BLANKET ROUTINE USES

Certain blanket 'routine uses' of the records have been established, that are applicable to every record system maintained within the Department of Defense, unless specifically stated otherwise within a particular record system. These additional blanket routine uses of the records are published below, only once in the interest of simplicity, economy and to avoid redundancy, before the individual record system notices begin rather than repeating them in every individual record system.

ROUTINE USE - LAW ENFORCEMENT

In the event that a system of records maintained by this component to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE WHEN REQUESTING INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a component decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF REQUESTED INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

ROUTINE USE - CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES

Disclosure from a system of records maintained by this component may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

ROUTINE USE WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to other components of the Department of Defense if necessary and relevant for the performance of a lawful function such as, but not limited to, personnel actions, personnel security actions and criminal investigations of the Component requesting the record.

ROUTINE USE - PRIVATE RELIEF LEGISLATION

Relevant information contained in all systems of records of the Department of Defense published on or before August 22, 1975, will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS

A record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to foreign law enforcement, security, investigatory, or administrative authorities in order to comply with requirements imposed by, or to claim rights conferred in international agreements and arrangements including those regulating the stationing and status in foreign countries of Department of Defense military and civilian personnel.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO STATE AND LOCAL TAXING AUTHORITIES

Any information normally contained in IRS Form W-2 which is maintained in a record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements pursuant to Title 5, U.S.Code, Sections 5516, 5517, 5520, and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which an employee or military member is or was subject to tax regardless of whether tax is or was withheld. This routine use is in accordance with Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual Bulletin Nr. 76-07.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

A record from a system of records subject to the Privacy Act and maintained by this component may be disclosed to the Office of Personnel Management concerning information on pay and leave, benefits, retirement deductions, and any other information necessary for the Office of Personnel Management to carry out its legally authorized Government-wide personnel management functions and studies.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION TO NARS (GSA)

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

All systems of records relating to compensation, employment or retirement, or extracts therefrom, maintained by this Component may be disclosed as a routine use to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the purpose of comparing such record with records of programs administered by and in the possession of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in order to verify information where such verification is required by law or regulation or to identify violations or potential violations of law, whether criminal, civil, or regulatory, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper records and microfiche in file folders.

Retrievability:

Folders are filed in numerical order based on file number, then by organizational element (DCAA Headquarters or DCAA field activities) and then alphabetically by name of individual concerned.

Safeguards:

When not in use, records are stored in combination lock file cabinets authorized for the storage of classified information, which are locked after normal business hours. Combinations are known only by authorized personnel. The offices housing these file cabinets are locked after normal business hours, and the buildings concerned are under security guard protective measures after normal business hours. During normal business hours the records are either under constant surveillance of security personnel or the containers housing them are kept locked. Access to the records is limited to personnel who are properly screened, cleared, trained and have an authenticated need for access to accomplish a routine use of the record. Classified records are protected in accordance with the provisions of Executive Order 11652 as implemented by DoD Regulation 5200.1-R.

Retention and disposal:

Record copies are maintained by the investigative agency which conducted the investigation and are retained in accordance with the retention standards of those agencies. Non-record copies furnished to DCAA are disposed of in accordance with instructions furnished by the investigative agency concerned. These instructions require that the records be returned to the investigative agency concerned or be destroyed upon separation of the subject of investigation, and permit earlier return or destruction when no longer needed for reference purposes. Records on applicants not appointed are destroyed within one year after declination of appointment or non-appointment determination.

Information Systems and Services Branch, Headquarters, DCAA, all current civilian employees of DCAA; and former employees who were on Agency rolls any time after system implementation on 1 July 1974.

Financial and Administrative Servies Divisions, DCAA regional offices; all current civilian employees of respective DCAA regions and former employees who were on regional rolls any time after system implementation on 1 July 1974.

Field Audit Offices, DCAA; all current civilian employees of respective field audit offices and former employees who were assigned to office any time after system implementation on 1 July 1974.

Computer Sciences Corporation; all current civilian employees of DCAA and former employees who were on Agency rolls any time after system implimentation on 1 July 1974.

Categories of records in the system:

Individual employees are identified in system by social security account number recorded on input document, Employee Monthly Activity Report, Card 50. This record contains unique number of direct and indirect work assignments and the number of hours expended on each during reporting month. This is the only record in system directly associated with employee. However, individual data can be related to following additional data stored in system: (i) profile of contractors for which Agency has audit congnizance; (ii) inventory of contracts which are active and require audit effort during current fiscal year; (iii) inventory of direct audit and indirect assignments with descriptive data to which effort will be charaged during current fiscal year or to which effort has been charged in previous fiscal years; (iv) audit determinations on assignments completed; and (v) information related to disposition of completed audit assignments.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 USC 301; 10 USC 133; 44 USC 2901, et. seq.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Information Systems and Services Branch, Headquarters, DCAA: To produce statistical reports reflecting Agency-wide audit planning, programming, and performance, which are used by Headquarters, DCAA, management officials to evaluate and analyze audit operations.

Financial and Administrative Services Divisions, DCAA regional offices: To update data files and obtain statistical reports reflecting region-wide audit planning, programming, and performance, which are used by regional office management officials to evaluate, analyze, and control regional audit operations.

Field Audit Offices, DCAA: To submit update input data and obtain statistical reports related to planning, programming, and performance of audit assignments for the purpose of evaluating, analyzing, and controlling assignments of the office.

Computer Sciences Corporation: To maintain data and computer operating systems necessary to permit DCAA personnel to process data, maintain system, and produce required output reports. Computer Sciences Corporation does not obtain outputs from system and does not directly access stored data.

Other routine uses could include disclosure to antoher DoD component, Federal agency, the Department of Justice, or to law enforcement or investigatory authorities for investigation and possible criminal prosecution, civil court action, or regulatory order.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Input paper documents are stored in file folders and/or file cabinets; information converted to automated form for storage in system is stored on magnetic tape and/or disks; output reports on computer printout paper are stored in file cabinets, specialized file containers, or library shelving.

Retrievability:

Individual records are retrieved by social security acount number; other statistical data are retrived by unique organizational code assigned to each element of DCAA down to field audit suboffice level.

Safeguards:

Access to computerized data requires knowledge and use of series of systems identification codes and passwords which must be entered in proper sequence before access to system is premitted. Access to computerized data is restricted to system analysts, programmers, and management analysts assigned to Headquarters, DCAA and regional offices. Regional offices can access only data pertaining to organizations and individuals within their respective region.

Access to printed output reports is controlled by systems analysts and management analysts assigned to Headquarters, DCAA and regional offices who determine type of report to be distributed to requesting management officials.

Retention and disposal:

Paper input documents and output printputs are retained for reference purpose until superseded by subsequent reports or until no longer required for data validation; normally held for no longer than two years at which time they are destroyed.

Data converted to automated form and stored in computer system are maintained on magnetic tape for period of ten years after which data are destroyed.

System name:

590.9 DCAA Automated Personnel Inventory System (APIS)

System location:

Information System and Services Branch, Management Division, Headquarters, DCAA; Personnel Division, Headquarters, DCAA; Personnel Divisions, Regional Offices, whose addresses are in Department of Defense directory in the appendix to DCAA's systems notices; Computer Sciences Corporation, 815 Commerce Drive, Oak Brook, Illinois 60521, which maintains system data under contract with General Services Administration.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Information Systems and Services Branch, Headquarters, DCAA and Computer Sciences Corporation-active applicants for employment with DCAA, all current civilian employees of DCAA, and former employees who were on Agency rolls any time after system implementation on 1 January 1969.

Categories of records in the system:

Individual employees are identified in the system by social security account number. Current and historical records contain the following types of data: Data related to positions employee has occupied in the Agency such as grade, occupational series, title, organizational location, salary and step, competitive area and level, geographical location, supervisory designation; data related to employees status and tenure in the Federal civil service including veterans preference, competitive status, service computation date, tenure group; data personal to the employee such as birth date, physical and mental handicap code, and minority group designation code; benefits data such as enrollment in Federal employee life and health insurance and retirement programs; education and training data such as educational level, training accomplishment and requirements; career management data such as assessments of employee potential for advancement and evaluations of past performance; awards and recognition data such as performance and suggestion awards received; and professional qualifications data including certification as a Certified Public Accountant or membership in recognized professional societies.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 USC 301; 10 USC 133; 44 USC 2901, et. seq.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Information is collected, stored, and retrieved by Headquarters, DCAA, and DCAA Regional Offices to meet personnel and manpower management information requirements in support of program operations, evaluation and analysis activities, and for satisfying external and internal reporting requirements. Data is used by the Director, DCAA and those officials to whom authority has been delegated to direct, manage, and operate the Agency. Designated automated data processing vendors with whom the Agency may contract are authorized to maintain and enhance data and computer operating systems necessary for DCAA personnel to process data, maintain and enhance the system, and produce required outputs. Vendors neither obtain output from the system nor access stored data for other than validated, approved test procedures. Other routine uses could include disclosure to another DoD component, the United States Civil Service Commission, the Department of Justice or to law enforcement or investigative authorities for investigation and possible criminal prosecution, civil court uses, and regulatory policy.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Input paper documents are stored in file folders and/or file cabinets. Information converted to automated form for storage in system is stored on magnetic tape and/or disks. Output reports on computer printout paper are stored in file cabinets, specialized file containers, or library shelving. Individual employee output reports are filed in folders retained with official personnel records and/or career files.

Retrievability:

Records and/or reports pertaining to an individual employee or applicant are retrieved by social security account number or random access.

Safeguards:

Access to computerized data requires knowledge and use of series of system identification code and passwords which must be entered in proper sequence to gain access to data in system. Access to computerized data is restricted to systems analysts and programmers assigned to Headquarters, DCAA. Regional personnel do not have access to automated data base and can access system only for the purpose of obtaining output reports previously formatted by Headquarters, DCAA, personnel.

Output reports are retained in personnel offices or other authorized Headquarters, regional, or field audit offices. Access to reports is controlled by assigned personnel during duty hours. After duty hours, reports are retained in locked offices or in buildings controlled by security personnel or alarm systems.

Retention and disposal:

Records in the data base are permanent; however, paper input documents and output printouts are retained for reference purposes only until superseded or no longer required for data validation.

DEFENSE LOGISTICS AGENCY

HOW SYSTEMS OF RECORDS ARE ARRANGED. Defense Logistics Agency records are arranged by major functional categories. Systems of records notices are grouped similarly. For example, a system of records on personnel security clearances may be found in the 153 series and about military personnel in the 322 series. These numbers are part of the system identification which precedes the notices in the Federal Register and look like this: S322 01 DLA-K. The letter S means Defense Logistics Agency. The first digit represents the primary functional area, the next two digits represents the sub-functional category of the primary functional area and the last two digits represents the numerical listing within that category. The suffix letters are internal management accounting devices.

HOW TO USE THE INDEX GUIDE. As an aid in locating a particular system of records, first determine the numerical series by functional area as listed below. This list identifies each series in the order in which it appears in this issuance. Having done so, use the series number to locate the systems of records in which you are interested.

SUBJECT SERIES	SYSTEM IDENTIFICATION SERIES
Administration	100
Planning and Management	200
Personnel	300

SUBJECT SERIES	SYSTEM IDENTIFICATION SERIES
Finance	400
Transportation	600
Procurement	800

REQUESTING RECORDS

Records are retrieved by name or by some other personal identifier. It is therefore especially important for expeditious service when requesting a record that particular attention be provided to the Notification and/or Access Procedures of the particular record system involved so as to furnish the required personal identifiers, or any other pertinent personal information as may be required, to locate and retrieve the record.

BLANKET ROUTINE USES

Certain blanket 'routine uses' of the records have been established, that are applicable to every record system maintained within the Department of Defense, unless specifically stated otherwise within a particular record system. These additional blanket routine uses of the records are published below, only once in the interest of simplicity, economy and to avoid redundancy, before the individual record system notices begin rather than repeating them in every individual record system.

ROUTINE USE - LAW ENFORCEMENT

In the event that a system of records maintained by this component to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE WHEN REQUESTING INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a component decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF REQUESTED INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

ROUTINE USE - CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES

Disclosure from a system of records maintained by this component may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

ROUTINE USE WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to other components of the Department of Defense if necessary and relevant for the performance of a lawful function such as, but not limited to, personnel actions, personnel security actions and criminal investigations of the Component requesting the record.

ROUTINE USE - PRIVATE RELIEF LEGISLATION

Relevant information contained in all systems of records of the Department of Defense published on or before August 22, 1975, will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS

A record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to foreign law enforcement, security, investigatory, or administrative authorities in order to comply with requirements imposed by, or to claim rights conferred in international agreements and arrangements including those regulating the stationing and status in foreign countries of Department of Defense military and civilian personnel.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO STATE AND LOCAL TAXING AUTHORITIES

Any information normally contained in IRS Form W-2 which is maintained in a record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements pursuant to Title 5, U.S.Code, Sections 5516, 5517, 5520, and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which an employee or military member is or was subject to tax regardless of whether tax is or was withheld. This routine use is in accordance with Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual Bulletin Nr. 76-07.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

A record from a system of records subject to the Privacy Act and maintained by this component may be disclosed to the Office of Personnel Management concerning information on pay and leave, benefits, retirement deductions, and any other information necessary for the Office of Personnel Management to carry out its legally authorized Government-wide personnel management functions and studies.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION TO NARS (GSA)

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

All systems of records relating to compensation, employment or retirement, or extracts therefrom, maintained by this Component may be disclosed as a routine use to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the purpose of comparing such record with records of programs administered by and in the possession of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in order to verify information where such verification is required by law or regulation or to identify violations or potential violations of law, whether criminal, civil, or regulatory, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto.

The official responsible for policies and procedures governing this system is the Executive Director of Industrial Security, DLA-N. Operational management is exercised by the Commandant, Defense Industrial Security Institute.

Notification procedure:

An individual who wishes to be notified if the system contains a record about him or her should direct a request to the Commandant, DISI, Defense General Supply Center, Richmond, Virginia 23297. Requests must contain name and Social Security Account number. If known, the request should also identify course(s) attended and the inclusive dates of the course(s). An individual may also visit DISI to determine if the system contains a record about him or her. For visits an individual must present proof of identity such as birth certificate, driver's license or employer ID (preferably picture type) and proof of Social Security Account number.

Record access procedures:

An individual can obtain access to or a copy of any record pertaining to him or her by directing a request to the Commandant, DISI, Defense General Supply Center, Richmond, Virginia 23297. A record can be released at DISI, Richmond, Virginia, or through one of the 11 Regional Offices of Industrial Security (OIS) or a Field Office of any Regional OIS. A release will take place at the OIS nearest the residence or place of employment of the requester. The 11 Regional OISs are located in Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, New York, San Francisco, Philadelphia and St. Louis.

Contesting record procedures:

The Agency's rules for contesting contents and appealing initial determination by the individual concerned may be obtained from the System Manager, the Chief, OIS.

Record source categories:

Information contained in this system is provided by the individual.

S155.53DLA-NS

System name:

155.53 Industrial Personnel Security Clearance File

System location:

Defense Industrial Security Clearance Office, Defense Construction Supply Center, P.O. Box 2499, Columbus, Ohio 43216

A duplicate file of the Defense Industrial Security Clearance Office record of Overseas Security Eligibilities is retained by the Office of Industrial Security, Europe, Brussells, Belgium.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Employees of Government contractors who have been issued, now possess, or are in process for personnel security clearances, including Overseas Security Eligibilities.

Categories of records in the system:

Information contained in each record in the automated portion of the system may include: name of the individual; aliases; maiden name; date of birth, place of birth, Social Security Account number; name and address of employer; level of security clearance granted; date security clearance granted; type of investigation; date of investigation; identity of investigating agency; file or case number; location of file; record of Communication Security (COMSEC) security clearance and sequential record of security clearance terminations, transfers and reinstatements.

Information contained in each record in the manual portion of the system may contain the original application for security clearance (Personnel Security Questionnaire); a copy of the personnel security investigation; a record of security clearance; record of COMSEC security clearance; Overseas Security Eligibility; Control records; foreign travel reports; all correspondence concerning the processing of the initial clearance, termination, reinstatement, transfer, emergency suspension, revocation or denial of security clearance; adjudication suspense records; adverse information reports; security violation reports; and internal Government correspondence and interoffice memoranda relative to the security clearance process.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Presidental Executive Order 10865 as amended by Executive Order 10909, both titled, Safeguarding Classified Information Within Industry.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The automated portion of the system is retained as a central record of industrial security clearances granted. Access to this record is restricted to authorized Defense Logistics Agency employees. The Defense Industrial Security Clearance Office will verify security clearance status only to cleared Department of Defense contractors and authorized Government agencies. Also, on occasion, the clearance record may be used to reconcile security clearance records maintained by the individual's employer.

The manual portion of the system serves as a central repository for all hard copy material concerning an applicant for industrial security personnel clearance. All information contained in this record is used to back up the security clearance determination. Disclosure of this record is permitted only to personnel of the Department of Defense involved in the industrial personnel clearance process or to a legally constituted law enforcement activity within or under the control of the United States when (i) a violation of law relative to the purpose of the security clearance program is suspected, or (ii) requested by the head of the law enforcement activity or his designated representative provided that the portion of the record desired is specified and the law enforcement activity identified. Disclosure of foreign travel information contained in the record will be permitted to Federal Government investigative agency personnel for civil or criminal law enforcement activity.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Automated Records are maintained in computer disc packs, magnetic tapes, and associated data processing files used to initially build or update the master file. The individual records in the manual part of the system are microfiche, 5 x 8 cards and hard copy paper records maintained in file folders.

Retrievability:

Automated records are accessed by individual Social Security Account number. Computerized indices are required to retrieve records from the system. Manual Records are accessed by Social Security Account number or alphabetically by name.

Safeguards:

In the automated part of the system special codes, available only to authorized Defense Logistics Agency personnel, are required to access records by means of cathode ray tube readers located only in the Defense Industrial Security Clearance Office area. Access to the manual records is limited to authorized personnel of the Defense Industrial Security Clearance Office. The Defense Industrial Security Clearance Office area is on a military controlled installation and segregated from other Government operational areas. All visitors are badged and escorted. During nonworking hours the entire area is secured and protected by a perimeter alarm system and roving guard patrols, motorized and on foot.

Retention and disposal:

The automated records are retained for 25 months following the termination of a security clearance. A record concerning an individual is retained, following termination, until the individual would reach the chronological age of 80 years in those cases where adverse information is existant or the clearance is terminated because of the death of the holder. Destruction is accomplished through degaussing the disc pack entry or magnetic tape. Retention of the manual records is authorized for 30 years after the date of the last action; however, records are purged 10 years after the date of the last action. Destruction is by burning. Microfiche records are updated at approximately 30-day intervals and superseded records are burned.

System manager(s) and address:

The official responsible for policies and procedures governing this system is the Executive Director of Industrial Security, Defense Logistics Agency. Operational management of the system is exercised by the Chief, Defense Industrial Security Clearance Office.

Notification procedure:

An individual who wishes to be notified if the system contains a record about him or her should direct the request to the Chief, Defense Industrial Security Clearance Office, Defense Construction Supply Center, P. O. Box 2499, Columbus, Ohio 43216. Requests must contain the full name, date and place of birth and Social Security Account number. An individual may also visit the Defense Industrial Security Clearance Office to determine if the system contains a record pertaining to him or her. For visits to the Defense Industrial Security Clearance Office the individual must present proof of identity such as birth certificate, driver's license, or employee identification card, and proof of Social Security Account number.

Record access procedures:

An individual can obtain access to or a copy of any record pertaining to him or her, except for the personnel security investigation, by directing a request to the Chief, Defense Industrial Security Clearance Office, Defense Construction Supply Center, P.O. Box 2499, Columbus, Ohio 43216. Requests for personnel security investigations will be promptly referred to the appropriate investigative agency which is authorized to release the record. A record can be released at the Defense Industrial Security Clearance Office, Columbus, Ohio or through one of the 11 Regional Offices of Industrial Security or a Field Office of any Regional Office of Industrial Security. A release will take place at the Office of Industrial Security nearest the residence or place of employment of the requester. The 11 Regional Offices of Industrial Security are located in Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, New York, San Francisco, Philadelphia, and St. Louis. A record may also be released by mail in those cases where the requestor was provided an original notarized authorization for such release.

Contesting record procedures:

The Agency's rules for contesting contents and appealing initial determination by the individual concerned may be obtained from the System Manager, the Chief, Office of Industrial Security.

Record source categories:

The sources of information contained in a record are the employer and the Defense Investigative Service which is responsible for conducting personnel security investigations.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

Parts of this system may be exempt under Title 5 U.S.C. 552a (k) (2) as applicable. Agency rules pertaining to this exemption are set forth in Appendix C of 32 CFR Part 1286 and DLA Regulation 5400.21. For additional information, contact the System Manager.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

DCASR Dallas Civilian Personnel who have been hired, separated or had an internal position change since 1 July 1973.

Categories of records in the system:

Contains a code for the type of personnel action; the name of the individual; the type of appointment on which the individual is serving; the month and year of the action; the series and grade from which the individual moved; the series and grade to which the individual moved; the year of birth; the organizations from which and to which the individual moved; the length of time taken to process the action in the Civilian Personnel Office; the number of months which the individual worked for DCASR Dallas (for separation actions only); and the supervisor's evaluation of the employee's overall effectiveness (for separation actions only).

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 U.S.C. Sec. 301, 302, E.O. 10561, FPM Chapter 250, Subchapter 1-4.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The purpose of this system is to provide operating management with reliable summary data on which to base manpower planning. A secondary purpose is to provide information for related planning purposes such as Upward Mobility, Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) and Labor Management Relations.

Some information is provided from the file (normally in highly summarized form) to authorized external investigators such as grievance examiners, EEO complaint investigators, DLA Inspector General Teams.

Internal DCASR Dallas management uses this information to forecast type and number of hires; to evaluate staffing performance by the Civilian Personnel Office; to gather historical data such as number and kinds of promotions or reassignments and internal movements of the clerical workforce. Users external to DCASR Dallas receive information from it which is directly related to such purposes as the resolution of EEO complaints or grievances.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Records are maintained in the GE Mark III time-shared computer system, presumably on magnetic discs. Records for the second fiscal year preceding the current one are transferred to paper tape and stored in the DCASR Dallas Office of Civilian Personnel.

Retrievability:

Information in the system may be retrieved using any data element contained in the system. While it is possible to retrieve all of the information on a specific individual, this is not normally done. Information identifiable to a specific individual is accessed by name.

Safeguards:

Records can be accessed only by individuals who know the files structure and are familiar with the software required. In addition, access to the system requires use of an access code and password known only to selected individuals in the Office of Civilian Personnel.

Retention and disposal:

Records are retained in computer memory for no more than 24 months. Records from the second previous fiscal year and earlier are transferred to paper tape and stored in the Civilian Personnel Office. Records are destroyed when they pertain to the sixth previous fiscal year.

System manager(s) and address:

Civilian Personnel Officer, Office of Civilian Personnel, DCASR Dallas.

Notification procedure:

Individuals who desire to know if the system contains information on them should contact the SYSMANAGER, and should provide last name, dates of employment with DCASR Dalls, title, series and grade of current (or last) position held. An individual may visit the Office of Civilian Personnel to obtain information on whether the system contains records pertaining to that person. For personal visits, a current employee of the DCASR need only verbally identify himself or herself. Former employees need to provide positive identification (such as a driver's license) and the last Standard Form 50 (Notification of Personnel Action) from their employment at the DCASR.

Record access procedures:

Individuals may determine how to gain access to records by contacting the Civilian Personnel Officer, DCASR Dallas at the mailing address listed in the Department of Defense Directory in the appendix to the DLA system of records notice.

Contesting record procedures:

The agency's rules for contesting contents and appealing initial determination by the individual concerned may be obtained from the SYSMANAGER.

REQUESTING RECORDS

Records are retrieved by name or by some other personal identifier. It is therefore especially important for expeditious service when requesting a record that particular attention be provided to the Notification and/or Access Procedures of the particular record system involved so as to furnish the required personal identifiers, or any other pertinent personal information as may be required, to locate and retrieve the record.

BLANKET ROUTINE USES

Certain blanket 'routine uses' of the records have been established, that are applicable to every record system maintained within the Department of Defense, unless specifically stated otherwise within a particular record system. These additional blanket routine uses of the records are published below, only once in the interest of simplicity, economy and to avoid redundancy, before the individual record system notices begin rather than repeating them in every individual record system.

ROUTINE USE - LAW ENFORCEMENT

In the event that a system of records maintained by this component to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE WHEN REQUESTING INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a component decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF REQUESTED INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

ROUTINE USE - CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES

Disclosure from a system of records maintained by this component may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

ROUTINE USE WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to other components of the Department of Defense if necessary and relevant for the performance of a lawful function such as, but not limited to, personnel actions, personnel security actions and criminal investigations of the Component requesting the record.

ROUTINE USE - PRIVATE RELIEF LEGISLATION

Relevant information contained in all systems of records of the Department of Defense published on or before August 22, 1975, will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS

A record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to foreign law enforcement, security, investigatory, or administrative authorities in order to comply with requirements imposed by, or to claim rights conferred in international agreements and arrangements including those regulating the stationing and status in foreign countries of Department of Defense military and civilian personnel.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO STATE AND LOCAL TAXING AUTHORITIES

Any information normally contained in IRS Form W-2 which is maintained in a record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements pursuant to Title 5, U.S.Code, Sections 5516, 5517, 5520, and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which an employee or military member is or was subject to tax regardless of whether tax is or was withheld. This routine use is in accordance with Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual Bulletin Nr. 76-07.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

A record from a system of records subject to the Privacy Act and maintained by this component may be disclosed to the Office of Personnel Management concerning information on pay and leave, benefits, retirement deductions, and any other information necessary for the Office of Personnel Management to carry out its legally authorized Government-wide personnel management functions and studies.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION TO NARS (GSA)

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

All systems of records relating to compensation, employment or retirement, or extracts therefrom, maintained by this Component may be disclosed as a routine use to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the purpose of comparing such record with records of programs administered by and in the possession of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in order to verify information where such verification is required by law or regulation or to identify violations or potential violations of law, whether criminal, civil, or regulatory, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto.

System name:

V5-01 Investigative Files System

System location:

Defense Investigative Service (DIS), Investigative Files Division, (D0840) P.O. Box 1211, Baltimore, MD 21203 has primary control over the system and is responsible for the maintenance of completed investigative records. The Special Investigations Center, 1000 Independence Ave. S.W., Washington, DC 20314 maintains limited categories of these records. DIS operational centers; District Offices; Field Offices; Resident Agencies and various DIS headquarters staff elements originate and have temporary control over portions of records.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Military personnel who are on active duty, applicants for enlistment or appointment and reservists and National Guardsmen; DoD civilian personnel who are paid from appropriated funds; industrial or contractor personnel who are working in private industry in firms which have contracts involving access to classified DoD information or installations; Red Cross personnel and personnel paid from nonappropriated funds who have DoD affiliation; ROTC cadets; former military personnel; individuals residing on, having authorized official access to, or conducting or operating any business or other functions at any DoD installation or facility.

Individuals not affiliated with the Department of Defense when, during the previous year, their activities have directly threatened the functions, property or personnel of the DoD or they have engaged in, or conspired to engage in, criminal acts on DoD installations or directed at the DoD.

Categories of records in the system:

Official Reports of Investigations (ROI's) prepared by DIS or other DoD, Federal, state or local official investigative activities

DIS Information Summary Reports (ISR's) which record unsolicited information received by DIS concerning a person or incident which is of direct interest to other DoD components or Federal agencies. (When such information is received by DIS it is reported as it was received, without investigation or confirmation, by ISR and transmitted to the interested activity.)

Attachments to ROI's or ISR's including exhibits, subject or interviewee statements, police records, medical records, fingerprint cards, credit bureau reports, employment records, education records, release statements, summaries of or extracts from other similar records or reports.

Case control and management documents which are not reports of investigation, but that serve as the basis for investigation, or serve to guide and facilitate investigative activity, including documents providing the data to open and conduct the case, such as the Personnel Security Investigation Request; documents, initiated by the subject such as personnel history documents, and fingerprint records; and documents used in case management and control, such as release statements, case transfer forms, and documents directing the inquiry.

DIS file administration and management documents accounting for the disclosure, control and access to a file, such as warning sheets, separators, forwarding correspondence and accounting records required by 5 U.S.C. 552 and 552a.

Cross references to chronological correspondence files disclosing unfavorable and administrative action taken based on DIS investigations.

Section II, DSA Regulation 5705.2, Criminal Investigative Support to the Defense Supply Agency.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Purpose for which collected.

Personnel security investigative information is collected to insure that the acceptance or retention of persons to sensitive DoD positions, or granting individuals access to classified information, including those employed in defense industry, is clearly consistent with national security.

Criminal investigative information is collected on request to identify offenders, provide facts and evidence upon which to base prosecution and effect the recovery of property which has been wrongfully appropriated.

Information contained in ISR's (see description in RECORD-CATEGORY) regarding criminal, personnel security, counterintelligence, or intelligence matters, when received, is disseminated to appropriate Federal agencies or other DoD components.

Criminal and personnel security information is collected during reciprocal investigations conducted for other DoD and federal investigative elements (or in limited instances, criminal information for local, or state law enforcement agencies) for maintenance and use by the requesting activity.

Information regarding alleged security violations is collected on request to establish whether or not a compromise occured and to identify the personnel involved.

Criminal information received by DIS personnel in the course of their duties which is of direct interest to a local law enforcement agency and therefore furnished to that agency orally or by letter.

Users of DIS investigative information are:

(1) DIS personnel in the course of their official duties.

(2) Other accredited DOD investigative components, DOD agencies, elements of the Military Departments designated by the departments and representatives of the Secretary of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

(3) Accredited Federal criminal and civil law enforcement and intelligence agencies.

(4) State and local official criminal law enforcement agencies.

(5) Other accredited federal agencies conducting investigations to evaluate suitability for employment or access to classified information.

(6) Congressional committees and the Government Accounting Office.

Specific uses of DIS investigative records are:

To determine the loyalty, suitability, eligibility, and general trustworthiness of individuals for access to Defense information and facilities by the first two categories of users, above.

To determine the eligibility and suitability of individuals for entry into and ,retention in the Armed Forces by the second category of users, above.

To provide information pertinent to the protection of persons under the provisions of 18 U.S.C. 3056, by the first three categories of users, above.

For use in criminal law enforcement investigations including statutory violations, counterintelligence, as well as counterespionage and other security matters by the first through fourth and the sixth categories of users, above.

In the event that records maintained in this system indicate a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

To provide information in judicial or adjudicative proceedings including litigation, or in accordance with a court order by the first three categories of users, above.

To make statistical evaluations of DIS investigative activities by the first, second and sixth categories of users, above.

To respond to Freedom of Information and Privacy Act access requests, by the first category of users, above.

To provide information in response to Inspector General, and EEO or other complaint investigations and Congressional inquiries by the first, second and sixth categories of users, above.

To determine the eligibility and suitability of an individual for personnel actions in the Armed Forces of the United States, as deemed appropriate by the second category of users, above.

A record such as identification data, from this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state local or foreign agency maintaining relevant information or to business enterprises to obtain employment records if necessary to obtain information relevant to an assigned investigation.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter by any agency of the first, second, third or fifth categories of users, above.

Transfers of information from this record system to other DoD components is a routine intra-agency use under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a3(b)(1).

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper records in file folders, microfilm, magnetic tape or supplementary index cards.

Retrievability:

Investigations are centrally retrievable through the DIS Case Control System (DCCS) or the Defense Central Index of Investigations (DCII) systems described separately in this notice. Reciprocal investigations jurisdictions, may be retrieved only through a limited manual disclosure accounting system

Safeguards:

Completed investigative records are maintained and stored in power files, open shelves and filing cabinets which are housed in secured areas accessible only to authorized personnel who are properly screened and have a need to know. Information contained on magnetic tape is secured in the same manner as the DCII, described separately. Recipients of investigative information are responsible for safeguarding information within the guidelines provided by DIS.

Retention and disposal:

Retention of closed DIS investigative files is authorized for 30 years maximum, except as follows: (1) Files which have resulted in adverse action against an individual will be retained permanently, (2) Files developed on persons who are being considered for affiliation with the Department of Defense will be destroyed within one year if the affiliation is not completed. In cases involving a pre-appointment investigation, if the appointment is not made due to information developed by investigation, the file will be retained permanently. If the appointment is not made for some other reasons not related to the investigation, the file will be destroyed within one year; (3) Information within the purview of the Department of Defense Directive 5200.27, 'Acquisition of Information Concerning Persons and Organizations Not Affiliated with the Department of Defense', is destroyed within 90 days after acquisition by DIS unless its retention is required by law or unless its retention has been specifically authorized by the Secretary of Defense or through the Chairman, DIRC.

Generally, ISR's and reciprocal investigations are retained for only 60 days.

Partial duplicate records of personnel security investigations are retained for 60 days by DIS field elements. Partial duplicate records in criminal and special investigations are retained for one year.

System manager(s) and address:

Director, Defense Investigative Service, 1000 Independence Ave. S.W., Washington, DC 20314

Notification procedure:

Requests should be addressed to the Assistant for Information, Defense Investigative Service, 1000 Independence Ave. S.W., Washington, DC 20314. The full name, date and place of birth, and social security account number are necessary for retrieval of information. More information or a notarized statement verifying the identity of requesters may be required. The Information Office, at Room 2H043 1000 Independence Ave., Washington, 20314 DC may be visited by personnel making inquiries regarding this system. A check of personal identification will be required of all visitors making such inquiries.

Record access procedures:

Access may be obtained through the Information Office at the address listed above.

Contesting record procedures:

DIS rules for contesting and appealing initial determinations may be obtained from the Assistant for Information at the address listed above

Record source categories:

Categories of sources of records.

Subjects of investigations.

Records of other DoD activities and components.

Federal, state, county and municipal records.

Employment Records of private business and industrial firms.

Educational and disciplinary records of schools, colleges, universities, technical and trade schools.

Hospital, clinic and other medical records.

Records of commercial enterprises such as real estate agencies, credit bureaus, loan companies, credit unions, banks and other financial institutions which maintain credit information on individuals, transportation companies, (airlines, railroad, etc.)

The interview of individuals who are thought to have knowledge of the subject's background and activities.

The interview of witnesses, victims and confidential sources.

The interview of any individuals deemed necessary to complete the DIS investigation.

Miscellaneous directories, rosters and correspondence.

Any other type of record deemed necessary to complete the DIS investigation.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

In accordance with subsection 3j(2) of the Act, information maintained by the Special Cases Division of DIS may be exempted from the provisions of subsections (c)(3) and (4); (d); (e)(1), (2) and (3); (e)(5) and (8); and (g). Information maintained by, or at the direction of, this unit includes criminal investigations for which the DIS has primary responsiblity and certain ISR's and reciprocal investigations, and security or counterintelligence information which may be used in criminal prosecution. The withholding of this information will be to allow the DIS Special Cases Division, a criminal law enforcement component, to conduct effective investigations into alleged unlawful activity or crime conductive situations without jeopardizing such investigations. Knowledge of the investigations of the Special Cases Division could enable subjects to take actions to prevent detection of criminal activities, conceal evidence, or to escape prosecution. It could also lead to intimidation of or harm to sources, informants, witnesses and their families. Information from this system will be withheld only to the extent that its release would interfere with such investigations.

Under subsection 3k(1) of the Act, properly classified material contained in DIS investigatory files is exempt from the provisions of subsection (d). This exemption will protect information, the disclosure of which would have an adverse effect on the national defense or foreign policy.

Under subsection 3k(2) of the Act, other investigatory material including certain reciprocal investigations and counterintelligence information is exempt from subsection (c) (3), (d), (e) (4) (G,H and I) and (f) until such time as action is taken regarding allegations, and after that time only to the extent that the information would identify a confidential source who furnished information under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence (or prior to the effective date of the Act under an implied promise). This exemption will permit the DIS to conduct certain law enforcement investigations effectively and to protect the identities of sources who would not otherwise provide information.

Protective Service: Under subsection 3k(3) of the Act, DIS investigatory material maintained in connection with assisting the US Secret Service (USSS) to provide protective services to the President of the United States or other individuals pursuant to section 3056 of Title 18 is exempt from subsections (c) (3), (d), (e) (1), (e) (4), (g, h and i), and (f). This exemption provision will enable DIS to continue its support of the US Secret Service without compromising the effectiveness of either activity.

Under subsection 3k(5) of the Act, personnel security investigatory material from subsections (c) (3), (d) and (f), is exempt to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a confidential source as described above. This exemption provision will allow DIS to collect information from certain sources who would otherwise be unwilling to provide information necessary to personnel security investigations.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Any person described as a subject, a victim, or a cross-reference in an investigation completed by or for a DOD investigative organization when that investigation is retained by the organization and the name is submitted for central indexing.

Categories of records in the system:

DCII MASTER INDEX

Composed of locator references to investigations conducted by or for DOD investigative organizations and retained by them. Index records contain the name and other personal identifying information on individuals who were indexed.

FILE TRACING

Reference to an investigation maintained by one of the investigative records repositories. It identifies the individual by name and personal identifiers, the custodian of the file, the year indexed and the number used by the repository to locate the file.

OPEN CASE TRACING

A record input by either Army investigative activities or DIS reflecting the existence of an investigation in progress. It identifies the subject individual by name and personal identifiers, the location of the open investigation, the year indexed and the number used to locate the investigative file.

NAC PENDING TRACING

Record of a National Agency Check (NAC) investigation in progress. It identifies the subject individual by name, personal identifiers, the case number, the category of the requester of the NAC, and the type of NAC being run.

NAC HISTORY TRACING

A record of completed favorable, or incomplete, national agency checks. It identifies the individual by name and personal identifiers, the date the NAC was completed and the agencies that were checked.

DCII NAME ONLY INDEX (NOI)

Composed of names of persons who are referenced but not fully identified in investigative files. A Name Only Index record identifies the individual by name and lists the custodian agency of the file, year indexed and the number used by the repository to locate the file. Positive identification is impossible from the index and may well be impossible from the case file itself. DIS has placed no records in this index.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 U.S.C. 301 Departmental Regulations
44U.S.C. 3101 Records Management
Memorandum, Secretary of Defense, May 27, 1965
Memorandum, Secretary of Defense, December 3, 1965, subject: Establishment of a Central Index of DOD Investigations.
DOD Directive No. 5105.42, April 18, 1972, subject: Charter for Defense Investigative Service (DIS).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

File tracing information is collected and maintained in the DCII so that authorized users may determine the existence and location of DOD investigative records.

NAC history information is maintained for authorized users in granting clearances, access to defense installations, entry into military service or employment in sensitive civilian positions.

Categories of users:

Components listed under the LOCATION caption are the principal users and (with the exception of DISCO) the file custodians. Listed terminal holders (with the exception of DISCO) may release general DCII information to users of their investigative records or listed in their investigative records systems descriptions in this register.

It should be noted that information contained in the system is regarded as the property of the submitting activities. DIS can neither monitor, nor assume responsibility for the propriety or accuracy of the data in the system, other than that portion belonging to DIS.

Transfer of information from this records system to other DOD components is a routine intra-agency use under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a3(b)(1). The use of the DCII by terminal holders to advise requesters of the possible location of information, where there is no disclosure of personal information from the DCII, does not require an accounting.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Master Index data is maintained in direct access storage devices, disk and data cell. It is also contained on magnetic tape for continuity of operations purposes to permit processing at alternate locations in the event of computer failure.

Name Only Index data is maintained on magnetic tape and microfiche. Each contributor is provided his portion on a quarterly basis.

Retrievability:

Master Index records are accessed through name and at least one personal identifier (PID). Personal identifiers are: date of birth, place of birth, social security number and the last four (4) digits of military service number. Inquiries may enter the system in card form or by being keyed in at remote terminals. A non-standard retrieval capability also exists which permits retrieval without PID, or on parts of a name, and produces references to all individuals by that name. It should be noted that in many cases, the subject's SSAN is necessary to make a positive identification.

Name Only Index records are accessed through the name or some portion thereof. Records are retrieved based on an exact match with the name submitted. Inquiries may enter the system only in card form.

Safeguards:

Generalized validation is provided in batch retrieval through program edits to prevent unauthorized access.

User terminals with access to the Master Index are located in controlled access areas. Access to the system is limited to specified time of the day. Terminals are connected via dedicated data circuits which prevent access from standard dial-up telephones.

Activities must be a part of DOD and accredited on the basis of authorized requirements before a new terminal is established or before batch requests will be honored and processed. Terminal holders, and organizations authorized access by other means, are responsible for insuring that individuals and organizations to whom they disclose index information have appropriate authority and need to know.

The computer room is located within a building controlled by security personnel at all times. Identification badges are required for entrance. Access to the computer room is controlled by a combination lock on the entrance. Critical backup files are stored in locked fireproof data safes.

Retention and disposal:

Retained for as long as files are retained. When the record repository disposes of the file, they are responsible to delete all index tracings pertaining thereto, in accordance with established procedures. Processing of a deletion transaction flags the computer record which precludes it being given out thereafter. Such flagged records are eliminated from the system during periodic file restructuring procedures.

Open Case Tracings. Retained for as long as the investigation is open. When the investigation is completed, the contributor replaces the open case tracing with a file tracing as described above.

NAC History Tracings. Retained for a period of four (4) years from the date of completion and then automatically deleted unless specific action is sooner taken to delete the record. Should a subsequent favorable NAC be completed, the entering of a new history record will delete the first history record.

NAC Pending Tracings. Retained until completion of the NAC at which time they are replaced by a NAC History or file tracing, unless sooner deleted by the originator.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

In accordance with Subsection 3(j)(2) of the Act, certain references from criminal law enforcement components contained in this system of index records may be exempted from the provisions of subsections (c)(3), (c)(4), (d) and (e)(8). this exemption will allow the contributing components to conduct effective investigations into alleged unlawful activity or crime conductive situations and use the DCII without jeopardizing such investigations. Knowledge of investigations by criminal law enforcement components would enable suspects and subjects to take actions to prevent detection of criminal activities, conceal evidence or to escape prosecution. It could also lead to intimidation of or harm to informants, witnesses, sources and their families. information from this system will be withheld only to the extent that its release would interfere with such investigations.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

In accordance with Subsection 3(j)(2) of the Act, certain references contained in this system of case control records may be exempted from the provisions of subsections (c)(3), (c)(4), (d) and (e)(8). This exemption will allow the DIS Special Cases Division, a criminal law enforcement component, to conduct effective investigations into alleged unlawful activity or crime conductive situations and use the DCCS without jeapordizing such investigations. Knowledge of the investigations of the Special Cases Divisions could enable subjects to take actions to prevent detection of criminal activitites, conceal evidence, or to escape prosecution. It could also lead to intimidation of or harm to sources, informants, witnesses and their families. Information from this system will be withheld only to the extent that its release would interfere with such investigations.

System name:

V6-01 Personnel Security Files

System location:

Primary System - Security Division, (D0146), Defense Investigative Service, 1000 Independence Ave. S.W., Washington, DC 20314

Decentralized System - Partial records are maintained at working locations as a part of the Optional Personnel Management Record System described separately in this notice.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Every DIS employee, civilian and military, without exception.

Categories of records in the system:

Individual's Certificate of Security Clearance, Security Briefing Statement, Certificates of Clearance from other Services, Defense Central Investigations Index (DCII) check results, summaries of adverse information, debriefing statements, and similar related documents varying in certain cases. Sufficient individual identifying data to confirm identities is also contained in this system.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and 5 U.S.C. 301 (Departmental Regulations) and DoD Directive 5210.7, Department of Defense Civilian Applicant and Employee Security Program and DoD Directive 5210.8, Policy on Investigations and Clearances of DoD Personnel for Access to Classified Defense Information.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Uses

Files are to provide a basis for granting security clearances.

Files are also used to provide information of security clearances for individuals attending official activities of other offices on classified matters.

They also are used to provide security clearances information to other governmental offices where change of employment is being considered.

In the event that records maintained in this system indicate a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a 'routine use' to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as employment records, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, or other benefit.

Users

Director of Personnel and his office.

DIS Security officer and his office.

All Supervisors, Commanders, and Office Chiefs, but only for confirming clearance level information.

Security officials of other DoD elements or governmental agencies when required for clearance verification or pre-employment consideration. consideration.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Individual files are established when an application for employment or assignment to the DIS is first received. As an investigation is completed and adjudicated, a clearance certificate is filed. If the file is unfavorable and the individual is not accepted, the file is placed in the 'dead' file section and retained for one year.

Storage:

Paper records in file folders.

Retrievability:

Filed alphabetically by last name.

Safeguards:

For the primary system building employs security guards (Federal Protective Service). Records are maintained in locked containers in areas accessible only to authorized personnel who have a need to know.

Retention and disposal:

Records are maintained for the period of time an individual is assigned to the DIS and for one year afterwards. Disposal is as classified waste.

REQUESTING RECORDS

Records are retrieved by name or by some other personal identifier. It is therefore especially important for expeditious service when requesting a record that particular attention be provided to the Notification and/or Access Procedures of the particular record system involved so as to furnish the required personal identifiers, or any other pertinent personal information as may be required, to locate and retrieve the record.

BLANKET ROUTINE USES

Certain blanket 'routine uses' of the records have been established, that are applicable to every record system maintained within the Department of Defense, unless specifically stated otherwise within a particular record system. These additional blanket routine uses of the records are published below, only once in the interest of simplicity, economy and to avoid redundancy, before the individual record system notices begin rather than repeating them in every individual record system.

ROUTINE USE - LAW ENFORCEMENT

In the event that a system of records maintained by this component to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE WHEN REQUESTING INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to a federal, state or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to a component decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF REQUESTED INFORMATION

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

ROUTINE USE - CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRIES

Disclosure from a system of records maintained by this component may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

ROUTINE USE WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to other components of the Department of Defense if necessary and relevant for the performance of a lawful function such as, but not limited to, personnel actions, personnel security actions and criminal investigations of the Component requesting the record.

ROUTINE USE - PRIVATE RELIEF LEGISLATION

Relevant information contained in all systems of records of the Department of Defense published on or before August 22, 1975, will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURES REQUIRED BY INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS

A record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to foreign law enforcement, security, investigatory, or administrative authorities in order to comply with requirements imposed by, or to claim rights conferred in international agreements and arrangements including those regulating the stationing and status in foreign countries of Department of Defense military and civilian personnel.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO STATE AND LOCAL TAXING AUTHORITIES

Any information normally contained in IRS Form W-2 which is maintained in a record from a system of records maintained by this Component may be disclosed to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements pursuant to Title 5, U.S.Code, Sections 5516, 5517, 5520, and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which an employee or military member is or was subject to tax regardless of whether tax is or was withheld. This routine use is in accordance with Treasury Fiscal Requirements Manual Bulletin Nr. 76-07.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO THE OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

A record from a system of records subject to the Privacy Act and maintained by this component may be disclosed to the Office of Personnel Management concerning information on pay and leave, benefits, retirement deductions, and any other information necessary for the Office of Personnel Management to carry out its legally authorized Government-wide personnel management functions and studies.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION TO NARS (GSA)

A record from a system of records maintained by this component may be disclosed as a routine use to the National Archives and Records Service of the General Services Administration in records management inspections conducted under authority of 44 U.S.C. 2904 and 2906.

ROUTINE USE - DISCLOSURE TO DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

All systems of records relating to compensation, employment or retirement, or extracts therefrom, maintained by this Component may be disclosed as a routine use to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the purpose of comparing such record with records of programs administered by and in the possession of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in order to verify information where such verification is required by law or regulation or to identify violations or potential violations of law, whether criminal, civil, or regulatory, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto.

Presidential Documents

Title 3—

The President

Memorandum of December 14, 1979

Determination Regarding the Multilateral Trade Negotiations

Memorandum for the Special Representative for Trade Negotiations

I have signed the enclosed document concerning certain international trade agreements pursuant to the authority vested in me under the Constitution and laws of the United States, including the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 (Public Law 96-39, 93 Stat. 144) and section 301 of title 3 of the United States Code.

On my behalf, please transmit copies of this document to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate.

This document shall be published in the Federal Register.

Jimmy Carter

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Washington, December 14, 1979.

Presidential Determination Regarding the Acceptance and Application of Certain International Trade Agreements

1. Pursuant to section 102 of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2112(b)), I, through my duly empowered representative, on April 12, 1979, entered into the international agreements negotiated in the Tokyo Round of Multilateral Trade Negotiations. These agreements were:

(i) Agreement on Interpretation and Application of Articles VI, XVI and XXIII of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade;

(ii) Agreement on Implementation of Article VI of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade;

(iii) Agreement on Implementation of Article VII of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade;

(iv) Agreement on Government Procurement;

(v) Agreement on Technical Barriers to Trade;

(vi) Agreement on Import Licensing Procedures;

(vii) Agreement on Trade in Civil Aircraft;

(viii) International Dairy Arrangement; and

(ix) Arrangement Regarding Bovine Meat.

These agreements are collectively referred to herein as the "MTN agreements".

2. In accordance with sections 102 and 151 of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2112 and 2191), the MTN agreements were submitted to Congress for its approval. Section 2 of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 (93 Stat. 147) approves the MTN agreements and authorizes the President to accept each of the MTN agreements provided that the President determines that all, or all but one, of the major industrial countries (as defined in section 126(d) of the Trade

Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2136(d)) is also accepting the agreement. If the President determines that only one major industrial country is not accepting an agreement, the President may nevertheless accept such an agreement if he determines that the acceptance of that agreement by that country is not essential to the effective operation of the agreement, and if:

(A) that country is not a major factor in trade in the products covered by that agreement;

(B) the President has authority to deny the benefits of the agreement to that country and has taken steps to deny the benefits of the agreement to that country; or

(C) a significant portion of United States trade would benefit from the agreement, notwithstanding such nonacceptance, and the President determines and reports to the Congress that it is in the national interest of the United States to accept the agreement.

3. Section 2 of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 also provides that no agreement accepted by the President shall apply between the United States and any other country unless the President determines that such country:

(A) has accepted the obligations of the agreement with respect to the United States, and

(B) should not otherwise be denied the benefits of the agreement with respect to the United States because such country has not accorded adequate benefits, including substantially equal competitive opportunities for the commerce of the United States to the extent required under section 126(c) of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2136(c)), to the United States.

4. Section 701 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended effective January 1, 1980 (93 Stat. 151) provides that the President must determine that certain conditions must be met before a country can be considered a "country under the Agreement" and, therefore, entitled to the injury determination provided for in section 703(a) and 705(b) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (93 Stat. 152 and 159).

5. Section 601(a) of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 (93 Stat. 267) authorizes the President to proclaim certain modifications in the Tariff Schedules of the United States if the President determines that the conditions under section 2(b) of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 (93 Stat. 147) on acceptance of the Agreement on Trade in Civil Aircraft have been fulfilled.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JIMMY CARTER, President of the United States of America, acting under and by virtue of the authority vested in me as President, and in conformity with the provisions of sections 2 and 601(a) of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 (93 Stat. 147 and 267), herein referred to as "the Act", section 701 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended effective January 1, 1980 (93 Stat. 151). and section 301 of title 3 of the United States Code do hereby

1. Determine that:

a. With respect to the Agreement on Interpretation and Application of Articles VI, XVI and XXIII of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, the Agreement on Implementation of Article VI of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, the Agreement on Technical Barriers to Trade, the Agreement on Import Licensing Procedures, and the Agreement on Trade in Civil Aircraft,

(i) in accordance with section 2(b)(1) and (3) of the Act (93 Stat. 147), each major industrial country (as defined in section 126(d) of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2136 (d)) is also accepting the agreement with the exception of Japan;

(ii) in accordance with section 2(b)(3) of the Act (93 Stat. 147), the acceptance of these agreements by Japan is not essential to the effective operation of the agreements for that period of time during which Japan is completing its Constitutional procedures to accept the agreements and in light of the stated intention of the Government of Japan to act in the interim in line with the agreements within its existing powers; and

(iii) in accordance with section 2(b)(3)(C) of the Act (93 Stat. 148), a significant portion of United States trade will benefit from these agreements, notwithstanding the anticipated short delay in acceptance by Japan, and it is in the national interest of the United States to accept these agreements.

b. The conditions in section 701(b)(3)(A), (B) and (C) of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended effective January 1, 1980 (93 Stat. 151), will have been met with respect to Venezuela, Honduras, Nepal, North Yemen, El Salvador, Paraguay and Liberia.

c. With respect to the International Dairy Arrangement,

(i) in accordance with section 2(b)(1) and (3) of the Act (93 Stat. 147), each major industrial country (as defined in section 126(d)) is also accepting the agreement with the exception of Canada;

(ii) in accordance with section 2(b)(3) of the Act (93 Stat. 147), the acceptance of this agreement by Canada is not essential to the effective operation of the agreement; and

(iii) in accordance with section 2(b)(3)(A) of the Act, Canada is not a major factor in trade in the products covered by the agreement.

d. With respect to the Arrangement Regarding Bovine Meat, in accordance with section 2(b)(1) and (3) of the Act (93 Stat. 147), each major industrial country (as defined in section 126(d) of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2136(d)) is also accepting the agreement.

e. In accordance with section 601(a) of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 (93 Stat. 267),

(i) the conditions under section 2(b) of that Act (93 Stat. 147) on acceptance of the Agreement on Trade in Civil Aircraft have been fulfilled;

(ii) the modifications provided for in section A of Annex II to Proclamation No. 4707 of December 11, 1979, which were authorized by section 601(a) of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 (93 Stat. 267), shall be effective with respect to articles entered, or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption on and after January 1, 1980; and

(iii) the amendment to section 466 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1466) provided for in section 601(a)(3) of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 (93 Stat. 268) shall be effective with respect to entries made under section 466 on and after January 1, 1980.

2. Authorize the United States Special Representative for Trade Negotiations, or his designee, on behalf of the United States of America,

(a) to sign and accept the Agreement on Interpretation and Application of Articles VI, XVI, and XXIII of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, the Agreement on Implementation of Article VI of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, the Agreement on Technical Barriers to Trade, the Agreement on Import Licensing Procedures, the Agreement on Trade in Civil Aircraft, the International Dairy Arrangement and the Arrangement Regarding Bovine Meat;

(b) to sign the Agreement on Government Procurement subject to satisfactory completion of negotiations on entity coverage under the Agreement; and

(c) to sign the Agreement on Implementation of Article VII of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade subject to acceptance.

V 44 DE 18 79 UMI

3. Delegate the functions of the President under section 2(b) of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979 (the Act) and section 701(b) of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended by section 101 of the Act, to the Special Representative for Trade Negotiations who shall exercise such authority with the advice of the Trade Policy Committee and in accordance with the provisions of this determination.

Creating an Emergency Board To Investigate a Dispute Between the Long Island Rail Road and Certain of its Employees

A dispute exists between The Long Island Rail Road and certain of its employees represented by Participating Labor Organizations designated in list attached hereto and made a part hereof.

This dispute has not heretofore been adjusted under the provisions of the Railway Labor Act, as amended; and

This dispute, in the judgment of the National Mediation Board, threatens substantially to interrupt interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive a section of the country of essential transportation service:

NOW, THEREFORE, by the authority vested in me by Section 10 of the Railway Labor Act, as amended (45 U.S.C. 160), it is hereby ordered as follows:

1-101. Establishment of Board. There is established a board of three members to be appointed by the President to investigate this dispute. No member of the board shall be pecuniarily or otherwise interested in any organization of railroad employees or any carrier.

1-102. Report. The board shall report its finding to the President with respect to the dispute within 30 days from the date of this Order.

1-103. Maintaining Conditions. As provided by Section 10 of the Railway Labor Act, as amended, from this date and for 30 days after the board has made its report to the President, no change, except by agreement, shall be made by The Long Island Rail Road, or by its employees, in the conditions out of which the dispute arose.

Executive Order 12183 of December 16, 1979

Revoking Rhodesian Sanctions

By the authority vested in me as President by the Constitution and statutes of the United States of America, including Section 5 of the United Nations Participation Act of 1945, as amended (22 U.S.C. 287c), and in order to terminate current limitations relating to trade and other transactions involving Zimbabwe-Rhodesia, it is hereby ordered as follows:

1–101. (a) Subject to the provisions of this order, the following are hereby revoked with respect to transactions occurring after the effective date of this order:

(1) Executive Order 11322 of January 5, 1967 (32 F.R. 119);

(2) Executive Order 11419 of July 29, 1968 (33 F.R. 10837); and

(3) Executive Order 11978 of March 18, 1977 (42 F.R. 15403).

(b) To the extent consistent with this order, all determinations, authorizations, regulations, rulings, certificates, orders, directives, licenses, contracts, agreements, and other actions made, issued, taken, or entered into under the provisions of such Executive orders and not previously revoked, superseded, or otherwise made inapplicable, shall continue in full force and effect until amended, modified, or terminated by appropriate authority.

1–102. (a) The Secretaries of State, the Treasury, Commerce, and Transportation, and the heads of other government agencies, shall retain the authority and responsibility for the enforcement of Executive Orders 11322, 11419, and 11978 with respect to transactions occurring prior to the effective date of this order.

(b) The revocation, in Section 1–101 of this order, of such prior Executive orders shall not affect:

(1) any act done or omitted to be done or any suit or proceeding finished or started in civil or criminal cases prior to the revocation, but all such liabilities, penalties, and forfeitures under the Executive orders shall continue and may be enforced in the same manner as if the revocation had not been made; or

(2) any violation of any rules, regulations, orders, licenses, or other forms of administrative action under those revoked orders during the periods those orders were in effect.

1–103. (a) The Secretaries of State, the Treasury, Commerce, and Transportation, and the heads of other government agencies, shall take the appropriate measures to implement this order.

(b) In carrying out their respective functions and responsibilities under this order, the Secretaries of the Treasury, Commerce, and Transportation, and the heads of other government agencies, shall, as appropriate, consult with the Secretary of State. Each such Secretary and agency head and the Secretary of State shall also consult with other government agencies and private persons, as appropriate.

Proclamation 4709 of December 16, 1979

National Unity Day, 1979

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

Fifty American citizens are being held hostage in Iran by a mob and a government that have become one and the same. The United States has made it clear to the leaders of Iran that we hold them personally and fully responsible for the well-being and safe return of every American in their hands.

The people of the United States are unanimous in their concern for their fellow citizens held in Iran. Americans have shown this concern in numerous ways that are consistent with our country's respect for law—the ringing of church bells, letters to the Iranian Mission at the United Nations, and messages to the hostages themselves.

A most fitting symbol of this concern is the American flag itself. We respect our flag because we know that it stands for freedom. It stands for justice. It stands for human dignity. It stands too for our united determination to uphold these great ideals.

To demonstrate support for the hostages in Iran, the Congress has, by joint resolution, designated December 18, 1979, as "National Unity Day." It has requested the President of the United States to call upon all citizens and organizations to observe that day by prominently displaying the American flag.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JIMMY CARTER, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate December 18, 1979, as National Unity Day. I direct the appropriate officials of the Government to display the flag on all Government buildings during that day. I urge all Americans to observe National Unity Day, December 18, 1979, by flying the Stars and Stripes from their homes and other suitable places.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this sixteenth day of December, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred seventy-nine, and of the independence of the United States of America the two hundred and fourth.

Jimmy Carter

7 CFR Part 354

Overtime Services Relating to Imports and Exports; Commuted Traveltime Allowances

AGENCY: Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, USDA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This document amends administrative instructions prescribing commuted traveltime. These amendments establish commuted traveltime periods as nearly as may be practicable to cover the time necessarily spent in reporting to and returning from the place at which an employee of the Plant Protection and Quarantine Programs performs overtime or holiday duty when such travel is performed solely on account of such overtime or holiday duty. Such establishment depends upon facts within the knowledge of the Animal and Plant Heath Inspection Service.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 18, 1979.

(64 Stat. 561; (7 U.S.C. 2260))

It is to the benefit of the public that these instructions be made effective at the earliest practicable date. It does not appear that public participation in this rulemaking proceeding would make additional relevant information available to the Department.

Accordingly, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 553, it is found upon good cause that notice and public procedure on these instructions are impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest and good cause is found for making them effective less than 30 days after publication in the Federal Register.

Note.—This final rulemaking is being published under emergency procedures as authorized by E.O. 12044 and Secretary's Memorandum No. 1955. It has been determined by James O. Lee, Jr., Deputy Administrator, Plant Protection and Quarantine Programs, Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, that the emergency nature of these commuted traveltime allowances warrant the publication of this rule without waiting for public comment. This amendment, as well as the complete regulation, will be scheduled for review under provisions of E.O. 12044 and Secretary's Memorandum No. 1955. The review will include preparation of an Impact Analysis Statement which will be available from Regulatory Support Staff, Room 633, Federal Building, 6505 Belcrest Road, Hyattsville, MD 20782, 301–436–8237.

Done at Washington, D.C., this 11th day of December 1979.

Acting Deputy Administrator, Plant Protection and Quarantine Programs, Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

Peach Crop Insurance Regulations

AGENCY: Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, USDA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This rule amends the Peach Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1979 and Succeeding Crop Years by (1) amending the third sentence of § 403.40, relative to publishing the names of the counties where peach crop insurance is available, and (2) adding an appendix to the regulations which lists such counties, as required by the provisions of § 403.40 of the regulations. This action is promulgated under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 18, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Peter F. Cole, Secretary, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, telephone 202–447–3325.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On December 1, 1978, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation published a notice of Final Rule in the Federal Register (43 FR 56205), prescribing procedures for insuring peach crops effective with the 1979 crop year.

These regulations are found in 7 CFR 403 and were promulgated under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.).

The third sentence in § 403.40 of the Peach Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1979 and Succeeding Crop Years provides that "The counties designated by the Manager shall be published by appendix to this section."

In prior years, the requirement of § 403.40 has been met by publishing an amendment to the regulations to list those counties where peach crop insurance is available, with the last such publication in the Federal Register being made on Tuesday, January 9, 1979 (44 FR 1964), as Amendment No. 1. The appendix, outlined below, supersedes the list of counties in Amendment No. 1.

The Corporation is presently conforming its regulations for insuring various commodities to a uniform format which includes the publication of an "Appendix", which lists the counties where insurance is available, to the respective part number of 7 CFR for the particular crop to be insured. In the case of the Peach Crop Insurance Regulations, it is necessary, therefore, to change the language of the last sentence of § 403.40 to indicate that such an appendix to this "part" instead of this "section" will be published, and, at the same time, conforming the language of the third sentence to match the language in the other crop insurance regulations of the Corporation.

Final Rule

Under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.), the Peach Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1979 and Succeeding Crop Years (7 CFR Part 403), are amended as follows:

1. By amending the last sentence of 7 CFR 403.40 to read as follows:

§ 403.40 Availability of peach insurance.

* * * * *

"Before insurance is offered in any county, there shall be published by appendix to this part the names of the counties in which peach insurance will be offered."

2. By amending the Peach Crop Insurance Regulations by adding at the end thereof, an appendix to read as follows:

Appendix

Counties Designated for Peach Crop Insurance—7 CFR 403

In accordance with the provisions of 7 CFR 403.40, the following counties are designated for peach crop insurance:

Alabama

Chilton

Arkansas

Cross	Lee
Johnson	St. Francis

Georgia

Houston	Upson
Peach

South Carolina

Aiken	Greenville
Allendale	Lexington
Barnwell	Spartanburg
Chesterfield	York
Edgefield

(Secs. 506, 516, 52 Stat. 73, as amended, 77, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1506, 1516))

Inasmuch as the change in the language in § 403.40 is minor and nonsubstantive, and the publication of the list of counties where peach crop insurance is available merely provides guidance for the general public and will benefit present and future policyholders, it is found and determined that good cause exists for issuing this rule without compliance with the 60-day notice provision of Executive Order No. 12044 and the notice, public participation and 30-day effective day requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553 (b) and (c)) because it is unnecessary and contrary to the public interest. Therefore, this amendment is issued without compliance with such procedure.

This action has been reviewed under the USDA criteria established to implement Executive Order No. 12044, "Improving Government Regulations." A determination has been made that this action should not be classified "significant" under those criteria. A Final Impact Statement has been prepared and is available from Peter F. Cole, Secretary, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, Room 4088, South Building, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Western United States Apple Crop Insurance Regulations

AGENCY: Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, USDA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This rule amends the Western United States Apple Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years by (1) amending the last sentence of § 404.20, relative to listing counties where apple crop insurance is available, and (2) adding an appendix to provide such listing, as required by the provisions of § 404.20 of the regulations. This action is promulgated under the authority of the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 18, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Peter F. Cole, Secretary, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, telephone 202–447–3325.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On November 29, 1976, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation published a notice of Final Rule in the Federal Register (41 FR 52289), prescribing procedures for insuring apple crops in the Western United States effective with the 1977 crop year.

These regulations are found in 7 CFR 404 and were promulgated under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.).

The last sentence in § 404.20 of the Western United States Apple Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years provides that "The counties designated by the Manager shall be published by appendix to this section."

In prior years, the requirements of the provision of § 404.20 have been met by publishing an amendment to the regulations to list those counties in the Western United States where apple crop insurance is available, with the last such publication in the Federal Register being made on Tuesday, January 9, 1979 (44 FR 1964), as Amendment No. 2. The appendix outlined below, supersedes the list of counties in Amendment No. 2.

The Corporation is presently conforming its regulations for insuring various commodities to a uniform format which includes the publication of an "Appendix", which lists the counties where insurance is available, to the respective part number of 7 CFR for the particular crop to be insured. Columbia	Yakima

(Secs. 506, 516, 52 Stat. 73, as amended, 77, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1506, 1516))

Inasmuch as the change in the language in § 404.20 is minor and nonsubstantive, and the publication of the list of counties in the Western United States where apple crop insurance is available merely provides guidance for the general public and will benefit present and future policyholders, it is found and determined that good cause exists for issuing this rule without compliance with the 60-day notice provision of Executive Order No. 12044 and the notice, public participation and 30-day effective day requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553 (b) and (c)) because it is unnecessary and contrary to the public interest. California Orange Crop Insurance Regulations

AGENCY: Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, USDA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This rule amends the California Orange Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years by (1) amending the last sentence of § 406.1, relative to listing counties where orange crop insurance is available, and (2) adding an appendix to provide such listing as required by the provisions of § 406.1 of the regulations. This action is promulgated under the authority of the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 18, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Peter F. Cole, Secretary, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, telephone 202–447–3325.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On August 8, 1977, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation published a notice of Final Rule in the Federal Register (42 FR 39953), prescribing procedures for insuring orange crops in California effective with the 1977 crop year.

These regulations are found in 7 CFR 406 and were promulgated under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.).

The second sentence in § 406.1 of the California Orange Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years provides for the designation by the Manager of the counties in which orange crop insurance will be offered.

Subsequent to the publication of the California Orange Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years (42 FR 39953, August 8, 1977), the listing of orange crop insurance counties in California was published as Amendment No. 1 (44 FR 1965, January 9, 1979). The Corporation is presently conforming its regulations to a uniform format which includes the publication of an "Appendix", which lists the counties where the insurance is available, to the respective part number of 7 CFR for the particular crop to be insured. In the case of the California Orange Crop Insurance Regulations, it is necessary to change the language of § 406.1 to indicate that such an appendix to this Part 406 will be published, and, at the same time, conforming the language of the last sentence to match the language in the other crop insurance regulations of the Corporation.

Amendment No. 1 to the California Orange Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years is hereby superseded by the appendix as outlined below.

Final Rule

Under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.), the California Orange Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years (7 CFR Part 406), amended as follows:

1. By amending the last sentence of 7 CFR 406.1 to read as follows:

§ 406.1 Availability of California orange insurance.

* * * * *

"Before insurance is offered in any county, there shall be published by appendix to this part the names of the counties in which orange insurance will be offered."

2. By amending the California Orange Crop Insurance Regulations by adding at the end thereof, an appendix to read as follows:

(Secs. 506, 516 52 Stat. 73, as amended, 77, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1506, 1516))

Inasmuch as the change in the language in § 406.1 is minor and nonsubstantive, and the publication of the list of counties where orange crop insurance is available merely provides guidance for the general public and will benefit present and future policy holders, it is found and determined that good cause exists for issuing this rule without compliance with the 60-day notice provision of Executive Order No. 12044 and the notice, public participation and 30-day effective day requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553(b) and (c)) because it is unnecessary and contrary to the public interest. Therefore, this amendment is issued without compliance with such procedure.

This action has been reviewed under the USDA criteria established to implement Executive Order No. 12044, "Improving Government Regulations." A determination has been made that this action should not be classified "significant" under those criteria. A Final Impact Statement has been prepared and is available from Peter F. Cole, Secretary, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, Room 4088, South Building, U.S., Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

[Amendment No. 3]

Florida Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations

AGENCY: Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, USDA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This rule amends the Florida Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1976 and Succeeding Crop Years by (1) amending the last sentence of § 410.1, relative to listing counties where citrus crop insurance is available, and (2) adding an appendix to provide such listing as required by the provisions of § 410.1 of the regulations. This action is promulgated under the authority of the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 18, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Peter F. Cole, Secretary, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, telephone 202-447-3325.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On February 4, 1976, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation published a notice of Final Rule in the Federal Register (41 FR 5106-5109), prescribing procedures for insuring citrus crops in Florida effective with the 1976 crop year.

These regulations are found in 7 CFR 410 and were promulgated under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.).

The last sentence in § 410.1 of the Florida Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1976 and Succeeding Crop Years provides that "The counties designated by the Manager shall be published by appendix to this section."

In prior years, the requirements of the provisions of § 410.1 have been met by publishing an amendment to the regulations to list those counties where citrus crop insurance is available, with the last such publication in the Federal Register being made on Tuesday, January 9, 1979 (44 FR 1967), as Amendment No. 2.

The Corporation is presently conforming its regulations for insuring various commodities to a uniform format which includes the publication of an appendix, which lists the counties where insurance is available, to the respective part number of 7 CFR for the particular crop to be insured. In the case of the Florida Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations, it is necessary to change the language in the last sentence of § 410.1 to indicate that such an appendix to this "part" instead of "section" will be published and, at the same time, conforming the language of the section to match the language in the other crop insurance regulations of the Corporation.

Amendment No. 2 to the Florida Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1976 and Succeeding Crop Years is hereby superseded by the appendix as outlined below.

Final Rule

Under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.), the Florida Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1976 and Succeeding Crop Years (7 CFR Part 410), are amended as follows:

1. By amending the last sentence of 7 CFR 410.1 to read as follows:

§ 410.1 Availability of Florida citrus insurance.

* * * * *

"Before insurance is offered in any county, there shall be published by appendix to this part the names of the counties in which Florida citrus insurance will be offered."

2. By amending the Florida Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations by adding at the end thereof, an appendix to read as follows:

Appendix

Counties Designated for Florida Citrus Crop Insurance—7 CFR 410

In accordance with the provisions of 7 CFR 410.1, the following counties in Florida are designated for citrus crop insurance:

Florida

Brevard	Manatee
DeSoto	Marion
Glades	Martin
Hardee	Orange
Hendry	Osceola
Hernando	Palm Beach
Highlands	Pasco
Hillsborough	Polk
Indian River	St. Lucie
Lake	Seminole

(Secs. 506, 516, 52 Stat. 73, as amended, 77, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1506, 1516))

Inasmuch as the change in the language in § 410.1 is minor and nonsubstantive, and the publication of the list of counties in Florida where citrus crop insurance is available merely provides guidance for the general public and will benefit present and future policyholders, it is found and determined that good cause exists for issuing this rule without compliance with the 60-day notice provision of Executive Order No. 12044 and the notice, public participation and 30-day effective day requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553 (b) and (c)) because it is unnecessary and contrary to the public interest. Therefore, this amendment is issued without compliance with such procedure.

Grape Crop Insurance Regulations

AGENCY: Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, USDA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This rule amends the Grape Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years by (1) amending the last sentence of § 411.1, relative to listing counties where grape crop insurance is available, and (2) adding an appendix to provide such listing, as required by the provisions of § 411.1 of the regulations. This action is promulgated under the authority of the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 18, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Peter F. Cole, Secretary, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C., 20250, telephone 202-447-3325.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On September 1, 1976, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation published a notice of Final Rule in the Federal Register (41 FR 36792-36795), prescribing procedures for insuring grape crops effective with the 1977 crop year.

These regulations are found in 7 CFR 411 and were promulgated under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.).

The last sentence in § 411.1 of the Grape Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years provides that "The counties designated by the Manager shall be published by appendix to this section."

In prior years, the requirements of the provisions of § 411.1 have been met by publishing an amendment to the regulations to list those counties where grape crop insurance is available, with the last such publication in the Federal Register being made on Tuesday, January 9, 1979 (44 FR 1967), as Amendment No. 1.

The Corporation is presently conforming its regulations for insuring various commodities to a uniform format which includes the publication of an "Appendix", which lists the counties where insurance is available, to the respective part number of 7 CFR for the particular crop to be insured. In the case of the Grape Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years, it is necessary to change the language of the last sentence of § 411.1 to indicate that such an appendix to this "part" instead of this "section" will be published and, at the same time, conforming the language of the section to match the language in the other crop insurance regulations of the Corporation.

Amendment No. 1 to the Grape Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years is hereby superseded by the appendix as outlined below.

Final Rule

Under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.), the Grape Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years (7 CFR Part 411), are amended as follows:

1. By amending the last sentence of 7 CFR 411.1 to read as follows:

§ 411.1 Availability of grape insurance.

* * * * *

Before insurance is offered in any county, there shall be published by appendix to this part the names of the counties in which grape insurance will be offered.

2. By amending the Grape Crop Insurance Regulations by adding at the end thereof, an appendix to read as follows:

(Secs. 506, 516, 52 Stat. 73, as amended, 77, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1506, 1516))

Inasmuch as the change in the language of § 411.1 is minor and nonsubstantive, and the publication of the list of counties where grape crop insurance is available merely provides guidance for the general public and will benefit present and future policyholders, it is found and determined that good cause exists for issuing this rule without compliance with the 60-day notice provision of Executive Order No. 12044 and the notice, public participation and 30-day effective day requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553 (b) and (c)) because it is unnecessary and contrary to the public interest. [Amendment No. 2]

Texas Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations

AGENCY: Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, USDA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This rule amends the Texas Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years by (1) amending the last sentence of § 413.20, relative to listing counties where citrus crop insurance is available, and (2) adding an appendix to provide such listing as required by the provisions of § 413.20 of the regulations. This action is promulgated under the authority of the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 18, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Peter F. Cole, Secretary, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C., 20250, telephone 202–447–3325.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On June 2, 1977, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation published a notice of Final Rule in the Federal Register (42 FR 28141–28144), prescribing procedures for insuring citrus in Texas effective with the 1977 crop year.

These regulations are found in 7 CFR 413 and were promulgated under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1501 et. seq.).

The last sentence in § 413.20 of the Texas Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years provides that "The counties designated by the Manager shall be published by appendix to this section."

Subsequent to the publication of the Texas Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations as Part 413 in Chapter IV of Title 7 of the Code of Federal Regulations (7 CFR 413) in the Federal Register on June 2, 1977 (42 FR 28141), the listing of the citrus crop insurance counties in Texas was published as Amendment No. 1 to the Texas Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years—7 CFR 413 (Federal Register at 44 FR 1968, January 9, 1979).

The Corporation is presently conforming its regulations for insuring various commodities to a uniform format which includes the publication of an appendix, which lists the counties where insurance is available, to the respective part number of 7 CFR for the particular crop to be insured. In the case of Texas Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations, it is necessary, therefore, to change the language of the last sentence of § 413.20 to indicate that such an appendix to this "part" instead of "section" will be published and, at the same time, conforming the language of the last sentence to match the language in the other crop insurance regulations of the Corporation.

Amendment No. 1 to the Texas Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years is hereby superseded by the appendix outlined below.

Final Rule

Under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.), the Texas Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1977 and Succeeding Crop Years (7 CFR Part 413), are amended as follows:

1. By amending the last sentence of 7 CFR 413.20 to read as follows:

§ 413.20 Availability of Texas citrus insurance.

* * * * *

"Before insurance is offered in any county, there shall be published by appendix to this part the names of the counties in which Texas citrus insurance will be offered."

2. By amending the Texas Citrus Crop Insurance Regulations by adding at the end thereof, an appendix to read as follows:

Appendix

Counties designated for Texas Citrus Crop Insurance—7 CFR 413

In accordance with the provisions of 7 CFR 413.20, the following counties in Texas are designated for citrus crop insurance:

Texas

Cameron Willacy
Hidalgo

(Secs. 506, 516, 52 Stat. 73, as amended, 77, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1506, 1516))

Inasmuch as the change in the language in § 413.20 is minor and nonsubstantive, and the publication of the list of counties in Texas where citrus crop insurance is available merely provides guidance for the general public and will benefit present and future policyholders, it is found and determined that good cause exists for issuing this rule without compliance with the 60-day notice provision of Executive Order No. 12044 and the notice, public participation and 30-day effective day requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553 (b) and (c)) because it is unnecessary and contrary to the public interest. Therefore, this amendment is issued without compliance with such procedure.

This action has been reviewed under the USDA criteria established to implement Executive Order No. 12044, "Improving Government Regulations." A determination has been made that this action should not be classified "significant" under those criteria. A Final Impact Statement has been prepared and is available from Peter F. [Amendment No. 2]

Forage Seeding Crop Insurance Regulations

AGENCY: Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, USDA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This rule amends the Forage Seeding Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1978 and Succeeding Crop Years by (1) changing the designation of "section" to "part" in § 414.1 of the regulations, and (2) adding an appendix, which lists the counties where forage seeding crop insurance is available, as required by the provisions of § 414.1. This action is promulgated under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 18, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Peter F. Cole, Secretary, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C., 20250, telephone 202–447–3325.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On April 20, 1978, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation published a notice of Final Rule in the Federal Register (43 FR 16693–16697), prescribing procedures for insuring forage crops as forage seeding effective with the 1978 crop year.

These regulations are found in 7 CFR Part 414 and were promulgated under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.).

The last sentence in § 414.1 of the Forage Seeding Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1978 and Succeeding Crop Years provides that "Before insurance is offered in any county, there shall be published by appendix to this section the name of the county and the crops on which insurance will be offered."

The word "section", as found in the last sentence of § 414.1 of the regulations cited above, is incorrect and is changed to read "part". Subsequent to the publication of the Forage Seeding Crop Insurance Regulations as a new Part 414 in Chapter IV of Title 7 of the Code of Federal Regulations (7 CFR Part 414) in the Federal Register on April 20, 1978 (43 FR 16693), the listing of the forage seeding crop insurance counties was published as Amendment No. 1 to the Forage Seeding Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1978 and Succeeding Crop Years—7 CFR Part 414 (Federal Register at 44 FR 1968, January 9, 1979).

It has become necessary to reissue the list of forage crop insurance counties as an "Appendix" to the Forage Seeding Crop Insurance Regulations under the Corporation's present system of bringing its regulations under a uniform format.

Amendment No. 1 to the Forage Seeding Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1978 and Succeeding Crop Years is hereby superseded by the appendix outlined below.

Final Rule

Under the authority contained in the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.), the Forage Seeding Crop Insurance Regulations for the 1978 and Succeeding Crop Years (7 CFR Part 414), are amended as follows:

1. By amending the last sentence of 7 CFR 414.1 to read as follows:

§ 414.1 Availability of forage seeding insurance.

* * * * *

2. By amending the Forage Seeding Crop Insurance Regulations by adding at the end thereof, an Appendix to read as follows:

Appendix

Counties Designated for Forage Seeding Crop Insurance—7 CFR Part 414

In accordance with the provisions of 7 CFR 414.1, the following counties are designated for forage seeding crop insurance: New York, Ontario; North Dakota, Morton; Wisconsin, Dane.

(Secs. 506, 516, 52 Stat. 73, as amended, 77, as amended (7 U.S.C. 1506, 1516))

Inasmuch as the change in the language in § 414.1 is minor and nonsubstantive, and the publication of the list of counties where forage seeding crop insurance is available merely provides guidance for the general public and will benefit present and future policyholders, it is found and determined that good cause exists for issuing this rule without compliance with the 60-day notice provision of Executive Order No. 12044 and the notice, public participation and 30-day effective day requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553 (b) and (c)) because it is unnecessary and contrary to the public interest. Therefore, this amendment is issued without compliance with such procedure.

This action has been reviewed under the USDA criteria established to implement Executive Order No. 12044, "Improving Government Regulations." A determination has been made that this action should not be classified "significant" under those criteria. A Final Impact Statement has been prepared and is available from Peter F. Standards for Approval of Warehouses for Cotton or Cotton Linters; Correction

AGENCY: Commodity Credit Corporation, United States Department of Agriculture.

ACTION: Correction to final rule.

SUMMARY: This action corrects a previous Federal Register Document, FR Doc. 79–36077, beginning at page 67084 of the issue for Firday, November 23, 1979, which revised the Standards for Approval of Warehouses for Cotton or Cotton Linters. In that document language was in error.

EFFECTIVE DATE: November 23, 1979.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Commodity Credit Corporation issued a Final Rule with an effective date of November 23, 1979. Action is taken herein to correct an error in § 1427.1087 of the final rule. Since the change is merely clarifying in nature, notice and public procedure thereon are not considered necessary.

In FR Doc. 79–36077 appearing on page 67087 in the Federal Register of November 23, 1979, the following correction is hereby made:

§ 1427.1087 [Corrected]

The second sentence of § 1427.1087, paragraph (b) beginning with the words "Warehouseman approved under" should be "deleted".

Signed at Washington, D.C., on December 10, 1979.

7 CFR Part 905

[Orange, Grapefruit, Tangerine and Tangelo Regulation 3, Amendment 5]

Oranges, Grapefruit, Tangerines and Tangeloes Grown in Florida; Limitation of Shipments

AGENCY: Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA.

ACTION: Amendment to final rule.

SUMMARY: This amendment establishes a total limitation of shipment regulation for fresh Florida oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, and tangelos during the period beginning at 6:00 p.m., e.s.t., December 21, 1979, and ending 12:01 a.m., e.s.t., December 28, 1979. The regulation is needed to assist in preventing the accumulation of excessive market supplies of the specified fruits during the Christmas Holiday period specified, in which it is anticipated there will be a greatly reduced market demand.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 21, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Malvin E. McGaha, (202) 447–5975.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Findings. (1) This regulation is issued under marketing agreement and Order No. 905, both as amended (7 CFR Part 905), regulating the handling of oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, and tangelos grown in Florida. The agreement and order are effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674). This action is based upon the recommendations of the committee established under the marketing agreement and order, and upon other information. It is found that the limitation of shipments of oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, and tangelos, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) This amendment reflects the Department's appraisal of the marketing situation during the period immediately prior to the week in which Christmas Day occurs and for the period immediately following. It is anticipated that shipments of fresh oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, and tangelos prior to Christmas Day will result in market supplies in excess of market needs. An accumulation of excessive quantities of any variety of citrus fruit in the markets during the period immediately prior to and following Christmas contributes to unstable marketing conditions. It is reported that, absent the shipping holiday, excessive shipments of the specified fruits would occur, causing an accumulation of these varieties of fruit in the market prior to and during the post-holiday period, a period in which there is a drop in consumer demand. Hence the curtailment of orange, grapefruit, tangerine, and tangelo shipments, as hereinafter specified, would contribute to a better-managed supply situation and in turn to the establishment of orderly marketing.

(3) It is further found that it is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rulemaking procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication in the Federal Register (5 U.S.C. 553), because of insufficient time between the date when information became available upon which this amendment is based and the effective date necessary to effectuate the declared policy of the act. A reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions of this amendment effective at the time specified. Shipments of Florida oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, and tangelos are currently regulated through October 12, 1980. Determination as to the need for, and extent of, regulation under § 905.52(a)(3) must await the development of the crop and the availability of information about market supplies and the demand for such fruits. The recommendation and supporting information for such regulation, were promptly submitted to the Department after an open meeting of the committee, after notice to growers, shippers and others, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit information and views. Information regarding specifications of the regulation has been provided to shippers, and the regulation is identical with the recommendations of the committee. Compliance with the regulation will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed on or before the effective time.

Further, in accordance with procedures in Executive Order 12044, the emergency nature of this regulation warrants publication without opportunity for further public comment. The regulation has not been classified significant under USDA criteria for implementing the Executive Order. An Impact Analysis is available from Malvin E. McGaha, Fruit Branch, Fruit and Vegetable Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250, phone (202) 447–5975.

Accordingly, it is found that the provisions in paragraph (a) of § 905.303 Orange, Grapefruit, Tangerine, and Tangelo Regulation 3 (44 FR 59195, 65962, 66779, 69917) should be and hereby are revised by modifying the proviso in said paragraph applicable to shipments of oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, and tangelos to read as follows:

§ 905.303 Orange, Grapefruit, Tangerine, and Tangelo Regulation 3.

Order. (a) * * * unless such variety meets the applicable minimum grade and size (with tolerances for size as specified in paragraph (c) hereof) specified for such variety in columns (3) and (4) of such table: Provided, That during the period beginning at 6:00 p.m., e.s.t., December 21, 1979, and ending 12:01 a.m. e.s.t., December 28, 1979, no handler shall ship between the production area any any point outside thereof in the continental United States, Canada, or Mexico, any oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, and tangelos, of the varieties or types, specified in paragraph (a) Table I of this section, grown in the production area.

§ 1421.5557 [Corrected]

1. The second sentence of § 1421.5557, (a) Exemption from requirements, should be designated (b), as follows:

* * * * *

"(b) Warehousemen who are currently under contract with CCC will be required to meet the terms and conditions of these regulations at the time of renewal of their contract."

2. In § 1421.5557, the last paragraph, which is not a part of the Final Rule should be as a Note as follows:

Note.—This Final Rule has been reviewed under the USDA criteria established to implement Executive Order 12044, "Improving Government Regulations", and has been classified "significant". An approved Final Impact Statement is available from Mr. Eugene A. Williams, ASCS, (202) 447–7335.

Rural Electrification Administration

7 CFR Part 1701

Public Information; Appendix A—REA Bulletin

AGENCY: Rural Electrification Administration, USDA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Rural Electrification Administration hereby amends Appendix A—REA Bulletins to provide a temporary waiver for a requirement in REA Bulletin 345–74, REA Specification for Improved 500 Type Telephone Sets. The surge test requirement in paragraph 8.41 for DTMF (pushbutton dial) telephones in the off-hook condition with one button depressed is temporarily waived.

DTMF telephone sets which comply with the surge test requirements of this specification cannot be relied on to operate with loop currents of less than 20mA which is common in subscriber carrier applications. This has caused serious concern to telephone systems that are converting to DTMF telephone sets and have a relatively high percentage of subscriber carrier loops. Most earlier DTMF dials will operate with subscriber carrier but will not meet the surge test requirements of PE–41.

This waiver will permit REA to finance the use of older, non-surge resistant dials with subscriber carrier until new surge resistant, carrier compatible dials are developed.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 11, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: C. F. Buster, Jr., telephone (202) 447–3917.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In accordance with the spirit of the public policy set forth in 5 U.S.C. 553, interested persons may submit written comments, suggestions, data, or arguments to the Administrator, Rural Electrification Administration, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, Attention: Telephone Operations and Standards Division. Material thus submitted will be evaluated and acted upon in the same manner as if this document were a proposal. Until such time as further changes are made, the File With to REA Bulletin 345–74 shall remain in effect, thus permitting the public business to proceed more expeditiously.

An impact analysis for this revision has been prepared and is available for public inspection.

Dated: December 11, 1979.

NATIONAL CREDIT UNION ADMINISTRATION

12 CFR Chapter VII

Rate of Interest; Interpretive Ruling

AGENCY: National Credit Union Adminstration.

ACTION: Interpretation of General Applicability.

SUMMARY: This statement sets forth the National Credit Union Administration's interpretation of the effect a compensating balance has upon the rate of interest on Federal Credit Union (FCU) loans for purposes of section 107(5)(A)(vi) of the Federal Credit Union Act. Under this interpretation, a compensating balance required on an FCU loan must be considered in determining the rate of interest on the loan. Pursuant to section 107, the resulting rate of interest may not exceed 1% per month (12% per year).

EFFECTIVE DATE: Immediately on December 18, 1979.

ADDRESS: National Credit Union Administration, 1776 G Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20456.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Robert M. Fenner, Assistant General Counsel, or Edward J. Dobranski, Senior Attorney, both of the Office of General Counsel, National Credit Union Administration, at the above address. Phone: (202) 357–1030.

Interpretation [IRPS No. 79–9]

This interpretation states that the effect of a compensating balance must be considered in order to determine the rate of interest on a Federal Credit Union (FCU) loan to a member for purposes of section 107(5)(A)(vi) of the Federal Credit Union Act (12 U.S.C. 1757(5)(A)(vi)). That section states that the rate of interest on a loan to a member shall not exceed 1% per month (12% per year) on the unpaid balance inclusive of all service charges.

I. Definition of Compensating Balance

1. The term "compensating balance" means a deposit in a Federal Credit Union (FCU):

(a) that the FCU requires that the member/borrower make; [1]

(b) that is created from either (i) part or all of the proceeds of the loan or (ii) from any outside source (including the borrower's own funds); and

(c) that is not accessible to the member/borrower for a given period of time.

2. The term does not include any deposit in the FCU that the member/borrower has made previously without regard to any loan requirement or lending policy that such a deposit be made, and the amount of which is given as security for the loan.

An explanation of the terms used in the definition is set forth below.

The term "deposit" refers to a share account of any type, or a share certificate account,[2] or a certificate of indebtedness. It does not include the $5 share membership requirement, for that requirement exists independently of any loan (even if given concurrently with a loan) and is mandated by section 109 of the Federal Credit Union Act (12 U.S.C. 1759).

The term "requires that the member/borrower make" means that funds must be placed in the FCU in order to obtain a particular loan. It is important to note that this requirement can arise in a number of ways; for example, on the face of the loan agreement (such as a security requirement or a requirement of deposit [with or without security]); as an FCU lending policy (e.g., that to qualify for a loan the member/borrower must have 20% of the loan amount in shares); or a requirement that is conveyed orally to a particular borrower (e.g., by the loan officer).

The term "created from the loan proceeds" is essentially self explanatory, i.e., part of the loan is kept in an account in the FCU.[3]

The term "created from any outside source (including the borrower's own funds)" covers the situation where the borrower receives the entire amount contracted for in the loan agreement, but is required to place a certain amount of [1] Systematic loan/savings plans do not fall within the scope of this interpretive ruling. The issue of whether such plans must be considered for purposes of 12 U.S.C. 1757(5)(A)(vi) will be addressed in a subsequent interpretive ruling.

[2] Thus, if a share certificate is required to be purchased as a condition of a loan, and it is required to be given as security on the loan, then a compensating balance arises.

[3] Note that estate loans (where the borrower requests that all proceeds of the loan be placed into shares, and which are inaccessible), will be addressed in a subsequent interpretive ruling.

funds (from any source) in the FCU, and such funds may not be withdrawn for a given time period.

The term "not accessible to the member/borrower" means funds to which a borrower does not have an automatic, unfettered right of withdrawal.[4] Thus, e.g., funds that are placed with the FCU as a requirement of the loan, and that are subject to withdrawal only with credit committee approval pursuant to a separate requirement in the loan agreement or pursuant to a security interest in those shares, would be considered not accessible for purposes of this interpretation.

The term "compensating balance" as used herein does not include any funds that were previously and independently placed into a share account (without regard to any lending policy or loan requirement) and that are subsequently offered as security for the loan. Such funds do not affect the 1% per month interest rate limitation. For example, suppose an FCU requires 20% of the loan balance to be maintained in shares in order to qualify for a loan. If a member wishes to borrow $5,000, in order to be eligible to borrow such an amount, $1,000 must be in shares (with such $1,000 being inaccessible for a certain period of time). If the member already had $1,000 in shares (and no portion of the $1,000 was placed in shares for the purpose of meeting the FCU 20% requirement for a contemplated loan), and if the shares are given as security on the loan, no compensating balance arises, even though the funds are inaccessible until the loan balance is less than the share amount. However, if the member had only $600 in shares, and put $400 from his or her own pocket into the share account in order to qualify for the loan (or agreed to place $400 from the loan proceeds into shares), then a $400 compensating balance exists and that compensating balance must be considered in determining the rate of interest for purposes of section 107(5)(A)(vi) of the Federal Credit Union Act.

II. Legal Rationale

As stated above, the pertinent provision of the Federal Credit Union Act is section 107(5)(A)(vi) (12 U.S.C. 1757(5)(A)(vi), which provides that the rate of interest on an FCU loan shall not exceed 1% per month (12% per year) on the unpaid balance inclusive of all service charges. The issue which has arisen concerning the relationship between section 107 and compensating balances is best illustrated through an example. If a loan of $1,000 is contracted for, with monthly payments, and if the FCU requires that $200 of such loan be placed in the borrower's share account (to be inaccessible for a given period of time), upon what amount may the FCU charge 12% per year (i.e., what is the unpaid balance)?[5]

It is NCUA's position that 12% per year may not be assessed upon the entire amount of the loan ($1,000 in the example). This position is predicated upon recognition of the time value of money and upon the resolution of this issue reached by a vast majority of those courts that have addressed it.

The term "interest", by definition, mandates consideration of the funds a borrower has use of and of the time the borrower has use of such funds.[6] Interest is thus the value of funds available for one's use. That value varies depending upon how long the funds may be used, i.e., the time value of money. When funds "borrowed" may not be used for a period of time, the value of those funds decreases. The resulting value is termed "present value". Thus, for example, given a loan of $1,000 with a $200 compensating balance, 1% per month may be assessed only upon the sum of $800 plus the present value of the $200 compensating balance. (That is, the FCU will be permitted to charge 1% per month [12% per year] on an amount somewhere between $800 and $1,000, depending upon the present value of the $200). The present value will vary depending upon how long the $200 is inaccessible. The longer the period of inaccessibility, the less its present value. In the alternative, the unpaid balance can be carried on the FCU's books as $1,000 in the example. In that situation, the monthly interest rate factor assessed upon that $1,000 cannot be 1%, because of the time value of money, and thus must necessarily be less that 1% (how much so again depends upon how long the $200 is inaccessible).[7]

The concept of the time value of money, and why it must be considered when determining the relationship between a compensating balance and section 107, is clearly evident when a compensating balance type loan is compared to a multiple advance loan. Given a loan for $1,000 for one year, if the FCU states that it will advance $250 to the borrower at once, $250 after one month, and $500 after six months, it is clear that if the FCU charges 1% per month on $1,000 from the date of the first advance, the rate of interest is greater that 1% per month on the unpaid balance. Such a scheme would generate a greater rate of interest to the FCU than if the transaction was viewed as three separate loans, with 1% being charged on $250 for one year, 1% on $250 for 11 months, and 1% on $500 for six months. The crucial aspect in this type of determination is the time value of money (i.e., the funds the borrower has use of). A compensating balance is similar. If the FCU withholds part of the loan until a later date, ($200 in the example), the maximum interest rate may not be assessed upon that $200 if the borrower does not have immediate use of it.[8] Of course, time value methods of computation exist so that present value and the resulting rate of interest may be determined at the inception of a compensating balance loan. This rate may not exceed 12% per year.

As noted previously, a number of courts have addressed the issue of whether a compensating balance must be considered in determining the rate of interest on a loan, and the vast majority have concluded that such a consideration is necessary.[9] It is important to note that the cases referred to dealt with state law usury provisions. In short, many of the courts determined not only whether an excessive rate was actually reserved or received, but also determined whether the lender intended to reserve or receive such an excessive rate. This dual determination was necessary in those cases for each involved a provision imposing a penalty for charging an excessive rate of interest. The cases thus dealt with allegations of usury, i.e., excessive interest rates and allegations that such rates were charged by a lender with usurious intent, the latter being necessary to invoke the penalty provisions.

Unlike the court decisions, this interpretation does not address an entire usury provision. The usury provision of the Federal Credit Union Act is composed of two sections, section 107(5)(A)(vi) and section 107(5)(A)(vii). The former sets forth the maximum interest rate (1% per month); the latter, the penalty a borrower may invoke in court for a knowing violation of that limit. This interpretation necessarily encompasses only section 107(5)(A)(vi) for it is solely that section of the usury provision for which NCUA is charged with regulatory responsibility. That responsibility extends only to interpreting what is necessary to determine the "rate of interest on the unpaid balance". It does not extend to making a determination of whether any particular action is usurious, i.e., taken with knowledge that an excessive rate was reserved or received (or cloaked with an intent that evidences such knowledge) so that the penalty provision of section 107(5)(A)(vii) would be invoked. That type of determination is for a court, in an action brought by a borrower under section 107(5)(A)(vii) (12 U.S.C. 1757(5)(A)(vii)).[10]

Again, the courts, although making the dual determination noted, have overwhelmingly concluded that the imposition of the maximum interest rate on the amount contracted for, without consideration of the loss of use of money for a period of time which results from the imposition of a compensating balance, constitutes the charging of an excessive rate of interest.

Given such judicial precedent, and given present day concepts of the time value of money, NCUA interprets section 107(5)(A)(vi) of the Federal Credit Union Act as requiring that compensating balances and their resulting loss of use of money must be considered when determining the rate of interest on the unpaid balance. This does not mean, of course, that compensating balances are illegal. It does mean, however, that a violation of Section 107(5)(A)(vi) occurs if, given consideration of any compensating balance, the rate of interest exceeds 1% per month (12% per year) on the unpaid balance inclusive of all service charges.

III. Computation

As noted previously, accepted methods of computation for determining the effects of a compensating balance may be employed.[11] Such methods determine how the compensating balance affects the rate of interest through consideration of the length of time the funds are inaccessible to the borrower and the amount of such funds. The computation for this determination must be done pursuant to such accepted methods of determining present value (i.e., determining the present value of funds that are inaccessible for a given period of time). Once the present value of the compensating balance is determined, the unpaid balance can be computed. Or, in the alternative, the FCU can compute the maximum periodic rate factor which may be applied so that the rate of interest does not exceed 1% per month (12% per year). Although NCUA will advise any FCU that intends to impose a compensating balance of the methods of calculation, it should be noted that any FCU that does impose a compensating balance will bear the burden of demonstrating that the rate of interest does not exceed 1% per month (12% per year) on the unpaid balance. In this regard, FCU's should note that since the computations are somewhat difficult, they should ensure that they can accurately perform them. This is especially important given section 107(5)(A)(vii), the penalty provision.

Two other aspects of the computation deserve note. First, any dividends paid on a compensating balance may be considered in determining the rate of interest. Thus, the greater the dividends paid on the compensating balance, the lower the rate of interest.[12] Consideration of dividends is not mandatory (since dividends serve to lower the rate of interest), however, they may be considered by any FCU that can compute their effect.

Second, since an FCU by law [13] may not freeze shares in excess of any loan balance, portions of the compensating balance must be made available whenever the compensating balance exceeds the outstanding loan balance. If this happens, the staggered accessibility of funds can be considered in calculating the interest rate, if the FCU so chooses (and if it has the capability of performing the requisite mathematical computations). However, in making its calculations to determine the effect of the compensating balance, the FCU may also choose to simply treat the compensating balance as though it is not accessible for the life of the loan.

IV. Scope

NCUA recognizes that this interpretation raises a host of other questions concerning a myriad of situations that do not fall within the definition of the term "compensating balance" as set forth herein. It is the agency's intent to address in a subsequent interpretive ruling a number of those situations, such as FCU thrift plans, open end loans, estate loans, prepaid interest, and funds that are withheld from the borrower but are not placed in a deposit account or CI (e.g. in escrow with a third party).

[4] Pursuant to the same rationale applicable to the $5 share membership requirement, the imposition by the FCU of the 60 day notice of withdrawal requirement on all accounts, as provided for in Article III, section 5(a) of the Federal Credit Union Bylaws, does not render shares inaccessible for purposes of this ruling.

[5] Stated another way, what is the maximum monthly interest rate factor that may be applied to the full $1,000? It is understood that FCU's will of necessity perceive the computation as a determination of the periodic interest rate factor and treat the loan as one for $1,000. The discussion in the text is used simply to more clearly explain the issue.

[6] "Interest" is universally defined as compensation received by a lender for the use of money. See, e.g., 47 C.J.S. Interest § 1 and 45 Am. Jur. 2d Interest § 1, for a listing of a number of cases that have recognized this definition. Interest can also be viewed as compensation of the creditor's loss of the use of funds. Thus, when a compensating balance is required for a given time period, the creditor is not deprived of the use of funds for such time.

[7] As noted in footnote 5, since the FCU will choose to consider the unpaid balance to be the full amount of the loan, the monthly interest rate factor must be arrived at by considering the elements of use and time (i.e. the time value of money).

[8] Given the concept of the use of money, it makes no difference whether the compensating balance is created from the loan proceeds or from the borrower's own funds.

[9] For a general overview of case law addressing the question of whether usury results when a creditor requires a deposit of debtor's funds, see 92 ALR 3d 769.

[10] We recognize, of course, that an agency pronouncement such as this could very well be perceived by a court, in an action by a borrower under section 107(5)(A)(vii) against an FCU, as imparting knowledge to an FCU for purposes of that section. That resolution, however, is for the judiciary, not NCUA, and will necessarily turn upon the facts in each particular case.

[11] For example, Supplement I to the Federal Reserve Board's Regulation Z sets out such a method. Note, however, that that method encompasses the actuarial computation of interest, not the U.S. Rule computation. Supplement I can be adapted to fit the U.S. Rule method however.

[12] Although FCU's do not know in advance what the dividend rate will be (nor can they guarantee a rate), legally no objection exists to the use of a good faith estimate based upon past dividend rates or reasonable projections.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

12 CFR Parts 304 and 349

Implementation of Reporting Requirements of the Financial Institutions Regulatory and Interest Rate Control Act of 1978

AGENCY: Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

ACTION: Final Regulation.

SUMMARY: These final regulations are issued to implement the reporting requirements of Titles VIII and IX of the Financial Institutions Regulatory and Interest Rate Control Act of 1978. Title VIII requires the principal shareholders and executive officers of federally-insured banks to file confidential reports with the banks Board of Directors. Title VIII also requires each insured bank to file with the appropriate Federal banking agency annual reports listing each executive officer or principal shareholder who filed reports of indebtedness with the Board of Directors. Title IX of the Act requires the banks to file annual reports listing the principal shareholders and executive officers who borrowed money from the bank during the year, all executive officers, principal shareholders and their related business interest who filed a report of borrowing from one or more of the banks correspondent banks, and the aggregate amount of the indebtedness.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 31, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Daniel Wm. Persinger, Assistant General Counsel, (202) 389–4387, or Barbara I. Gersten, Attorney, (202) 389–4261, FDIC.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Title VIII of FIRIRCA (Correspondent Accounts) which amends section 106(b) of the Bank Holding Company Act Amendments of 1970 (12 U.S.C. 1972), became effective March 10, 1979. Title VIII requires executive officers and principal shareholders of federally-insured banks to file a confidential report with the board of directors of their banks concerning their indebtedness and the indebtedness of their related business interests to correspondent banks. Title VIII further requires each insured bank to file with the appropriate Federal banking agency an annual report listing by name each executive officer or principal shareholder who files a report of indebtedness with the bank's board of directors, and listing the aggregate amount of all extensions of credit made to these persons and their related business interests by all correspondent banks.[1]

Title IX of FIRIRCA (Disclosure of Material Facts), which amends Section 7 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1817), became effective on March 10, 1979. Title IX requires all federally-insured banks to file annually a public report with the appropriate Federal banking agency listing (1) the bank's principal shareholders, (2) all of the bank's executive officers and principal shareholders who borrowed (or whose related business interests borrowed) from the insured bank during the year, (3) all such persons and their related business interests who filed with the bank a report of borrowing from one or more of the bank's correspondent banks during the year, and (4) the aggregate amount of indebtedness incurred under (2) and (3).

On March 9, 1979, the Federal banking agencies published for public comment proposed regulations to implement the reporting requirements of Titles VIII and IX of FIRIRCA. Docket No. R–0210, 44 FR 13035. The public comment period closed on April 20, 1979. Approximately 96 comments were received by FDIC.

Many comments focused on the difficulty of complying with the reporting requirements, in particular the cost of compiling reports and the burden of submitting a year-end report in addition to other year-end reports required of insured banks. The regulations were termed inappropriate for use in certain situations, especially those involving foreign banks. Comments on proposed definitions of key terms were numerous. Concern was expressed over the public availability of the Title IX report, terming this an invasion of privacy. A recurring comment was that these additional regulations constitute the "over-regulation" of banks, and require the duplicate reporting of information already available to the Federal banking agencies.

The regulations are effective December 31, 1979. This action is taken under the authority granted in section 553(d)(3) of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3)) to dispense with publication of a substantive rule not less than 30 days before its effective date. The Board of Directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has determined it is not in the public interest to delay the effective date of the regulations for 30 days.

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System has already published regulations (in substance similar to those of FDIC) which will become effective December 31, 1979. The industry is aware of the requirements of these regulations and of the reporting requirements of Titles VIII and IX of FIRIRCA (effective March 10, 1979) which the regulations of FDIC and the Federal Reserve implement. While the regulations do impose restrictions (i.e., reporting requirements) on executive officers, principal shareholders and banks, these restrictions are actually already imposed by Titles VIII and IX. In addition, due to the initial reporting deadline of January 31 (for executive officers and principal shareholders to report to their bank on their indebtedness to its correspondent banks pursuant to Title VIII) it is necessary that the regulations become effective no later than year end. This will allow sufficient time to meet the January 31 reporting deadline.

In accordance with Executive Order 12044, "Improving Government Regulations" (43 FR 12661), and policy statements of the Federal banking agencies, the agencies have determined that the regulations impose no reporting burdens or recordkeeping costs that are not required by statute.

Upon review of the comments received and after a thorough reconsideration of the regulations as published for comment, FDIC has made certain changes as reflected in the final regulations set forth below. An explanation of the final regulations and a discussion of the comments received are also set forth below.

A. Reporting Requirements of Titles VIII and IX [2]

1. Title VIII Reports by Executive Officers and Principal Shareholders. Under Title VIII, executive officers[3] and principal shareholders[4] of insured banks are required to report to the board of directors of their bank annually the following information:

(a) The "maximum amount of indebtedness" during the preceding year of the executive officer or principal shareholder and of that person's "related interests" (i.e., controlled companies or political or campaign committees) to each "correspondent bank" (i.e., each bank that maintains a correspondent account for the reporting person's bank);[5]

(b) The amount of indebtedness of the executive officer or principal shareholder and of each of that person's related interests to each correspondent bank outstanding as of a date not more than 10 days before the report is filed with the bank's board of directors; and

(c) The terms and conditions (including the range of interest rates) of each extension of credit included in the figure reported as the maximum amount of indebtedness.[6]

The bank is not required to make these reports available to the public, however, the bank must maintain these reports for three years. The appropriate Federal banking agency may direct the bank to maintain the reports for an additional period of time and make them available for review by its examiners.

2. Title VIII Reports by Insured Banks. Title VIII requires each insured bank to compile the reports submitted to it by its executive officers and principal shareholders and to furnish such compilation annually to the appropriate Federal banking agency. The regulation specifies that this compilation requirement will be satisfied if the bank does no more than furnish the information required to be filed by insured banks under Title VIII. This Title VIII report will be made a part of the report filed by the insured bank under Title IX, which report must be made available to the public by the appropriate Federal banking agency and by the bank itself.

Title VIII requires each insured bank to file with the appropriate Federal banking agency an annual report listing:

(a) The name of each executive officer or principal shareholder who files a report of indebtedness with the bank's board of directors; and

(b) The "aggregate amount of all extensions of credit"[7] made to these persons and their related interests by all of the bank's correspondent banks.

3. Title IX Report by Insured Banks. Title IX requires each insured bank to file with the appropriate Federal banking agency an annual report which must be made available to the public by the bank and by the agency. The report must list the following:

(a) The name of each of the bank's principal shareholders as of December 31 of the reporting year;

(b) The name of each executive officer or principal shareholder who borrowed or whose related interest borrowed, from the bank during the reporting year;[8] and

(c) The "aggregate amount of all extensions of credit" made by the insured bank during the year to these persons and their related interests.

B. Definition of Key Terms Used in Titles VIII and IX

1. Correspondent Account. While the prohibitions and reporting requirements of Title VIII are based on the presence of a correspondent account relationship, the statute does not define the term "correspondent account". The proposed regulation defined the term as an account maintained by one bank with another for the deposit or placement of funds. In the final regulation, time deposits as well as accounts maintained solely for federal funds and Eurodollar transactions at prevailing market rates have been excluded from the definition of "correspondent account". These exclusions are consistent with the legislative intent of the statute, which focused on noninterest-bearing demand accounts. By limiting the exclusion to time deposits and accounts for effecting federal funds and Eurodollar transactions at "prevailing market rates", the regulation minimizes the possibility that abusive correspondent account relationships will go unreported.

Most comments received agreed with the proposed definition and with the suggestion in the notice accompanying the proposed regulation that exclusions for time deposits and federal funds be adopted. While a number of commenters proposed additional exclusions (such as accounts maintained for credit card facilities or travelers checks, accounts opened in a fiduciary capacity, accounts maintained to clear checks or for securities transactions, accounts used for correspondent business of small banks, or accounts maintained for brief periods of time), these exclusions are not warranted. The legislative history indicates that the reason for the enactment of provisions in Title VIII prohibiting, without exception, preferential extensions of credit coupled with the maintenance of correspondent accounts is the difficulty in determining whether an account (such as one used to clear checks) is being used solely for legitimate purposes.

2. Correspondent Bank. The regulation published for comment proposed to limit reporting the indebtedness of an insured State nonmember bank's executive officers and principal shareholders to those correspondent banks that maintained correspodent accounts of $100,000 or more during the reporting year.

Most of the commenters favored a cut-off figure for the correspondent accounts based on an average balance during the year, since a correspondent account could exceed $100,000 for only a few days during the year and thus might not accurately reflect the extent of the correspondent relationship between the banks. While a de minimus figure as a cut-off for correspondent banks is appropriate, it is believed that an average balance of $100,000 during the year may be too high in the case of smaller banks. The final regulation specifies that executive officers or principal shareholders are not required to report on their indebtedness to banks that maintain correspondent accounts that do not exceed an average daily balance of $100,000 or one-half of one percent of the insured State nonmember bank's total deposits (as reported its first consolidated report of condition for the year), whichever is smaller.

3. Principal Shareholder. The prohibitions of Title VIII apply to any person (company or individual) that directly or indirectly owns, controls, or has power to vote more than 10 percent of a bank's voting shares.[9] The reporting requirements of Titles VIII and IX, however, apply to each "stockholder of record" who directly or indirectly owns, controls, or has the power to vote more than 10 percent of a bank's voting shares. The term "stockholder of record" is not defined in Title VIII or Title IX. The proposed regulation separately defined "principal stockholder of record" and "principal shareholder" as a person who directly or indirectly owns, controls, or has the power to vote the bank's shares, in conformity with the definition used in applying the prohibitions of Title VIII. The definitions would include the actual owner of the shares, whether or nor that person's name appears on the bank's stock

[1] Title VIII of FIRIRCA prohibits all banks (whether or not federally insured) that maintain a correspondent account relationship with each other from extending credit to each other's executive officers, directors, or principal shareholders unless the extension of credit is not preferential, that is, (1) is made on substantially the same terms as those prevailing at the time for comparable transactions with other persons, and (2) does not involve more than the normal risk of repayment or present other unfavorable features. Title VIII also prohibits the opening of a correspondent account relationship between banks where there is a preferential extension of credit from one of the banks to an executive officer, director, or principal shareholder of the other bank. The prohibitions of Title VIII are referred to in § 349.1; however, the provisions of Part 349 relate only to the reporting requirements of Title VIII.

[2] For the purposes of Title VIII, no reports will be required of an executive officer of a U.S. branch or agency of a foreign bank (including insured branches), or of an executive officer of the foreign bank itself. Similarly, a foreign bank is not considered a "principal shareholder" for reporting purposes but an individual who is a principal shareholder of a foreign bank is subject to the reporting requirements of Title VIII.

Consistent with Title I of FIRIRCA (§ 22(h) of the Federal Reserve Act, 12 U.S.C. 375(b)) and Federal Reserve Regulation O, Subpart A (12 CFR 215.1–.11) which exclude foreign banks, the reporting requirements of Title IX do not apply to foreign banks or their U.S. branches or agencies (including insured branches).

[3] For the purposes of Titles VIII and IX and Parts 304 and 349, an executive officer of an insured State nonmember bank does not include an executive officer of a bank holding company of which the bank is a subsidiary or of any other subsidiary of that bank holding company unless that person is also an executive officer of the insured State nonmember bank.

[4] The term "principal shareholder" has been defined in Part 349 as synonymous with the term "stockholder of record" as that term is used in those provisions of Titles VIII and IX pertaining to reporting requirements.

[5] Under Title VIII, the executive officer or principal shareholder must file a report if the person is indebted during the year to a correspondent bank.

Where the person is not indebted, but a related interest is indebted, the regulation requires the person to file a report concerning indebtedness of the related interest.

[6] The regulation does not require a report on the terms and conditions of extensions of credit included in any indebtedness outstanding not more than 10 days before the report is filed unless the extension of credit was also outstanding during the preceding year.

[7] The term "aggregate amount of all extensions of credit" has been defined in the regulation as a single figure that represents the sum of the "maximum amounts of indebtedness" reported to the insured bank's board of directors by the bank's executive officers and principal shareholders.

[8] The proposed regulation required the reporting bank to list each executive officer and principal shareholder, whether or not that person was indebted. The final regulation requires that the bank list only borrowers.

[9] Shares of a bank holding company held by a member of an individual's immediate family are considered to be held by the individual for the purpose of determining principal shareholder status.

register as the owner of the shares.[10] No adverse comment was received on this aspect of the definition. This interpretation is consistent with the legislative history of Titles VIII and IX, which shows a clear Congressional intent to cover the actual principal shareholders of the bank, rather than just the persons whose names appear on the bank's stock register.[11] If Title VIII's reporting requirements were confined solely to shareholders whose names appear on the bank's stock register, the reporting requirements of the statute would not be coextensive with the prohibitions. The final regulation adopts the term "principal shareholder" (which is synonymous with "stockholder of record") as that term was defined in the proposed regulations.

A bank that controls another bank could be viewed as a principal shareholder subject to the reporting requirements of Titles VIII and IX. This situation would arise primarily in the case of foreign banks, since U.S. banks are generally prohibited from owning shares of another bank. The comments on this aspect of the regulation indicated that it would be extremely burdensome and costly (if not impossible) for banks that are principal shareholders to compile the necessary information and to file the reports required of principal shareholders under Title VIII. Inclusion of inter-bank transactions (correspondent bank loans to banks that are principal shareholders) would also inflate the aggregate figure reported by the bank, and thus would be misleading. The final regulation excludes banks (including insured banks and foreign banks) from the definition of principal shareholder for purposes of the reporting requirements of Titles VIII and IX. This exclusion is consistent with the restrictions on direct loans in Title I which do not include insured banks as principal shareholders. It is also consistent with the exemption from the affiliate lending restrictions in section 23A of the Federal Reserve Act (12 U.S.C. 371c), and with the legislative history of Title VIII which indicates that Congress did not mean to disrupt reciprocal transactions between a bank and its correspondents.[12] Individuals and nonbanking companies controlling banks that control other banks are principal shareholders covered by the reporting requirements of Titles VIII and IX.

4. Related Interests. Under Title IX, each insured State nonmember bank must report the aggregate amount of credit extended to its principal shareholders (which by definition would include the bank's parent bank holding company) and their related interests (which would include all "controlled" subsidiaries, including banks, of the parent bank holding company). In the case of multi-bank holding companies, the volume of indebtedness between bank subsidiaries could be substantial. The commenters focused on the practical difficulties this presents, in particular the burden and cost of calculating and keeping track of these inter-bank transactions. Some commenters indicated that it would be impossible to comply because of the number and extent of their subsidiaries' operations. Commenters also indicated that this inter-bank indebtedness would tremendously inflate the aggregate amount of debt reported and render the figure meaningless.

The same problem exists in connection with reporting under Title VIII, which requires a principal share holder of an insured bank to report indebtedness of the principal shareholder and of each of the principal shareholder's related interests to each of the insured bank's correspondent banks. Since a bank holding company qualifies as a principal shareholder, a bank holding company must report not only on its indebtedness to each correspondent of each of its subsidiary banks, but also on the indebtedness of each of its related interests (including each subsidiary bank) to each correspondent bank of each subsidiary bank. In the case of a multi-bank holding company system, the number and complexity of the reports and the corresponding recordkeeping burden would be substantial.[13] To comply with the reporting requirements, a holding company would have to maintain records on the daily transactions between each of its subsidiary banks and all correspondents of all of its other subsidiary banks. Considering the volume of inter-bank transactions between correspondents and the number of correspondent banks involved, the recordkeeping burden would be substantial, and would exceed any benefit derived from the report. Reporting alone could tend to disrupt normal banking relationships.

In view of the reporting problems, banks (including foreign banks) have been excluded from the definition of "related interest" in the final regulation implementing the reporting requirements of Titles VIII and IX.[14] This exclusion is consistent with the statutory definition of "company" in Title I of FIRIRCA which expressly excludes insured banks. Since the Title IX report was intended by Congress as a report on indebtedness of executive officers and principal shareholders to their bank under Title I, the Federal banking agencies believe that it is appropriate to exclude banks from the definition of "related interest" for purposes of the Title IX reporting requirements.

The exclusion is also consistent with the purpose of Title VIII, which is to prohibit misuse of a bank's correspondent account(s) through preferential extensions of credit to its executive officers and principal shareholders. This rationale does not apply to routine inter-bank transactions involving credit extensions by a correspondent bank to the depositing bank itself where there is no executive officer or principal shareholder involved.[15]

5. Maximum Amount of Indebtedness Reported. Under Title VIII, the executive officers and principal shareholders of an insured bank must report to the board of directors of their bank the "maximum amount of indebtedness" of themselves and of each of their related interests, to each of the insured bank's correspondent banks. The proposed regulation defined "maximum amount" as the highest indebtedness outstanding during the year. The final regulation retains this definition of maximum amount but allows the reporting person the option of reporting instead the highest end of the month indebtedness outstanding during the year. A number of commenters favored the highest end of the month balance because smaller banks do not maintain records that show borrower indebtedness on a day-to-day basis. This option would allow the reporting person to check only the monthly loan statements from his or her lending bank, thereby reducing the time and burden of the reporting requirement to the reporting person as well as to any correspondent banks.

In the notice to the proposed regulation, comment was requested on whether "maximum amount" should be defined as simply the sum of all extensions of credit made during the year and whether this alternative definition would be less burdensome for the reporting person. The commenters universally recommended against this approach on the basis that it would yield a highly inflated and misrepresentative figure. The commenters also did not believe that it would reduce the reporting burden to any significant extent. Accordingly, the idea of simply adding up all separate credit extensions has not been adopted.

Under Title VIII, the insured bank reports to the appropriate Federal banking agency "the aggregate amount of all extensions of credit" to its executive officers and principal shareholders and their related interests from correspondent banks. The agencies have defined the aggregate amount as the sum of the maximum amounts of indebtedness reported to the bank's board of directors by its executive officers and principal shareholders. In other words, the bank is only required to total the figures reported to it by its executive officers and principal shareholders and submit this total (a single figure) to the appropriate agency.

Under Title IX, the insured bank reports to the appropriate agency the "aggregate amount of all extensions of credit" the insured bank makes to its executive officers and principal shareholders and their related interests (under Title I). Consistent with the definition in Title VIII, the agencies have defined "aggregate amount" in Title IX as the sum of the highest amounts of credit extended by the bank during the year (or as an alternative the highest end of the month indebtedness outstanding during the year) to each of its executive officers and principal shareholders and to each of their related interests. The sum of the highest amounts (rather than the sum of all credit extensions) would be reported. This approach will, as in the Title VIII report, more accurately reflect the extent to which the bank is extending credit to its executive officers and principal shareholders. The commenters strongly favored such a definition of "aggregate amount" for that reason.

Executive officers and principal shareholders are required by Title VIII to report information on the terms and conditions (including the range of interest rates) of any indebtedness to correspondent banks. The final regulation requires the reporting person to submit information on the terms and conditions (including the range of interest rates, the original amount, date, maturity, payment terms, security, if any, and any other unusual term or condition) of each extension of credit that is included in the maximum amount of indebtedness reported. The terms and conditions must be reported for extensions of credit to the reporting person as well as related interests of the reporting person. The reporting person is not required to provide this information for extensions of credit included in any indebtedness reported not more than 10 days before the report is filed (unless the same loan was outstanding during the preceding year).

6. Types of Indebtedness Reported. Under Title VIII, executive officers and principal shareholders must report on their indebtedness and any indebtedness of their related interests to correspondent banks. The proposed regulation incorporated the definition of "extension of credit" contained in what is now Subpart A of Federal Reserve Regulation O. Under that definition, a purchase by a correspondent bank of commercial paper, or publicly traded bonds or debentures issued by a principal shareholder of a bank (or a related interest of the principal shareholder) would constitute an extension of credit and would be reportable. Commenters indicated that the burden imposed on the reporting person would be considerable. If the paper is in negotiable form, the person may not know which, if any, correspondent banks hold the paper.

The final regulation defines the term "indebtedness" as an extension of credit as defined in Subpart A of Federal Reserve Regulation O, but excludes commercial paper, bonds, debentures and other types of marketable securities issued in the ordinary course of business. The agencies believe that Congress did not intend to require reports on this type of debt, as it appears to have little if any potential for the correspondent account abuse that the reporting requirements of Title VIII were intended to reveal.

Also excluded from the term "indebtedness" is consumer credit aggregating $5,000 or less from each correspondent bank, provided the indebtedness is incurred under terms that are not more favorable than those offered to the general public. This exclusion carries forward the exclusion of $5,000 in open-end credit from the definition of "extension of credit" in Subpart A of Federal Reserve Regulation O but broadens it to include all consumer credit.

C. Reports

1. Time for Filing Reports. The proposed regulation required executive officers and principal shareholders to file reports of indebtedness to correspondents with their bank's board of directors by January 10 of each year. This would mean reporting extensions of credit outstanding no earlier than December 31 of the preceding year. The insured bank was required to file its report with the appropriate banking agency by January 31. Many commenters indicated that the January 10 date is too close to the end of the year when numerous other reports must be filed. A date later than the bank's January 31 reporting date was also suggested. In view of these comments, the final regulation provides that executive officers and principal shareholders must report to their bank on or before January 31 of each year. The bank must report to the appropriate agency by March 31 of each year.

Under Title VIII, executive officers and principal shareholders must report on indebtedness from correspondent banks outstanding not more than 10 days before the date the report is filed with their bank's board of directors. A number of commenters indicated that the 10 day period did not provide enough time to obtain the information required. The 10 day time limit is a requirement of the statute, however, in view of the fact that the reporting person may not be able to accurately determine this amount in the short time period provided, the final regulation specifies that the amount of indebtedness reported as outstanding not more than 10 days before the report is filed may be supplemented within the next 30 days. This will allow the person to estimate the amount outstanding not more than 10 days before the filing date of the report and to correct that amount when the person receives more accurate information on indebtedness from the correspondent bank.

Reports required to be filed for the calendar year 1979 need cover only the [10] The definition would also include those persons who control the bank's parent bank holding company. A person (individual or company) that controls a bank's parent bank holding company would "indirectly" control the bank. "Control of a company" is defined, as in Title I of FIRIRCA and Subpart A of Federal Reserve Regulation O, as generaly control of 25 percent of the company's outstanding voting shares, control of the election of a majority of the company's board of directors, or the power to exercise a controlling influence over the management or policies of the company.

[11] See H. Rep. No. 95–1383, 95th Cong., 2d Sess. 6, 16 (1978); and 124 Cong. Rec. H 11724 (Oct. 5, 1978) (remarks of Rep. St Germain).

[12] Since foreign banks and their U.S. bank subsidiaries deal with many of the same correspondent banks, the inclusion of the foreign bank as a principal shareholder would restrict (and in some cases prohibit) normal transactions between the foreign bank and its own correspondent banks. Such a result does not appear to have been intended by Congress.

[13] In many cases affiliated banks have correspondent account relationships with many of the same banks. The statute was not intended to require reports on extensions of credit to a bank from its correspondent banks. Inclusion of banks as related interest would have this effect.

[14] Information on inter-bank transactions among bank holding company subsidiary banks is routinely available to the Federal banking agencies through reports and examination of bank holding companies. Similar information could be obtained with respect to transactions between any two insured banks.

[15] See H. Rep. No. 1383, 95th Cong., 2d Sess. 8, 13 (1978). The Focus of Congressional attention in this area was on individuals who had used their bank positions for personal benefit. There is no evidence that Congress intended to treat bank subsidiaries of bank holding companies as related interests.

period from July 1 through December 31, as suggested in the notice accompanying the proposed regulation. This is reasonable since the reporting persons and banks should have been allowed sufficient time between the publication of the proposed regulation and the beginning of the reporting period to make the necessary recordkeeping arrangements.

2. Forms. A form for the public reports required to be filed by insured banks under Titles VIII and IX has been adopted for use by the banking agencies by the Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council established under Title X of FIRIRCA, 12 U.S.C. 3301 et seq. A recommended form for the reports to be filed by executive officers and principal shareholders with the board of directors of their bank has also been adopted as a guide to assist these persons in complying with the Title VIII reporting requirements. The forms will be distributed to all insured banks in sufficient time to allow the orderly filing of reports on January 31 and March 31, 1980, by executive officers and principal shareholders, and by their banks, respectively.

3. Responsibility of Insured Banks to Inform Executive Officers and Principal Shareholders of Requirements of Title VIII. The regulations require that each insured bank advise its executive officers and principal shareholders (to the extent known by the bank) of the reports required by Title VIII and make available to these persons a list of the insured banks correspondent bank's. This is necessary to ensure that all such persons are aware of the statutory requirements and are provided with the information necessary to comply with those requirements.

Title 12 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended as follows:

PART 304—FORMS, INSTRUCTIONS, AND REPORTS

1. Part 304 of FDIC's regulations is amended by adding a new § 304.4 to read as follows:

§ 304.4 Report of loans to executive officers and principal shareholders.

(a) Filing and Content. On or before March 31 of each year, each insured State nonmember bank shall file with the FDIC the report required by section 7(k)(1) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1817(k)(1)). The report shall include the following information with respect to the preceding calendar year:

(1) A list by name of each principal shareholder of the reporting bank as of December 31;

(2) A list by name of each executive officer and principal shareholder of the reporting bank during the preceding calendar year who borrowed from the reporting bank during that period; [1]

(3) The aggregate amount of all extensions of credit made by the reporting bank to such executive officers, principal shareholders and their related interests during the preceding calendar year; [1] and

(4) The information on indebtedness to correspondent banks required to be included under § 349.4(b) of Part 349 of this chapter.

(b) Definitions. For the purpose of this section:

(1) The terms "executive officer" and "extension of credit" have the meanings provided in § 215.2 of Federal Reserve Regulation O, Subpart A (12 CFR 215.2); and

(2) The terms "principal shareholder" and "related interest" have the meanings provided in § 215.10(a) of Federal Reserve Regulation O, Subpart A (12 CFR 215.10(a)), except that the term "principal shareholder" is synonymous with the term "stockholder of record" as that term is used in the reporting provisions of Titles VIII and IX of FIRIRCA (12 U.S.C. 1972(2)(G), 12 U.S.C. 1817(a)). All references to the term "member bank" in §§ 215.2 and 215.10(a) shall be deemed to refer to an insured State nonmember bank for the purposes of this section.

PART 349—REPORTS ON INDEBTEDNESS OF EXECUTIVE OFFICERS AND PRINCIPAL SHAREHOLDERS TO CORRESPONDENT BANKS

2. A new Part 349 is added to read as follows:

Sec.
349.1 Authority, purpose and scope.
349.2 Definitions.
349.3 Reports by Executive Officers and Principal Shareholders.
349.4 Report by Insured State Nonmember Banks.

Authority: Title VIII of the Financial Institutions Regulatory and Interest Rate Control Act of 1978 ("FIRIRCA", Pub. L. 95-630, 12 U.S.C. 1972(2)), and under authority of Sections 7(a) and 9 (Tenth) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, 12 U.S.C. 1817(a), 1819 (Tenth). Title VII of FIRIRCA (cited in this Part 349 as "Title VIII") specifically authorizes the FDIC to promulgate regulations establishing procedures necessary for its implementation. 12 U.S.C. 1972(2)(F)(vi).

[1] For 1979 only, the reporting period is from July 1 to December 31, inclusive.

§ 349.1 Authority, purpose and scope.

(a) Authority. This part 349 is issued pursuant to Title VIII of the Financial Institutions Regulatory and Interest Rate Control Act of 1978 ("FIRIRCA", Pub. L. 95-630, 12 U.S.C. 1972(2)), and under authority of Sections 7(a) and 9(Tenth) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, 12 U.S.C. §§ 1817(a), 1819(Tenth). Title VIII of FIRIRCA (cited in this Part 349 as "Title VIII") specifically authorizes the FDIC to promulgate regulations establishing procedures necessary for its implementation. 12 U.S.C. 1972(2)(F)(vi).

(b) Purpose and Scope. Title VIII prohibits (1) preferential lending by a bank to executive officers, directors and principal shareholders of another bank when there is a correspondent account relationship between the banks, or (2) the opening of a correspondent account relationship between banks when there is a preferential extension of credit by one of the banks to an executive officer, director or principal shareholder of the other bank. Title VIII also imposes requirements on executive officers and principal shareholders to submit reports on their indebtedness to correspondent banks.[1] This Part 349 implements the reporting requirements of Title VIII as they apply to insured State nonmember banks.

§ 349.2 Definitions.

For the purposes of the reporting requirements of Title VIII and this Part 349, the following definitions apply:

(a) "Bank" has the meaning provided in 12 U.S.C. 1841(c), and includes a branch or agency of a foreign bank, or a commercial lending company controlled by a foreign bank or by a company that controls a foreign bank, where the branch or agency is maintained in a State of the United States or in the District of Columbia or the commercial lending company is organized under State law.

(b) "Company", "control of a company or bank," "executive officer,"[2] "extension of credit," "immediate family," and "person" have the meanings provided in § 215.2 of Subpart A of Federal Reserve Regulation O (12 CFR 215.2). All references to the term "member bank" in § 215.2 shall be deemed to refer to an insured State nonmember bank for the purposes of this Part 349.

(c) "Correspondent account" is an account that is maintained by an insured State nonmember bank with another bank for the deposit or placement of funds. A correspondent account does not include:

(1) Time deposits at prevailing market rates; or

(2) An account maintained in the ordinary course of business solely for the purpose of effecting federal funds transactions at prevailing market rates or making Eurodollar placements at prevailing market rates.

(d) "Correspondent bank" means a bank that maintains one or more correspondent accounts for an insured State nonmember bank during a calendar year that in the aggregatete exceed an average daily balance during that year of $100,000 or one-half of one percent of the insured State nonmember bank's total deposits (as reported in its first consolidated report of condition during that calendar year), whichever amount is smaller.

(e) For the purpose of this Part 349, "principal shareholder" and "related interest" have the meanings provided in § 215.10(a) of Federal Reserve Regulation O, Subpart A (12 CFR 215.10(a)), except that the term "principal shareholder" is synonymous with the term "stockholder of record" as that term is used in the reporting provisions of Titles VIII and IX of FIRIRCA (12 U.S.C. 1972(2)(G), 12 U.S.C. 1817(a)). All references to the term "member bank" in § 215.10(a) shall be deemed to refer to an insured State nonmember bank for the purposes of this Part 349.

§ 349.3 Reports by executive officers and principal shareholders.

(a) Annual Report. If during any calendar year an executive officer or principal shareholder of an insured State nonmember bank or a related interest of such a person has outstanding an extension of credit from a correspondent bank, the executive officer or principal shareholder must make a written report to the board of directors of the insured State nonmember bank on or before January 31 of the following year.[3]

(b) Contents of Report. The report required by this section shall include the following information:

(1) The maximum amount of indebtedness of the executive officer or principal shareholder and of each of that person's related interests to each of the insured State nonmember bank's correspondent banks during the calendar year; and

(2) The amount of indebtedness of the executive officer or principal shareholder and of each of that person's related interests outstanding to each of the insured State nonmember bank's correspondent banks not more than ten business days before the report required by this section is filed; [4] and

(3) A description of the terms and conditions (including the range of interest rates, the original amount and date, maturity date, payment terms, security, if any, and any other unusual terms or conditions) of each extension of credit included in the indebtedness reported under paragraph (b)(1) of this section.

(c) Definitions. For the purposes of this section:

(1) "Indebtedness" means an extension of credit, but does not include:

(i) Commercial paper, bonds, debentures and other types of marketable securities issued in the ordinary course of business; or

(ii) Consumer credit (as defined in 12 CFR 226.2(p)) in an aggregate amount of $5,000 or less from each of the insured State nonmember bank's correspondent banks, provided the indebtedness is incurred under terms that are not more favorable than those offered to the general public.

(2) "Maximum amount of indebtedness" means, at the option of the reporting person, either (i) the highest outstanding indebtedness during the calendar year for which the report is made, or (ii) the highest end of the month indebtedness outstanding during the calendar year for which the report is made.

(d) Retention of Reports. The reports required by this section must ordinarily be retained at the insured State nonmember bank for a period of three years, but the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation may require that they be retained by the bank for an additional period of time. The reports filed under this section are not required by this regulation to be made available to the public and shall not be filed with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation unless specifically requested.

(e) Bank's Responsibility. Each insured State nonmember bank shall advise each of its executive officers and each of its principal shareholders (to the extent known by the bank) of the reports required by this section and make available to each of these persons a list with the name and address of each of the insured State nonmember bank's correspondent banks.

§ 349.4 Report by insured State nonmember banks.

(a) On or before March 31 of each year, each insured State nonmember bank shall compile the reports filed under § 349.3 of this Part 349 and shall forward a compilation of such reports to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The compilation need contain only the information required in paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Each insured State nonmember bank shall include in the report required under section 7(k)(1) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1817(k)(1)) and § 304.4 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation's rules and regulations (12 CFR 304.4) to be filed by March 31 of each year, the following information:

(1) A list by name of each executive officer or principal shareholder that files a report under § 349.3 of this Part 349; and

(2) The aggregate amount (or sum) of the maximum amounts of indebtedness reported to the insured State nonmember bank under § 349.3(b)(1) of this Part 349 by such bank's executive officers and principal shareholders and their related interests.

By Order of the Board of Directors, dated December 10, 1979.

[2] Persons reporting under this section are not required to include information on extensions of credit that are fully described in a report by a person they control or a person that controls them, provided they identify their relationship with such other person.

[3] For the purposes of this Part 349, executive officers of an insured State nonmember bank do not include an executive officer of a bank holding company of which such bank is a subsidiary or of any other subsidiary of the bank holding company, unless the executive officer is also an executive officer of the insured State nonmember bank.

[4] If the amount of indebtedness outstanding to a correspondent bank ten days before the filing of the report is not available or cannot be readily ascertained, an estimate of the amount of indebtedness may be filed with the report, provided that the report is supplemented within the next 30 days with the actual amount of indebtedness.

(b) Specific discriminatory actions prohibited. (1) No air carrier shall subject any person to discrimination on the ground of race, color, or national origin in connection with air transportation for which such carrier is receiving or has claimed compensation payable under section 406 or section 419 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958.

(2) In determining the site or location of facilities, a recipient or applicant may not make selections with the purpose or effect of excluding persons from, denying them the benefits of, or subjecting them to discrimination under any program to which this part applies, on the grounds of race, color, or national origin; or with the purpose or effect of defeating or substantially impairing the accomplishment of the objectives of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 or this part.

(3) This part does not prohibit the consideration of race, color, or national origin if the purpose and effect are to remove or overcome the consequences of practices or impediments which have restricted the availability of, or participation in, the program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance, on the grounds of race, color, or national origin. Where previous discriminatory practice or usage tends, on the grounds of race, color, or national origin, to exclude persons from participation in, to deny them the benefits of, or to subject them to discrimination under any program or activity to which the part applies, the applicant or recipient has an obligation to take reasonable action to remove or overcome the consequences of the prior discriminatory practice or usage, and to accomplish the purpose of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

[Release No. 33-6166, 34-16419, IC-10980]

Disclosure of Management Remuneration

AGENCY: Securities and Exchange Commission.

ACTION: Interpretation of Item 4 of Regulation S–K.

SUMMARY: The Division of Corporation Finance is issuing its interpretive views regarding the management remuneration disclosure requirements embodied in Item 4 of Regulation S–K. Because of the volume of requests for interpretive advice and in response to problems encountered by the staff of the Division in its administration of the requirements, the Commission authorized it to publish this release to provide current information on the interpretations of the Division.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Registrants with specific remuneration questions should contact the staff members directly responsible for reviewing the documents they file with the Commission. General questions may be directed to Bruce S. Mendelsohn at (202) 272–2589 or Joseph G. Connolly, Jr. at (202) 272–2696.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Commission hereby issues Release No. 33–6166, 34–16419, IC–10980 to be added to Parts 231, 241 and 271 of Title 17 Chapter II of the Code of Federal Regulations as given below.

Disclosure of Management Remuneration

On December 4, 1978, the Commission issued Securities Act Release No. 6003, 43 FR 58181, which amended the management remuneration disclosure requirements in Item 4 of Regulation S–K. On February 22, 1979, the Commission authorized the Division of Corporation Finance to publish its interpretative views regarding certain aspects of the amendments.[1] Because of the volume of requests for interpretive advice and in response to problems encountered by the staff of the Division in its administration of the requirements, the Division of Corporation Finance has received the Commission's authorization to publish this release to provide current information on the interpretations of the Division.

Set forth below is a series of interpretations, primarily in a question and answer format. In conjunction with the interpretations, the release re-emphasizes certain concepts applicable to areas where compliance difficulties have arisen. In some cases, experience in administering the rules and observing their operation has led to some modification of interpretations previously expressed by the staff orally or in writing.

Finally, the Division has informed the Commission that it will not recommend to the Commission any amendments to Item 4 or Regulation S–K for adoption prior to the 1980 proxy season.

I. Basic Principles

The Division believes that it is first important to reiterate some of the basic disclosure concepts involved in the remuneration table.

(1) Except in specified circumstances, the purpose of the remuneration disclosure is to match all services rendered in a given year with all remunerative amounts attributable to employees received for performing those services, whether the amounts are vested or contingent, or are payable currently or at some future time. Accordingly, except to the extent that reporting in a different fashion is called for as a result of the second principle set forth below, amounts relating to services rendered in prior years should not be included in the remuneration table.

(2) If the actual amount of remuneration for service in the most recent fiscal year is not determined at the time of reporting, the full amount must eventually be reported. In this regard, registrants should note that column C should "also include any amount actually distributed in the latest fiscal year which relates to services rendered in a prior fiscal year, less any amount relating to the same contract, agreement, plan, or arrangement previously included in the remuneration table for a prior fiscal year."[2] Therefore although the same remunerative amount should never be reported in more than one year, there are cases where, because of practical necessity, remuneration must be reported in the present year even though it relates to a prior year's services.[3]

(3) It is not necessary to report remuneration in the current year which would have been previously reported in the table had the new rules been in effect. Thus, in complying with the requirements, registrants should report as if the revised Item 4 had been in effect in all prior reporting years.

(4) With respect to a person who becomes, for the first time, a person whose remuneration is to be reported in the table, it is not necessary to report remuneration which would have been reported in the table had the person been included in prior years.

(5) Although Item 4 of Regulation S–K embodies the express disclosure requirements with regard to management remuneration, in the interest of full disclosure, the Division encourages registrants to describe the components of compensation included in Column C2, particularly amounts relating to the exercise of stock options which may tend to distort the Column C2 disclosure.

(6) In reporting remuneration in the table, no adjustments should be made because of tax benefits accruing to a registrant. Thus, there is no reduction in the amount reported because of the fact that it may be deductible for tax purposes or because it may be fully or partially subsidized by a tax credit.

(7) As a general rule the amount to be reported in Column C should equal the amount expensed during the period covered by the report under generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"). Obviously, however, there are exceptions to this rule. Some items such as certain stock options, for example, must be reported even though not ordinarily expensed under GAAP. (It should be noted, however, that reporting in Column D is always keyed to expensed amounts. See Instruction 3 to Item 4(a).)

(8) The same remunerative amount need not be reported in more than one fiscal year's remuneration table. For example, if an amount previously reported in Column D is paid in a subsequent year, that same amount need not be reported in Column C.

(9) The period covered by the remuneration table is the "last fiscal year." However, it should be noted that Item 4(d), which referes to options, warrants or rights, covers the period "since the beginning of the registrant's last fiscal year." Accordingly, when a filing is made which contains Item 4(d) information, such information should include all relevant data through a period ending shortly prior to the filing date.

II. Composition and Mechanics of the Remuneration Table

Item 4(a) of Regulation S–K requries tabular disclosure of total aggregate remuneration for the five most highly compensated executive officers and directors of reporting entities, naming such persons, and for all officers and directors as a group (the "Remuneration Table"). Instruction 2 to Item 4(a) of Regulation S–K provides for the inclusion in Column C1 of all salaries and fees paid with respect to services rendered during the registrant's last fiscal year and the inclusion in Column C2 of other cash or cash equivalent amounts. Instruction 3 to Item 4(a) requires that Column D include specified forms of remuneration the distribution, the unconditional vesting or the measurement of which is subject to future events.[4]

Many of the questions received by the Division have related to the mechanics of the remuneration table. Indeed, allocation of the components of the compensation package to the proper columns has appeared to have caused some difficulty. The following questions derive from a request for interpretative advice[5] and from other common inquiries with regard to this problem.

A. General

1. Question: Must its registrant list all columns specified in Item 4(a)(3) in a remuneration table regardless of their applicability?

Response: No. The registrant is required to include only those columns for which it has information required to be reported in the remuneration table.

2. Question: May a registrant include additional columns in its table? If so, must these additional columns be aggregated?

Response: Instruction 5 to Item 4(a) specifically permits the inclusion of additional columns. It is unnecessary, however, to aggregate them. It has been the Division's experience that some registrants split out bonus payments from Column C1 and place them into a separate column. The Division encourages this practice.

3. Question: Are all cash amounts received as remuneration included in Column C1?

Response: No. Only the traditional forms of cash remuneration for services rendered, i.e., salaries, fees, commissions, bonuses and directors' fees, should be included in Column C1. All other forms of cash remuneration, for example, cash received with respect to stock appreciation rights, are included in Column C2. See Instruction 2 to Item 4(a). Once the determination has been made that an amount should be reported in Column C rather than Column D, the fact that the distribution of such amount will be deferred is of no importance in determining whether Column C1 or C2 is the appropriate column.

B. Stock Options

4. Question: How should the grant of a stock option be reported in the remuneration table?

Response: If the grant of the stock option is not expensed under Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP"), then it need not be reported in the remuneration table.

5. Question: How is the exercise of a stock option reported?

Response: The spread, if any, between the acquisition price and the fair market price of the underlying security on the date of exercise should be reported in Column C2, less any amount previously reported with respect to such option prior to exercise.[6]

6. Question: For a security traded over-the-counter, is the fair market value the asked price or the bid price?

Response: When a security has a two-way quotation, the fair market value for purposes of Instruction 2(b) to Item 4(a) is the mean between the bid and asked prices.

7. Question: Is it permissible to discount the fair market value of the security acquired through the exercise of the option because the recipient has a required holding period pursuant to Rule 144 under the Securities Act of 1933 or Section 16(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934?

Response: No. The fair market value may not be discounted when calculating the spread between the acquisition price and the fair market value at the time of exercise.

C. Columns C and D

To assist in the understanding of the next three sections it may be helpful to restate the distinction between Columns C and D. Column C is to be used for remuneration that has been (1) distributed to or for the account of the specified person or group, or (2) accrued and with reasonable certainty will be distributed or unconditionally vested in the future. See Instruction 2. Column D is to be used for remuneration amounts that have been expensed for financial reporting purposes but as to which distribution or unconditional vesting is contingent upon future events. See Instruction 3. Therefore, problems of allocation generally center around the determination of whether there is "reasonable certainty" of distribution or vesting.

Because there is sometimes uncertainty as to the amount or timing of distribution, amounts less than initially reported in Column C or D may actually be paid. That spread, a negative adjustment, should be reported in Column D, even though the adjustment relates to an amount previously reported in Column C. Negative adjustments against prior Column C or Column D disclosure are always reported in Column D. See, Instructions 2 and 3(b)(ii).

D. Stock Appreciation Rights

8. Question: Officers have stock options with stock appreciation rights (SAR'S) attached. Annual market value change is expensed (positive or negative but not below zero) in conformity with the current FASB interpretation of APB No. 25. How are these SAR's to be treated in years prior to exercise?

Response: In years prior to exercise, the amount expensed due to annual market value change should be reported in Column D, including negative amounts.[7]

For example, suppose an issuer grants to an officer an option to acquire the issuer's stock with an SAR attached. The option execise price is equal to the fair market value at the time of grant, which is $5.

(a) Year 1: There is no exercise and no change in market value in the first year.

Reporting: Since the reporting with regard to the grant would be the same as with any stock option, nothing would be reported in the table because the exercise price was equal to market value at time of grant (non-compensatory stock option).

(b) Year 2: No exercise is made in the second fiscal year. The fair market value of the issuer's shares is $9 at the end of the second fiscal year.

Reporting: The issuer would expense the $4 difference between the fair market value at the previous year end and the fair market value at the latest year end and Column D should reflect that amount.

(c) Year 3: No exercise is made in the third fiscal year. The fair market value of the issuer's shares is $7 at the end of the third fiscal year.

Reporting: A negative entry of $2 should be reported in Column D reflecting the registrant's corresponding credit to its remuneration expense for financial reporting purposes.

(d) Year 4: The officer elects to exercise the SAR at a time when the fair market value of the issuer's shares is $10. He receives $5 in cash in settlement of the SAR.

Reporting: Column C2 should reflect a $3 entry (the $5 distribution less the net amount previously reported, i.e., $4 in year two minus $2 in year three).

9. Question: With regard to the previous question, what if the SAR had been granted prior to the effective date of the amendments to Item 4 of Regulation S–K, (so that market value changes were not reported prior to 1979) and what if there is a current year value decline which includes a reversal of some portion of the pre-1979 (prior to the new rules) appreciation. How is the pre-1979 portion treated in a year prior to execise?

Response: The basic concept is that reporting in the table should be done as if the revised rules had always been in effect. Thus, in the staff's view, the full current year value decline should be reported in Column D, including the reversal of a portion of the pre-1979 appreciation, provided a brief explanation of the pre-1979 reversal is included in a footnote to the remuneration table. For example, suppose that in the example given in Question 8 the third year was the first fiscal year subject to the new rules. In that case, the negative adjustment of $2 may be reported in Column D since the $9 increase in year two would have been reported had the rules been in effect for that year.

10. Question: How is the exercise of an SAR treated?

Response: If cash is received in settlement of the SAR, the amount reportable in Column C2 would be the amount of cash received less any amounts previously reported or which would have been previously reported had the new rules been in effect at the time of grant. If securities are received in settlement of the SAR, the amount reportable in Column C2 would be the spread between the acquisition price, if any, and the fair market price of securities received less any amount previously reported or which would have been previously reported in the remuneration table had the rules been in effect at the time of grant.

11. Question: An officer whose option includes SAR's may elect to exercise the underlying option in lieu of the SAR. Under the present interpretation of APB No. 25, upon exercise current and prior year accured appreciation is recognized as consideration for the stock issued; the option exercise has no effect on expense. What is the reporting treatment upon exercise?

Response: The gross spread between the market price on the date of exercise and the exercise price would be reportable in Column C2 as with a normal option exercise. However, any prior year SAR appreciation that has been expensed and reported in Column D may be used to offset the gross spread on the option, since this previously reported amount relates to the same plan or arrangement, notwithstanding the exercise of the option in lieu of the SAR. See Instruction 2(b) to Item 4(a). Any negative amounts would be reportable in Column D.

E. Allocations Between Columns C and D

12. Question: The Company awards annual bonuses in the form of Performance Share "Units." The actual shares of the employer's common stock are issued from one to two years later and, until issuance, the number of shares awarded is forfeitable upon earlier termination of employment. Operations are charged for the fair market value of an equivalent number of shares of the company's common stock at the date of award and the amount is properly reported in Column D because of the contingency. Dividends on the units equal to dividends paid on the issuers' common stock during the period prior to actual issuance are paid in cash and are reported in Column C1. However, under GAAP there is no subsequent charge or credit to earnings reflecting market value changes, either annually or upon eventual issuance of the shares,[8] except that upon forfeiture original expense amounts are reversed. How should the spread between the issue date and the award date value be treated?

Response: The positive spread between the market value at the issue date and at the date of award should be included in Column C2. Any negative spread would be reportable in Column D.

13. Question: A present officer was awarded Performance Share Units prior to election as an officer and therefore the award date value was never reported. What is reportable upon issuance of shares?

Response: Instruction 2 to Item 4(a) permits the exclusion of amounts relating to the same plan previously included in the table for a prior fiscal year. In Securities Act Release No. 6027 (February 22, 1979), it was indicated that no objection would be made if the same concept is applied to exclude any amounts not disclosed in prior proxy statements due to the fact that the employee/participant, at such earlier time, was not in the remuneration table either as a named individual or as a member of the group. Accordingly, on issuance of shares, Column C2 should include any positive spread between the market value on the issue date and award date value reduced by amounts previously expensed for the account of this officer that would have been reportable in the table had he been an individual or group member as to whom disclosure would have been required.

14. Question: The Company has a deferred compensation plan under which a participant may voluntarily elect to defer a portion of his annual bonus which is then credited to a "phantom stock" account. Amounts deferred are non-forfeitable and are reported in Column C1. Appreciation measured by market value changes is subject to forfeiture and is expensed as with SARs and is reported in Column D. All payments are made only after termination of employment. In a year of market value decline which "offsets" a portion of the appreciation not previously reported, either because (1) it was accrued prior to 1979 (effectiveness of the new rules) or (2) it was accrued in years before the person became an officer, what is the treatment in the table?

Response: The analysis is the same as with SARs. See Question 9 above.

F. Column D

15. Question: The Company's tax-qualified profit sharing retirement plan has the following vesting schedule: year 1—0%, year 2—10%, year 3—20%, and 10% increments in the following years. No benefits are payable until after termination. How would the company's annual contributions of $1,000 to the plan for an officer/director be reported in the table?

Response: The vested portion of profit-sharing or other retirement plans would be reportable in Column C2, and the unvested portion in Column D. To the extent that a presently vested amount has already been reflected in a previous Column D entry, or which would have been so reported prior to 1979 had the rules been in effect, any potential Column C2 entry may be offset by the amounts previously reported or reportable in Column D.

Accordingly, with regard to the specific inquiry, the disclosure should be as follows:

First year disclosure:

Col. C2	Col. D
0	$1,000

(There is no vesting in year 1)

Second year disclosure:

Col. C2	Col. D
$100	$900

(The schedule calls for 10% vesting. However, since the prior year's contribution has already been reported in Column D, no reporting is necessary for any amount reported in Column D in year 1 that vests in year 2. Thus, only the second year's contributions must be reported.)

Third year disclosure:

Col. C2	Col. D
$200	$800

(Again, the basic principle is that no reporting is required for amounts previously reported in Column D that vest in subsequent years.)

The table need not disclose cumulative account balances, nor any additions (or deductions) to a participant's account resulting from the annual allocation of trust earnings (or losses) or of amounts reallocated as forfeiture from the accounts of terminated employees who were not fully vested.

16. Question: The Company has a deferred bonus plan under which amounts are presently expensed but benefits are payable only if the participant is living at the date of payment. Is the remuneration reported in Column C1 or D?

Response: The registrant must determine whether a true contingency exists. Under normal circumstances, if by standard actuarial tables the officer or director is expected to be living at the payment date, then no true contingency is present and the amount "accrued" for the officer or director should be reported in Column C1. Column C1 would be used instead of Column C2 because, notwithstanding the fact that the distribution is deferred, the amount relates to a bonus. See Instruction 2(a).

17. Question: Since Instruction 3(a)(i) to Item 4(a) (with regard to Column D) refers to amounts expensed under deferred compensation plans, does that mean that such amounts are always reported in Column D?

Response: No. Column D is to be used only if the distribution of remuneration under the plan or the unconditional vesting or measurement of benefits under the plan is subject to future events which represent true contingencies.

18. Question: But, is Column D exclusively for contingent remuneration?

Response: All positive entries in Column D should be for remuneration subject to a true contingency but nevertheless expensed during the fiscal year for financial reporting purposes. However, negative adjustment entries with respect to amounts previously reported in Column C (and, of course, against amounts previously reported in Column D) are always to be reported in Column D. See the reponse to Question

[6] An amount may have been previously reported for a compensatory stock option that was expensed for financial reporting purposes at the time of grant.

[7] It should be noted that in the usual case annual market value change of the issuer's securities is not expensed with regard to outstanding stock options and is therefore not reported in the table.

[8] The accounting treatment should be in accordance with APB No. 25, and therefore in certain fact situations the reporting for financial statement purposes may be different.

V44 D 1218 79 UMI

20 for an example. See also Instructions 2 and 3(b)(ii) to Item 4(a).[9]

19. Question: What type of disclosure is necessary if negative adjustments are reported in Column D?

Response: Instruction 3(b)(ii) to Item 4(a) provides, "If amounts credited pursuant to this instruction are so reflected in the table [in Column D], include a footnote stating the amount of such credit and briefly describing such treatment."

20. Question: From previous questions, it is clear that credits can be taken against prior Column C2 disclosure and prior Column D disclosure. Can negative entries be made in Column D against previous Column C1 disclosure?

Response: Although the third sentence of Instruction 2 indicates that if a credit may be taken, it should be reflected in Column D rather than Column C2, the staff has taken the position that credits may also be taken against Column C1 disclosures. For example, a registrant may have a bonus plan pursuant to which amounts are included in Column C since they are "accrued and with reasonable certainty will be distributed or unconditionally vested in the future." However, for one reason or another, the amount eventually distributed to a given individual is forfeited or is less than was expected.

21. Question: Since footnote disclosure can become extremely complex when there are several types of plans generating negative data and where virtually everyone in the remuneration table is a participant in each plan, what is the correct reporting format for negative entries included in Column D in accordance with Instructions 2 and/or 3(b)(ii) of Item 4(a)?

Response: Instruction 3(b)(ii) to Item 4(a) provides that "[i]f amounts credited pursuant to this instruction are so reflected in the table [in Column D], [the registrant shall] include a footnote stating the amount of such credit and briefly describing such treatment." To the extent that negative entries in Column D for individuals and for the group are attributable to the same factors, the footnote disclosure required by Instruction 3(b)(ii) may be generic in nature. If negative entries reflect changes in several types of plans or other factors not common to all individuals and the group, and separate disclosure would result in lengthy narrative, the staff would not object to a general explanation of the circumstances giving rise to negative entries without a separate explanation of the components of each negative entry for individuals or the group. Excessive detail should be avoided; a brief footnote describing only the material aspects of the entries is all that is required.

III. Termination of Employment

22. Question: Is anything reportable which relates solely to termination of employment—for example, (1) expense reversals recorded on books as of the termination date due to previously accrued benefits such as SAR appreciation being forfeited; or (2) option exercises accomplished shortly after the termination date (as permitted by the plan) but within the same fiscal year? (In both cases, the person is still included in the reportable group for the year during which such events or entries occur, covering the period to termination date.)

Response: Instruction 1 to Item 4(a) states that the Item applies to any person who was an executive officer, officer or director at any time during the fiscal year. Information need not be given for any portion of the period during which such person did not serve in those capacities, provided a statement to that effect is made. If an individual terminates employment and information is required for that portion of the reporting period during which he served as an executive officer, officer or director, expense reversals reported on the books as of the termination date due to previously accrued benefits should be reflected in Column D of the remuneration table for the individual or in the entry for the group, as applicable. In the Division's view, option exercises made subsequent to termination during the same fiscal year pursuant to the terms of the plan should also be reflected in the table, notwithstanding that exercises may occur shortly after the termination date. If such exercises are made after the close of the fiscal year in which the officer retired, no reporting is necessary in the table, although detailed disclosure with respect to the options may be required under Item 4(d) since that item calls for the disclosure of options exercised by the officer since the beginning of the registrant's last fiscal year.[10]

IV. Bonus Plans—Allocations Subsequent to Fiscal Year End

23. Question: The Company has a bonus plan for officers and directors for which the total amount of the bonus pool for the latest fiscal year is known at the time the proxy statement is filed with the Commission but the amounts allocated to each participant will not be determined until after the proxy statement is mailed. (a) What must be disclosed in accordance with Item 4(a) for the named individuals? (b) What must be disclosed in accordance with Item 4(a) for the group of all officers and directors?

Response: (a) With regard to the disclosure for the individuals named in the table, the registrant should include a footnote indicating (1) that a bonus plan exists for the latest fiscal year, (2) the persons named in the table who are participants in the plan, and (3) the fact that amounts have not been allocated from the bonus plan to the individuals and thus are not included in the remuneration table. In addition, registrants are required to disclose amounts subsequently allocated to the individuals in the remuneration table for the next fiscal year.[11]

(b) In the usual case where not all participants in the bonus pool are officers and directors, a footnote should be included disclosing (1) that a bonus plan exists for the latest fiscal year and (2) that an amount has not been allocated from the pool to the reportable group and therefore is not included in the table. Of course, the footnotes contemplated by responses (a) and (b) above can be consolidated. However, in the unusual case, if the bonus pool participants are all officers and directors, then the aggregate amount should be included in the group disclosure.

24. Question: With regard to Question 23, if the allocation of the bonus pool among participants is determined after the end of the fiscal year but prior to the filing of the proxy, is disclosure required in the table?

Response: If such amounts are known, they should be included in the appropriate columns for the named individuals. In most cases these amounts would be included in Column C1 since they would be accrued for the named individuals and with reasonable certainty would be distributed or unconditionally vested in the future.

V. Personal Benefits—Instruction 2(d) to Item 4(a)

Instruction 2(d) to Item 4(a) requires the inclusion in the remuneration table of "[t]he value of personal benefits which are not directly related to job performance, other than those provided to broad categories of employees and which do not discriminate in favor of officers or directors, furnished by the registrant or its subsidiaries * * *." Subpart (i) of the instruction indicates how such perquisites should be valued, subpart (ii) sets forth an exclusion from the disclosure requirements if the registrant cannot without unreasonable effort or expense determine the specific amount of certain personal benefits or the extent to which benefits are personal rather than business, and subpart (iii) requires expanded disclosure regarding perquisites if such personal benefits aggregate to a specific threshold.

In this regard, it should be noted that except in a limited number of specific instances the perquisite disclosure requirements of Item 4 have not superseded the Commission's two earlier releases relating to the disclosure of personal benefits in the remuneration table. Rather, Instruction 2(d) of the Item 4(a) codifies the Commission's views expressed in Securities Act Release No. 5856 (August 16, 1977) that personal benefits received by management from the corporation are forms of remuneration which, except in specified circumstances,[12] should be included within the remuneration reported. Further, the adoption of Item 4 has not altered the majority of interpretive responses expressed in Securities Act Release No. 5904. As will be noted, several of the responses in that release have been rendered inapplicable by the very nature and scope of the new remuneration item (for example, interpretive responses 1, 3 and 4 of 33–5904); interpretive responses 11 and 19 of that release have been revised by Instruction 2(d)(ii) and 2(d)(i) to Item 4(a); and the interpretive position expressed in this release has altered others (for example, responses to interpretive questions 8) (other than the last sentence), 10 and 27 of Release No. 33–5904 have been superseded by intrepretive responses 35, 30 and 33 respectively of this release. Furthermore, although Instruction 2(d)(i) to Item 4(a) sets forth a valuation methodology based upon actual incremental cost, the Division of Corporation Finance would raise no objection to the valuation of personal benefit based upon interpretive responses 7 (other than subparts (d) and (e)), 21, 23, 35 (other than subpart (b)) and 37 in Release No. 33–5904.

A. Conditional Exclusion of Personal Benefits—Instruction 2(d)(ii) to Item 4(a).

25. Question: If the registrant pursuant to Instruction 2(d)(ii) cannot determine without unreasonable effort or expense the specific amount of certain personal benefits or the extent to which benefits are personal rather than business, and after reasonable inquiry the registrant has concluded that the aggregate amounts of such personal benefits do not in any event exceed $10,000, must an affirmative statement that the conditional exclusion has been utilized be included in the covering letter submitted to the commission with the proxy statement, report or registration statement?

Response: If the conditional exclusion has been utilized by the registrant this fact should be noted in the covering letter which accompanies the filed document.

26. Question: Is the conditional exclusion a de minimis perquisite exclusion?

Response: No. The conditional exclusion is not a de minimis perquisite exclusion. It is only available where the registrant cannot determine without unreasonable effort or expense the specific amount of certain personal benefits or the extent to which benefits are personal rather than business. The specific amounts of any personal benefits, no matter how small, are to be included if they can be determined with reasonable effort or expense.

27. Question: If an issuer has utilized the $10,000 conditional exclusion for a particular individual should the amount of such "indeterminable" personal benefits be included for the purpose of determining whether the footnote disclosure describing such benefits called for by Instruction 2(d)(iii) is required?

Response: The amount of such indeterminable personal benefits is not required to be included for the purpose of the footnote disclosure. The footnote requirement of Instruction 2(d)(iii) only relates to amounts representing personal benefits included in Column C2.

28. Question: If an individual has over $10,000 of "indeterminable" personal benefits, should the entire amount or only the amount in excess of $10,000 be included in Column C2?

Response: The entire amount of such personal benefits would be included in Column C2, not merely the amount in excess of $10,000.

B. Valuation—Instruction 2(d)(i) to Item 4(a)

29. Question: When is the footnote disclosure called for by Instruction 2(d)(i) required?

Response: Instruction 2(d)(i) requires footnote disclosure when the aggregate actual incremental costs for such personal benefits are significantly less than the aggregate amounts the recipient would have had to pay to obtain the benefits. For the purposes of Instruction 2(d)(i), the comparison of incremental cost to the personal value to the recipient is to be done on an aggregate basis individual by individual, and not perquisite by perquisite.

30. Question: If the aggregate incremental costs of personal benefits is significantly less than the aggregate amounts the recipient would have had to pay to obtain the benefits, may the registrant include the value to the recipient in Column C2 and omit the required footnote disclosure?

Response: In this case, the staff would not object if the value to the recipient were included in Column C2. If the value of a benefit is included in the table, the footnote disclosure called for by Instruction 2(d)(i) would not be required.

C. Disclosure

31. Question: Does disclosure in response to Instruction 2(d) satisfy all other disclosure requirements of Item 4?

Response: No. Instruction 2(d) and the other Item 4 provisions may overlap and therefore additional disclosure may be necessary. For example, a low interest loan obtained from the registrant by an officer or director may be required to be described under Item 4(e) of Regulation S–K apart from it being reported as a personal benefit in the remuneration table. However, duplicate disclosure is unnecessary where a form of disclosure satisfies all the requirements of the pertinent provisions.

32. Question: Instruction (d) to Item 4(a) requires the disclosure of personal benefits which are not directly related to job performance and which discriminate in favor of officers or directors. What factors should be considered in [9] Instruction 2 (with regard to Column C) provides, in part (starting with the second sentence of the Instruction): Column C shall also include any amount actually distributed in the latest fiscal year which relates to services rendered in a prior fiscal year, less any amount relating to the same contract, agreement, plan, or arrangement previously included in the remuneration table for a prior fiscal year. However, if this calculation results in a credit, any such credit should be reflected in Column D and not Column C2. See Instruction 3(b)(ii). Instruction 3(b)(ii) reads: If the registrant has expensed amounts for financial reporting purposes and reported such amounts in the remuneration table and in a subsequent year, in connection with the same plan or arrangement, credits its remuneration expense for financial reporting purposes, for any proper reason, including a decline in the market price of the securities, such credit may be reflected as a reduction of the remuneration reported in Column D. If amounts credited pursuant to this instruction are so reflected in the table, include a footnote stating the amount of such credit and briefly describing such treatment.

[10] Instruction 3(ii) to Item 4(d) states that Item 4(d) disclosure is necessary if the total market value on the dates of purchase of all securities acquired pursuant to the exercise of options exceeds $10,000.

[11] The second sentence of Instruction 2 to Item 4 states, "Column C shall also include any amount actually distributed in the latest fiscal year which relates to services rendered in a prior fiscal year less any amount relating to the same contract, agreement, plan, or arrangement previously included in the remuneration table for a prior fiscal year."

[12] See the conditional exclusion included in Instruction 2(d)(ii) to Item 4(a).

determining whether or not a particular benefit is discriminatory?

Response: Although the determination as to whether or not a particular personal benefit discriminates in favor of the registrant's officers and directors is a factual one, the staff will consider the following factors: (a) Whether the scope of the plan or arrangement is discriminatory; (b) whether the terms of the plan or arrangement are in fact discriminatory; and (c) whether the plan or arrangement in operation discriminates in favor of officers or directors. These factors are relevant to all personal benefit plans and to group health plans, group life or health insurance, medical reimbursement plans, and to other similar plans, as described in Instruction 2(c) and Item 4(b). For Example, a plan or arrangement would be discriminatory if it provided an opportunity to purchase the registrant's products or services at a substantial discount which was technically made available to a broad category of employees but which in operation, either as a result of the expense involved or because of the nature of the products or services, was utilized disproportionately by officers or directors.

33. Question: Should a remunerative amount arising as a result of a life, health or medical reimbursement plan which is to be reported pursuant to Instruction 2(c) of Item 4 be deemed a perquisite when determining whether footnote disclosure is required under Instruction 2(d)(iii)?

Response: No. The staff would not object if registrants excluded such amounts for the Instruction 2(d)(iii) calculation in determining whether the footnote disclosure is necessary.

34. Question: Is specific disclosure required for all perquisites provided by a registrant?

Response: Outside of the footnote provisions called for by Instruction 2(d)(i) which requires disclosure where the personal benefit is significantly in excess of reported cost and by Instruction 2(d)(iii) which requires disclosure where aggregate amounts exceed certain limits, there is no specific requirement for separate disclosure of personal benefits per se. However, registrants may include additional columns or sub-columns pursuant to Instruction 5 of Item 4(a). In practice, some registrants have provided information regarding the components of compensation reported in Column C2.

VI. Item 4(a)(2)—All Officers and Directors as a Group

35. Question: Which officers are contemplated by Item 4(a)(2) which requires that all officers and directors as a group be included in the remuneration table?

Response: Item 4(a)(2) is unchanged from what had been required in Item 7(a) of Schedule 14A and continues to elicit information concerning aggregate management remuneration for the fiscal year. Of course, the term "officers" in Item 4(a)(2) includes a broader group of management persons than does the term "executive officers" which is used in Item 4(a)(1) and defined in Instruction 1(b).[13] The officers included in the group disclosure should have policy and decision-making responsibilities with respect to activities of the registrant a significant subsidiary, division or function. This status determination is, by nature factual. For example, in a large bank holding company situation with a very large number of vice presidents, only those with policy-making responsibilities would be included in the group. Therefore, in this case, a vice president managing one of 300 branches would generally not be included. However, in a smaller bank holding company with only 2 branches, the vice president managing one of the branches would, in most cases, serve in a policy-making position and thus would be included in the group. Therefore, titles of individuals may be of little importance in determining Item 4(a)(2) status.

Section V, Personal Benefits, supra, may assist in the understanding of the next two questions.

36. Question: It is noted that the conditional exclusion for personal benefits provided in Instruction 2(d)(ii) is available if "after reasonable inquiry, the registrant has concluded that the aggregate amounts of personal benefits which cannot be specifically or precisely ascertained do not in any event * * * exceed $10,000 for each person in the group * * *." If one officer/director has no "indeterminable" perquisites, may his $10,000 maximum be allocated to other group members?

Response: The company may not allocate the "unused" portion of one officer/director's conditional exclusion to another officer/director who has over $10,000 of indeterminable personal benefits.

37. Question: How does the footnote disclosure requirement of Instruction 2(d)(iii) with regard to personal benefits apply to the group disclosure?

Response: Instruction 2(d)(iii) requires footnote disclosure only for the persons named in the remuneration table and not for the group. As stated previously, some registrants provide a description of the components of remuneration reported in C2 for the named individuals and for the group.

VII. Tax Benefits to Registrants

38. Question: If an issuer gives an officer/director a personal benefit which is tax deductible to the company as compensation expense, may the incremental cost that must be reported pursuant to Instruction 2(d) be discounted to account for the value of the tax deduction to the company?

Response: The incremental cost to the company is to be computed without regard to tax benefits. In reporting remuneration there is no provision for adjustments relating to tax benefits accruing to a registrant.[14] See Basic Principle No. 6, supra.

39. Question: A TRAS)P is an employee stock ownership program established to permit the corporation to take advantage of a dollar for dollar income tax credit relating to the company's contributions to the plan not to exceed the 1½% maximum tax credit allowed by the Tax Reduction Act of 1975, as amended. Is a company's TRASOP contribution reportable as remuneration since the amount paid is a tax credit to an amount otherwise payable to the government?

Response: Yes. The reporting principle stated in response to Question 38 is applicable—tax benefits are not to be reflected in the table. Thus, the company's contribution, allocation or accrual for a participant's account in a TRASOP is reportable as remuneration. The amount reportable in the remuneration table would be the interest attributed to or accrued for the account of the individual.[15]

VIII. Item 4(b)—Proposed Remuneration

Item 4(b) requires a brief description of all remuneration payments proposed to be made in the future pursuant to any existing plan or arrangement to persons and groups specified in the remuneration table.

40. Question: What is required in the "brief description" of a plan?

Response: The registrant should describe a plan in such a way that it can be fairly understood by the reader. In cases where payments under such plans are a function of company performance, brief disclosure should be given with regard to payment formulas and general payment schedules under the plans. Usually a general explanation of the plan's operation will suffice. In addition, the Division encourages registrants to disclose any amount included in the table with respect to such a plan or to split out such amount into a separate column, see Question 2.

41. Question: Is it necessary to provide narrative disclosure under Item 4(b) for a bonus plan when present year payments under the plan have been included in Column C1?

Response: Yes. If the plan is operative for future years, Item 4(b) disclosure is required.

IX. Pension Plans—Instruction 3(a) and Item 4(b)

The staff has received numerous questions about the disclosure of amounts relating to defined benefit or similar pension plans. Among other things, registrants have been concerned with (1) the necessity of reporting amounts in the remuneration table; (2) the necessity and composition of footnote disclosure to the remuneration table; and (3) the requirements of the pension table described in Item 4(b). With this in mind, the following discussion will address the requirements of the present rules and, in addition, will suggest an alternative disclosure format which the Division will accept in filing.

Requirements of the Present Rule

The first issue, and in most cases the most important issue, concerns (1) whether the amount reflecting company contributions to a plan must be included in the remuneration table at all; and (2) if no entry in the table is necessary, the composition of the required disclosure. With regard to the majority of these plans, Instruction 3(a)(i) states that, in the case of a defined benefit or actuarial plan, if the "amount of the contribution, payment or accrual [with] respect [to] a specified person is not and cannot readily be separately or individually calculated by the regular actuaries of the plan"[16] then such amounts may be omitted from the remuneration table provided a footnote is included disclosing that such amounts have been excluded, indicating the percentage which the aggregate contributions to the plan bears to the total covered remuneration of the plan participants, and briefly describing the remuneration covered by the plan. (The Division has found that many of such footnotes have not included all the required information, especially the requisite description of remuneration covered by the plan.)

The second issue concerns the appropriate column to use in the unusual case when amounts are to be included in the remuneration table. Because many pension plans involve arrangements in which the "distribution of such [pension] remuneration or the unconditional vesting or measurement of benefits thereunder is subject to future events," the instructions which specifically address such plans appear in the rules as instructions to Column D.[17] However, it should be noted that certain plans may involve arrangements to which the above condition does not apply and, instead, there is accrued or distributed for the account of the participant a cash or cash-equivalent amount. In the latter situation, Instruction 2, which pertains to Column C, would govern and the relevant amount reflecting the contribution for the year should be included in Column C2. See also Securities Act Release No. 6027 (February 22, 1979).

Pension Table Requirement

If amounts are excluded from the remuneration table pursuant to Instruction 3(a)(i) and, in turn, are described in the footnote called for by Instruction 3(a)(ii) (discussed in the above paragraph), Item 4(b) requries that a separate pension plan table be included showing the estimated annual benefits payable upon retirement to persons in specified remuneration and years-of-service classifications. It should be emphasized that under the present instructions the pension plan table is required only when amounts are excluded from the remuneration table pursuant to Instructions 3(a)(i) and (ii) to Item 4(a). The following questions related to the current requirements.

42. Question: As to defined benefit or actuarial plans for which the amount of contribution, payment, or accrual cannot be separately calculated, may a registrant estimate such amount and include it in the table in lieu of providing the footnote disclosure called for by Instruction 3(a)(ii) and the Item 4(b) pension plan table?

Response: With regard to defined benefit and like plans, our experience and all of the comments we have received indicate that there are no cases where reasonable estimates can be made. Therefore, under these plans, unless the registrant can justify the basis of its calculation, the disclosure should include (1) the footnote required by Instruction 3(a)(ii) along with the Item 4(b) pension table; or (2) the alternate format discussed below.

43. Question: What should be included in the remuneration table concerning a defined contribution plan or "individual account plan"?

Response: The amount of the contribution attributed to or allocated for the account of an officer/director should be reflected in table. Since there usually is no waiting period prior to vesting under these plans, company contributions will generaly be reported in Column C2. It should be noted that a brief description of such plan is required by Item 4(b).

44. Question: Should the pension table be structured so as to reflect the retirement benefits for all salaried employees including even low-paid employees or should the table reflect data only as to officers and directors?

Response: The pension table should be keyed to the Item 4(a) individuals so that a shareholder will be provided with information on the type of retirement benefits being offered its officers and directors. For example, assume that the Item 4(a) remuneration table includes the following:

	Column C1
Mr. A	190,000
Mr. B	175,000
Ms. C	150,000
Ms. D	140,000
Mr. E	120,000

Further, assume that the remuneration covered by the plan in determining the level of benefit payments includes all the types of compensation reported in Column C1. The Item 4(b) pension table should be structured to key on the compensatory levels disclosed for the individuals named above. A possible format is the following:

	Years of service
	15	20	25	30	35
Remuneration:
125,000
150,000
175,000
200,000
225,000

Note.—The highest remuneration level should be sufficiently high to reflect reasonably expected increases in compensation.

45. Question: Does Item 4(b) require a specified number of columns or set increments in both the remuneration and years of service classifications for the pension table?

Response: No. Since the staff is not in a position to determine what is appropriate disclosure for the myriad of retirement plans, neither the number of [13] Instruction 1(b) states: An "executive officer" of a person includes its president, secretary, treasurer, any vice president in charge of a principal business unit, division, or function (such as sales, administration or finance), and any other person who performs similar policy-making functions.

[14] Indeed, there may be situations where the tax benefit may be equal to or greater than the out-of-pocket cost to the registrant. However, the company's total contribution, notwithstanding any resulting tax benefit, would be reported for Item 4(a) purposes.

[15] There is no prohibition to disclosing tax benefits in a footnote or in the text.

columns nor the increments of amounts has been mandated. However, most issuers appear to be reflecting four or five classifications each as to remuneration and years of service.

46. Question: If a registrant maintains several defined plans, must it provide separate pension tables?

Response: If it is possible to consolidate the plans into one table which accurately reflects the registrant's retirement formula, the company may disclose only one table. However, if such a consolidation is not possible, separate tables would be required.

47. Question: Is a narrative explanation of the plan required under Item 4(b) even if the amounts expensed under the plan are included in the Remuneration table?

Response: Yes. See Section VIII of this release dealing with "Proposed remuneration," specifically Question 41.

48. Question: If amounts are not included in the remuneration table pursuant to Instruction 3(a)(i) and the appropriate footnote disclosure under 3(a)(ii) and the pension table disclosure under Item 4(b) is given, must the registrant also include a brief description of the plan under Item 4(b)?

Response: Yes. In the Division's view, the first sentence of Item 4(b) requires a brief narrative description of the plan.

Such disclosure should be used to make the pension table presentation meaningful.

49. Question: Is the pension table as well as the percentage footnote disclosure required if only one Item 4(a) individual is covered?

Response: If the registrant is able to provide information similar to that which the percentage footnote and the table would provide as to the one participant, the staff would not object to omission of a full table. Comparable information would include information as to potential benefits reflecting any increases in remuneration and years of service.

Alternate Format

Since under most of these plans it is impossible to calculate the amount of contribution attributable to each participant, the footnote disclosure required by Instruction 3(a)(ii) and the Item 4(b) pension table have created many interpretative questions. With these problems in mind and in the interim before any amendments are proposed by the Division for adoption by the Commission, the staff will raise no objection if registrants report in the following manner. The footnote disclosure required by Instruction 3(a)(ii) need not be included if (1) the years of service of the persons named in the remuneration table who are plan participants are indicated; (2) the pension table required by Item 4(b) is present; and (3) the type of remuneration covered by the plan is disclosed (e.g. salary, salary and bonus, etc.). In addition, in those few plans where amounts are expensed and the pension table would not be required, registrants may exclude such expensed amounts from the remuneration table if the disclosure follows (1), (2) and (3) above.

In our view, this approach would combine the best of the past and present rules. In order to ascertain the "estimated annual benefits upon retirement" as required by the old rules, the company would have had to use a similar table to that required by Item 4(b). Instead of relying on static assumptions, the pension table discloses information as to potential benefits reflecting increases in remuneration and years of services. Moreover, the disclosure of individual years of service will make the table more meaningful.

Note.—When this alternate format is used, Questions 44 through 49 would be applicable where they are appropriate.

X. Life Insurance—Instruction 2(c) and Item 4(b)

50. Question: With regard to split-dollar life insurance, must Column C2 reflect all of the premiums paid by the registrant?

Response: Instruction 2(c) requires the inclusion of the cost of the premiums paid by the registrant or its subsidiaries. Therefore, if under a split-dollar life insurance policy the company will recoup some or all of its premiums from the proceeds of the policy, the Division will raise no objection if the registrant includes only the amounts relating to the policy that have been expensed for financial reporting purposes. Registrants should also be aware of their obligation to briefly describe such a plan under Item 4(b).

51. Question: Instruction 2(c) and Item 4(b) indicate that information need not be furnished with respect to any group life, health, hospitalization or medical reimbursement plans which do not discriminate in favor of officers and directors and which are available generally to all salaried employees. In order to qualify for this exception must a policy taken out with an insurance company be involved?

Response: No, "reimbursement" plans, similar to life insurance or otherwise, need not be funded by an insurance company policy to qualify for this exception.

XI. Item 4(c)—Remuneration of Directors

Item 4(c) requires the disclosure of standard and other arrangements by which directors of registrants are compensated for all services as directors.

52. Question: Must a plan of deferred compensation for services as a director be disclosed pursuant to Item 4(b)?

Response: Yes. In addition, if such an arrangement is not standard for all directors, the name of each director participating in such an arrangement and the amount of such remuneration earned by each should be indicated. Cross-references to the remuneration tale may be used for this purpose.

XII. Item 4(e)—Indebtedness of Management

53. Question: For purposes of Item 4(e), may issuers who are broker-dealers report margin accounts of officers, directors and nominees for directors in the same format that banks report loans to such persons?

Response: Yes, the Division will raise no objection to such disclosure. That is, if the margin account of such an individual is in excess of $10,000 and (1) came about in the ordinary course of business, (2) included substantially the same terms as those prevailing at the time of comparable transactions with other persons, and (3) did not involve more than normal risk of collectability or present other unfavorable features, then the disclosure may consist of a statement affirming (1), (2) and (3) above.

By the Commission.

[Docket No. 79F-0119]

Indirect Food Additives: Polymers Olefin Polymers

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) amends the use limitation on the optical brightener 7-(2*H*-naphtho[1, 2-d]-triazol-2-yl)-3-phenyl-coumarin in olefin polymers intended for food-contact applications. The action is being taken in response to a petition filed by Sandoz Colors and Chemicals, Division of Sandoz, Inc.

DATES: Effective December 18, 1979; objections by January 17, 1980.

ADDRESS: Written objections to the Hearing Clerk (HFA–305), Food and Drug Administration, Rm. 4–65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Gerad L. McCowin, Bureau of Foods (HFF–334), Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, 200 C St., SW., Washington, D.C. 20204, 202–472–5690.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A notice published in the Federal Register of May 4, 1979 (44 FR 26167), announced that a petition (FAP 9B3431) had been filed by Sandoz Colors and Chemicals, a Division of Sandoz, Inc., E. Hanover, NJ 07936, proposing to amend § 177.1520 Olefin Polymers (21 CFR 177.1520) to express the use limitation on the optical brightener 7-(2*H*-naphtho[1, 2-d]-triazol-2-yl)-3-phenyl-coumarin in olefin polymers intended for food contact as the product of the concentration of the optical brightener in the polymer times the thickness of the polymer.

FDA has evaluated data in the petition and other relevant material and concludes that the food additive regulations should be amended as set forth below.

Therefore, under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 409(c)(1), 72 Stat. 1786 (21 U.S.C. 348(c)(1))) and under authority delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs (21 CFR 5.1), Part 177 is amended in § 177.1520(b) by revising the listing for "7-(2*H*-Naphtho[1, 2-d]-triazol-2-yl)-3-phenyl-coumarin" to read as follows:

§ 177.1520 Olefin polymers.

* * * * *

(b) * * *

Substance

7-(2*H*-Naphtho[1, 2-d]-triazol-2-yl)-3-phenyl-coumarin [Chemical Abstracts Service Registry No. 3333–62–8] having a melting point of 250° to 251° C and a nitrogen content of 10.7 to 11.2 percent.

Limitations

For use as an optical brightener only at levels such that the product of concentration of the optical brightener (expressed in parts per million by weight of the olefin polymer) multiplied by the thickness of the olefin polymer (expressed in thousandths of an inch and limited to no more than 0.400 inch) shall not exceed 500; provided that the level of the brightener shall not exceed 20 parts per million by weight of the olefin polymer, and further that the olefin polymers shall comply with specifications for items 1.1, 2.1, 3.1, 3.3, and 4 of paragraph (c) of this section and are used under the conditions described in § 176.170(c) of this chapter, table 2 under conditions of use E, F, and G.

Content and Format for Labeling for Human Prescription Drugs; Stay of Effective Date

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration.

ACTION: Notice of Stay of Effective Date of Final Rule.

SUMMARY: The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) advises that the effective date of its June 26, 1979 final rule amending FDA's prescription drug advertising regulations has been stayed. Objections to the final advertising regulations and requests for a public hearing have been filed, and their filing operate to stay the effectiveness of the amendment. The agency's action on the objections and requests for a public hearing will be addressed in the Federal Register at a later date.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The final rule becomes effective as specified in the Federal Register of June 26, 1979 (44 FR 37434), except that the provisions for prescription drug advertisements (§§ 202.1(e)(6) (ii) and (vii) (21 CFR 202.1(e)(6) (ii) and (vii))) are stayed.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Michael C. McGrane, Bureau of Drugs (HFD–30), Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857, 301–443–5220.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In the Federal Register of June 26, 1979 (44 FR 37434), FDA published final regulations designating a required format for professional labeling for prescription drug products for human use. The agency also amended § 202.1(e)(6) (ii) and (vii) (21 CFR 202.1(e)(6) (ii) and (vii)), which concerns prescription drug advertising, to conform to the revised prescription drug labeling regulations.

Under section 502(n) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C 352(n)), the amendment of § 202.1(e)(6) (ii) and (vii) of FDA's prescription drug advertising regulations is subject to the formal rulemaking procedures specified in section 701(e) of the act (21 U.S.C. 371(e)). Thus, any person adversely affected by the final advertising regulations had until July 26, 1979, to file objections to them and to request a public hearing on the objections. Under section 701(e)(2) of the act, the filing of objections and requests for a public hearing operate to stay the effectiveness of the provisions of the advertising regulations to which objections are made until FDA takes final action upon the objections and requests for a public hearing under section 701(e)(3) of the act.

FDA has received objections to the advertising regulations from Merck Sharp & Dohme, Schering Corp., the Association of Independent Clinical Publications, Inc., the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, The Upjohn Co., the Pharmaceutical Advertising Council, Inc., and Johnson & Johnson. Each submission objects to all or part of the amendment of § 202.1(e)(6) (ii) and (vii), states the grounds for the objections, and requests a public hearing on the objections. The agency's action on these objections and requests for a public hearing will be addressed in the Federal Register at a later date; copies of the objections are on file in the office of the Hearing Clerk (HFA–305), Food and Drug Administration, Rm. 4–65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857.

The objection and hearing procedures specified in section 701(e) of the act do not apply, however, to the amendment of § 201.100(d)(3) and (e) (21 CFR 201.100(d)(3) and (e)), the revision of § 201.56 (21 CFR 201.56), and the establishment of § 201.57 and 201.58 (21 CFR 201.57 and 201.58) that apply to prescription drug labeling. Accordingly, those regulations are not subject to this stay and they are effective December 26, 1979, except as otherwise provided under the June 26, 1979 final rule.

Therefore, under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (secs. 502, 503, 505, 506, 507, 701, 52 Stat. 1050–1053 as amended, 1055–1056 as amended, 55 Stat. 851, 59 Stat. 463 as amended (21 U.S.C. 352, 353, 355, 356, 357, 371)) and the Public Health Service Act (sec. 351, 58 Stat. 702 as amended (42 U.S.C. 262)), and under authority delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs (21 CFR 5.1), the amendment to § 202.1(e)(6)

(ii) and (vii) published in the Federal Register of June 26, 1979 (44 FR 37467) is stayed until further notice.

Dated: December 10, 1979.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Burns-Biotec Laboratories' new parent company, Schering-Plough Corp., has submitted supplements to several NADA's providing for the change of sponsor. The regulations are amended to reflect the change.

Under the agency's supplemental approval policy for new animal drug applications the change requested is a Category I change. Accordingly, approval of the request does not require a reevaluation of the data and information in the parent applications.

Therefore, under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 512(i), 82 Stat. 347 (21 U.S.C. 360b(i))) and under authority delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs (21 CFR 5.1) and redelegated to the Director of the Bureau of Veterinary Medicine (21 CFR 5.83), Part 510 is amended in § 510.600 in paragraph (c) (1) and (2) by revising the entry for Burns-Biotec Laboratories to read as follows:

21 CFR Part 520

Oral Dosage Form New Animal Drugs Not Subject to Certification; Anthelin Tablets NAS/NRC Update

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This document amends the animal drug regulation for anthelin tablets to indicate those conditions of use for which approval for identical products need not include certain types of efficacy data. These conditions of use were classified as effective as a result of a National Academy of Sciences/National Research Council (NAS/NRC) Drug Efficacy Study Group evaluation of the product. In lieu of certain efficacy data, approval may require submission of bioequivalence or similar data. An earlier Federal Register publication reflected that this product is in compliance with the conclusions of the review.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 18, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Donald A. Gable, Bureau of Veterinary Medicine (HFV-101), Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville MD 20857, 301-443-4313.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The NAS/NRC review of this product was published in the Federal Register of January 29, 1969 (34 FR 1406). In that document, the Academy concluded, and FDA concurred, that the product was effective for the removal of tapeworms from dogs.

That announcement was issued to inform holders of new animal drug applications (NADA's) of the findings of the Academy and the agency, and to inform all interested persons that such articles could be marketed if they were the subject of approved NADA's and otherwise complied with the requirements of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

Jensen-Salsbery Laboratories, Division of Richardson-Merrell, Inc., Kansas City, MO 64141, responded to the notice by submitting a supplemental NADA (7-226V) providing current information covering manufacturing and controls and revising the labeling for the safe and effective use of the product for the removal of tapeworms from dogs. The supplemental application was approved by a regulation published in the Federal Register of August 3, 1973 (38 FR 20822). The regulation reflecting this approval established a new section for the drug (21 CFR 135c.116, recodified at 21 CFR 520.120). The new section did not specify those conditions of use that were NAS/NRC approved.

This document amends the regulation to provide those conditions of use for which approval for identical products need not include certain types of efficacy data required for approval by 514.111(a)(5)(vi) of the new animal drug regulations. In lieu of those data, approval of such products may be obtained if bio-equivalency of similar data are submitted as suggested in the guideline for submitting NADA's for generic drugs reviewed by the NAS/NRC. The guideline is available from the office of the Hearing Clerk (HFA-305), Food and Drug Administration, Rm. 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857.

Therefore, under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 512(i), 82 Stat. 347 (21 U.S.C. 360b(i))), and under authority delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs (21 CFR 5.1) and redelegated to the Director of the Bureau of Veterinary Medicine (21 CFR 5.83), Part 520, § 520.120 is amended by adding after paragraph (c)(1), (2), and (3) the footnote reference "[1]" and by adding at the end of the section the footnote to read as follows:

§ 520.120 Anthelin tablets.

* * * * *

(c) Conditions of use. (1) * * *[1]

(2) * * *[1]

(3) * * *[1]

Effective date. This regulation is effective December 18, 1979.

(Sec. 512(i), 82 Stat. 347 (21 U.S.C. 360b(i)))

[1] These conditions are NAS/NRC reviewed and deemed effective. Applications for these uses need not include effectiveness data as specified by § 514.111 of this chapter, but may require bio-equivalency and safety information.

Dated: December 7, 1979.

21 CFR Part 558

New Animal Drugs for Use in Animal Feeds; Tylosin

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The animal drug regulations are amended to reflect approval of a supplemental new animal drug application (NADA) filed by Henwood Feed Additives, Inc., providing for use of a 1.6-grams-per-pound tylosin premix for making complete swine feeds.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 18, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Jack C. Taylor, Bureau of Veterinary Medicine (HFV-136), Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857, 301-443-5247.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Henwood Feed Additives, Inc., 211 Western Rd., Box 577, Lewisburg, OH 45338, filed a supplemental NADA (45-690) providing for safe and effective use of a premix (1.6 grams of tylosin (as tylosin phosphate) per pound) in manufacturing a complete swine feed to be used for increased rate of weight gain and improved feed efficiency. Under the original application, the firm holds approval for use of 4-, 10-, and 20-grams-per-pound tylosin premixes for the same conditions. The regulations are amended to reflect approval of this supplement.

Approval of this application is based on safety and effectiveness data contained in Elanco Products Co.'s approved NADA 12-491. Use of the data in NADA 12-491 to support this application has been authorized by Elanco. This approval does not change the approved use of the drug. Consequently, approval of this NADA poses no increased human risk from exposure to residues of the animal drug, nor does it change the conditions of the drug's safe use in the target animal species. Accordingly, under the Bureau of Veterinary Medicine's supplemental approval policy (see the Federal Register of December 23, 1977 (42 FR 64367)), the approval of this supplemental NADA did not require reevaluation of the safety and effectiveness data in NADA 12-491 or in NADA 45-690.

In accordance with the provisions of Part 20 (21 CFR Part 20) promulgated under the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) and § 514.11(e)(2)(ii) (21 CFR 514.11(e)(2)(ii)), a summary of safety and effectiveness data and information submitted to support approval of this application is available for public examination at the office of the Hearing Clerk (HFA-305), Rm. 4-65, Food and Drug Administraiton, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Separation Documents and General Separation Procedures

AGENCY: Department of the Air Force, Department of Defense.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Department of the Air Force is revising Part 888h of Chapter VII, Title 32, of the Code of Federal Regulations. This revision established procedures on how to prepare, control and distribute separation documents. It implements DOD Instruction 1336.1, December 14, 1978. It applies to all members of the Air Force who are leaving active duty, being separated from one active duty status to another, or being removed from the Temporary Disability Retired List (TDRL). Included are officers, warrant officers, airmen and cadets who leave by discharge, retirement, transfer, dismissal or release.

EFFECTIVE DATE: July 13, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mrs. June Hughes, HQ AFMPC/MPCAKE, Randolph AFB, TX 78148, telephone (512) 652–2148.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Part 888h of Subchapter I, Chapter VII, Title 32, of the Code of Federal Regulations has been revised. The revision provides for members to receive a copy of the DD Form 214 containing all the information shown on the record copy; requires mailing separation documents on the date the separation is effective, if they are not delivered personally; and adds Department of Labor to the list of Government Agencies receiving copies of DD Form 214.

Title 32 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended by revising Part 888h to read as follows:

PART 888h—SEPARATION DOCUMENTS AND GENERAL SEPARATION PROCEDURES

888h.13 Table for issuing DD Form 214.
888h.14 Table for discharge review procedures.
888h.15 Table for agencies authorized to correct or issue copies of DD Form 214.

Authority: Sec. 8012, 70A Stat. 488; 10 U.S.C. 8012; 10 U.S.C. 1168, 1169; and as otherwise stated herein.

Note.—This part is derived from Air Force Regulation, 35–6, July 13, 1979.

Note.—Part 806 of this chapter states the basic policies and instructions governing the disclosure of records and tells members of the public what they must do to inspect or obtain copies of the material referenced herein.

§ 888h.0 Purpose.

This part gives procedures for controlling, preparing, and distributing separation documents and for controlling lists of Separation Program Designators. It applies to all members of the Air Force who are leaving active duty, being separated from one active duty status to continue in another, or being removed from the Temporary Disability Retired List (TDRL) and discharged. This includes officers, warrant officers, airmen, and cadets who are discharged, retired, transferred, dismissed, or released. It also applies to persons to whom discharge documents are issued under AFR 30–45. This part implements DOD Instruction 1336.1, December 14, 1978 and is effective October 1, 1979.

§ 888h.1 Purpose of separation documents.

(a) DD Form 214, Certificate of Release or Discharge From Active Duty. This form is not intended to have any legal effect on ending a member's military status. It meets the legal requirements for issuing a certificate (10 U.S.C. 1168) and provides:

(1) The Military Services with information about military personnel for administration. It may be used to help determine eligibility for reenlistment.

(2) The separating member with a brief, clear record of active military service at the time of transfer, release, or discharge.

(3) Government agencies with authoritative information they need in the administration of Federal and State laws applying to persons who have been discharged, otherwise released, or transferred to a reserve component.

(b) DD Form 214-ws, Certificate of Release or Discharge From Active Duty (Worksheet). Personnel use the worksheet to help prepare the DD Form 214 and make sure the data entered on the form is accurate.

(c) DD Form 215, Correction of DD Form 214, Certificate of Release or Discharge From Active Duty. The form:

(1) Corrects errors found after a DD Form 214 is issued; or

(2) Completes a DD Form 214 by adding information that was not available when the DD Form 214 was issued.

(d) Separation Order. A special order effects discharge or release from active duty (see AFR 10–7, Administrative Orders). Use a PB series order to discharge airmen for reenlistment within 24 hours.

(e) Discharge Certificate. A discharge certificate attests to the character of the service rendered. There are five types of discharge certificates:

(1) DD Form 256AF, Honorable Discharge.

(2) DD Form 257AF, General Discharge.

(3) DD Form 259AF, Bad Conduct Discharge.

(4) DD Form 260AF, Dishonorable Discharge.

(5) DD Form 794AF, Discharge Under Other Than Honorable Conditions.

§ 888h.2 Naturalized personnel separated under other than honorable conditions.

(a) Revoking Citizenship. Persons may be naturalized through service in the United States Armed Forces during specified periods (see AFM 211–28, Naturalization and Citizenship, and 8 U.S.C. 1440). Persons who were naturalized this way may have their citizenship revoked if they are separated under other than honorable conditions.

(b) Notifying the Immigration and Naturalization Service. The Immigration and Naturalization Service acts in cases in paragraph (a) of this section. As a rule, only the naturalization records show the law under which a person was naturalized. Therefore, when a naturalized member is separated under other than honorable conditions, the separating activity notifies the Immigration and Naturalization Service, 425 I Street NW, Wash DC 20536. See 888h.12, note 1. The letter reporting the separation gives the person's:

(1) Full name.

(2) Date and place of separation.

(3) Future home address.

(4) Certificate of naturalization number.

(5) Name under which naturalized, if different from name at separation.

(6) Date and place of birth.

(7) Date and place of naturalization.

888h.3 Aliens discharged for alienage and desertion.

HQ AFMPC/MPCAKE may authorize discharge in absentia when an alien deserter goes to live in a foreign country. A discharge for alienage and desertion usually bars the person from returning to the United States as an immigrant alien. When an alien is discharged for alienage and desertion, the separating facility:

(a) Sends the Department of State Visa Office SCA/VO, State Annex No 2, Wash DC 20520, a copy of the original DD Form 214. Enter the place of birth in block 18. The letter of transmittal explains that the person was discharged in absentia for alienage and desertion. See 888h.12, note 1. This information helps prevent issuing a visa when the person does not qualify for one.

(b) Reports the details of the discharge to the Immigration and Naturalization Service, 425 I Street NW, Wash. DC 20536. See 888h.12, note 1. The letter states that the airman was discharged for alienage and desertion, gives the dates of the unauthorized absence and the member's:

(1) Full name, address, and SSAN.

(2) Country of birth.

(3) Complete address in the country of residence when discharged.

(4) Alien registration number if known.

(5) Declarant number shown on the DD Form 4, Enlistment or Reenlistment Agreement—Armed Forces of the United States.

(6) Date of enlistment in the Air Force.

§ 888h.4 When DD Form is issued.

To find out the types of separation action and when a DD Form 214 must be issued, see 888h.13. HQ AFMPC/MPCAKE may also direct issuance under other conditions. Once a DD Form 214 has been issued, it will not be reissued except when:

(a) Directed by an appellate authority, Executive Order, or by the Office of the Secretary of the Air Force.

(b) A DD Form 215 has been issued and further correction is needed.

(c) Correcting or completing the original DD Form 214 would require using more than DD Form 215.

(d) The correction involves the name, SSAN, service characterization, authority or narrative reason for discharge or the effective date of separation.

§ 888h.5 Distributing DD Form 214.

(a) Hand the original DD Form 214 to the separatee before he or she leaves the separation facility on the date:

(1) Separation from active duty is effective; or

(2) Authorized travel time starts for a Reserve member reverting to inactive status.

(b) At the same time, give copy four to a member who asks for it. Counsel members about the value of copy four. Make sure they understand its value as an official record showing the character of their service, reenlistment eligibility, and specific reason for separation. Encourage them to ask for and keep this copy. It could help them if they apply for benefits based on military service, request review of the discharge action (see 888h.14), or seek to reenter one of the Armed Forces.

Note.—A member requests copy four by initialing block 30 on the DD Form 214.

(c) Mail the original DD Form 214 to the separatee on the effective date of separation when it is not possible to deliver it personally. This is done when the member is:

(1) On terminal leave.

(2) At home awaiting disability separation.

(3) In civil confinement.

(4) Separated in absentia under other conditions when this action is authorized.

(d) Deliver the original (and copy four, if requested) in person or by mail to the next of kin or guardian for an incompetent member.

(e) Mail copies three, five, and six the first workday after the separation date (see 888h.12). If the member is an alien discharged in absentia, or a naturalized member discharged under other than honorable conditions, refer to 888h.2 and 888h.3.

§ 888h.6 Incomplete DD Forms 214.

Each DD Form 214 must be as complete as possible when it is issued. When a DD Form 214 must be issued without all the required entries, the separating activity:

(a) Tells the separatee that DD Form 215 will be issued when the information is available and by whom it will be issued (see 888h.15).

(b) Tells the separatee to contact that agency, if the DD Form 215 is not received within 60 days.

(c) Notes the requirement for issuing the DD Form 215 on the DD Form 214, block 18 (remarks section).

(d) Obtains the missing information as soon as possible.

(e) Sends the FRGp to HQ ARPC/DPFSB or HQ AFMPC/MPCDOB, (see AFR 35–44, Military Personnel Records System), with a letter explaining the need for the DD Form 215. If any part of the information needed for the DD Form 215 has not been obtained, the letter tells what action was taken to try to get it. This letter must be signed by the Chief, CBPO or a similar official in other separation facilities. It is stapled to the front of the FRGp.

§ 888h.7 Correcting DD Form 214.

CBPOs and other separation facilities in the field are not authorized to correct errors found after the original DD Form 214 has been delivered. For agencies authorized to issue DD Form 215 to correct such errors, see 888h.15. If none of the rules in 888h.15 applies, send the request for correction to the custodian of the master personnel record (MPerR) (see AFR 35–44, table 1–3). The separation facility notifies the responsible agency if an error on the DD Form 214 is found after it has been distributed. The distribution and Privacy Act accountability of the DD Form 215 are the same as those of the DD Form 214 it corrects. For information about reissuing DD Form 214, when correction by DD Form 215 is not proper, see 888h.4

§ 888h.8 Copies of DD Forms 214.

Former members who want copies of the DD Form 214 held in their MPerRs must ask for them in writing. For agencies authorized to issue copies, see 888h.15.

(a) DD Forms 214 Issued After October 1, 1979. The agency sends the member one copy with the Special Additional Information Section and one copy without it.

(b) DD Forms 214 Issued Before October 1, 1979. The agency sends the member one copy with all the items of information completed and one copy with the following deleted:

(1) Specific authority for separation.

(2) Narrative reason for separation.

(3) Reenlistment eligibility code.

(4) SPD or Separation designation Number (SDN).

(c) Copies to Other Persons or Agencies. If a former member authorizes, in writing, issuing a copy of a DD Form 214 to another person or agency, the copy sent must not contain the Special Additional Information Section. If the DD Form 214 was issued before October 1, 1979, delete the items listed in paragraph b of this section.

(d) Use of Copies. Copies are given to authorized personnel for official purposes only.

§ 888h.9 Requests for reissuing DD Form 214.

New DD Forms 214 need not be prepared for persons who were given prior editions of the form, unless that form needs to be reissued for some other reason (see 888h.4).

§ 888h.10 Narrative explanations.

A person may take an original DD Form 214 to the nearest CBPO for a narrative explanation of the reason for discharge from that period of service.

(a) If the reason for separation can be found in the DD Form 214, CBPO/DPMQS:

(1) Gives the narrative explanation in a letter signed by a person authorized to sign DD Forms 214.

(2) Returns the original DD Form 214 to the person with the original letter.

(3) Sends a copy of the letter to the custodian of the MPerR.

(b) If the reason for separation cannot be found in DD Form 214, CBPO/DPMQS:

(1) Refers the request to HQ AFMPC/MPCAKE, Randolph AFB, TX 78148.

the separation order, if one is available.

(2) Notifies the person of the referral.

§ 888h.11 Replacing separation certificates.

Applications for replacing separation certificates are processed under Part 887 of this chapter. It tells how and where to apply for a certificate instead of a lost or destroyed certificate of service, discharge, or retirement.

36 CFR Part 1205

National Historic Landmarks Program; Interim Rules and Request for Comments

AGENCY: Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, Department of the Interior.

ACTION: Interim Regulations and request for comments.

SUMMARY: These interim regulations set forth the process used to study, designate, register, and monitor National Historic Landmarks including the criteria of the National Historic Landmarks Program. These interim regulations will make available to other Federal agencies, State and local governments, private organizations and individuals information on the National Historic Landmarks Program, and make formal the Secretary of the Interior's procedures and criteria for designating National Historic Landmarks. The regulations will be effective on December 18, 1979 on an interim basis as the program is ongoing and, accordingly, there is an immediate need for program guidance.

DATES: Effective December 18, 1979 as interim regulations, not applicable to the prospective National Historic Landmarks reviewed by the April 1979 meeting of the Consulting Committee on potential National Historic Landmarks where the owner desires early designation for the property as National Historic Landmark. These properties will be considered by the Secretary at the request of the owners. All comments received concerning those properties will be forwarded to the Secretary for his consideration in his decision on designation. Interested parties are encouraged to submit written comments or recommendations concerning these proposed regulations by February 18, 1980.

ADDRESSES: Comments should be sent to the Director, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, 440 G Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20243, (Attention: National Register of Historic Places).

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Ronald M. Greenberg, Acting Chief, Division of the National Register of Historic Places, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, 440 G Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20243 (202–343–6404).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The National Historic Landmarks Program, administered by the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service through the Division of the National Register of Historic Places, is the program of the Department of the Interior for studying, identifying, designating, and monitoring National Historic Landmarks.

National Historic Landmark recognition calls attention to historic places judged to have exceptional value to the Nation as a whole rather than to a particular State or locality. It recognizes and encourages the preservation efforts of State, local and private agencies and groups. It encourages the owners of landmark properties to observe preservation precepts. In addition, properties designated as National Historic Landmarks are listed in the National Register of Historic Places with consequences as described in 36 CFR Part 1202. Also, such properties are subject to the provisions of section 2124 of the Tax Reform Act of 1976, as amended, and the Revenue Act of 1978. If the property contains coal resources and is listed in the National Register, certain provisions of the Surface Mining and Control Act of 1977 make it less likely that surface mining of the coal will be permitted by the State or Federal Government.

Section 8 of the National Park System General Authorities Act of 1970, as amended, (90 Stat. 1940, 16 U.S.C. 1a–5) directs the Secretary of the Interior to prepare an annual report to the Congress which identifies all National Historic and Natural Landmarks which exhibit known or anticipated damage or threats to the integrity of their resources. This annual report is prepared by the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service. The National Parks and Recreation Act of 1978 (92 Stat. 3518, 16 U.S.C. 1a–5 authorizes $1.5 million for monitoring the welfare and integrity of natural and historic landmarks.

Authority for the National Historic Landmarks Program is based on the Historic Sites Act of 1935 (49 Stat. 666, 16 U.S.C. 461) which established a national policy to preserve "historic sites, buildings, and objects of national significance."

The originators of these interim regulations are James Sheire, Polly Matherly, and Bill Lebovich, Division of the National Register of Historic Places, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, 440 G Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20243.

In compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service has prepared an environmental assessment of these proposed regulations. It has been administratively determined that this rulemaking is not a major Federal action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment, and that an environmental impact statement is not required. The environmental assessment is on file in the National Register of Historic Places Division, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, 440 G Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20243.

The Department of the Interior has determined that this document is not a significant rule and does not require a regulatory analysis under Executive Order 12044 and 43 CFR Part 14.

Title 36 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended by adding a new Part 1205 as an interim regulation reading as follows:

PART 1205—NATIONAL HISTORIC LANDMARKS PROGRAM

Sec.

1205.1 Purpose.
1205.2 Authority.
1205.3 Definitions.
1205.4 Designation of National Historic Landmarks.
1205.5 Registration.
1205.6 Monitoring National Historic Landmarks.
1205.7 Alterations in National Historic Landmark Boundaries.
1205.8 Withdrawal of National Historic Landmark Designation.
1205.9 National Historic Landmark Criteria.

Authority: 49 Stat. 666, 16 U.S.C. 461 et seq.

§ 1205.1 Purpose.

The purpose of the National Historic Landmarks Program is to identify and designate as National Historic Landmarks nationally significant sites, buildings, and objects that illustrate or commemorate the history of the United States. The purpose of these interim regulations is to set forth the procedures used by the Department of the Interior for conducting the National Historic Landmarks Program. The interim regulations set forth the process used to identify, designate, and monitor National Historic Landmarks and include the newly revised criteria which properties must meet in order to be designated National Historic Landmarks.

§ 1205.2 Authority.

(a) In the Historic Sites Act of 1935, 49 Stat. 666, 16 U.S.C. 461 et. seq. the Congress found and declared:

* * * That it is a national policy to preserve for public use historic sites, buildings, and objects of national significance for the inspiration and benefit of the people of the United States.

(b) To implement that policy, the act authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, through the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, to perform the following duties and functions, among others:

(1) To make a survey of historic and archeologic sites, buildings, and objects for the purpose of determining which possess exceptional value as commemorating or illustrating the history of the United States;

(2) To make necessary investigations and researches in the United States relating to particular sites, buildings, or objects to obtain true and accurate historical and archeological facts and information concerning the same;

(3) To erect and maintain tablets to mark or commemorate historic or prehistoric places and events of national historic or archeological significance.

§ 1205.3 Definitions.

As used in this Part:

(a) "Consulting Committee" means an advisory board of authorities in several fields of knowledge such as archeology, architecture, history, anthropology, and architectural history, chosen by the Director, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service. The Consulting Committee reviews prospective National Historic Landmarks and advises the Director on their eligibility for designation under the National Historic Landmark Criteria. The Consulting Committee may also, at the request of the Director, advise him or her on other issues pertaining to historic preservation.

(b) "Advisory Council" means the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation, established under Title II of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 (16 U.S.C. 470). Address: Executive Director, Advisory Council on Historic Preservation, 1522 K Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20005.

(c) "National Historic Landmark" means a site, building, or object, in private or public ownership, judged by the Secretary of the Interior to possess national significance in American history, architecture, archeology, or culture.

(d) "National Register" means the National Register of Historic Places, which is a register of districts, sites, buildings, structures, and objects significant in American history, architecture, archeology, and culture, maintained by the Secretary of the Interior under authority of section 2(b) of the Historic Sites Act of 1935 (49 Stat. 666, 16 U.S.C. 461) and section 101(a)(1) of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 915, 16 U.S.C. 470), as amended (84 Stat. 204 (1970) and 87 Stat. 139 (1973)). Address: Chief, Division of The National Register, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, 440 G Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20243.

(e) "National Historic Landmarks Program" means the program conducted by the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service for the identification and study of prospective national historic landmarks. Address: Division of the National Register of Historic Places, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, 440 G Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20243.

(f) "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Interior or the designee authorized to carry out the Secretary's responsibilities.

(g) "Director" means the Director, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service.

(h) "State Historic Preservation Officer" means the official within each State, designated by the Governor at the request of the Secretary of the Interior, to act a liaison for the purpose of implementing historic preservation programs within the States.

(i) "Owner" means a person or organization who owns a property. Also it may refer to a public agency responsible for administering publicly owned property.

(j) "Sites, buildings, and objects" mean properties that are sites, buildings, objects, or structures or that collectively form a district(s).

§ 1205.4 Designation of National Historic Landmarks.

(a) Potential National Historic Landmarks are identified by means of theme and special studies conducted by the Landmarks Program. In undertaking these studies, information or recommendations of the State Historic Preservation Officers will be solicited. State Historic Preservation Officer participation is voluntary.

(b)(1) Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service will notify, in writing, (i) the owner(s), (ii) the municipality or county, (iii) the State Historic Preservation Officer, (vi) the members of Congress who represent the district and State in which the property is located that a property is going to be studied to determine potential for designation as a National Historic Landmark. This notice will provide information on the National Historic Landmark Program, the designation process, and the implications of the designation.

(2) When the property has more than 50 owners, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service will notify (i) municipality or county, (ii) the State Historic Preservation Officer, (iii) the members of Congress who represent the district and State in which the property is located and (iv) provide general notice to the property owners. This general notice will be published in one or more local newspapers of general circulation in the area in which the potential National Historic Landmark is located and will provide information on the National Historic Landmarks program, the designation process, and the implications of designation.

(c) The researcher will visit the property and, in the case of districts with more than 50 owners or a request by the municipality or county, hold an informational meeting.

(d)(1) Properties appearing to qualify for designation as National Historic Landmarks and comments pertaining to them are presented to the Consulting Committee for evaluation. The Consulting Committee usually meets semi-annually. Interested parties are encouraged to attend and an opportunity to address the Consulting Committee concerning a property's significance, integrity, or boundaries will be provided. The Consulting Committee evaluates a property's significance, integrity, and boundaries. Prior to Consulting Committee review of a property, the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, will notify, in writing, (i) the owner(s), (ii) the municipality or county, (iii) the State Historic Preservation Officer, (iv) the members of Congress who represent the district and the State in which the property is located that it is to be considered by the committee. Such notice will be sent not less than 30 days and not more than 60 days before the consulting committee meeting.

(2) In the case of properties with more than 50 owners, the procedures of 1205.4(b) will be used. The notice will state date and location of consulting committee meeting, solicit written comments, and describe the implications of National Historic Landmark designation. Summaries of the research report will be sent to (i) the State Historic Preservation Officer, (ii) the owner(s), (iii) and other parties requesting it. Notice will also be published in the Federal Register.

(e) The Consulting Committee recommends to the Director those properties which it believes meet the criteria for recognition as National Historic Landmarks. A simple majority is required to make this recommendation.

(f) The Secretary of the Interior receives the recommendations of the Director and, based on the criteria set forth herein, makes a decision on Properties that are designated National Historic Landmarks are listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

(g) Notice of National Historic Landmark designation is sent (1) to the landmark owner(s) as outlined in 1205.4(b), (2) to the State Historic Preservation Officer, (3) to the Representative of the Congressional District in which the property is located, (4) to the State's United States Senators, (5) to the municipality or county in which the landmark is located, (6) and in certain cases to other interested authorities, individuals or organizations.

(h) In special circumstances where necessary to promote the public interest in historic preservation, the Secretary may designate National Historic Landmarks without reference to the Consulting Committee.

§ 1205.5 Registration.

(a) Following the designation of a property by the Secretary as a National Historic Landmark, the owner (or in the case of multiple ownership, a majority of the owners) is invited to sign an agreement with the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service indicating willingness to adopt management practices which protect the landmark's nationally significant values. When the agreement is signed, the property becomes a registered National Historic Landmark. The owner(s) gives up none of the rights and privileges of ownership or use of the property, nor does the Department of the Interior gain any property interest in land so designated. The owner(s) may request a certificate signed by the Secretary of the Interior and the Director of the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, and a bronze plaque. The Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service provides one certificate and plaque for the National Historic Landmark through its appropriate Regional Office. Upon request, the Regional Office will help arrange and participate in a presentation ceremony.

(b) If the agreement is not signed, the property retains its status as a National Historic Landmark, but it is not a registered National Historic Landmark and the owner is awarded neither the certificate nor the plaque.

(c) There is no time limit for signing the preservation agreement and accepting the certificate and plaque. The owner may choose to do so at any time after the designation of the property as a National Historic Landmark.

(d) When the ownership of a registered National Historic Landmark changes, a new agreement is required to maintain registration.

Landmarks.

(a) The Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, through its Regional Offices, maintains a continuing relationship with the owners of National Historic Landmarks by periodic visits and other means to determine whether landmarks have retained their integrity, to advise the owners concerning accepted preservation standards and techniques, and to update administrative records on the properties. Reports of monitoring activities are filed with the National Historic Landmarks Program. These reports form the basis for the annual report submitted to Congress by the Secretary of the Interior on National Historic Landmarks which exhibit known or anticipated damages or threats to the integrity of the property as mandated by Section 8, National Park System General Authorities Act, 1970, as amended. (90 Stat. 1940 16 U.S.C. 1a–5).

(b) Whenever the Secretary of the Interior determines a National Historic Landmark may be irreparably lost or destroyed in whole or in part by any surface mining activity, including exploration for or removal or production of minerals or materials, the Secretary shall notify the person conducting such activity and submit a report thereon. The report will include the basis for the Secretary's finding that such activity may cause irreparable loss or destruction of a National Historic Landmark. It will be submitted to the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation, along with a request for advice from the Council as to alternative measures that may be taken by the United States to mitigate or abate such activity. Authority for this action is mandated by section 9, Mining in National Parks Act of 1976 (90 Stat. 1342, 16 U.S.C. 1908).

§ 1205.7 Alterations in National Historic Landmark Boundaries.

(a) Two justifications exist for enlarging the boundary of a National Historic Landmark: Documentation of previously unrecognized significance, or professional error in the original designation. Enlargement of a boundary will be approved only when the area proposed for addition to the National Historic Landmark possesses the characteristics for which the landmark was designated. The same process as used for a new designation will be followed (§ 1205.4 (a) through (h)).

(b) Two justifications exist for reducing the boundary of a National Historic Landmark: Loss of integrity, or professional error in the orginal designation. Reduction of a boundary will be approved only when the area to be deleted from the National Historic Landmark does not possess or has lost the characteristics for which the property was designated a National Historic Landmark. The same process as used for a new designation will be followed (§ 1205.4 (a) through (h)).

(c) A proposal for enlargement or reduction of a National Historic Landmark boundary shall be submitted to or can originate at the National Register of Historic Places, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, 440 G Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20243. The Division Chief may initiate a restudy of the National Historic Landmark by the staff of the National Register and subsequently a proposal if appropriate in the same manner as a new designation (§ 1205.4 (a) through (h)).

(d) A technical correction to a boundary does not require Consulting Committee review or Secretarial Approval. The Division Chief of the National Register must approve a technical correction.

(e) The Landmarks Program will provide written notice of any alteration in a National Historic Landmark boundary to (1) the landmark owner(s), (2) the municipality or county in which the landmark is located, (3) the U.S. Representative who represents the district in which the landmark is located, (4) the U.S. Senators who represent the State in which the landmark is located, and (5) the State Historic Preservation Officer.

(f) When a boundary has been proposed for a National Historic Landmark designated before 1970 the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service shall notify, in writing, (1) the owner, (2) municipality or county, (3) the State Historic Preservation Officer, (4) the members of Congress who represent the district and State in which the property is located of the proposed boundary, and provide not less than 30 and not more than 60 days for submitting written comments before the boundary is approved by the Chief of the Division of the National Register.

(g) In the case of more than 50 owners, the general notice specified in § 1205.4(b) will be used.

§ 1205.8 Withdrawal of National Historic Landmark Designation.

(a) Three justifications exist for the withdrawal of a National Historic Landmark designation: Loss or destruction of the characteristics for which a property originally met the National Historic Landmark criteria; professional error in the designation; or substantial failure to follow the procedures for designation set forth in § 1205.4.

(b) Information concerning loss of integrity, professional error, or procedural error should be submitted to the National Register, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, 440 G Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20243. The National Register may initiate a restudy of the National Historic Landmark by its staff and subsequently a proposal for withdrawal of the landmark designation if appropriate in the same manner as a new designation (§ 1205.4 (a) through (h)). Where professional error as to a property's national significance has been made, the property will remain listed in the National Register.

(c) Upon withdrawal of a National Historic Landmark designation, the landmark certificate and plaque will be reclaimed. The Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service will provide written notice of the withdrawal and a copy of the report on which the action is based to (1) the owner(s), (2) the municipality or county in which the landmark is located, (3) the U.S. Representative who represents the district in which the landmark is located, (4) the U.S. Senators who represent the State in which the landmark is located, and (5) the State Historic Preservation Officer. Notice of such removals will be published periodically in the Federal Register.

§ 1205.9 National Historic Landmark Criteria.

Introduction

(a) National Historic Landmark designation recognizes nationally significant properties essential to the American understanding and appreciation of the Nation's history, development, ideals, and character. Landmarks include districts, sites, buildings, structures, and objects, which have been pivotal in the development of American history, architecture, archeology or culture. Landmark designation is not applied to all properties once associated with national development; nor can all facets of the Nation's history be logically or clearly represented by physical resources. National Historic Landmark designation is reserved for resources which by strength and clarity of historic association, architectural or design excellence, or extraordinary information content are or clearly have the potential to be publicly and professionally recognized, understood, and appreciated for their significance to the Nation as a whole.

(b) The National Historic Landmark program was established by the 1935 Historic Sites Act that gave the Secretary of the Interior responsibility for systematically identifying nationally significant properties. In 1966 the National Historic Preservation Act made landmark designation one distinct part of the National Register of Historic Places program. Designated landmarks are automatically placed in the National Register if they have not been listed there previously.

(c) Designation does not require that a property be preserved, but in accordance with the spirit of the Historic Sites Act and the 1966 Preservation Act it insures that a property must be deliberately considered in Federal agency planning and encourages private and public preservation commitments.

(d) Hence, evaluation of potential landmarks shares many of the principles that pertain to evaluating the broader range of potential Register properties. The criteria for both programs also parallel each other in arrangement and form. But the associative, architectural, aesthetic, or informational quality required of National Historic Landmarks is significantly greater than that required of other Register property and must pertain to the development of the Nation as a whole rather than to the history of a single place or group of people.

(e) Although assessments of national significance should reflect both public perceptions and professional judgments, the final evaluation of properties being considered for landmark designation must be undertaken by professionals including historians, architectural historians, archeologists, and anthropologists familiar with the broad range of the Nation's resources and historical themes. The criteria applied by these professionals to potential landmarks do not define significance or set a rigid standard for quality. Rather the criteria establish the qualitative framework in which a comparative, professional analysis of national significance can occur.

Historic and prehistoric sites, buildings, and objects, are eligible for designation as National Historic Landmarks if it can be demonstrated that:

I. Association. They have been associated with and are now the primary tangible resources that illustrate, recall, or characterize individuals, groups,

events,
processes,
institutions,
movements,
lifeways,
folkways,
ideals, beliefs, or other patterns or phenomena that had a decisive impact on or pivotal role in the historic or prehistoric development of the Nation as a whole, and/or

II. Appearance, design, and construction. They are or they illustrate architectural styles, building types,

types of methods of construction vernacular, popular, or traditional building design, landscape architecture,
urban design or planning,
works of master architects, designers, builders, or planners, monumental sculpture, industrial, technological, or engineering design, or other architectural, aesthetic, or engineering expressions that are rare, unique,

masterpieces of type, exceptionally illustrative examples of type, or that were of pivotal influence in later development of architecture, construction, landscape design, or aesthetic accomplishment in the context of the Nation as a whole, and/or

III. Information. They contain information about or evidence of historic or prehistoric events,

processes,
institutions,
design,
construction, settlement, migration,
ideals,
beliefs,
lifeways,
folkways, or other facets of development and cultural systems that is essential to professional or public understanding of human development in cultural groups or systems important to the Nation, and

IV. Integrity. They must possess an exceptionally high degree of integrity of form, material, and settling, retaining those historic characteristics, such as physical features, evidences of workmanship,

fabric,
location, and surroundings that convey, support, represent, or contain the values and qualities for which they are judge significant.

Exclusions

I. Religious and Commemorative Properties. Properties owned by religious institutions, used for religious purposes, or primarily commemorative in nature will not be considered for landmark designation unless they also possess architectural, artistic, historic, cultural, or information significance that would qualify them for listing within Criteria I–IV.

II. Moved Structures. A. Buildings, structures, and objects moved from their original or historically significant location will not be eligible for landmark designation unless they were originally designed to be moved or the qualities that would have made them eligible for landmark designation on their original location are fully retained.

B. Buildings, structures, and objects that have been taken from their historic location and placed in artificial assemblages will not be eligible for designation as landmarks unless the act of relocating the properties is itself of historical or cultural significance to the Nation.

III. Reconstructed Buildings. Reconstructed properties will not be considered for landmark designation unless they have attained in their own right historical, architectural, cultural, artistic, information value that would qualify them for listing within Criteria I–IV.

IV. Properties of Recent Significance. Properties that have achieved significance or have been constructed recently will not be considered eligible for landmark designation unless sufficient time has passed to permit professional evaluation of them in their historical context. The passage of time insures sufficient perspective to evaluate properties for their historical value or role rather than for their contemporary interest. Because 50 years from the time of construction or historic use or association has traditionally been assumed to provide that perspective, that period is suggested but not required for landmark designation. Many categories of properties can be professionally evaluated within a shorter span of time.

V. Birthplaces, Cemeteries, and Graves. Birthplaces, cemeteries, and graves will not be considered for landmark designation unless no property associated with the productive life of a group or individual extremely significant in the Nation's history or prehistory exists or unless the property possesses qualities that would qualify it for designation under Criteria II or III and Criterion IV.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

40 CFR Part 52

[FRL 1377-3]

Approval and Promulgation of Implementation Plans; Texas

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Final rulemaking.

SUMMARY: This rule approves portions of the revisions to the Texas State Implementation Plan (SIP) which were submitted by the Governor to fulfill the requirements of the Clean Air Act, as amended in August 1977 (the Act) for attainment and maintenance of the National Ambient Air Quality Standards. The revisions being acted on today are those exclusively related to the establishment of an inspection/maintenance (I/M) program required under Section 172 (b)(11)(B) of the Act, and the use of emission reductions resulting from the pilot program as credit for new source growth.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Effective on December 18, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Jerry M. Stubberfield, Chief, Implementation Plan Section, Air and Hazardous Materials Division, Region 6, Dallas, Texas 75270, (214) 767–2742.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

On April 13, 1979, the Governor of Texas submitted revisions to the Texas SIP which included provisions for the establishement of a schedule of implementation for an inspection/maintenance (I/M) program for Harris County. This portion of the SIP delineated the legislative action that had taken place in providing the Texas Air Control Board (TACB) with the necessary authority to implement an I/M program consistent with the intent of the legislation. House Bill 726 was introduced into the Texas Legislature on March 9, 1979. This bill proposed to amend the Texas Clean Air Act to require the TACB, in cooperation with the Texas Department of Public Safety and the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation to do the following:

1. Conduct an I/M pilot program
2. Study various feasibility and implementation I/M program options
3. Prepare for an I/M program in Harris County to allow for full implementation of the program not later than December 31, 1982, and
4. Report to the 67th Session of the Texas Legislature concerning these requirements on or before December 1, 1980.

EPA had reviewed the draft legislation prior to its introduction into the Legislature and had notified the State that the passage of such legislation would satisfy the requirements of the Clean Air Act Amendments.

Since the SIP was submitted prior to House Bill 726 being signed into law by the Governor, only a draft was submitted by the State with the SIP.

In addition, the State discussed a number of measures which could be imposed between 1982 and 1987 to provide additional reductions in order to demonstrate attainment of the ozone standard in Harris County (page 42 of the SIP). One of these measures was the implementation of an I/M program for which the State estimated and emission reduction of 10,000 tons or four percent of the total 1977 baseline emissions. However, the State specified that these measures were only being considered and that no commitment was made to impose these control measures at this time.

On August 1, 1979, (at 44 FR 45204) the EPA proposed approval of that portion of the Texas SIP that dealt with I/M on the condition that (a) enacted legislation is substantially the same as the draft included with the SIP, (b) it is submitted as part of the SIP, and (c) necessary changes are made to the SIP to commit to the implementation of the legislation.

In response to these conditions, the State submited revisions to this portion of the SIP on August 9, 1979, under signature of the Governor. Included in these revisions was a copy of House Bill 726 which the Governor had signed into law on June 13, 1979. EPA has reviewed the enacted legislation included in this submittal and determined that it is substantially the same as the draft which was submitted with the SIP. In addition, the State revised the original SIP (i.e. page 42) by removing the statement that no commitment would be made to impose these additional control measures (which included I/M) at this time. EPA interprets the removal of this statement as a commitment by the State to implement the legislation. Therefore, EPA has determined that the State has satisfied all conditions specified at 44 FR 45206 (August 1, 1979) and under this notice is approving that portion of the Texas SIP specific to the I/M program.

EPA is acting on this portion of the SIP at this time, rather than under a notice promulgating final rulemaking for the entire SIP, for the purpose of expediting the initiation of the program since the TACB is required to report to the Legislature on their findings on or before December 1, 1980. Since the legislation stipulates that the TACB is not authorized to act prior to EPA approving this portion of the plan, the EPA feels it is necessary to act on these revisions as expeditiously as possible.

Public Comments

In addition to stating EPA's proposed actions with regard to the Texas SIP, the August 1, 1979 Federal Register notice solicited comments on what items should be conditionally approved and the proposed time schedule for correction. Numerous comments were received. However, only those comments germaine to the I/M issue will be addressed in this notice. All other comments, including those which were to be considered as part of the record for each state plan, will be addressed in a separate Federal Register notice promulgating final action on the remainder of the SIP. Four comments were received specific to the issue of I/M. One commentor stated that the vehicle inspection program proposed under House Bill 726 was a positive step toward improving the air quality and that such a program should be applicable to all classes of vehicles. EPA concurs that such a program will result in air quality benefits. However, the State may determine the classes of vehicles to be included in the program, provided that it meets EPA's reduction criterion.

Two comments were received relative to the use of emission reductions achieved through the pilot I/M program as credit or offsets for new source growth. One commentor objected to the use of such credits for sources locating in the Harris County area on the basis that such a condition appeared to be a subsidization of industry by the general public and that the constitutents of vehicular emissions are not identical to the emissions from industry, thereby resulting in an inequitable trade-off. In addition, the commentor objected that the public was never informed of this compromise. Under the Interpretative Ruling of January 16, 1979, (at 44 FR 3285) the Agency states that reductions in mobile source emissions may be used to offset new source growth. Therefore, since the State has not claimed the use of these credits, in the demonstration of reasonable further progress (RFP), EPA concurs with the State that the use of such credits as offsets for new source growth is justifiable under the Interpretive Ruling. In addition, EPA believes that the public has been adequately informed on this issue since it was discussed at length in the Texas SIP which was available to the public.

The second comment relative to this issue concerned the use of emission reductions from I/M inspected vehicles registered outside the Houston nonattainment area, as offsets to allow new source growth in Harris County. This commentor objected to this on the basis that this area is having difficulty in meeting the ozone standard even by the delayed date of December 31, 1987. Again, EPA believes that the use of the reductions achieved from the pilot program can justifiably be used as offsets since the State did not account for these reductions in attaining reasonable further progress in Harris County. In addition, the Interpretative Ruling as amended on January 16, 1979, provides that, for major proposed sources of volatile organic compounds (VOC), offsets should be obtained from within the same Air Quality Control Region (AQCR). It is desirable to have the offsetting sources located as close to the proposed source as possible. Location within the same nonattainment area is not required. However, if the offsetting source would be located at a greater distance from the new source the ratio of required offsets could be increased.

A fourth commentor questioned why the final legislation was not submitted with the SIP. As previously noted, the SIP was submitted prior to the legislation being signed into law. Therefore, the State had not alternative but to submit the draft legislation. This commentor also objected to that language in the legislation that states that the effective date of the legislation would occur upon EPA approval of the I/M submission; and that EPA should require the submission of a commitment to enact the I/M program as detailed in the legislation prior to granting approval. The provision that EPA approval is necessary for implementation for the program does not, in the Agency's opinion, force EPA's approval. However, EPA concurs with the commentor that the State commit to the implementation of the program consistent with the legislation. As previously noted, EPA considers the revisions to the SIP submitted on August 9, 1979, as fulfilling this condition.

Current Action

This action approves the revisions to the Texas SIP exclusively related to the establishment of an I/M program, and the use of emission reductions resulting from the pilot program as credit for new source growth. No other portions of the SIP are affected by this action.

Even though the Agency is approving this portion of the SIP, in the event that the report to the 67th Session of the Texas Legislature, required under House Bill 726, should result in a determination that there is no I/M program which would be feasible for implementation in Harris County, and subsequently result in no program being implemented according to the specified schedule, EPA will view such an outcome as making the State liable to the imposition of economic and growth limitations and/or federal enforcement action in that area as provided for in the Clean Air Act. In addition, should the Texas Legislature determine that a mandatory I/M program for Harris County would be feasible, a schedule should be developed, for inclusion in the SIP, indicating milestones leading up to actual implementation of the program.

Under Executive Order 12044 EPA is required to judge whether a regulation is "significant" and therefore subject to the procedural requirements of the Order or whether it may follow other specialized development procedures. EPA labels these other regulations "specialized." I have reviewed this regulation and determined that it is a specialized regulation not subject to the procedural requirements of Executive Order 12044.

This notice of final rulemaking is issued under the authority of Section 110 of the Clean Air Act, as amended.

Dated: December 12, 1979.

Douglas M. Costle,

Administrator.

Part 52 of Chapter I, Title 40 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended as follows:

Subpart SS—Texas

1. In § 52.2270, paragraph (c) is amended by adding new paragraphs (18) and (19) to read as follows:

§ 52.2270 Identification of plan.

* * * * *

(c) * * *

(18) Draft inspection/maintenance legislation and a schedule for conducting a pilot inspection/maintenance study were submitted by the Governor on April 13, 1979.

(19) Adopted inspection/maintenance legislation and administrative revisions concerning inspection/maintenance were submitted by the Governor on August 9, 1979.

2. Section 52.2272 is revised by adding a new paragraph (b) to read as follows:

§ 52.2272 Extensions.

[FPMR Temp. Reg. G-42]

Acquisition of Fuel-Efficient Light Trucks by the Federal Government AGENCY: Transportation and Public Utilities Service, General Services Administration.

ACTION: Temporary regulation.

SUMMARY: This regulation provides policy and procedures governing the acquisition of light trucks by executive agencies during fiscal year 1980.

DATES: Effective date: October 1, 1979. Expiration date: September 30, 1980. Comments due on or before: February 1, 1980.

ADDRESS: Comments should be addressed to: General Services Administration (TMM), Washington, D.C. 20406.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. L. A. Stockdale, Director, Federal Fleet Management Division (703-557-1327).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The General Services Administration has determined that this regulation will not impose unnecessary burdens on the economy or on individuals and, therefore, is not significant for the purposes of Executive Order 12044.

(Sec. 205(c), 63 Stat. 390; 40 U.S.C. 486(c))

In 41 CFR Chapter 101, the following temporary regulation is added to the appendix at the end of Subchapter G to read as follows:

Federal Property Management Regulations—Temporary Regulation G-42

December 11, 1979.

To: Heads of Federal agencies

Subject: Acquisition of fuel-efficient light trucks by the Federal Government

1. Purpose. This regulation establishes policy and procedures governing the acquisition of light trucks by executive agencies during fiscal year 1980.

2. Effective date. This regulation is effective October 1, 1979.

3. Expiration date. This regulation expires September 30, 1980, unless sooner revised or superseded. Before the expiration date, this regulation will be codified in the permanent regulations of the General Services Administration (GSA) appearing in Title 41 CFR, Public Contracts and Property Management.

4. Applicability. The provisions of this regulation apply to executive agencies as defined in subparagraph 5d.

5. Background.

a. Title III of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act added Title V, Improving Automotive Efficiency, to the Motor Vehicle Information and Cost Savings Act (15 U.S.C. 1901 et seq.). Executive Order 11912, dated April 13, 1976, designated and empowered the Administrator of General Services to perform the functions vested in the President by section 510 of the Motor Vehicle Information and Cost Savings Act, as amended (15 U.S.C. 2010).

b. Subsequent to the publication of Executive Order 11912, Executive Order 12003, dated July 20, 1977, was issued, which requires that the Administrator of General Services promulgate rules that ensure that each class of nonpassenger automobiles (hereinafter referred to as light trucks) acquired by all executive agencies, beginning in fiscal year 1980, achieve a fleet average fuel economy equal to or greater than the fuel economy standard established for that model year by the Secretary of Transportation, pursuant to Public Law 94-163.

c. To implement the provisions of Executive Order 12003, GSA issued FPMR Temporary Regulation G-39, dated November 16, 1978. This regulation, which established the policy and procedures governing the acquisition of light trucks by executive agencies during fiscal year 1979, expired September 30, 1979.

d. The applicable fleet average fuel economy objectives by fiscal year are as follows:

	Fleet average fuel economy miles per gallon (mpg)
	4 by 2	4 by 4
Fiscal year:
[1] 1980	16.0	14.0
[1] 1981	16.7	15.0
1982-1985	([2])	([2])

[1] Gross Vehicle Weight Rating (GVWR) limit of vehicles covered by the average fuel economy standards program has been raised from 6,000 to 8,500 pounds beginning in fiscal year 1980.

[2] To be determined by the Secretary of Transportation.

e. As used in this regulation:

(1) "Fleet average fuel economy" means the total number of light trucks acquired during a fiscal year by executive agencies (excluding light trucks designed to perform combat-related missions for the Armed Forces or designed to be used in law enforcement work or emergency rescue work) divided by a sum of terms, each term of which is a fraction created by dividing the number of light trucks so acquired of a given model type by the fuel economy of that model type.

(2) "Executive agency" means an executive department, a Government corporation, or an independent establishment.

(3) "Acquired" means purchased or leased for a period of 60 continuous days or more but does not include light trucks obtained on assignment from the Interagency Motor Pool System or rented for periods less than 60 days through the Federal Supply Schedule or other source.

(4) "Light trucks" means any truck up to 8,500 pounds GVWR which is a 4-wheeled vehicle propelled by fuel (gasoline or diesel oil), is manufactured primarily for use on public streets, roads, and highways, and is covered by Federal Standard No. 307 (trucks, light, commercial, two wheel drive) or No. 292 (trucks, light, commercial, four wheel drive).

6. Policy and procedures.

a. The policy and procedures set forth in this regulation governing the acquisition of light trucks by executive agencies during fiscal year 1980 are in compliance with Executive Orders 11912 and 12003. Attachment A outlines the procedures for acquiring fuel-efficient light trucks, the suggested format for an agency's forecast, and the procedure to be used to calculate an agency's fleet average fuel economy.

b. Requisitions submitted to GSA for light trucks shall be in conformance with the requirements of § 101-26.501 and Subpart 101-38.13.

c. Additionally, requisitions for light trucks submitted to GSA in accordance with agency forecasts developed in compliance with this regulation shall contain a certification that the acquisition is in conformance with Executive Order 12003, as implemented by this regulation. Each civilian executive agency, the Office of the Secretary of Defense, the military services, and defense agencies shall designate an official who shall be responsible for providing this certification and shall furnish the name, address, and telephone number of the official to the General Services Administration (TM), Washington, DC 20406.

d. The fleet average fuel economy for all light trucks acquired by an executive agency must meet or exceed the fleet average fuel economy for their respective classes of light trucks as shown in the corresponding fiscal year column in subparagraph 5d of this regulation or acquired to be used outside the conterminous United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Guam, the Virgin Islands, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

(1) The provisions of this regulation are not applicable to light trucks designed to perform combat-related missions for the Armed Forces or designed to be used in law enforcement work or emergency rescue work.

(2) An agency may request an exemption from the provisions of subparagraph d, above, for individual light trucks or for specific categories of light trucks used for special purposes, such as fire support. These requests shall be submitted in writing to the General Services Administration (A), Washington, DC 20405, and shall state the reasons supporting the proposed acquisition of a light truck that will not enable the agency to meet the fleet average fuel economy established by Executive Order 12003 and this regulation. The Administrator of General Services will review the request and, with the concurrence of the Secretary of Energy, determine the merits of the request, then inform the requesting agency of the determination. Light trucks exempted under the provisions of this subparagraph 6d(2) shall not be included in the calculation of an agency's fleet average fuel economy.

7. Agency comments. Agency comments regarding clarification of the policy and procedures in this regulation may be sent to the General Services Administration (TMM), Washington, DC 20406, no later than February 1, 1980, for consideration and possible incorporation into the permanent regulation.

8. Reports. The report required by this regulation is in conformance with the provisions of Subpart 101-11.11 and has been assigned interagency report control number 0162-GSA-AN.

R. G. Freeman III,
Administrator of General Services.

Attachment A

Acquisition of fuel-efficient light trucks

1. Authority. Section 1(b) of Executive Order 12003, dated July 20, 1977, requires that the Administrator of General Services expand the program for the acquisition of fuel-efficient motor vehicles to include light trucks beginning in fiscal year 1979.

2. Implementation. In compliance with the Executive order, GSA will administer a consolidated Federal fleet acquisition plan for light trucks acquired by executive agencies. The plan will be composed of two sections, covering both 4 by 2 and 4 by 4 light trucks. It will be based on forecasts of total light truck acquisition requirements by item number (from the Federal standard) submitted by executive agencies to GSA by December 15 of each fiscal year. This forecast will substantiate that each agency's acquisition plan is in conformance with the provisions of the Executive order; i.e., the agency plan will result in the achievement of the fleet average fuel economy prescribed for the applicable fiscal year. GSA will administer the plan by maintaining a master record of the miles per gallon rating for light trucks acquired by each agency during the fiscal year. Periodically, each agency will be furnished a listing of vehicles acquired with the cumulative fleet average fuel economy attained to compare with its forecast. This will enable an agency to adjust future vehicle acquisitions, when necessary, to comply with the Executive order by the end of the fiscal year. The Federal fleet plan will enable GSA to predict the total fleet average fuel economy to be achieved by all excutive agencies before the end of the fiscal year and to provide management assistance to agencies, when necessary, to ensure compliance with the Executive order. Forecasts of planned acquisitions shall be sent to the General Services Administration (TM), Washington, DC 20406, not later than December 15 for the fiscal year, in the format illustrated in figure A-1 of this attachment. Interagency report control number 0162-GSA-AN has been assigned to this requested forecast. The miles per gallon ratings to be used will be published in an FPMR bulletin to enable agencies to plan their acquisitions and to prepare their forecasts.

3. Agency responsibilities.

a. Executive agencies shall furnish GSA a forecast of the total light truck acquistion requirements for each fiscal year based on the combined city/highway mileage ratings for light trucks developed by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). Despite EPA's decision to publicize only the estimated mileage ratings for vehicles 8,500 pounds GVWR and under in model year 1980, EPA will provide the combined city/highway ratings to GSA. In turn, GSA will furnish this information to agencies to enable them to plan the acquisitions and to prepare the forecasts. Agencies that do not plan purchases or commercial leases or that satisfy their total vehicle requirements through the GSA Interagency Motor Pool System shall furnish a negative forecast. Agencies which need additional copies of the mpg ratings (for 49 States and California vehicles) may write to the General Services Administration (TM), Washington, DC 20406. A sample calculation to clarify how the fleet average fuel economy is derived is illustrated in figure A-2 of this attachment.

b. The forecast of the total agency light truck acquistion requirements shall include trucks to be procured or leased and used in the conterminous United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Guam, the Virgin Islands, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico. The forecast shall not include light trucks (1) procured or leased and/or to be used outside the foregoing areas, (2) designed to perform combat-related missions for the Armed Forces, (3) designed to be used in law enforcement work or emergency rescue work, or (4) specifically exempted by the Administrator of General Services in accordance with subparagraph 6d(2).

c. Requisitions for light trucks sent to GSA for procurement action but for which a contract is not effected during the same fiscal year the requisitions are submitted should be included in the agency's acquisition forecast for the following fiscal year.

d. When a light truck lease contains an option to renew and the option is exercised, that renewal action shall count as a new acquisition and shall be included in the applicable year's forecast.

e. In order to maintain a master record of all light truck acquisitions, agencies shall forward to the General Services Administration (TM), Washington, DC 20406, copies of all agreements for the leasing of light trucks for a period of 60 continuous days or more, including agreements to renew existing leases. When the lease agreement does not provide the following information, it shall be submitted as an attachment to the lease:

(1) Year,
(2) Make,
(3) Model,
(4) Transmission type (if manual, number of forward speeds),
(5) Cubic inch displacement,
(6) Fuel system (fuel injection or carburetor (number of barrels)),
(7) Whether it is a 4 by 2 or 4 by 4, and
(8) If leased in California.

4. GSA responsibilities.

a. Upon receipt of the mileage ratings from the EPA, GSA will publish a G-series FPMR bulletin which will contain the light trucks mpg ratings to be used in the preparation of each agency's light truck forecast.

b. GSA will develop the Federal fleet plan from forecasts of light truck acquisition requirements received from executive agencies. GSA assistance may be requested in preparing forecasts for submission.

c. GSA periodically will furnish each agency a listing showing the status of light trucks acquired with the fleet average fuel economy achieved to enable the agency to determine the extent to which it is in conformance with the forecast originally submitted to GSA. The listing will enable an agency to make adjustments to its acquisition plan, when necessary, to ensure that its fleet average fuel economy is achieved for the applicable fiscal year.

d. Submission of requisitions for procurement or requests for authority to lease light trucks which, in the opinion of GSA, will result in noncompliance with the fleet average fuel economy by the end of the fiscal year may result in requisitions being held in abeyance pending adjustment to the agency's acquisition plan.

General Services Administration (TM)
Washington, D.C. 20406.

The forecast for the total 4 by 2 light trucks to be acquired (procured or leased for 60 continuous days or more, but not obtained from the Interagency Motor Pool System) by (agency) during fiscal year 1980 is as follows:

4 by 2

Van-wagon and Van-panel (items 20 and 30)
- 100—49 States, where the lowest EPA city/highway fuel economy rating for a 6-cylinder automatic is 17 mpg.
- 50—California, where the lowest EPA city/highway fuel economy rating for an 8-cylinder automatic is 14 mpg.

Pickup (item 40)
- 200—49 States, 6-cylinder automatic (17 mpg).
- 50—California, 8-cylinder automatic (14 mpg).

Pickup, compact (item 60)
- 150—49 States, 4-cylinder automatic (22 mpg).
- 25—California, 4-cylinder, 4-speed manual (24 mpg).

Sedan, delivery (item 110)
- 25—49 States, 6-cylinder automatic (19 mpg).

The forecast for the total 4 by 4 light trucks to be acquired by (agency) during fiscal year 1980 is as follows:

4 by 4

Trucks, utility (items 5 and 6)
- 180—49 States, 6-cylinder automatic (18 mpg).
- 10—California, 8-cylinder, 3-speed manual (15 mpg).

Excluding light trucks designed to perform combat-related missions for the Armed Forces or designed to be used in law enforcement work or emergency rescue work, the total planned acquisitions for fiscal year 1980 are calculated to yield a fleet average fuel economy for 4 by 2 trucks of 17.7 miles per gallon and for 4 by 4 trucks of 17.8 miles per gallon.

Interagency report control number 0162-GSA-AN is assigned to this forecast.

The fleet average fuel economy is determined by dividing the total number of light trucks of a certain configuration (4 by 2 and 4 by 4) to be acquired by a sum of terms, each term of which is a fraction created by dividing the number of light trucks of a given model type by the fuel economy of that model type.

The method of calculating the fleet average fuel economy uses harmonic averaging and is specifically required by section 510 of the Motor Vehicle Information and Cost Savings Act (89 Stat. 915, 15 U.S.C. 2010) for passenger automobiles. It is being extended to apply to the calculation of the light truck fleet average fuel economy.

The fleet average fuel economy shown in figure A-1 of this attachment has been calculated as follows:

Total number of light trucks (600) divided by:

1. Six-cylinder automatic transmission van-wagons and van-panels for use in 49 States (100) divided by 17 mpg, plus
2. Eight-cylinder automatic transmission van-wagons and van-panels for use in California (50) divided by 14 mpg, plus
3. Six-cylinder automatic transmission pickups for use in 49 States (200) divided by 17 mpg, plus
4. Eight-cylinder automatic transmission pickups for use in California (50) divided by 14 mpg, plus
5. Four-cylinder automatic transmission compact pickups for use in 49 States (150) divided by 22 mpg, plus
6. Four-cylinder, 4-speed manual transmission compact pickups for use in California (25) divided by 24 mpg, plus
7. Six-cylinder automatic transmission sedan deliveries for use in 49 States (25) divided by 19 mpg.

$$= \frac{600}{\frac{100}{17} + \frac{50}{14} + \frac{200}{17} + \frac{50}{14} + \frac{150}{22} + \frac{25}{24} + \frac{25}{19}}$$

$$= \frac{600}{5.88 + 3.57 + 11.76 + 3.57 + 6.82 + 1.04 + 1.32}$$

$$= \frac{600}{33.96} = 17.7 \text{ (Rounded to the nearest 0.1 mpg)}$$

4 by 4

Total number of light trucks (190) divided by:

1. Six-cylinder automatic transmission utility trucks for use in 49 States (180) divided by 18 mpg, plus
2. Eight-cylinder, 3-speed manual transmission utility trucks for use in California (10) divided by 15 mpg.

$$= \frac{190}{\frac{180}{18} + \frac{10}{15}}$$

$$= \frac{190}{10.0 + .67}$$

$$= \frac{190}{10.67} = 17.8 \text{ (Rounded to nearest 0.1 mpg)}$$

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Bureau of Land Management

43 CFR Public Land Order 5690

[C-23211]

Colorado; Revocation of Executive Order No. 8085

AGENCY: Bureau of Land Management, Interior

ACTION: Public land order.

SUMMARY: This order will revoke an Executive order which withdrew 40 acres of public land as an administrative site for the Forest Service for use as a summer horse pasture. The land is no longer needed by the Forest Service for this or any other purpose.

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 16, 1980.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Sue Bosma, (202) 343-6486.

By virtue of the authority contained in section 204 of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976, 90 Stat. 2751; 43 U.S.C. 1714, it is ordered as follows:

1. Executive Order No. 8085 of April 11, 1939, which withdrew the following described public land as a Forest Service administrative site is hereby revoked:

Sixth Principal Meridian

T. 14 S., R. 86 W.,
Sec. 1, SE¼SW¼.

The area described contains 40 acres in Gunnison County.

2. At 10:00 a.m., on January 16, 1980, the land shall be open to operation of the public land laws generally, subject to valid existing rights, the provisions of existing withdrawals, and the requirements of applicable laws. All valid applications received at or prior to 10:00 a.m., on January 16, 1980, shall be considered as simultaneously filed at that time. Those received thereafter shall be considered in the order of filing.

3. The land will be open to location under the United States mining laws at 10:00 a.m., on January 16, 1980. They have been open to applications and offers under the mineral leasing laws.

Inquiries concerning the land should be addressed to the Chief, Branch of Land Operations, Bureau of Land Management, Colorado State Office, Room 700, Colorado State Bank Building, 1600 Broadway, Denver, Colorado 80202.

Guy R. Martin,
Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

47 CFR Part 73

[BC Docket No. 78-220; RM-3063]

FM Broadcast Stations in Conway, Arkansas and Jacksonville, Arkansas; Changes Made in Table of Assignments

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Report and order.

SUMMARY: This action assigns FM Channel 224A to Conway, Arkansas, as that community's second FM assignment. The provision of a second local FM service to this community is more important even if it precludes a proposed improvement in facilities at Station KOTN(FM) in Pine Bluff, Arkansas.

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 24, 1980.

ADDRESSES: Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D.C. 20554.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Stanley P. Wiggins, Broadcast Bureau, (202) 632-7792.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Report and Order—Proceeding Terminated

Adopted: December 10, 1979.

Released: December 14, 1979.

In the matter of amendment of § 73.202(b), Table of Assignments, FM Broadcast Stations. (Mayflower, Conway and Jacksonville,[1] Arkansas), BC Docket No. 78-220, RM-3063.

1. By Notice of Proposed Rule Making, adopted July 17, 1978, 43 FR 32832, the Commission proposed to amend § 73.202(b) of the Commission's Rules, the FM Table of Assignments, by assigning FM Channel 224A to Conway, Arkansas. The Notice was issued in response to a petition filed by Michael D. Harrison, who had requested the same assignment for the nearby community of Mayflower. Mayflower (pop. 469) presently lacks any local aural service, and Conway (pop. 15,510) has two occupied frequencies assigned to it. However, because one of these frequencies is used at Jacksonville, some 38 kilometers (24 miles) distant, Conway actually has only one local FM service. The Notice also proposed reassignment of Conway Channel 262 to Jacksonville to reflect its use there.

2. Conway is the seat of Faulkner County and the apparent population center of the county. Conway is served by one FM station and two AM stations (one daytime-only and one fulltime). Those factors, combined with technical constraints on the transmitter location for a Channel 224A facility, suggested that the proposed channel's principal service area would actually be Conway rather than Mayflower. No significant preclusion is created by the proposal, but the Notice requested petitioner to submit a showing of first and second FM and aural service. For the reasons set forth below, we have decided to adopt the assignments proposed.

3. Opposition to the proposed Conway assignment were filed by Communications Media Corporation ("CMC"), licensee of KWEE(AM) and KKLF(FM) in Conway, and by Joellen Broadcasting Corporation ("Joellen"), licensee of KOTN(FM) in Pine Bluff, Arkansas. CMC contends the assignment of Channel 224A to Conway for use at Mayflower conflicts with the 10-mile rule (Section 73.203(b)), because that rule limits such assignments to one per community. CMC also contends the proposal provides no first aural service, and will cause Conway, which already has a Class C channel assigned, to be intermixed. Joellen's opposition is premised on its simultaneously filed application for improved facilities for KOTN(FM), which would result in a second aural service to 573 persons in a 453 square kilometer (175 square miles) area.[2] Joellen asserts this improvement in facilities constitutes a better utilization of broadcast spectrum than the Class A facility proposed for Conway, which petitioner concedes will not provide any first or second aural or FM service.

4. Although the proposed assignment would not bring first or second aural or FM service, it would bring a second local FM service for Conway. In our view, this opportunity should not be foreclosed simply because of the modest second aural service gains projected for the proposed KOTN(FM) modification. In addition, Joellen has not shown, or even alleged, that its proposed site is the only other location that will serve the purposes or provide desired service to underserved areas. KOTN(FM) remains free to explore possible alternative approaches to improving its facilities, but the gains from its modification proposal do not warrant the prevention of a second local FM service to a community of 15,000.

[1] This community has been added to the caption.

[2] Joellen's engineering statement asserts there will be first aural service to 84 persons in a 70 square kilometer (27 square miles) area, but Commission staff analysis indicates an error concerning the contour of Station KYK(FM), Little Rock, which when corrected eliminates any first aural service.

5. As for the prohibition in Section 73.203(b) of removing more than one channel from a community, CMC is correct that the rule applies here despite our reassignment of Channel 262 to Jacksonville to reflect its use there. If an applicant wishes to apply to use Channel 224A at a community other than Conway, it may request a waiver of that section.[3] Finally, the Conway assignment will cause intermixture there. However, the Commission has long permitted intermixture of a Class A channel with an existing Class C channel where no other Class C channels are available (as is the case here) and the petitioner indicates his willingness to operate under such conditions. Yakima, Wash., 43 F.C.C. 2d 548 (1973). Petitioner has assured the Commission in comments of his interest in applying for the assignment.

6. Accordingly, it is ordered, That the FM Table of Assignments, § 73.202(b) of the Commission's rules and regulations, is amended as follows:

City	Channel No.
Conway, Arkansas	224A, 256
Jacksonville, Arkansas	262

7. Authority for the adoption of the amendments contained herein appears in Sections 4(i), 5(d)(1), 303 (g) and (r) and 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and § 0.281 of the Commission's rules.

8. It is futher ordered, That this proceeding is terminated.

FM Broadcast Station in Haskell, Tex.; Changes Made in Table of Assignments

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Report and order.

SUMMARY: Action taken herein assigns a Class C FM channel to Haskell, Texas, in response to a petition filed by Kenneth Lane. The station will provide a first and second FM service to a substantial area and significant population in addition to rendering a first local aural broadcast service to Haskell.

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 24, 1980.

ADDRESS: Federal Communications Commission, Washington, D.C. 20554.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mildred B. Nesterak, Broadcast Bureau, (202) 632-7792.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Report and Order—Proceeding Terminated

Adopted: December 10, 1979.

Released: December 14, 1979.

In the matter of amendment of § 73.202(b), Table of Assignments, FM Broadcast Stations (Haskell, Texas), BC Docket No. 79-120, RM-3197.

1. The Commission has under consideration a Notice of Proposed Rule Making, adopted May 15, 1979, 44 FR 30128, proposing the assignment of Class C FM Channel 238 to Haskell, Texas, in response to a petition filed by Kenneth Lane ("petitioner"). Petitioner filed supporting comments. ABKO Broadcasting Company ("ABKO"), licensee of Station KDWT (AM), Stamford, Texas, filed reply comments to which petitioner filed a Motion to Strike. ABKO filed an opposition to the Motion and petitioner filed a reply.

2. In the Notice, we stated that where a community, such as Haskell, has a small population, it would be the usual practice to assign a Class A channel. However, we noted that exceptions were made where a Class C channel could bring a significant amount of first or second FM service or when a Class C channel represented the best means of serving a sparsely populated area. In this case, petitioner had shown that a first and second FM service could be provided to a substantial area and significant population. On that basis the Commission decided to propose a Class C channel even though no first or second nighttime aural service would be provided.

3. Petitioner filed comments supporting the proposal and stated that it would apply for the channel, if assigned. ABKO, in reply comments, contends that petitioner did not submit sufficient evidence to justify the assignment of a Class C channel to Haskell. ABKO argues that no attempt was made by petitioner to determine and compare the areas and populations which would receive a first and second service from a Class A facility at Haskell. It states further that petitioner made no showing as to whether the proposed Class C channel would provide any first or second nighttime aural service. ABKO asserts that in view of the considerable preclusive impact the petitioner should submit showings that justify the Class C channel for Haskell. Then, if the request is justified, the assignment should be conditioned on the use of reasonable facilities (75 kW ERP at 500 feet).

4. In its Motion to Strike, petitioner claims that ABKO had an opportunity to file comments during the time set for that purpose and failed to do so. He contends that ABKO's reply is not responsive to his comments which were the only comments filed in the proceeding, in which he merely reaffirmed his continuing interest in the proposed assignment. Petitioner contends that ABKO, in essence, is proposing a Class A instead of a Class C channel at Haskell, and as such, is in violation of § 1.420(d) of the Commission's Rules which prohibits a counterproposal from being advanced in reply comments.

5. ABKO, in opposing the Motion, claims that it has not advanced a counterproposal but only stated that petitioner had failed to present the studies required to justify an exception to the Commission's policy of assigning a Class C channel only to communities much larger than Haskell. ABKO asserts that its reply comments are directed to the general proposition as are petitoner's comments of whether the proposed assignement should be made to Haskell.

6. In reply, petitioner reiterates his view that ABKO's reply comments are an attempt to submit late comments which should not be allowed to delay this proceeding.

7. Since the Motion to Strike and related pleadings are of a procedural nature, we will deal with that matter first. Petitioner claims that ABKO's comments are late-filed and should be stricken from the record. Although an argument can be made that ABKO's reply comments are responsive to petitioner's comments, the better practice would have been to make the same points in initial comments. Nonetheless, to have a complete record before us we are rejecting the Motion to Strike and shall consider the arguments set forth in ABKO's reply comments.

8. Haskell (pop. 3,655),[1] seat of Haskell County (pop. 8,512), is located approximately 80 kilometers (50 miles) north of Abilene, Texas. It has no local aural broadcast service.

9. The Notice proposing a Class C assignment was issued based on the showing that a Class C station would provide needed service that a Class A station could not provide. For example, a Class C station operating with reasonable facilities could provide a first FM service to 16,908 persons in a 6,364 square kilometer (2,457 square miles) area.[2] The Notice did not request information concerning the provision of first and second service from a Class A facility because it was clear to us from the engineering data included in the original petition that a Class A facility would cover substantially less of the unserved and underserved areas than would be served by any Class C station. Finally, we did not believe that preclusion would be an impediment because one or more channels were available for assignment to the precluded area. Based on this information, the Notice was issued on what was held to be adequate justification to propose assignment of a Class C channel to a community the size of Haskell. Therefore, we must reject ABKO's contentions.

10. We have given careful consideration to the proposal and believe it would be in the public interest to assign Channel 238 to Haskell, Texas. The assignment would provide for an FM station which could render a first local aural broadcast service to Haskell, and also provide first and second FM service to a substantial area and population that is significant even if no first or second aural service is involved.

11. Authority for the action taken herein is contained in Sections 4(i), 5(d)(1), 303(g) and (r) and 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and § 0.281 of the Commission's rules.

12. In view of the foregoing, it is ordered, that effective January 24, 1980, § 73.202(b) of the Commission's rules, the FM Table of Assignments, as regards Haskell, Texas, is amended as follows:

City	Channel No.
Haskell, Texas	238

13. It is further ordered, that this proceeding is terminated.

14. For further information concerning this proceeding, contact Mildred B. Nesterak, Broadcast Bureau, (202) 632-7792.

50 CFR Part 26

Opening of Certain National Wildlife Refuges in Arizona, California, and New Mexico

AGENCY: U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior.

ACTION: Special regulations.

SUMMARY: The Director has determined that the opening to public access, use, and recreation of certain national wildlife refuges in Arizona, California and New Mexico is compatible with the objectives for which the areas were established, and will provide additional recreational opportunity to the public through a nonconsumptive use. This document establishes special regulations effective for the upcoming public entry and use season.

DATES: Effective on date of publication from January 1, 1980 through December 31, 1980.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: The Area Manager or appropriate Refuge Manager at the address or telephone number listed below:

Albert W. Jackson, Area Manager, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 2953 West Indian School Road, Phoenix, AZ 85017. Telephone: 602-261-6833.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

General

Public access, use, and recreation is permitted on the National Wildlife Refuges indicated below in accordance with 50 CFR 26 and the following Special Regulations. Portions of refuges which are open to public access, use and recreation are designated by signs and/or delineated on maps available from addresses indicated below.

No vehicle travel is permitted except on designated, maintained roads and trails. Special conditions applying to individual refuges are listed on leaflets from the office of the Regional Director, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, P.O. Box 3106, Albuquerque, NM 87103.

The Refuge Recreation Act of 1963 (16 U.S.C. 460k) authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to administer such areas for public recreation as an appropriate incidental or secondary use only to the extent that it is practicable and consistent with the primary objectives for which the area was established. In addition, the Refuge Recreation Act requires (1) that such recreational use will not interfere with the primary purpose for which the areas were established, and (2) that funds are available for the development, operation, and maintenance of the permitted forms of recreation.

The recreational use authorized by these regulations will not interfere with the primary purposes for which these National Wildlife Refuges were established. The determination is based upon consideration of, among other things, the Service's Final Environmental Statement on the Operation of the National Wildlife Refuge System published in November 1976. Funds are available for the administration of the recreational activities permitted by these regulations.

Public entry shall be in accordance with all applicable Federal and State laws and regulations subject to the following conditions:

§ 26.34 Special regulations; public access, use, and recreation; for individual wildlife refuge areas.

Public access, use, and recreation is permitted on the following areas:

Arizona

Cabeza Prieta National Wildlife Refuge, P.O. Box 418, Ajo, AZ 85321. Contact: James R. Fisher, Refuge Manager at 602-387-6483. Special condition:

The Cabeza Prieta National Wildlife Refuge, Arizona, is open to public access, use, and recreational activities from January 1 through December 31, 1980, subject to the provisions of Title 50, Code of Federal Regulations, and all applicable Federal and State laws and regulations and all official signs posted in the area. Since the refuge is adjacent to the Williams Bombing Range, public access will be restricted to those days when the range is hot in use. For purposes of protecting human safety as well as the fragile environment of the 860,000 acre Cabeza Prieta National Wildlife Refuge, all entry into the refuge is subject to the possession of a valid permit issued by the Refuge Manager or his designated assistant. Such permit may be obtained at the offices of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service located at 1611 North 2nd Avenue, Ajo, Arizona, or at 356 West 1st Street, Yuma, Arizona, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Fridays (except holidays).

One permit will be required for each vehicle entering the refuge. Vehicles are restricted to designated access roads. Each person entering the refuge by means other than motorized vehicles is also required to possess an entry permit, obtainable as required for vehicular entry. Additionally, each person entering the refuge must sign a hold harmless agreement due to military use of the area for overflights to and from the Williams Bombing Range.

The provisions of this special regulation supplement the regulations which govern public access, use and recreation on wildlife refuge areas generally which are set forth in Title 50, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 26, and are effective through December 31, 1980.

Kofa National Wildlife Refuge, P.O. Box 1032, Yuma, AZ 85364. Contact: Milton K. Haderlie, Refuge Manager at 602-783-7861. Special condition:

For purposes of protecting wildlife habitat and the fragile environment of the 660,000-acre Kofa National Wildlife Refuge, Arizona, camping is limited for each person to 14 days during any 12-month period.

Recreational (non-commercial) rockhounding, including digging with simple hand tools, is permitted only in the designated area known as Crystal Hill.

The areas described aggregate 3,664.39 acres.

On the remainder of the Kofa National Wildlife Refuge outside the designated Crystal Hill area, collecting of rocks or minerals, or both, is restricted to materials that are exposed and collectible without the use of tools.

Pets are permitted only if they are confined or kept on a leash, not to exceed ten (10) feet in length, one end of which is secured so as to restrict the movement of the animal. (Except the use of dogs when hunting with special hunting regulations.)

There is no hunting permitted inside the area designated as Crystal Hill campground.

The provisions of this special regulation supplement the regulations which govern public access, use and recreation on Wildlife Refuge areas generally which are set forth in Title 50, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 26, and are effective through December 31, 1980.

Arizona and California

Cibola National Wildlife Refuge, Box AP, Blythe, Calif. 92225. Contact: Wesley V. Martin, Refuge Manager at 714-922-2129. Special condition:

(1) The minimum altitude for aircraft flying over the Cibola National Wildlife Refuge shall be 2,000 feet above ground elevation. This regulation is meant to prevent harassment of wildlife and to promote quality recreational experiences for the visiting public.

(2) Wildlife observation, photography and hiking are permitted except in areas posted closed to public entry.

(3) Open fires are prohibited. Fires, if contained in grills or other suitable equipment, are permitted provided they are used in unvegetated areas. The clearing of vegetation for any purpose is prohibited.

(4) Waterskiing is prohibited in the Old River Channel section of the Colorado River north of Walter's Camp. This closure is for the protection of wildlife values and possible danger to skiers from submerged hazards. The above described waters lie north of the refuge boundary in Section 24, T2S, Arizona and Section 6, T11S, California.

(5) Waterskiing is permitted in the Cibola Dry Cut section of the Colorado River.

(6) Motorized vehicles, including motorcycles, are permitted only on designated developed roads. Motorized vehicles must be licensed and registered and in compliance with state vehicle codes, and vehicle operators must possess a valid state driver's license. Driving off roads, or on roads closed by signs or barriers, or across farmlands is prohibited.

(7) Overnight camping is prohibited on Cibola National Wildlife Refuge.

(8) The period of use on Cibola National Wildlife Refuge is daylight to dark with the following exceptions:

(a) Fishing—permitted at night in areas open to fishing within the season.

(b) Frogging—permitted at night in area opened to frogging.

The degree of public access, use and recreational activities permitted on Cibola National Wildlife Refuge is described below for the three refuge public use zones.

Zone I. This area is designated on the refuge recreation leaflet map and is marked by signs and described as including all lands bordered on the north by Baseline Road, on the east by the refuge boundary, on the south by an unimproved dirt road one-fourth mile above the Bishop Ranch, and on the west by the centerline of the Colorado River. The above-described lands include all refuge lands east of the Cibola Dry Cut section of the Colorado River lying within Sections 1, 2, 11, 12, 13, 14, 23 and 24, T1S, R24W, and Sections 6, 7, 18 and 19, T1S, R23W. Zone I is closed to hunting. Also closed to public entry and use in Zone I is that area within the above-described zone that lies east of the Bureau of Reclamation tie-back levee as marked by signs and as designated on the refuge recreational leaflet map.

Zone II. This area is marked by signs and described as all refuge lands west of the Cibola Dry Cut section of the Colorado River and north of Zone III, and all refuge lands east of the Dry Cut, south of Zone I and north of Zone III. Zone II is open to public recreation throughout the year under provisions and special conditions listed above in Special Conditions 1 through 8.

Zone III. This area is marked by signs and described as including all lands bordered by the refuge boundary on the east and south, the centerline of the New River Channel and Old River Channel sections of the Colorado River in the west, and the Hartmine Wash Levee which follows the east-west quarter section line that bisects Sections 7, 13, 19, 24, 30 and 31, T2S, R23W. Zone III is closed to hunting. It is also closed to fishing, boating and hiking from January 1 through March 14, 1980, and from September 6 through December 31, 1980. Wildife observation and photography are permitted from vehicles traveling on established levee roads and from boats traveling on the Colorado River channel during this period Zone III is open to fishing, boating, hiking, wildlife observation and photography from March 15 through September 5, 1980.

Havasu National Wildlife Refuge, P.O. Box A, Needles, Calif. 92363 Contact: Tyrus W. Berry, Refuge Manager at 714-326-3853. Special condition:

(1) The minimum altitude for aircraft flying over the Havasu National Wildlife Refuge shall be 2,000 feet above ground elevation. This regulation is meant to prevent harassment of wildlife and to promote quality recreational experiences for the visiting public.

(2) Waterskiing is permitted only on the channelized segment of the Colorado River except for the portion of the river called "Topock Gorge", which is designated by buoys and signs as being "Closed to Waterskiing". The north buoy line is located between the I-40 highway bridge and the A.T. & S.F. Railroad bridge. The south buoy line is located on a imaginary line between a point one-fourth mile south of Jops Harbor on the Arizona shoreline and a point one-fourth mile south of the southern entrance to Clear Bay on the California shoreline.

(3) Wildlife observation, photography and hiking are permitted except in those areas posted closed to public entry.

(4) Overnight camping is permitted at the two concessions on Topock Marsh and along the Arizona shoreline below the buoy line designating the southern entrance to Topock Gorge. However, camping is prohibited at Mesquite Bay, located within this stretch of shoreline.

(5) Boating is permitted in all waters of the refuge except in those areas posted closed to public entry. Wakeless speed only is permitted east of the buoys on the Bill Williams River and within the harbors of Five Mile Landing and Catfish Paradise. In these "No Wake" areas the boat speed may not exceed 5 mph and the wake must be held to a low, noncresting roll.

(6) Motorized vehicles are permitted on designated developed roads and parking areas only. Driving off roads and on roads closed by sign or barrier is prohibited.

(7) Fires may be built only in areas where camping is allowed.

(8) Litter facilities are provided only for recreational users who are swimming, boating, picnicking, fishing, hunting, hiking or camping.

(9) Additional attachments to mobile homes and travel trailers located at refuge concessions must be limited to cabanas, awnings, or similar types of shades that are easily removable, portable and not permanently fixed to the ground. They may be equipped with windbreaks of a similar portable nature that do not completely enclose the sides, but may not be utilized for regular living or sleeping space or to house household equipment other than lounge furniture.

(10) Residents are required to maintain their lots and trailers in a neat, orderly and hazard-free condition. Trailer slabs, porches, and cabanas are not to be used for permanent living space, storage of household goods or other miscellaneous items with the exception of lounge furniture. No storage will be allowed under the mobile home, travel trailer or porch area. The interior of the mobile, travel trailer, storage shed or storage yard are the only authorized storage areas.

(11) Concession operators and tenants will maintain their facilities and residences in accordance with Title 25, Housing and Community Development; Chapter 5, Mobile Home Parks, Special Occupancy Trailer Parks and Campgrounds; California Administration Code; State of California.

(12) All trailers, attachments, and other structures on the lots must be capable of being removed within 24 hours of notice. All tires must remain on the mobile home or travel trailer at all times.

(13) The mooring of unattended boats is allowed only at designated boat slips at Five Mile Landing and Catfish Paradise concessions.

(14) Concession residents who repeatedly violate refuge regulations can and will be barred from living on or using refuge lands and facilities.

Imperial National Wildlife Refuge, P.O. Box 2217, Martinez Lake, Arizona 85304. Contact: Gerald E. Duncan, Refuge Manager at 602–783–3400. Special condition:

(1) An area on the west end of Martinez Lake, consisting of approximately 175 acres and an area of approximately 1,400 acres in the north end of Ferguson Lake, shall be closed to public entry during the periods from January 1 through March 1, 1980, and from October 1 through December 31, 1980.

(2) Waterskiing and towing of any device except boats with a person aboard, for recreational purposes, is permitted only on certain sections of the main stream (channels) of the Colorado River where designated by signs.

(3) Boating is permitted in all waters of the refuge except in those areas posted closed to public entry.

(4) Blocking of boat ramps or routes of public access is prohibited.

(5) Wildlife observation, photography and hiking are permitted except in those areas posted closed to public entry.

(6) The removal or disturbance of sand, gravel, rocks or minerals is prohibited.

(7) Overnight camping is prohibited.

(8) The removal or disturbance of deadwood or live vegetation is prohibited.

(9) Pets are permitted only if they are confined or kept on a leash not to exceed 10 feet in length, one end of which is secured so as to restrict the movement of the animal.

(10) The minimum altitude for aircraft flying over the Imperial National Wildlife Refuge shall be 2,000 feet above the ground elevation. This regulation is meant to prevent harassment of wildlife and to promote quality recreational experience for the visiting public.

New Mexico

Bitter Lake National Wildlife Refuge, Box 7, Roswell, New Mexico 88201. Contact: LeMoyne B. Marlatt, Refuge Manager at 505–622–6755. Special conditions:

Public recreational use of Bitter Lake National Wildlife Refuge, New Mexico, is permitted on approximately 15,500 acres of land and water, as designated by signs and by informational leaflets available from both the refuge headquarters, 13 miles northeast of Roswell, New Mexico and from the Regional Director, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, P.O. Box 1306, Albuquerque, New Mexico 87103. The following special conditions apply to the Salt Creek Wilderness portion of the refuge: (1) Entry is limited to foot travel and horseback riding. (2) Overnight camping is permitted, but only after obtaining written permission from the Refuge Manager. (3) Camping is limited to three consecutive nights, after which the Refuge Manager must be notified of departure. (4) Open campfires are permitted, but must be left cold and completely buried in the ground after use, so as to leave no evidence. (5) All trash must be hauled out of the wilderness, not buried or otherwise left behind.

The following special conditions apply to non-wilderness portions of the Refuge: (1) All visitors are required to register before entry into the South Unit public use area. (2) Sightseeing, nature observation, photography and hiking are permitted year-round within designated areas. (3) The refuge public use areas are open to use from one hour before sunrise to one hour after sunset only, unless otherwise posted. (4) Picnicking is permitted in conjunction with above listed recreational activities at designated sites. (5) Fires are permitted in the picnic grills only. Only dead and fallen brush and trees may be taken for firewood. (6) Boating is permitted only within designated waterfowl hunting areas and designated seasons.

Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge, P.O. Box 1246, Socorro, New Mexico 87801. Contact: Ronald L. Perry, Refuge Manager at 505–835–1828. Special conditions:

(1) Permitted recreational uses include wildlife/wildland observation, nature study, photography, fishing as regulated, and hunting as regulated. All public access and use not expressly permitted is prohibited.

(2) The refuge is open to public access and use from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset only.

(3) Portions of the refuge which are closed to public access and use are designated by signs and/or delineated on maps available from any of the following addresses upon request: Refuge Manager, P.O. Box 1246, Socorro, New Mexico 87801; Area Manager, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 2953 West Indian School Road, Phoenix, Arizona 85017; Regional Director, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, P.O. Box 1306, Albuquerque, New Mexico 87103.

Maxwell National Wildlife Refuge, P.O. Box 276, Maxwell, New Mexico 87728. Contact: Jon Brock at 505–375–2331. Special conditions:

The following activities are permitted: Wildlife observation and photography are permitted except in those area posted closed to public entry.

Fishing as regulated.

All public use, access and recreational activity not otherwise expressly permitted is prohibited.

The provisions of these special regulations supplement the regulations which govern hunting on wildlife refuge areas generally set forth in Title 50, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 33. The public is invited to offer suggestions and comments at any time.

Note.—The Fish and Wildlife Service has determined that this document does not contain a major proposal requiring preparation of an economic impact statement under Executive Order 11949 and OMB Circular A–107.

SUMMARY: The Director has determined that the opening to sport fishing of certain National Wildlife Refuges in Washington is compatible with the objectives for which these areas were established, will utilize a renewable natural resource, and will provide additional recreational opportunity to the public. This document establishes special regulations effective for the upcoming sport fishing seasons.

DATES: January 1, 1980 to December 31, 1980.

ADDRESSES: Contact the Refuge Manager at the address and/or telephone number listed below in the body of Special Regulations.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Joseph R. Blum, Area Officer Manager, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 2625 Parkmont Lane, Olympia, Washington 98502, Telephone: FTS 434–9578 or 9579 Com'l 206–753–9578 or 9579.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Refuge Recreation Act 1962 (16 U.S.C. 460k) authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to administer such areas for public recreation as an appropriate incidental or secondary use only to the extent that it is practicable and not inconsistent with the primary objectives for which the area was established. In addition, the Refuge Recreation Act requires (1) that no area of the refuge system is used for forms of recreation not directly related to the primary purposes for which the area was established; and (2) that funds are available for the development, operation, and maintenance of the permitted forms of recreation.

The recreational use authorized by these regulations will not interfere with the primary purposes for which the National Wildlife Refuge(s) were established. This determination is based upon consideration of, among other things, the Service's Final Environmental Statement on the Operation of the National Wildlife Refuge System published in November 1976. Funds are available for the administration of the recreational activities permitted by these regulations.

Sport fishing is permitted on the National Wildlife Refuges indicated below in accordance with 50 CFR 33 and the following Special Regulations. Portions of refuges which are open to sport fishing are designated by signs and/or delineated on maps. No vehicle travel is permitted except on maintained roads and trails. Special conditions and maps applying to individual refuges are available as pamphlet handouts at refuge headquarters and from the office of the Regional Director, Fish and Wildlife Service, Lloyd 500 Building, 500 N.E. Multnomah Street, Portland, Oregon 97232. Fishing shall be in accordance with all applicable State regulations subject to the following conditions:

§ 33.5 Special regulations; sport fishing; for individual wildlife refuge areas.

1. Sport fishing is allowed on the following refuge areas: Columbia National Wildlife Refuge, P.O. Drawer "F," Othello, Washington 99344. Contact Refuge Manager at 509–488–2660. (1) The following waters are open to fishing March 1 to September 30, 1980: Bobcat Creek and Ponds; Cattail Lake; Cpypte Creek and Ponds; Crab Creek from Highway 26 to McMannaman Road; Deadman Lake; Hampton Lake and Sloughs; Hays Creek and Ponds; Hutchinson Lake; Juvenile Lake; McMannaman Lake; Pillar Lake; Para Lake; Royal Lake; Shiner Lake; Widgeon Lake; Quail Lake (see special conditions); Shoveler Lake. All other waters are open year-round. (2) Quail Lake is open to the use of artificial flies with barbless hooks only, and all fish must be released immediately. (3) Boats or any floating devices are prohibited on all lakes located between Soda and Upper Hampton Lakes. Boats without motors are allowed on Upper Hampton Lake and Crab Creek and impoundments from O'Sullivan Dam to Goose Lake Road (Marsh Unit 1). The use of powered or non-powered is permitted on all other waters open for fishing.

Conboy Lake National Wildlife Refuge, Glenwood, Washington 98619. Contact Refuge Manager at 509–364–3410 for any special conditions.

Little Pend Oreille National Wildlife Refuge, Route 1, Colville, Washington 99114. Contact Refuge Manager at 509–684–5343 for any special conditions.

McNary National Wildlife Refuge, P.O. Box 308, Burbank, Washington 99523. Contact Refuge Manager at 509–547–4942. (1) The refuge is closed to fishing during the migratory waterfowl hunting season. (2) The use of boats or other floating devices is prohibited.

Ridgefield National Wildlife Refuge, P.O. Box 457, Ridgefield, Washington 98642. Contact Refuge Manager at 206–887–4071 for any special conditions.

Umatilla National Wildlife Refuge, P.O. Box 239, Umatilla, Oregon 97882. Contact Wildlife Manager at 503–922–3232 for any special conditions.

The provisions of these special regulations supplement the regulations which govern fishing on wildlife refuge areas generally and which are set forth in Title 50 Code of Federal Regulations, Part 33. The public is invited to offer suggestions and comments at any time.

The Fish and Wildlife Service has determined that this document does not contain a major proposal requiring preparation of an Economic Impact Statement under Executive Order 11949 and OMB Circular A–107.

Rhodesian Sanctions Regulations

AGENCY: Office of Foreign Assets Control.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Office of Foreign Assets Control is amending the Rhodesian Sanctions Regulations by revoking all the prohibitions on transactions with Rhodesia. The need for the amendments is to implement Executive Order 12183, 42 FR 74787, terminating United States sanctions against Rhodesia. The purpose and effect of the amendments is to remove all formerly prohibited transactions with Rhodesia from Treasury control.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 17, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Dennis M. O'Connell, Chief Counsel, Office of Foreign Assets Control, Department of the Treasury, Washington D.C. 20220, (202) 376–0236.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Treasury retains authority to investigate any violation of any provision of the Regulations that occurred prior to the revocation thereof and to institute appropriate enforcement measures. The revocation shall also not affect any violation of any rules, regulations, orders, licenses, or other forms of administrative action during the period that they were in effect.

In keeping with the retention of Treasury investigatory and enforcement authority, certain relevant sections of the Regulations, including the recordkeeping and reporting provisions (§§ 530.601 and 530.602) and the penalties provision (§ 530.701) have not been revoked.

The Rhodesian Sanctions Regulations Part 530 are amended by the revocation of the following subparts and sections:

Subpart A, Subpart B, Subpart C, 530.401, 530.403, 530.404, 530.405, 530.406, 530.407, 530.408, 530.409, 530.410, Subpart E and Subpart H.

7 CFR Part 20

Export Sales Reporting of Cattle Hides and Skins

AGENCY: Foreign Agricultural Service, USDA.

ACTION: Proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: This proposed rule would amend the export sales reporting regulations to provide for reporting of cattle hides and skins. The rule is proposed in order to provide for the collection of data with respect to export sales of animal hides and skins required by Section 7(g) of the Export Administration Act of 1979 (Pub. L. 96–72). This rule also proposes a generally applicable procedure for submission of monthly reports to be followed in the event such reporting is required in the future.

DATE: In order to be considered, written comments must be received on or before February 19, 1980.

ADDRESS: Mail all written comments to the Director, Export Sales Reporting Division, Foreign Agricultural Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Room 4919–South Building, Washington, D.C. 20250. All written comments made pursuant to this notice will be available for public inspection at the above address during business hours from 8:15 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., Monday through Friday.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Richard J. Finkbeiner, Director, Export Sales Reporting Division, FAS, Room 4919–South Agriculture Building, Washington, D.C. 20250, telephone (202) 447–5651.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 7(g) of the Export Administration Act of 1979 (Pub. L. 96–72) provides that the Secretary of Agriculture, by exercising the authorities which the Secretary has under other applicable provisions of law, shall collect data with respect to export sales of animal hides and skins. The legislative history of this section indicates that the intent of the Congress was to monitor only cattle hides and skins and that this be accomplished under the mandatory reporting requirements of Section 812 of the Agricultural Act of 1970, as amended. It is proposed that this provision of law be implemented by amending Appendix 1 of the export sales reporting regulations (7 CFR Part 20) to include specific hide and skin items as indicated herein. As a result, the current procedures and requirements of 7 CFR Part 20 would be fully applicable to these items.

Generally, weekly reporting and publication of data is required under § 812. However, Section 812 provides that the Secretary of Agriculture may require reporting on a monthly rather than weekly basis with respect to any commodity during any period in which he determines that there is a domestic supply of such commodity substantially in excess of the quantity needed to meet domestic requirements, and that total supplies of such commodity in the exporting countries are estimated to be in surplus, and that anticipated exports will not result in excessive drain on domestic supplies, and that to require the reports to be made will unduly hamper export sales.

Presently, no export sales are required to be reported monthly. It is felt that the regulations should be amended to encompass such reporting in the event it is required in the future. Comments are specifically requested as to the applicability of these provisions to the reporting of export sales of cattle hides and skins.

The Department is presently (through December 10, 1979) receiving public comment on a proposed rule to amend the regulations as part of an effort to provide a shorter period of time between the making of export sales transactions and the inclusion of such transactions in the compilation of export sales published by the Department. This proposed rule was published in the Federal Register on Tuesday, October 9, 1979 (44 FR 57931). Implementation of that rulemaking will not be delayed pending consideration of the present proposal. For the sake of convenience, paragraph references of this proposed rule are based on § 20.6(k)(2) as it would be revised by the proposed rule published at 44 FR 57931. Therefore, the numbering system is subject to change.

Proposed Rule

In consideration of the foregoing it is proposed to amend Part 20 of 7 CFR as follows:

1. Section 20.6(b) is amended by adding at the end thereof a new sentence to read as follows:

§ 20.6 Submission of reports.

* * * * *

(b) Monthly reports. * * * The forms specified in paragraph (a) of this section shall be utilized to furnish the information required to be reported monthly, and such information shall be filed in the manner and at the time required by § 20.6(k).

2. Section 20.6(k)(2) is amended by adding between the second and third sentence a new sentence as follows:

§ 20.6 Submission of reports.

* * * * *

(k) Manner of and time of reporting.

(2) Time of filing reports. * * *

Information required to be reported monthly must be received in the office specified in § 20.10 no later than 4:45 p.m., Washington, D.C. time the fourth business day following the end of the reporting month, or such other time as may be approved in advance by that office, setting forth the required information as to export sales transactions made during the reporting month ending midnight the last day of such month.

3. Section 20.7 is amended by adding a sentence at the end thereof to read as follows:

§ 20.7 Confidentiality of reports.

* * * Information from monthly reports filed by exporters will be compiled and published in compilation form in the weekly report no later than the week following the time of filing specified in § 20.6(k).

4. Appendix 1 is amended to add the following under the indicated column headings:

Appendix 1.—Commodities Subject to Reports, Units of Measure To Be Used in Reporting, and Beginning and Ending Dates of Marketing Years

* * * * * * *

Commodity to be reported	Unit of measure to be used in reporting	Beginning of marketing year	End of marketing year
Cattle hides and skins—whole cattle hides	Pieces	January 1	December 31.
Cattle hides and skins—whole calf skins	Pieces	January 1	December 31.
Cattle hides and skins—whole kip skins	Pieces	January 1	December 31.
Cattle hides and skins—cut into croupons, crops, dossets, sides, butts, or butt bends.	Pieces	January 1	December 31.
Cattle hides and skins—other	Pounds	January 1	December 31.

(Sec. 812, Public Law 91–524, as added by Pub. L. 93–86, Sec. 1(27)(B), 87 Stat. 238 (7 U.S.C. 612c–3); sec. 7(g), Pub. L. 96–72, 93 Stat. 519 (50 U.S.C. app. 2406(g))

Note.—This proposal has been reviewed under the USDA criteria established to implement Executive Order 12044, "Improving Government Regulations." A determination has been made that this action should not be classified "significant" under those criteria. 7 CFR Part 724

Proposed Determinations of Marketing Quotas for the 1979–80, 1980–81 and 1981–82 Marketing Years for Fire-Cured (Type 21), Fire-Cured (Types 22–24), Dark Air Cured (Types 35–36), Virginia Sun Cured (Type 37), Cigar-Binder (Types 51 & 52), and Cigar Filler and Binder (Types 42–44; 53–55) Tobaccos

AGENCY: Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, USDA.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: The Secretary of Agriculture is preparing to determine and announce national marketing quotas for Fire-cured, Dark air-cured, Virginia sun-cured, Cigar-binder, and Cigar-filler and binder kinds of tobacco for the 1980–81 marketing year. The quotas must be announced by February 1, 1980, in compliance with the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938. Interested persons are invited to submit written comments, views and recommendations concerning the proclamation and announcement of quotas, the referendum to be held, and other related matters.

DATES: Written comments must be received by January 18, 1980 in order to be sure of consideration.

ADDRESSES: Send comments to the Director, Price Support and Loan Division, ASCS, U.S. Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013. All written submissions made pursuant to the notice will be made available for public inspection from 8:15 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., Monday through Friday, in Room 3741—South Building, 14th and Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Robert L. Tarczy, ASCS, (202) 447–6733.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, (hereinafter referred to as the "Act"), requires the Secretary (1) with respect to Virginia Sun-Cured (type 37) tobacco, to proclaim national marketing quotas for the 1979–80, 1980–81, and 1981–82 marketing years and to conduct, within 30 days after proclamation of such national marketing quotas, referendums of farmers engaged in the 1979 production of such respective kinds of tobacco to determine whether they favor or oppose markeing quotas for such years; and (2) with respect to fire-cured (type 21), fire-cured (types 22–24), dark air-cured, Virginia sun-cured, cigar-binder (types 51 & 52), and cigar filler and binder (types 42–44 & 53–55) tobacco, to determine and announce the amounts of the national marketing quotas for each of such kinds of tobacco for the 1980–81 marketing year; to convert such marketing quotas into national acreage allotments and announce the allotments; to apportion such allotments, less reserves of not to exceed 1 per centum of each respectively, through the local county ASCS committees among old farms; and to apportion the reserves for use in (a) establishing acreage allotments for new farms and (b) making corrections and adjusting inequities in old farm allotments.

Section 312(a) of the Act (7 U.S.C. 1312(a)) requires the Secretary to proclaim marketing quotas, not later than February 1, 1980, for Virginia Sun-Cured (type 37) tobacco for the three marketing years beginning October 1, 1980, because the 1979–80 marketing years is the last year of the three consecutive years for which marketing quotas previously proclaimed will be in effect for these kinds of tobacco.

Quotas were previously proclaimed, referendums conducted, and quotas approved by growers as follows: Fire-cured and dark air-cured tobacco for the 1979–80, 1980–81, and 1981–82 marketing years (44 FR 7109); Virginia sun-cured tobacco for the 1977–78, 1978–79 and 1979–80 marketing years (42 FR 6819); and Cigar binder tobacco (types 51 & 52) and cigar-filler and binder tobacco (types 42–44 & 53–55) for the 1978–79, 1979–80, 1980–81 marketing years (43 FR 16410).

Section 301(b)(15) of the Act (7 U.S.C. 1301(b)(15)) defines "tobacco" as each one of the kinds of tabacco listed below comprising the types specified as classified in Service and Regulatory Announcement Number 118 (Part 30 of this title) of the former Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Department:

Flue-cured tobacco, comprising types 11, 12, 13, & 14;
Fire-cured tobacco, comprising type 21;
Fire-cured tobacco, comprising types 22, 23, & 24;
Dark air-cured tobacco, comprising types 35 & 36;
Virginia sun-cured tobacco, comprising type 37;
Burley tobacco, comprising type 31;
Maryland tobacco, comprising type 32;
Cigar filler and cigar binder tobacco, comprising types 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 51, 52, 53, 54, & 55; and Cigar filler tobacco, comprising type 41.

Section 301(b)(15) also provides that any one or more of the types comprising any such kind of tobacco shall be treated as a "kind of tobacco" for the purposes of the Act if the Secretary finds that there is a difference in supply and demand conditions as among such types of tobacco which results in a difference in the adjustments needed in the marketings thereof in order to maintain supplies in line with demand. Pursuant to this authority, the Secretary has determined (15 FR 8214) that type 46 tobacco shall be treated as a separate kind of tobacco for purposes of marketing quotas and price supports. Pursuant to such authority, the Secretary has also determined (22 FR 367) that cigar-binder (types 51 and 52) tobacco, beginning with the 1957–58 marketing year, shall be treated as a separate kind of tobacco for purposes of marketing quotas and price supports. Type 45 tobacco is no longer grown. No further action under this section is comtemplated at this time.

Section 312(b) of the Act (7 U.S.C. 1312(b)) provides that the Secretary shall determine and announce, not later than the first day of February 1980 with respect to kinds of tobacco other than flue-cured tobacco, the amount of the national marketing quota which will be in effect for the 1980–81 marketing year in terms of the total quantity of tobacco which may be marketed which will make available during such marketing year a supply of each kind of tobacco equal to the reserve supply level. Section 312(b) of the Act provides further that the amount of the 1980–81 national marketing quota so announced may, not later than March 1, 1979, be increased by not more than 20 per centum if the Secretary determines that such increases is necessary in order to meet market demands or to avoid undue restrictions of marketings in adjusting the total supply to the reserve supply level.

Section 301(b) of the Act (7 U.S.C. 1301(b)) defines the "total supply" of any kind of tobacco (except type 46) for any marketing year as the carry-over at the beginning of the marketing year (or on January 1 of such marketing year in the case of Maryland tobacco) plus the estimated production in the United States during the calendar year in which such marketing begins. "Reserve supply level" is defined as the normal supply plus 5 per centum thereof. "Normal supply" is defined as a normal year's domestic consumption and exports, plus 175 per centum of a normal year's domestic consumption and 65 per centum of a normal year's exports. A "normal year's domestic consumption" is defined as the yearly average quantity of tobacco produced in the United States and consumed in the United States during the 10 marketing years immediately preceding the marketing year in which such consumption is determined, adjusted for current trends in such consumption.

A "normal year's" exports is defined as the yearly average quantity of tobacco produced in the United States which was exported from the United States during the 10 marketing years immediately preceding the marketing year in which such exports are determined, adjusted for current trends in such exports.

Section 312(c) of the Act (7 U.S.C. 1312(c)) requires that within 30 days after a national marketing quota is proclaimed under § 312(a) of the Act for a kind of tobacco, the Secretary shall conduct a referendum of farmers engaged in the production of the crop of such kinds of tobacco harvested immediately prior to the holding of the referendum to determine whether such farmers are in favor of or opposed to quotas for the next three succeeding marketing years. If more than one-third of the farmers voting in a referendum for a kind of tobacco oppose the quotas, such results shall be proclaimed by the Secretary and the national marketing quotas so proclaimed shall not be in effect, but such results shall in no way affect or limit the subsequent proclamation and submission to a referendum, as otherwise provided in § 312, of a national marketing quota.

Section 313(g) of the Act (7 U.S.C. 1313(g)) authorizes the Secretary to convert the national marketing quota into a national acreage allotment on the basis of the national average yield for the five years immediately preceding the year in which the national marketing quota is proclaimed and to apportion the national acreage allotment (less a reserve of not to exceed 1 per centum thereof for new farms and for making corrections and adjusting inequities in old farm allotments) among old farms.

Proposed Rule

The Secretary is preparing to determine and announce for the 1980–81 marketing year for the minor kinds of tobacco:

1. The amount of the reserve supply level for fire-cured (type 21), fire-cured (types 22–24), dark air-cured, Virginia sun-cured, cigar binder (types 51 & 52) and cigar filler and binder (types 42–44 & 53–55) tobaccos.

2. The amount of the national marketing quota for each of these kinds of tobacco for the 1980–81 marketing year.

3. The national factors for apportioning national acreage allotments to old farms.

4. The amounts of the national acreage allotments to be reserved for new farms and for making corrections and adjusting inequities in old farm allotments.

5. The date or period of the referendum on quotas for the 1980–81, 1981–82, and 1982–83 marketing year for Virginia Sun-Cured (type 37) tobacco, and whether the referendum should be conducted at polling places rather than by mail ballot (31 FR 12011).

Note.—This proposal has been reviewed under the USDA criteria established to implement Executive Order 12044, "Improving Government Regulations". A determination has been made that this action should not be classified "significant" under those criteria. This action is being proposed without a full 60-day comment period as specified in Executive Order 12044 and Secretary's Memorandum No. 1955 because of the statutory deadlines which require that the determinations in question be announced no later than February 1, 1980. A draft impact analysis has been prepared and is available form Robert L. Tarczy, Price Support and Loan Division, Room 3741-South Building, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Signed at Washington, D.C. on: December 13, 1979.

Administrator, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Standby Federal Conservation Plan; Extension of Comment Period

AGENCY: Department of Energy.

ACTION: Notice of extension of comment period.

SUMMARY: As required by the Emergency Energy Conservation Act of 1979 (the Act), the Department of Energy (DOE) is developing a standby Federal conservation plan. With this notice, DOE extends the period for submitting comments on the types of measure which should, or should not, be included in the standby Federal conservation plan, the rationale for such measures, and the level of shortage (i.e. mild or acute) at which those measures should be implemented.

DATE: Comments now must be received by December 27, 1979.

ADDRESS: Send comments to Ms. Carol Snipes, Hearings and Dockets, Conservation and Solar Energy, Department of Energy, 20 Massachusetts Avenue, N.W., Mail Stop 2221C, Washington, D.C. 20585, telephone (202) 376–1651.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: DOE established the original comment period in a Notice of Inquiry which was published in the Federal Register on December 7, 1979, at page 70692. After consultation with some potential respondents, DOE has concluded that the comment period should be extended until December 27, 1979, to allow interested persons more time to prepare and submit comments.

In the original Federal Register notice, DOE indicated that the standby Federal conservation plan would be codified at 10 CFR Part 576. DOE has decided that this plan should be located in the series which is dedicated to general conservation measures. Accordingly the plan will be codified at 10 CFR Part 477.

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: This proposal affirms the generally recognized as safe (GRAS) status of calcium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic), calcium pyrophosphate, phosphoric acid, potassium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic), potassium tripolyphosphate, sodium acid pyrophosphate, sodium hexametaphosphate, sodium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic), tetrapotassium pyrophosphate, tetrasodium pyrophosphate, and sodium tripolyphosphate as direct and indirect human food ingredients. In addition, it is proposed that calcium hexametaphosphate and potassium polymetaphosphate be deleted from the GRAS list as direct human food ingredients.

DATE: Comments by February 19, 1980.

ADDRESS: Written comments to the Hearing Clerk (HFA–305), Food and Drug Administration, Rm. 4–65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is conducting a comprehensive safety review of direct and indirect human food ingredients classified as GRAS or subject to a prior sanction. The agency has issued several notices and proposed regulations in the Federal Register of July 26, 1973 (38 FR 20040), initiating this review. Under this review, the safety of calcium hexametaphosphate, calcium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic), calcium pyrophosphate, phosphoric acid, potassium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic), potassium polymetaphosphate, tetrapotassium pyrophosphate, potassium tripolyphosphate, sodium acid pyrophosphate, sodium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic), tetrasodium pyrophosphate, sodium tripolyphosphate, and sodium hexametaphosphate has been evaluated. In accordance with § 170.35 (21 CFR 170.35), the agency proposes to affirm the GRAS status of these ingredients, with the exception of calcium hexametaphosphate and potassium polymetaphosphate.

Ammonium phosphate (mono- and dibasic), ferric phosphate, ferric pyrophosphate, magnesium phosphate, ferric sodium phosphate, sodium aluminim phosphate, copper phosphate, copper pyrophosphate, and manganese phosphate are not covered by this proposal, but will be covered in other proposals on the appropriate cations. Additionally, the various glycerophosphates are not covered by this proposal, but will be covered in the proposal on the glycerophosphates.

The phosphate ion plays a vital role in the synthesis of compounds essential to life. Phosphorus, as the phosphate ion, is found in various types of nucleic acids vital to genetic reproduction and to restoration of injured tissues. This anion is an essential and active component of many enzyme systems. Phosphate is also involved in the synthesis and metabolism of carbohydrates, fats, and proteins, and in the formation and structure of such tissues as brain, muscle, and skeleton.

No living organism is capable of synthesizing the phosphate ion; therefore, it must be absorbed through the food supply. All organic forms of phosphorus naturally occurring in the body can be synthesized from the orthophosphates in food. The orthophosphates contain one phosphate moiety: one phosphorus atom surrounded by four oxygen atoms. The anion, PO_4^{-3}, is tribasic, and its three valences can be satisfied by hydrogen, metal ions, or a combination of the two. Phosphoric acid, also known as orthophosphoric acid, is prepared by burning elemental yellow (white) phosphorus to form the oxide (P_4O_{10}). The hot oxide vapors are hydrated and cooled by adding water. The resulting liquid and mist are collected, further cooled, and treated with hydrogen sulfide to remove impurities. After filtration, the liquid is diluted to 75 or 85 percent phosphoric acid. Phosphoric acid is used in the commercial production of polyphosphates, metaphosphates, and other orthophosphates.

The pyrophosphates and straight-chain polyphosphates are groups of compounds having two or more phosphorus atoms joined by an oxygen bridge. The pyrophosphates have one phosphorus to oxygen to phosphorus linkage (pyrophosphate anion). Sodium pyrophosphate is prepared by heating disodium phosphate at temperatures above 400° C, but below its melting point of 880° C. Polyphosphates have one or more additional orthophosphate units attached to the pyrophosphate anion. Sodium tripolyphosphate is prepared by heating an intimate mixture of mono- and disodium or orthophosphates.

Cyclic polyphosphates also exist but there is no evidence, except for sodium trimetaphosphate, that they are used in foods. Section 172.892 (21 CFR 172.892) of the regulations permits the use of sodium trimetaphosphate in the modification of starch, provided the residual phosphate, calculated as phosphorus, does not exceed 0.04 percent.

The following substances are listed in Part 182, Subpart B, as GRAS for use as multiple purpose food substances under regulations published in the Federal Register of November 20, 1959 (24 FR 9368): calcium phosphate, tribasic (§ 182.1217 (21 CFR 182.1217)); phosphoric acid (§ 182.1073 (21 CFR 182.1073)); and sodium tripolyphosphate (§ 182.1810 (21 CFR 182.1810)). Calcium phosphate (mono- and dibasic) (§ 182.1217 (21 CFR 182.1217)); sodium acid pyrophosphate (§ 182.1087 (21 CFR 182.1087)), and sodium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic) (§ 182.1778 (21 CFR 182.1778)) are also listed under this category, under the regulations published in the Federal Register of January 31, 1961 (26 FR 938). Also, calcium pyrophosphate was judged to be GRAS by an opinion letter for use in food under this category.

The following substances are listed in Part 182, Subpart F, as GRAS for use as nutrients and/or dietary supplements under the regulations published in the Federal Register of November 20, 1959 (24 FR 9368): calcium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic) (§ 182.5217 (21 CFR 182.5217)), and sodium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic) (§ 182.5778 (21 CFR 182.5778)). Calcium pyrophosphate (§ 182.5223 (21 CFR 182.5223)) is also listed as GRAS for the above use under the regulations published in the Federal Register of January 31, 1961 (26 FR 938).

The following substances are listed in Part 182, Subpart G, as GRAS for use as sequestrants under the regulations published in the Federal Register of November 20, 1959 (24 FR 9368): calcium hexametaphosphate (§ 182.6203 (21 CFR 182.6203)), dipotassium phosphate (§ 182.6285 (21 CFR 182.6285)), disodium phosphate (§ 182.6290 (21 CFR 182.6290)), sodium acid phosphate (§ 182.6085 (21 CFR 182.6085)), sodium hexametaphosphate (§ 182.6760 (21 CFR 182.6760)), sodium metaphosphate (§ 182.6769 (21 CFR 182.6769)), sodium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic) (§ 182.6778 (21 CFR 182.6778)), sodium pyrophosphate (§ 182.6787 (21 CFR 182.6787)), tetrasodium pyrophosphate (§ 182.6789 (21 CFR 182.6789)), and sodium tripolyphosphate (§ 182.6810 (21 CFR 182.6810)). Calcium phosphate, monobasic (§ 182.6215 (21 CFR 182.6215)) is also listed in this section for use as a sequestrant under the regulations published in the Federal Register of January 31, 1961 (26 FR 938). Also, an opinion letter was issued that indicated that potassium phosphate (mono- and tribasic) and tetrapotassium pyrophosphate were GRAS for use in food as sequestrants.

Tetrasodium pyrophosphate and sodium tripolyphosphate are listed in Part 182, Subpart A, in § 182.70 (21 CFR 182.70) as GRAS under the regulations published in the Federal Register of June 10, 1961 (26 FR 5224) as substances migrating to food from cotton and cotton fabric food-packaging materials. Sodium tripolyphosphate and sodium hexametaphosphate are listed in § 182.90 (21 CFR 182.90) as GRAS under the regulations published in the Federal Register of June 17, 1961 (26 FR 5421) as substances migrating to food from paper and paperboard food-packaging materials. In addition, an opinion letter was issued that indicated that sodium phosphate (di- and tribasic), sodium hexametaphosphate, sodium pyrophosphate, and sodium tripolyphosphate are also considered GRAS for use in paper and paperboard used for food packaging.

Several of the phosphates are also permitted for use in foods for which definitions and standards of identity have been established, including: (1) phosphates in frozen "heat and serve" dinners (§ 104.47 (21 CFR 104.47)); (2) phosphorus in special diets (§ 105.85 (21 CFR 105.85)); (3) dipotassium phosphate, phosphoric acid, sodium acid pyrophosphate, sodium hexametaphosphate, sodium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic), and tetrasodium pyrophosphate in cheeses (Part 133 (21 CFR Part 133)); (4) phosphoric acid in frozen desserts (§§ 135.20, 135.30, 135.70, and 135.90 (21 CFR 135.20, 21 CFR 135.30, 21 CFR 135.70, 21 CFR 135.90)); (5) disodium phosphate, sodium hexametaphosphate, and tetrasodium pyrophosphate in ice cream (§ 135.30 (21 CFR 135.30)); (6) monocalcium phosphate in bakery products (§ 136.110 (21 CFR 136.110)); (7) calcium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic), disodium phosphate, and sodium acid pyrophosphate in cereal flours and related products (§§ 137.105, 137.165, 137.175, 137.180, 137.185, and 137.305 (21 CFR 137.105, 21 CFR 137.165, 21 CFR 137.175, 21 CFR 137.180, 21 CFR 137.185, and 21 CFR 137.305)); (8) disodium phosphate in macaroni products (§ 139.110 (21 CFR 139.110)); (9) monocalcium phosphate, sodium hexametaphosphate, and sodium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic) in artifically sweetened fruit jelly and fruit preserves and jams (§§ 139.141 and 150.161 (21 CFR 139.141 and 21 CFR 150.161)); (10) monocalcium phosphate in canned vegetables (§§ 155.190(a) and 155.200 (21 CFR 155.190(a) and 21 CFR 155.200)); (11) monopotassium phosphate and monosodium phosphate in frozen eggs (§ 160.110 (21 CFR 160.110)); (12) sodium acid pyrophosphate in canned tuna (§ 160.190(a) (21 CFR 160.190(a))); and (13) sodium hexametaphosphate in French dressing (§ 169.115 (21 CFR 169.115)).

Numerous specific food uses of the phosphates have been approved by issuance of the following regulations: (1) in § 73.85 (21 CFR 73.85), phosphoric acid, potassium phosphate (mono- and dibasic), and sodium phosphate (mono- and dibasic) in the production of caramel; (2) in § 74.302 (21 CFR 74.302), sodium tripolyphosphate as a diluent for an aqueous suspension of Citrus Red No. 2; (3) in § 172.892 (21 CFR 172.892), monosodium orthophosphate, sodium trimetaphosphate, and sodium tripolyphosphate in starch modification; (4) in § 173.310 (21 CFR 173.310), potassium tripolyphosphate, sodium hexametaphosphate, sodium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic), sodium tripolyphosphate, and tetrasodium pyrophosphate as boiler water additives; (5) in § 175.105 (21 CFR 175.105), potassium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic) and potassium tripolyphosphate as components of adhesives; (6) in § 175.210 (21 CFR 173.210), disodium hydrogen phosphate and tetrasodium pyrophosphate as components of acrylate ester copolymer coatings; (7) in § 175.300 (21 CFR 175.300), calcium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic), disodium hydrogen phosphate, phosphoric acid, sodium pyrophosphate, and tetrasodium pyrophosphate as components of resinous and polymeric coatings; (8) in § 177.2260 (21 CFR 177.2260), phosphoric acid as a component of filters, resin-bonded; (9) in § 178.3520 (21 CFR 178.3520), phosphoric acid as a modifier of industrial starch-modified; (10 in § 181.29 (21 CFR 181.29), calcium hydrogen phosphate, calcium phosphate, disodium hydrogen phosphate, sodium pyrophosphate, and sodium tetrapyrophosphate as substances used in the manufacture of food-packaging materials; (11) in § 240.1051 (27 CFR 240.1051), phosphates as yeast food in distilling material and wine products; and (12) in § 318.7 (9 CFR 318.7), potassium pyrophosphate, sodium acid pyrophosphate, sodium hexametaphosphate, sodium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic), sodium pyrophosphate, sodium tripolyphosphate, tricalcium phosphate, and phosphoric acid for use in the preparation of meat products. Additionally, FDA records indicate that dipotassium phosphate and tripotassium phosphate can be substituted for the corresponding sodium compounds currently identified in § 173.310.

A representative cross-section of food manufacturers was surveyed to determine the specific foods in which phosphate compounds were used and the levels of usage. Information from surveys of consumer consumption was obtained and combined with the manufacturing information to obtain an estimate of consumer exposure to these substances. The amounts of the various phosphates reported used in 1970 were as follows: calcium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic), 84 million pounds; phosphoric acid, 17 million pounds; potassium phosphate (mono-, di-, and tribasic), 5 million pounds; sodium phosphate (mono, di-, and tribasic), 31 million pounds; sodium metaphosphate, 4 million pounds; sodium tripolyphosphate, 31 million pounds; potassium tripolyphosphate, 4,000 pounds; sodium acid pyrophosphate, 35 million pounds; and sodium pyrophosphate, 4 million pounds. No reports were received on the amounts of calcium hexametaphosphate, calcium pyrophosphate, potassium pyrophosphate, and sodium hexametaphosphate used in food.

Phosphate compounds have also been the subject of a search of the scientific literature from 1920 to the present. The criteria used in the search were chosen to discover any articles that considered (1) chemical toxicity, (2) occupational hazards, (3) metabolism, (4) reaction products, (5) degradation products, (6) any reported carcinogenicity, teratogenicity, or mutagenicity, (7) dose response, (8) reproductive effects, (9) histology, (10) embryology, (11) behavioral effects, (12) detection, and (13) processing. A total of 1,015 abstracts were reviewed and 83 particularly pertinent reports have been summarized in a scientific literature review.

The scientific literature review shows, among other studies, the following information as summarized in the report of the Select Committee on GRAS Substances (hereinafter referred to as the Select Committee), selected by the Life Sciences Research Office of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology (FASEB):

The Select Committee has found many reports of experiments involving phosphate administration by routes other than by mouth. With rare exceptions, only the literature concerning oral administration is relevant here. Many of these reports concern the sodium salts. Should the total dietary load of the cation contributed by any of these phosphate compounds become a matter of concern, it will need to be considered separately. However, the Select Committee feels it is improbable that the effects of the ammonium and potassium moieties of the salts, in the amounts used in foods, would be significantly different from the sodium salts and has no reports that indicate otherwise.

Because the calcium:phosphorus ratios of the calcium orthophosphates under consideration are physiologically favorable, the effects of such compounds, unless otherwise noted, are essentially alike and determined in large part by the total amount ingested. Although the importance of the ratio of calcium to phosphorus in the diet, under various circumstances, has been recognized more than 50 years, the interrelationships of these nutrients with several other components of the diet have not been so commonly recognized. Such components include vitamin D, phytic acid, oxalic acid, zinc, magnesium, iron, manganese and protein.

It is well recognized that the requirements for vitamin D, calcium, and phosphorus are mutually dependent. The amount of vitamin D required is minimal as an optimum is approached in the amount and ratio of calcium and phosphorus in the diet. Newer knowledge has greatly extended the understanding of calcium and phosphorus absorption and the role of the liver, kidney, intestines, and parathyroid gland in the complex metabolic patterns of vitamin D.

Much of the dietary phosphorus is absorbed from the small intestine as free orthophosphate. Among the majority of adults in the United States approximately 30 percent of the ingested phosphate is excreted in the feces and 70 percent in the urine. Many factors involved in phosphate retention and the control of serum phosphate levels remain to be more fully characterized. Some of these factors, including a phosphorus-specific transport system in the intestine, various aspects of calcium metabolism and vitamin D metabolites have been reviewed recently. The operation of some type of regulatory process was demonstrated early in rats on diets extremely deficient in phosphorus; their urine contained only a trace of phosphate. Hypophosphatemia stimulates 1,25-dihydroxyvitamin D_3 synthesis which produces elevation of serum phosphate levels even in rats on a low phosphorus diet. This vitamin D metabolite also stimulates calcium absorption from the gut. Parathyroid hormone, secreted in response to hypocalcemia, effects inhibition of tubular reabsorption of phosphate by the kidneys which limits serum phosphate elevation, and in conjunction with 1,25-dihydroxyvitamin D_3, it causes resorption (demineralization) of bone.

The extent and rate of absorption of phosphorus from polyphosphates are dependent on their hydrolysis to orthophosphate. In young rats, no difference was detected in the uptake of phosphorus-32 6 hours after oral administration of [^{32}P] orthophosphate (Na_2HPO_4, 110 mg P per kg body weight)and [^{32}P] pyrophosphate ($Na_4P_2O_7$, 165 mg P per kg body weight) by gavage. However, the rate of uptake of label from sodium [^{32}P] hexametaphosphate (177 mg P per kg body weight) was lower and more of the label remained in the gut lumen for fecal excretion. All of the excreted phosphate (80 percent in urine and 20 percent in feces) from rats fed 5 percent pyrophosphate in the diet was identified as orthophosphate.

In an earlier study, significant amounts of orthophosphate and only a trace of "labile" phosphate were recovered in the urine of rats and rabbits given calcium or sodium hexametaphosphate and tripolyphosphate by stomach tube. Evidence for the hydrolysis of cyclic oligomers in the alimentary tract was provided by the same laboratory. Two fasted male rats were given sodium trimetaphosphate orally (estimated dose, 46 to 100 mg P per kg body weight). Urinary excretion accounted for 40 percent of the dose, 2 percent was "labile" phosphate and 38 percent was orthophosphate. In a similar experiment 22 percent of a sodium tetraphosphate dose was recovered as 4 percent labile phosphate and 18 percent orthophosphate. After parenteral doses of the cyclic phosphates to rats and rabbits, the compounds were recovered largely intact in the urine, thus indicating that the alimentary tract is important in the hydrolysis of administration of sodium pyrophosphate, tripolyphosphate, and polyphosphate (P_2O_5 equal to 64 percent) to rats, only orthophosphate is absorbed.

The consequences of massive ingestion of phosphoric acid salts (other than calcium phosphates) and readily utilizable esters are acidosis and hypocalcemia. The amounts of these compounds needed to produce death in animals after acute oral administration are very large and relative acute toxicities often are estimated from data obtained after injection.

The minimum lethal oral dose of monobasic sodium phosphate for the guinea pig is greater than 2 g per kg body weight and the LD_{50} of sodium pyrophosphate per os in rats was estimated as greater than 4 g per kg body weight. No abnormalities were revealed by autopsy after oral administration of 1600 mg sodium pyrophosphate per kg per day for 10 days. However, in the same report the median LD_{50} of sodium pyrophosphate after intraperitoneal injection was calculated to be 233 mg per kg.

As estimated from the intraperitoneal LD_{50}, the toxicity of the sodium salts in decreasing order is pyrophosphate (59 mg P per kg), tripolyphosphate (135 mg P per kg), hexametaphosphate (192 mg P per kg), orthophosphate (328 mg P per kg), tetrametaphosphate (741 mg P per kg), and trimetaphosphate (1130 mg P per kg) for the rat. The toxicity of sodium hexametaphosphate was manifest by immediate behavioral agitation even at sublethal doses (100 mg P per kg) with subsequent weight loss. No signs of pain or anorexia were obvious after similar doses of calcium hexametaphosphates. The 24-hour LD_{50} of calcium hexametaphosphate was three times larger than that of the sodium.

Many reports of short-term experiments designed to determine the effects of the addition of orthophosphates and polyphosphates to the diets of laboratory animals, usually the rat, have been reviewed and evaluated. The significant factors are the total intake of phosphate, calcium and vitamin D, and the acid-base balance of the food mixture as a whole. One of the sensitive criteria for the effect of phosphate overdosage is the occurrence of metastatic calcification in the kidney, stomach, and aorta. Also, resorption of bone is characteristic. The pathology of calcification and necrosis of the tubular epithelium in the kidneys of rats has been reported in detail. The borderline is indistinct between those levels of dietary phosphate that produce definite nephrocalcinosis and those that cause early indications of such changes. Even on diets moderately low in phosphate, 1 percent of sodium pyrophosphate (about 1 g P per kg body weight), some rats in seemingly healthy condition may have some areas of renal damage after 100 days. After 44 days on a diet with approximately 1 percent added phosphorus (1 g P per kg), as phosphoric acid, sodium orthophosphates, or potassium orthophosphates, 70-day-old female rats had enlarged kidneys with permanent histological lesions. Slight renal calcification was observed in rats fed a basal diet (Sherman, phosphate, sodium pyrophosphate, or sodium polyphosphate (approximately 1 g P per kg body weight); however, renal calcification also was found in some of the controls.

In one extensive study, the no-effect level of the four condensed phosphates (hexametaphosphate, tripolyphosphate, and cyclic trimetra- and tetrametaphosphates) when added to a laboratory ration for rats over a period of one month was at least 2 percent in all cases. In weanling rats, growth impairment occurred in all groups receiving 10 percent supplements. Renal tubular necrosis (phosphate nephritis) was excessive in animals receiving the hexametaphosphate and prominent in those receiving the cyclic phosphates at 10 percent (about 2.5 g P per kg).

In another study four groups of rats, including 20 males and 20 females each, were fed 1.0, 2.5, or 5.0 percent sodium pyrophosphate or 5.0 percent disodium hydrogen phosphate in the diet for 16 weeks. A control group was fed a basal diet which supplied 0.6 precent calcium and 0.5 percent phosphorus. In both groups receiving 5 percent of added phosphate (approximately 1.6 percent phosphorus) there was no difference between those receiving pyrophosphate and those getting orthophosphate concerning the proportion of phosphate excreted in the urine and feces. It was approximately 75 to 80 percent and 15 percent, respectively, and all of the phosphate was orthophosphate. In the kidneys, medullary calcification and necrosis, chronic inflammation and tubular casts were chiefly found at the 2.5 to 5.0 percent pyrophosphate and 5 percent orthophosphate levels. Exudate, hemorrage and other evidence of renal damage were characteristically equivalent at all levels for the pyrophosphate (1 percent pyrophosphate added is approximately 1.5 g P per kg) and orthophosphate supplements. The kidney weights were significantly increased in the groups receiving 5 percent of pyrophosphate and in the group getting 5 percent orthophosphate. The authors have postulated that if there is validity in the transference of such laboratory data to humans, and if a reasonable margin of safety is 100X, then the limit of daily intake for an adult 70 kg man should be 420 mg of added pyrophosphate, 98 mg P, in a diet supplying 220 mg P from other utilizable phosphates. However, for phosphate a margin of safety of 100X is unreasonably high. For example, based on a sound analysis of the present knowledge, the Recommended Dietary Allowance for phosphorus for adults is 800 mg per day.

An 8 percent supplement of sodium metaphosphate or orthophosphate in the diet of rats for seven months, or until the animals died, caused gradual bone decalcification with metastatic calcium deposits, significant hypertrophy and hyperplasia of the parathyroids, inorganic phosphaturia and renal calcium depostion. Histological and histochemical changes in the kidneys have been reported in rats fed for 24 to 72 hours on a diet containing 10 percent disodium hydrogen phosphate (3.2 g P per kg body weight).

hexametaphosphate, tripolyphosphate, trimetaphosphate, or tetrametaphosphate daily for one month at the level of 100 mg per kg body weight; another group of four dogs received supplemental phosphates that were increased over a five month feeding trial from 1000 mg to 4000 mg per kg body weight. On the high phosphate level there was weight loss, eosinophilia and neutropenia, cardiomegaly, left heart hypertrophy and renal tubule injury resembling rat phosphate nephritis.

A series of experiments with rats kept on the diets for six months included observations in which tetrasodium pyrophosphate was added in concentrations of 1.8, 3, and 5 percent. Other groups received the same amount of phosphate as disodium hydrogen phosphate. As compared with controls, groups receiving 3 and 5 percent of added phosphate had decreased growth and renal calcification occurred. There appeared to be no difference between the phosphates in the amount of injury observed. However, renal calcificaion has been reported in rats on a Sherman-Kost diet (basically two-thirds whole corn meal and one-third whole milk powder: 0.54 percent Ca and 0.47 percent P) to which 1 percent of a 2:3 mixture of monobasic and dibasic sodium phosphate was added to give a total phosphorus content of 0.71 percent. Addition of dipotassium hydrogen phosphate to a diet at levels of 1.3 percent phosphorus and 0.5 percent calcuim (Ca:P ratio=0.38) did not produce renal calcification in 12 rats within 150 days. There was some increase in the weight of the kidneys. Similarly, in the guinea pig, a diet containing 0.9 percent phosphorus (sodium phosphate, monobasic) and 0.8 percent calcium or higher levels of phosphorus produced some calcification in the soft tissues.

Four physically active men receiving a nurtritionally adequate basal diet and a daily supplement of 750 mg phosphorus as phosphoric acid for one week showed a slight decrease in the calcium excretion in their urine. The basal diet furnished about 450 mg calcium and 1400 mg phosphorus daily. Higher levels of phosphate supplementation up to periods of 12 weeks produced a greater decrease in urinary calcium excretion. However, no decrease in the utilization of calcium was apparent as determined by this metabolic balance method. The results by this short-term method suggest that adults receiving 450 to 600 mg calcium can ingest at least 2000 mg phosphorus daily without adverse effect on calcium balance. In another study when six women on a basal diet supplying 300 mg calcium and 800 mg phosphorus were shifted to a diet supplying 1500 mg calcium and 1400 mg phosphorus, phosphorus had a depressing effect on calcium utilization when compared to a second group of six women shifted to a diet supplying 1500 mg calcium and 800 mg phosphorus.

In another study 15 young adults drank 2 to 4 g of phosphoric acid in fruit juices daily for 10 days. There were no apparent changes in the composition of the urine in any of the subjects suggestive of a disturbed g of sodium dihydrogen phosphate for 15 days by two adults did not cause any apparent adverse effects.

Relatively few definitive experiments have been reported in which phosphates have been administered under controlled conditions for much of the normal lifespan. Useful long-term feeding studies in rats have been reported for sodium tripolyphosphate, trimetaphosphate, and hexametaphosphate. Groups of 50 weanling rats were maintained on a standard laboratory chow diet with 0.05, 0.5, or 5 percent sodium tripolyphosphate supplementation for 2 years. At the highest supplement level (about 630 mg P added per kg body weight), there was growth retardation with some evidence of anemia. In both sexes the Ca:P ash ratios were normal but the femurs were shorter than in rats given less phosphate. Convoluted tubule dilation with interstitial and glomerular fibrosis and intertubular calcification occurred in the animals receiving 5 percent supplementation.

In the rats given dietary supplements of 0.1, 1, or 10 percent sodium trimetaphosphate, for 2 years, males but not females on the 1 percent supplement (about 146 mg P added per kg body weight) were slightly retarded in growth during the first 6 months. The highest level produced substantial growth retardation in both sexes and evidence of anemia in females. The femurs in both sexes were shorter. In comparable rats fed diets supplemented with 0.05, 0.5, or 5 percent sodium hexametaphosphate for 2 years, males at the highest level (about 650 mg P added per kg body weight) had substantial growth retardation, but the females were only slightly affected. The femurs appeared to be radiologically normal in all the groups. Sixty-five percent of the rats examined in the 5 percent group presented intertubular calcification as distinguished from the coexistent chronic pyelonephritis present in old rats.

Monocalcium phoshpate was administered on day 6 through day 15 of gestation to pregnant mice (up to 465 mg per kg) and pregnant rats (up to 410 mg per kg) with no clearly discernible effects on nidation or on maternal or fetal survival and no increase in abnormalities in skeletal and soft tissues was observed over controls. This substance had neither toxic nor teratogenic effects on the developing chick embryo between 1.0 and 50 mg per kg.

Monocalcium phosphate, monopotassium phosphate, and monosodium phosphate exhibited no genetic activity when evaluated by in vitro microbial assays with and without the addition of mammalian activation preparations. The indicator organisms were Saccharomyces cerevisiae, Strain D4 and Salmonella typhimurium, strains TA1535, TA1537, and TA1538. Mammalian activation preparations were from the liver, lung and testes of mouse, rat, and monkey.

No toxicity or teratogencity was shown for monopotassium phosphate by tests in the developing chicken embryo. The compound was administered in water via the air cell or yolk at 0 hours (10 to 200 mg per kg egg) and at 96 hours (5 to 100 mg per kg egg). A teratologic evaluation of monopotassium phosphate was also negative when the through day 15 of gestation to pregnant mice (up to 320 mg per kg) and rats (up to 282 mg per kg).

Sodium acid pyrophosphate, when evaluated for toxic and teratogenic effects using the chick embryo test, was toxic in 0 and 96 hour air cell administrations and produced significantly elevated numbers of abnormal embryos under the conditions of the test. No evidence of mutagenic effects for this compound was obtained in a study that included: (a) host-mediated assay in mice using Salmonella typhimurium TA1530 and mitotic recombination frequency in Saccharomyces cerevisiae D3; (b) in vitro mutagenic assay with S. typhimurium strains TA1535, TA1536, TA1537, and TA1538 in the presence and absence of metabolic activation; (c) dominant lethal test in rats; and (d) translocation test in mice. In this study, the single dose oral LD_{50} for Swiss Webster mice (weighing 20 to 22 g) and Sprague-Dawley rats (weighing 278 to 344 g) were measured as 2.3 and 1.8 g per kg body weight, respectively. Sodium acid pyrophosphate was administered on day 6 through day 15 of gestation to pregnant mice (up to 335 mg per kg) and pregnant rats (up to 169 mg per kg) with no clearly discernible effect on nidation or on maternal or fetal survival. The number of abnormalities seen in either soft or skeletal tissues of the test group did not differ from the number occurring spontaneously in the sham-treated controls. Similar results were obtained using pregnant hamsters receiving up to 166 mg per kg on day 6 through day 10 of gestation and pregnant rabbits receiving up to 128 mg per kg on day 6 through day 18 of gestation.

The toxic and teratogenic effects of monosodium phosphate, tetrasodium pyrophosphate, sodium tripolyphosphate, and sodium hexametaphosphate were tested on the developing chick embryo. Concerning monosodium phosphate, it was concluded that the salt "is moderately toxicity when administered through the yolk, and is teratogenic when administered via the yolk or air cell to a 96-hour-old chicken embryo." The investigator noted the possibility that pH and osmotic effects may play a role in the observed toxic and teratogenicity to the chicken embryo and concluded that both tetrasodium pyrophosphate and sodium hexametaphosphate are toxic and teratogenic under the conditions of the test employed. It was noted, particularly for the latter, that pH and osmotic effects may have been important. Sodium tripolyphosphate was embryo toxic but not teratogenic in the avian embryo when tested at levels up to 125 mg per kg of egg. Each of these phosphate compounds was evaluated for teratogenic effects in mice and rats, and in the case of sodium tripolyphosphate, hamsters and rabbits were also used. The results of these tests for teratogenic effects and additional tests for mutagenicity are summarized below.

Monosodium phosphate was administered on day 6 through day 15 of gestation to pregnant mice (up to 370 mg per kg) and pregnant rats (up to 410 mg per kg) with no clearly discernible effects on nidation or on maternal or fetal survival. The number of abnormalities seen in the test groups was not Tetrasodium pyrophosphate was administered on day 6 through day 15 of gestation to pregnant mice (up to 130 mg per kg) and pregnant rats (up to 138 mg per kg) with negative results. Mutagenic evaluation of this compound by microbial assays with and without the addition of mammalian enzyme preparations was negative. The indicator organsims were S. cerevisiae, strain D4, and S. Typhimurium, strains: TA1535, TA1537, TA1538.

Sodium tripolyphosphate was tested for mutagenic effects in a study that included: (a) host-mediated assay (mice), in vivo and in vitro tests against S. typhimurium, strains TA1530 and G46 and against S. cerevisiae D3; (b) cytogenetic study in vivo of rat bone marrow cells and in vitro of human embryonic lung cells in tissue culture; and (c) dominant lethal test (rats). No evidence of mutagenic effects was obtained except for an apparent non-dose-related response in vivo by S. cerevisiae D3 that was not confirmed in repeat tests. Sodium tripolyphosphate was administered on day 6 through day 15 of gestation to pregnant mice (up to 238 mg per kg) and pregnant rats (up to 170 mg per kg). This compound was also administered on day 6 through day 10 of gestation to pregnant hamsters (up to 141 mg per kg) and on day 6 through day 18 of gestation to pregnant rabbits (up to 250 mg per kg). No effects on nidation or on maternal or fetal survival and no evidence of a significant increase in the number of abnormalities in soft or skeletal tissues were noted in any of the test groups of the four species.

Sodium hexametaphosphate was evaluated for mutagenic activity in S. cerevisiae D4 and S. typhimurium, strains TA1535, TA1537, and TA1538. No evidence of mutagenic effects was reported. This compound was administered on day 6 through day 15 of gestation to pregnant mice (up to 370 mg per kg) and pregnant rats (up to 240 mg per kg) with no evidence of teratogenic effects.

After feeding rats diets with supplements of up to 10 percent sodium trimetaphosphate, 5 percent sodium tripolyphosphate or 5 percent sodium hexametaphosphate for 2 years, no correlation existed between tumor incidence and the level of phosphate supplementation. In reproductive studies, no effects were observed on fertility or litter size through F_3 with dietary supplements of 0.5 percent sodium tripolyphosphate, 0.05 percent sodium trimetaphosphate or 0.5 percent sodium hexametaphosphate. The Select Committee is not aware of additional long-term feeding studies specifically designed to test the phosphates described in this report for carcinogenicity.

Many reports have been published concerning the effects of supplemental phosphates in the diet on the incidence of dental caries. In a comprehensive review of the literature it was concluded that "evidence is nearly unanimous that phosphates are effective anticaries agents in rodents." However, such effects have occurred when the normal phosphorus content of the diets was approximately doubled. The effects appear to be due largely to a local action on the tooth as the phosphates pass through the mouth or a systemic-local action after the phosphates return to the mouth in the saliva. Certain clinical investigations have raised doubt that humans may experience significant protection from dental caries when supplemental phosphate is used. Although some have reported beneficial effects on the teeth without apparently considering any additional effects, others have reported no effects.

The Joint FAO/WHO Expert Committee on Food Additives noted "the necessity for tests for cyclic phosphate, which may occur in polyphosphates and create certain health hazards." The hazards were not detailed. However, in one comprehensive study it was reported that in rats fed sodium trimetaphosphate, a cyclic compound, for 24 months there was an absence of significant toxic effect up to at least 0.5 percent in the diet. The same committee also estimated the lowest level that might conceivably produce nephrocalcinosis in man as 6600 mg phosphorus per day based on 1 percent phosphorus in the diet producing nephrocalcinosis in rats.

Draper and his associates have extensively examined the effects of dietary phosphorus on calcium metabolism in intact and parathyroidectomized rats. In one study, two levels on dietary phosphorus, 0.6 percent and 1.2 percent, were compared regarding their effect on bone resorption and calcium metabolism in male Sprague-Dawley rats initially weighing 100 g. The diets apparently furnished adequate amounts of all the essential nutrients including vitamin D and monobasic calcium phosphate was the principal source of phosphorus. Rats receiving the 1.2 percent phosphorus diet (1.2 g per kg body weight) for 34 weeks (Ca:P ratio=1:1) had a greater loss of calcium from the body than did animals receiving only one-half as much phosphorus (Ca:P ratio=2:1). These effects were not seen in parathyroidectomized rats. The amount of calcium absorbed and the growth rate were the same at the two levels of phosphorus. The study indicated that this level of dietary phosphorus, 1.2 percent, accelerates the rate of bone resportion in adult rats. The effect was mediated by the parathyroid glands. Essentially the same conclusion was reached by Krook in studying some realtionships between dietary calcium and phosphorus and lameness in the horse. These studies have shown in experimental animals that an excess of dietary phosphorus is accompanied by hyperphosphatemia, hypocalcemia, and secondary hyperparathyroidism even when dietary calcium is fed at moderate or excessive levels.

The more favorable effect on the maintenance of bone mineralization in the bones of adult rats when the Ca:P ratio is 2:1 rather than 1:1 confirms the observation of Clark that a ratio of about 2:1 is necessary for maximum depression of parathyroid activity in mature rates. The importance of the Ca:P ratio is impressively demonstrated through the extensive work of Cox and Imboden who found a ratio of 1.0, at a calcium level of 0.490 percent, to be the ideal mineral level and ratio for successful gestation and lactation in rats.

In a study of osteoporosis induced by high-phosphorus diets in aging rats, bone demineralization was increased if the amount of dietary phosphorus exceeded the 0.3 percent level. In this study phosphorus was 0.3, 0.6, 1.2, or 1.8 percent of the diet and the calcium level was 0.6 percent. The experimental period was 6 months. The cumulative calcium-45 excretion from deeply labeled bone over the period was 16, 37, and 30 percent greater in the rats fed 0.6, 1.2, and 1.8 and 1.8 percent phosphorus, respectively, than in those fed 0.3 percent phosphorus. Even so, the absorption of dietary calcium was unaffected. The calcium and phosphorus in the femurs, lumbar vertebrae, and mandibles were clearly reduced in the rates receiving the higher levels of phosphorus. In addition, the excretion of hydroxyproline was doubled in rats receiving 1.8 percent phosphorus in the diet. It was not significantly elevated in the rats receiving lower levels of phosphorus. These findings (dietary calcium, 0.6 percent) have shown that Ca:P ratios lower than 2:1 accelerate the rate of bone resorption in adult rats, and they verify earlier results from studies in which the dietary calcium level was 1.2 percent. Similar conclusions were reached from studies on mice.

Related studies showed that in young adult male rates on diets containing 20 percent lard, 0.6 percent calcium, and 0.3 percent phosphorus there was a slightly greater excretion of deep labeled calcium-45 from the bones when the level of dietary protein was only 10 percent as compared with rats receiving 20 or 40 percent protein. This indicated that this lower level of protein was sub-optimal. There was no difference between the 20 and 40 percent protein groups in the total excretion of labeled calcium. However, increasing the level of dietary phosphorus to 1.2 percent led to an increase in labeled calcium excretion of about 50 percent at all levels of protein, indicating that the increase in calcium absorption induced by increasing the intake of protein above the suboptimal level does not counteract the stimulus to bone resorption caused by a relatively high intake of phosphorus.

Young adult rats on a phosphorus intake of 1.2 percent showed a significantly lower plasma calcium concentration (but within the normal physiological range) as compared with rats given 0.3 percent phosphorus. In both groups the dietary calcium was 0.6 percent. The depression in plasma calcium was associated with an increase in bone calcium excretion, which was evidence of a net increase in bone resorption. Switching the diets resulted in a prompt reversal of plasma calcium levels and rates of calcium excretion. Also, the production of parathyroid hormone was increased as indicated by an increase in the uptake of α-aminoisobutyric acid. After the high-phosphorus diet had been fed for several days the plasma calcium level remained depressed even at the end of an 11-hour fast.

Ten female adult dogs of approximately 13 kg body weight were fed a diet (1 g Ca and 1 g P per day) supplemented with potassium phosphate to furnish approximately 2.8 g phosphorus daily for 4 months and 3.1 g phosphorus for an additional 6 months (Ca:P ratio, 1:31). There was increased bone porosity, loss in bone mass and the serum parathyroid hormone level, as determined by immunoassay, was doubled. The well established pattern calification in the kidneys and some other soft tissues occured.

Understanding of the human requirements for phosphorus is important. This is generally recognized but much more attention is given to calcium than phosphorus. In the Recommended Dietary Allowances it is recognized that the need for phosphorus, except for the young infant, is approximately the same as for calcium. For young infants (0–0.5 yr) the allowance ratio for calcium and phosphorus is 1:0.7 (360 mg Ca, 240 mg P), but for all age groups older than 1 year, including pregnant and lactating women, the ratio is 1:1. A ratio of approximately 2:1 is required for the inhibition of excessive bone resorption in mature mice and rats. In adult humans ingesting 1 g of supplemental phosphorus as phosphate, a 60 to 125 percent increase in serum parathyroid hormone concentration and a slight decrease in serum calcium was observed. Thus, as pointed out by Anderson and Draper, it is important to consider whether under some conditions the dietary intake of phosphorus may be sufficiently high to induce secondary hyperparathyroidism with attendant bone resorption.

The first health and nutrition examination survey (HANES) used Chvostek's sign (contraction of the perioral muscles on tapping the malar process) as a possible clinical sign of calcium-phosphorus imbalance indicating a deficit of calcium and a relative excess of phosphorus in the blood. A report of preliminary findings from HANES indicates the prevalence of positive Chvostek's sign exceeds 10 percent in some segments of the U.S. population. The significance of these preliminary findings cannot be assessed until correlations are made with appropriate data of blood chemistry and nutrient intakes.

Excessive levels of phosphorus in the diet cannot be fully compensated for by the ingestion of higher levels of calcium. As pointed out in a review by Jowsey, the osteoporosis attributable to a high intake of phosphorus can be generally benefited through an increase in the intake of calcium. This is supported in the review by McBean and Speckmann on the interrelationships of calcium with phosphorus and certain other dietary components. Their review of the literature leads them to the conclusion that "a low dietary Ca:P ratio, regardless of how achieved, results in significant bone loss in man." Davis concluded that, in general, levels of calcium in excess of 1 percent of the diet have a depressing effect upon the utilization of phosphorus and certain other nutrients. In the comprehensive work of Cox and Imboden on gestation and lactation in rats, it was found that at a level of 2.45 percent calcium or 2.45 percent phosphorus in the diet the reproductive performance is poor regardless of the Ca:P ratio. The Select Committee is not aware of any research which is contrary to these findings.

Physiologically, calcium and magnesium are antagonistic. The practical aspects of such relationships are more recognizable when the intake of phosphorus is relatively low and the intake of magnesium is high. This may result in a loss of calcium or at least poor utilization of this nutrient. On the other hand, a high intake of calcium and low intake of magnesium leads to magnesium deficiency. Increasing the intake of phosphorus may accentuate the symptoms of magnesium deficiency. It has been shown that the utilization of manganese is impaired in poultry, pigs, and rabbits through an increase in the content of calcium and/or phosphorus in the diet.

As reviewed by Davis, anemia has been produced in rats and mice when a high intake of calcium has been imposed on a diet containing barely enough iron to meet the nutritional requirements at a lower level of dietary calcium. Conversely on a diet very low in calcium, moderately adequate in iron, and relatively high in phosphorus rats became moderately anemic. The addition of some calcium carbonate to the diet, but not iron phosphate or calcium phosphate, alleviated the anemic condition.

The complex aspects of protein intake in relation to calcium utilization and calcium requirement have been briefly reviewed. In general, it appears that high protein diets decrease the absorption and retention of calcium. In metabolic studies on young men an increase in the protein intake from approximately 50 g to 140 g daily was accompanied by an increase in urinary calcium and negative calcium balance. The calcium intake was approximately 800 mg daily and the phosphorus about 1000 mg. Since the high protein effect may be only transitory, it is presumed that long-term studies will be made.

Several reports concern inherently toxic substances such as lead or presumably adventitious substances such as aluminum. Six and Goyer gave rats enough lead in the drinking water to produce "sub-clinical" toxicity. A low-level of dietary calcium enhanced the absorption, accumulation, and excretion of lead. Much earlier Lederer and Bing showed that in rats fed lead acetate the deposition of lead in the femurs could be effectively increased by lowering the dietary calcium.

Owing to the marked insolubility of aluminum phosphate it could be predicted that substantial intakes of aluminum compounds would impair the uitilization of phosphorus. This has been demonstrated in several different studies. For example, Lotz et al. showed that the long-term ingestion of aluminum hydroxide gel by man impairs phosphorus retention.

All of the available safety information on the phosphates has been carefully evaluated by qualified scientists of the Select Committee. It is the opinion f the Select Committee that:

* * * many variables [have] to be considered regarding the safety to the public of the current uses of phosphates in foods. These include: (a) the variety and different characteristics of phosphate and their scope of use; (b) the close metabolic interrelationships between vitamin D, calcium, and phosphorus; and (c) the possible variations between different segments of the population in the level of phosphate consumed both in foods and in beverages. Better data are needed on the calcium and phosphorus intakes of individuals; uncertainty exists concerning both the total phosphorus intake and the Ca:P ratio of the U.S. diet. It is probable that many adults in the U.S. ingest less than 800 mg of calcium and more than 800 mg of phosphorus per day, which are the Recommended Dietary Allowances.

Although there is a difference of scientific opinion, it is the opinion of the Select Committee that the Ca:P ratio of the diet is important, especially if it varies substantially from 1:1 owing to the relatively high intake of phosphorus. Most of the evidence shows that in general a desirable Ca:P ratio is between 2:1 and 1:1. Thus, if the calcium intake is 800 mg per person per day the total phosphorus intake should not greatly exceed that amount. The fragmentary data available suggest that the typical Ca:P ratio in this country is lower than 1:1. Some estimates suggest it may be substantially lower. In laboratory animals and presumably in man, nutritional secondary hyperparathyroidism and bone resorption may be induced when the diet furnishes an otherwise adequate amount of calcium but excessive levels of phosphorus.

None of the GRAS phosphates is intrinsically harmful and their use in foods does not present a hazard when the total amount of phosphorus ingested and the intakes of calcium, magnesium, vitamin D, and other nutrients are satisfactory. The current use of calcium phosphates in food processing is without harmful effects on the health of consumers and, in some instances, may be advantageous. The phosphorus supplied by GRAS phosphates, other than calcium phosphates, added to foods is low in relation to the total amount of phosphorus naturally present in the diet. However, the possibility that unreasonable increases in the usage of these phosphates in common foods would significantly lower the Ca:P ratio and increase the total phosphorus intake for some segments of the population, must be considered in assessing the probability of a health hazard existing because of the ingestion of excessive levels of phosphorus. The Select Committee has no evidence that the use of any of these non-calcium phosphates as food ingredients at current levels is creating such a problem. However, if distortion of the Ca:P ratio should become of concern, this question should be accorded separate study.

It is the conclusion of the Select Committee that there is no evidence in the available information on calcium hexametaphosphate; calcium phosphate, dibasic; calcium phosphate, monobasic; calcium phosphate, tribasic, calcium pyrophosphate; phosphoric acid; potassium phosphate, dibasic; potassium phosphate monobasic; potassium phosphate, tribasic; potassium polymetaphosphate; potassium pyrophosphate; potassium tripolyphosphate; sodium acid pyrophosphate; sodium phosphate; dibasic; sodium phosphate, monobasic; sodium phosphate, tribasic; tetrasodium pyrophosphate; sodium tripolyphosphate; and straight-chain sodium polyphosphates (including sodium hexametaphosphate, sodium metaphosphate, and sodium tetraphosphate) that demonstrates, or suggests reasonable grounds to suspect, a hazard to the public when they are used at levels that are now current or might reasonably be expected in the future. Based upon its own evaluation of all available information on the phosphates, the agency concurs with this conclusion. Therefore, based upon available safety data, the agency concludes that, except for calcium hexametaphosphate and potassium polymetaphosphate, no change in the current GRAS status of those phosphates already listed as GRAS is justified.

On April 13, 1973 (38 FR 9310), the agency proposed that calcium hexametaphosphate be removed from the GRAS list because the survey of food manufacturers on the use of GRAS ingredients did not indicate that this substance was used in human food. Comments on this proposal were received asking that calcium hexametaphosphate not be removed from the GRAS list. Subsequent correspondence with these respondents revealed that the ingredient was being used in animal feed, but not in human food. Moreover, the survey of food manufacturers did not reveal direct human food uses of potassium polymetaphosphate. Consequently, the agency proposes that calcium hexametaphosphate and potassium polymetaphosphate be removed from GRAS status as direct human food ingredients unless evidence of use (foods that the substances are added to, levels of addition, intended technical effects, and food-grade specifications) is submitted as comments on this proposal during the comment period. It should be emphasized that use information is very important in judging the safety of food ingredients because it facilitates assessment of total dietary intake.

Although the Select Committee considered sodium tetraphosphate in its evaluation of the phosphates, available information indicates that this compound is not used in food. The agency therefore, proposes that sodium tetraphosphate not be affirmed as GRAS. These substances which are not being affirmed as GRAS can receive further consideration through either comments on this proposal or a petition submitted in accordance with § 170.35 (21 CFR 170.35) or § 171.1 (21 CFR 171.1).

Although the Select Committee did not specifically address the use of potassium phosphate (mono- and tribasic) as a sequestrant, the agency has evaluated all available data and concludes that the information developed during the Select Committee review forms a sound scientific basis for affirming this use of these phosphate salts as GRAS for direct food use.

Calcium pyrophosphate was also proposed to be removed from the GRAS list (38 FR 9310) because the survey of food manufacturers did not reveal direct human food uses of calcium pyrophosphate. Comments on the proposal revealed that the ingredient is used as a pH control agent and as a nutrient supplement in soft candy. Because the information developed for this safety review forms a sound scientific basis for judging its safety, the agency proposes to affirm the GRAS status of calcium pyrophosphate as a direct human food ingredient.

FMC Corporation, New York, NY 10017, submitted a petition (3G0022) in accordance with § 170.35, proposing affirmation of GRAS status for the use of tetrapotassium pyrophosphate in foods. The petition was subsequently withdrawn without prejudice pending completion of the Select Committee's evaluation of the phosphates.

The survey of food manufacturers did not reveal direct human food uses of tetrapotassium pyrophosphate. However, during the agency's review of the phosphates, several letters were received which stated that tetrapotassium pyrophosphate is used as an indirect human food ingredient. Additionally, an opinion letter of March 25, 1968 issued by the agency stated that tetrapostassium pyrophosphate could be substituted for tetrasodium pyrophosphate for those purposes covered under Parts 181 and 182. Consistent with the agency's and FASEB's recent expressed concern about the increasing sodium content in foods, and because the information developed for this safety review forms a sound scientific basis for judging its safety, the agency proposes to affirm the GRAS status of tetrapostassium pyrophosphate as a direct and indirect human food ingredient.

The agency notes that there are numerous use situations covered by this document where it may be possible for the calcium or potassium form of a phosphorus-containing salt, used for a specific technological purpose or in a certain food class, to be substituted for the corresponding sodium form. Wherever technolgocially and/or economically practicable, the agency urges that such substitution be considered.

In order to eliminate needless confusion, the term "sodium pyrophosphate" will be replaced by the more descriptive "tertrasodium pyrophosphate" terminology. Further, the term "sodium metaphosphate" will be replaced by the more specific "sodium hexametaphosphate." Sodium metaphosphate is a common name used for some straight-chain sodium polyphosphates as well as some cyclic phosphate compounds. The survey of food manufacturers did not separate the various metaphosphates but asked for data under the term "sodium metaphosphate." The agency believes that use of the term metaphosphate by food manufacturers has, in fact, implied hexametaphosphate. In the current review of GRAS substances, each substance should be accurately identified with adequate specifications to eliminate confusion and needless duplication. Therefore, the agency invites comments in response to this proposal concerning the use of metaphosphates other then sodium hexametaphosphate in foods. Data on the use levels of the specific metaphosphates, the specific foods in which they are used, the intended technical effect(s), food-grade specifications, and the method of manufacture should be submitted in order that a determination can be made about their status.

In the past, when a substance has been listed in Part 182 as GRAS for both direct and indirect uses, FDA has proposed separate GRAS affirmation regulations in Parts 184 and 186 to govern its direct and indirect GRAS uses, respectively. Under § 184.1(a), however, ingredients affirmed as GRAS for direct food use in Part 184 are considered to be GRAS for indirect uses without there being a separate listing in Part 186. In light of § 184.1(a), FDA has reconsidered its traditional practice of establishing separate listings in Part 186 for substances it affirms as GRAS for direct use in Part 184 and has concluded that the duplicative listing in Part 186 is unnecessary, as a general rule, and may cause confusion. Thus, unless it is necessary based on safety considerations to impose specific purity specifications or other restrictions on the indirect use of a GRAS substance, FDA will no longer list in Part 186 substances that are affirmed as GRAS for direct use in Part 184. In keeping with this change in policy, FDA is not proposing separate listings in Part 186 for the indirect uses of sodium hexametaphosphate, tetrasodium pyrophosphate and sodium tripolyphosphate. The indirect uses of these ingredients are authorized under §§ 184.1759, 184.1872 and 184.1810, respectively, and § 184.1(a).

The agency also has determined that an indirect substance whose GRAS status for indirect use is based on its affirmation as GRAS in Part 184 need not comply, as a general rule, with the purity specifications made applicable to the direct use of the substance in this Part 184 regulation, as long as it is of a purity suitable for its intended indirect use in accordance with § 170.30(h)(1). This conclusion is based on the fact that indirect uses generally result in extremely low levels of consumer exposure to the additive and correspondingly low levels of exposure to any impurities that may be present. As noted in the preceding paragraph, however, if specific purity specifications for the indirect use of GRAS substance are necessary based on safety considerations, a regulation establishing such specifications will be promulgated in Part 186. In the case of sodium hexametaphosphate, tetrasodium pyrophosphate and sodium tripolyphosphate, no specific purity specifications are necessary for their indirect use.

Although the policies discussed in the two preceding paragraphs are not inconsistent with FDA's current regulations, FDA will publish a proposal in the near future to amend its procedural regulations in Parts 184 and 186 to reflect clearly the current policies.

Some food uses of phosphates, different from those previously considered GRAS, were reported during the survey of food manufacturers on the use of GRAS ingredients, or were requested during this safety review. It was requested that sodium hexametaphosphate be permitted as an optional ingredient in flour to function as a dough strengthener and texturizer at a level of 0.001 percent. Since sodium hexametaphosphate has a history of safe use in food, and because the information developed for this safety review forms a sound scientific basis for judging its safety, the agency is proposing that these uses be affirmed as GRAS. However, the agency advises that the flour standard (§ 137.105 (21 CFR 137.105)) does not currently provide for the use of sodium hexametaphosphate.

The agency has also reviewed the data on the calcium-phosphorus ratio, and its shares the concern of the Select Committee about the calcium-phosphorus balance of the United States diet. Because of concerns of this type, FDA has been conducting for several years a program of chemical analysis of composite food samples. Each sample consists of foods from one of the food groups making up the total diets of adults, infants, and toddlers. Selection of food items has been based on a dietary program using a wide variety of foods which are known through food surveys to be integral parts of U.S. diets and, as a whole, are presumed to provide adequate nutrition. These total diet studies assume that all food items are prepared and eaten in the home. The compositional information thus developed for these diets allows for judgments relative to the consumption of, among other things, various added food ingredients. The analysis of total diet samples during 1974 and 1976 indicated that the Ca:P ratio in these infant and toddler diets was 1:1, and in these adult diets was 1:1.5 to 1:1.6. While there is no evidence of a health risk due to increased phosphorus levels, it is anticipated that this ratio will be further monitored in future total diet samples. If distortion of the Ca:P ratio should become of concern, the agency will propose any needed regulations to further address this potential health effect. Meanwhile, the use by food processors of calcium phosphorus-containing salts, rather than similar salts with other cations, where technologically and/or economically feasible, would help to reduce further distortion of the Ca:P ratio.

This proposed action does not affect the present use of the phosphates for pet food or animal feed.

Therefore, under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (secs. 201(s), 409, 701(a), 52 Stat. 1055, 72 Stat. 1784–1788 as amended, (21 U.S.C. 321(s), 348, 371(a))) and under authority delegated to him (21 CFR 5.1), the Commissioner proposes that Parts 182 and 184 be amended as follows:

PART 182—SUBSTANCES GENERALLY RECOGNIZED AS SAFE

1. Part 182 is amended:

§ 182.70 [Amended]

a. In § 182.70 Substances migrating from cotton and cotton fabrics used in dry food packaging by deleting the entries for "Sodium tripolyphosphate" and "Tetrasodium pyrophosphate."

§ 182.90 [Amended]

b. In § 182.90 Substances migrating to food from paper and paperboard products by deleting the entries for "Sodium hexametaphosphate" and "Sodium tripolyphosphate."

PART 184—DIRECT FOOD SUBSTANCES AFFIRMED AS GENERALLY RECOGNIZED AS SAFE

2. Part 184 is amended by adding new §§ 184.1073, 184.1214, 184.1215, 184.1216, 184.1223, 184.1638, 184.1639, 184.1639a, 184.1644, 184.1722, 184.1760, 184.1779, 184.1780, 184.1781, 184.1810, 184.1870, and 184.1872 to read as follows:

§ 184.1073 Phosphoric acid.

(a) Phosphoric acid (H_3PO_4, CAS Reg. No. 007664–38–2) is also referred to as orthophosphoric acid. It is prepared by burning elemental yellow (white) phosphorus to form the oxide (P_4O_{10}). The hot oxide vapors are hydrated and cooled by adding water. The resulting liquid and mist are collected, further cooled, and treated with hydrogen sulfide to remove impurities. After filtration, the liquid is diluted to 75 or 85 percent phosphoric acid.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as a flavor enhancer as defined in § 170.3(o)(11) of this chapter, flavoring agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(12) of this chapter, pH control as defined in § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter, sequestrant as defined in § 170.3(o)(26) of this chapter, stabilizer and thickener as defined in § 170.3(o)(28) of this chapter, and synergist as defined in § 170.3(o)(31) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 0.16 percent for baked goods as defined in § 170.3(n)(1) of this chapter, 0.2 percent for nonalcoholic beverages as defined in § 170.3(n)(3) of this chapter, 0.5 percent for cheeses as defined in § 170.3(n)(5) of this chapter, 0.2 percent for imitation dairy products as defined in § 170.3(n)(10) of this chapter and for frozen dairy products as defined in § 170.2(n)(20) of this chapter, 0.3 percent for soft candy as defined in § 170.3(n)(38) of this chapter, and 0.1 percent percent or less for all other food categories.

§ 184.1214 Calcium phosphate, dibasic.

(a) Calcium phosphate, dibasic ($CaHPO_4$, CAS Reg. No. 007757–93–9) is also referred to as dicalcium phosphate. It is being prepared by adding a dilute lime (CaO) slurry to a dilute solution of phosphoric acid (H_3PO_4). At low temperature, under 40°C, the dihydrate will be formed, while at a temperature above 70°C, the anhydrous product will crystallize. The crystals are separated from the mother liquid, washed, and dried.

(b) The ingredient meets the specification of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as a dough conditioner as defined in § 170.3(o)(6) of this chapter, firming agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(10) of this chapter, flour-treating agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(13) of this chapter, formulation aid as defined in § 170.3(o)(14) of this chapter, humectant as defined in § 170.3(o)(16) of this chapter, leavening agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(17) of this chapter, mutrient supplement as defined in § 170.3(o)(20) of this chapter, pH control agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter, and texturizer as defined in § 170.3(o)(32) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 2.0 percent for baked goods as defined in § 170.3(n)(1) of this chapter, 1.9 percent for breakfast cereals as defined in § 170.3(n)(4) of this chapter, 2.3 percent for imitation dairy products as defined in § 170.3(n)(10) of this chapter, 4.5 percent for seasonings and flavorings as defined in § 170.3(n)(26) of this chapter, 2.0 percent for reconstituted vegetable protein as defined in § 170.3(n)(33) of this chapter, 1.4 percent for infant baked goods and infant formulas, and 0.5 percent or less for all other food categories.

§ 184.1215 Calcium phosphate, monobasic.

(a) Calcium phosphate, monobasic ($Ca(H_2PO_4)_2$, CAS Reg. No. 007758–23–8) is also referred to as monocalcium phosphate, calcium biophosphate, and acid calcium phosphate and exists in both the anhydrous and hydrated states. The monohydrate form is prepared by reacting hydrated lime ($CA(OH)_2$) with phosphoric acid (H_3PO_4), and the product dried by total evaporation. Anhydrous monocalcium phosphate is made by reacting hot lime with phosphoric acid at between 140°C and 170°C. Aluminum, sodium, and potassium in trace amounts are added to facilitate crystallization.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972), as amended by the Second Supplement (1975).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as a dough strengthener as defined in § 170.3(o)(6) of this chapter, firming agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(10) of this chapter, flavoring agents as defined in § 170.3(o)(12) of this chapter, formulation aid as defined in § 170.3(o)(14) of this chapter, leavening agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(17) of this chapter, nutrient supplement as defined in § 170.3(o)(20) of this chapter, pH control agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(23 of this chapter, stabilizer and thickener as defined in § 170.3(o)(28) of this chapter, and synergist as defined in § 170.3(o)(31) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 2.0 percent for baked goods as defined in § 170.3(n)(1) of this chapter, 1.1 percent for breakfast cereals as defined in § 170.3(n)(4) of this chapter, 0.8 percent for egg products as defined in § 170.3(n)(11) of this chapter 0.6 percent for gelatin and puddings as defined in § 170.3(n)(22) of this chapter, 1.8 percent for grain products and pasta as defined in § 170.3(n)(23) of this chapter, 0.2 percent for gravies as defined in § 170.3(n)(24) of this chapter, 0.5 percent for processed vegetables as defined in § 170.3(n)(36) of this chapter, 0.04 percent for infant formulas, and 0.02 percent or less for all other food categories.

§ 184.1216 Calcium phosphate, tribasic.

(a) Calcium phosphate, tribasic ($Ca_3(PO_4)_2$, CAS Reg. No. 007758–87–4) is also referred to as tricalcium phosphate and precipitated calcium phosphate. It is prepared by the addition of a dilute solution of phosphoric acid (H_3PO_4) to a dilute lime (CaO) slurry. The precipitate is separated from the mother liquor, washed, dried, and milled.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972), as amended by the Second Supplement (1975).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as an anticaking agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(1) of this chapter, curing agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(5) of this chapter, flavor enhancer as defined in § 170.3(o)(11) of this chapter, flavoring agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(12) of this chapter, flour treating agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(13) of this chapter, formulation aid as defined in § 170.3(o)(14) of this chapter, nutrient supplement as defined in § 170.3(o)(20) of this chapter, pH control agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter, stabilizer and thickener as defined in § 170.3(o)(28) of this chapter, surface-finishing agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(30) of this chapter, synergist as defined in § 170.3(o)(31) of this chapter, and texturizer as defined in § 170.3(o)(32) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 1.0 percent for baked goods as defined in § 170.3(n)(1) of this chapter, 0.14 percent for nonalcoholic beverages as defined in § 170.3(n)(3) of this chapter, 3.3 percent for breakfast cereals as defined in § 170.3(n)(4) of this chapter, 2.0 percent for condiments and relishes as defined in § 170.3(n)(8) of this chapter, 2.0 percent for seasonings and flavorings as defined in § 170.3(n)(26) of this chapter, 0.8 percent for milk products as defined in § 170.3(n)(31) of this chapter, 1.4 percent for soft candy as defined in § 170.3(n)(38) of this chapter, 2.6 percent for cooked or uncooked ready-to-eat infant cereals, 0.5 percent for infant formulas, and 0.5 percent or less for all other food categories.

§ 184.1223 Calcium pyrophosphate.

(a) Calcium pyrophosphate ($Ca_2P_2O_7$, CAS Reg. No. 007790–76–3) is also referred to as calcium diphosphate. The ingredient is prepared by heating dibasic calcium phosphate at temperatures above 500°C.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as a nutrient supplement as defined in § 170.3(o)(20) of this chapter, and pH control agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 1.9 percent in soft candy as defined in § 170.3(n)(38) of this chapter and 0.2 percent for all other good categories.

§ 184.1638 Potassium phosphate, dibasic.

(a) Potassium phosphate, dibasic (K_2HPO_4, CAS Reg. No. 007758–11–4) is also referred to as dipotassium monophosphate and dipotassium phosphate. It is prepared by reacting orthophosphoric acid (H_3PO_4) with potassium carbonate (K_2CO_3) or potassium hydroxide (KOH) and crystallizing from solution. It is either anhydrous or the dihydrate.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as an emulsifier as defined in § 170.3(o)(8) of this chapter, nutrient supplement as defined in § 170.3(o)(20) of this chapter, pH control agent as defined § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter, and stabilizer and thickener as defined in § 170.3(o)(28) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 0.42 percent for baked goods as defined in § 170.3(n)(1) of this chapter, 0.05 precent for nonalcoholic beverages as defined in § 170.3(n)(3) of this chapter, 2.9 percent for imitation dairy products as defined in § 170.3(n)(10) of this chapter, 0.2 percent for gelatin and puddings as defined in § 170.3(n)(22) of this chapter, 0.15 percent for milk products as defined in § 170.3(n)(31) of this chapter, 0.08 percent for processed vegetables as defined in § 170.3(n)(36) of this chapter, and 0.4 percent for sweet sauces as defined in § 170.3(n)(43) of this chapter.

§ 184.1639 Potassium phosphate, monobasic.

(a) Potassium phosphate, monobasic (KH_2PO_4, CAS Reg. No. 07778–77–0) is also referred to as potassium biphosphate, potassium dihydrogen phosphate, and monopotassium phosphate. It is prepared by reacting orthophosphoric acid with potassium carbonate (K_2CO_3) or potassium hydroxide (KOH). The product is obtained either by direct crystallization or by drum drying. It is usually anhydrous or the monohydrate.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as a nutrient supplement as defined in § 170.3(o)(20) of this chapter, pH control agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter, and sequestrant as defined in § 170.3(o)(26) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 0.03 percent for nonalcoholic beverages as defined in § 170.3(n)(3) of this chapter, 3.2 percent for imitation dairy products as defined in § 170.3(n)(10) of this chapter, 0.5 percent for egg products as defined in § 170.3(n)(11) of this chapter, 0.02 percent for processed fruits as defined in § 170.3(n)(35) of this chapter, and 0.0005 percent for soft candy as defined in § 170.3(n)(38) of this chapter.

§ 184.1639a Potassium phosphate, tribasic.

(a) Potassium phosphate, tribasic (K_3PO_4, CAS Reg. No. 007778–53–2) is also referred to as tripotassium phosphate. It is prepared be reacting orthophosphoric acid (H_3PO_4) with potassium hydroxide (KOH). The liquor is dried at a high temperature in a rotary kiln.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as a nutrient supplement as defined in § 170.3(o)(20) of this chapter, pH control agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter and sequestrant as defined in § 170.3(o)(26) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 0.004 percent for nonalcoholic beverages as defined in § 170.3(n)(3) of this chapter, and 3.9 percent for imitation dairy products as defined in § 170.3(n)(10) of this chapter.

§ 184.1644 Potassium tripolyphosphate.

(a) Potassium tripolyphosphate ($K_5P_3O_{10}$) is also referred to as pentapotassium triphosphate and potassium triphosphate. It is prepared by heating an intimate mixture of mono- and dipotassium orthophosphates.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as a sequestrant as defined in § 170.3(o)(26) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in nonalcoholic beverages, at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 0.003 percent for nonalcoholic beverages as defined in § 170.3(n)(3) of this chapter.

§ 184.1722 Sodium acid pyrophosphate.

(a) Sodium acid pyrophosphate ($Na_2H_2P_2O_7$, CAS Reg. No. 007758–16–9) is also referred to as disodium pyrophosphate, disodium diphosphate, disodium dihydrogen pyrophosphate, and disodium dihydrogen diphosphate. It is prepared by controlled heating of monosodium phosphate (NaH_2PO_4) in the temperature range of 200–250° C.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex 2d Ed. (1972), as amended by the First Supplement (1974).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as an emulsifier as defined in § 170.3(o)(8) of this chapter, formulation aid as defined in § 170.3(o)(14) of this chapter, humectant as defined in § 170.3(o)(16) of this chapter, leavening agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(17) of this chapter, pH control agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter, processing aid as defined in § 170.3(o)(24) of this chapter, sequestrant as defined in § 170.3(o)(26) of this chapter, stabilizer and thickener as defined in § 170.3(o)(28) of this chapter, synergist as defined in § 170.3(o)(31) of this chapter, and texturizer as defined in § 170.3(o)(32) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 2.1 percent for baked goods as defined in § 170.3(n)(1) of this chapter, 0.5 percent for condiments and relishes as defined in § 170.3(n)(8) of this chapter, 0.5 percent for fish products as defined in § 170.3(n)(13) of this chapter, 0.7 percent for grain products and pasta as defined in § 170.3(n)(23) of this chapter, 0.5 percent for meat products as defined in § 170.3(n)(29) of this chapter, 0.5 percent for poultry products as defined in § 170.3(n)(34) of this chapter, and 0.3 percent or less for all other food categories.

§ 184.1760 Sodium hexametaphosphate.

(a) Sodium hexametaphosphate ($(NaPO_3)_6$, usual formula, CAS Reg. No. 010124–56–8) is one of a group of metaphosphates. It is prepared by heating monosodium phosphate (NaH_2PO_4) rapidly to a clear melt, which occurs slightly above 625° C. Rapid chilling of this melt produces a very soluble glass which is then crushed or milled.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972), as amended by the First (1974) and Second (1975) Supplements.[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as a curing agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(5) of this chapter, dough strengthener as defined in § 170.3(o)(6) of this chapter, emulsifier as defined in § 170.3(o)(8) of this chapter, firming agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(10) of this chapter, flavor enhancer as defined in § 170.3(o)(11) of this chapter, flavoring agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(12) of this chapter, humectant as defined in § 170.3(o)(16) of this chapter, nutrient supplement as defined in § 170.3(o)(20) of this chapter, pH control agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter, processing aid as defined in § 170.3(o)(24) of this chapter, sequestrant as defined in § 170.3(o)(26) of this chapter, stabilizer and thickener as defined in § 170.3(o)(28) of this chapter, surface-active agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(29) of this chapter, synergist as defined in § 170.3(o)(31) of this chapter, and texturizer as defined in § 170.3(o)(32) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 0.17 percent for baked goods as defined in § 170.3(n)(1) of this chapter, 0.03 percent for nonalcoholic beverages as defined in § 170.3(n)(3) of this chapter, 3.0 percent for cheeses as defined in § 170.3(n)(5) of this chapter, 0.2 percent for frozen dairy desserts as defined in § 170.3(n)(20) of this chapter, 0.5 percent for gelatin and puddings as defined in § 170.3(n)(22) of this chapter, 0.52 percent for jams and jellies as defined in § 170.3(n)(27) of this chapter, 0.5 percent for meat products as defined in § 170.3(n)(29) of this chapter, 1.0 percent for milk products as defined in § 170.3(n)(31) of this chapter, 3.0 percent for poultry products as defined in § 170.3(n)(34) of this chapter, 0.38 percent for processed vegetables as defined in § 170.3(n)(36) of this chapter, 0.16 percent for snack foods as defined in § 170.3(n)(37) of this chapter, 0.04 percent for infant formulas, and 0.05 percent or less for all other food categories.

§ 184.1779 Sodium phosphate, dibasic.

(a) Sodium phosphate, dibasic (Na_2HPO_4, CAS Reg. No. 007558–79–4) is also referred to as disodium phosphate, disodium hydrogen phosphate, and disodium monohydrogen monophosphate. It is prepared by reacting orthophosphoric acid (H_3PO_4) with twice the amount of sodium carbonate(Na_2CO_3) as is used in the manufacture of the monobasic salt. It either contains two molecules of water of hydration or is an hygroscopic anhydrous salt.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as a curing agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(5) of this chapter, emulsifer as defined in § 170.3(o)(8) of this chapter, flavoring agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(12) of this chapter, humectant as defined in § 170.3(o)(16) of this chapter, nutrient supplement as defined in § 170.3(o)(20) of this chapter, pH control agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter, processing aid as defined in § 170.3(o)(24) of this chapter, sequestrant as defined in § 170.3(o)(26) of this chapter, stabilizer and thickener as defined in § 170.3(o)(28) of this chapter, surface-active agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(29) of this chapter, surface-finishing agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(30) of this chapter, and texturizer as defined in § 170.3(o)(32) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 1.0 percent for baked goods as defined in § 170.3(n)(1) of this chapter, 0.0003 percent for nonalcoholic beverages as defined in § 170.3(n)(3) of this chapter, 1.0 percent for breakfast cereals as defined in § 170.3(n)(4) of this chapter, 3.0 percent for cheeses as defined in § 170.3(n)(5) of this chapter, 1.9 percent for gelatin and puddings as defined in § 170.3(n)(22) of this chapter, 1.0 percent for grain products and pasta as defined in § 170.3(n)(23) of this chapter, 1.2 percent for gravies as defined in § 170.3(n)(24) of this chapter, 3.0 percent for milk products as defined in § 170.3(n)(31) of this chapter, 0.01 percent for infant formulas, and 0.5 percent or less for all other food categories.

§ 184.1780 Sodium phosphate, monobasic.

(a) Sodium phosphate, monobasic (NaH_2PO_4, CAS Reg. No. 007558–80–7) is also referred to as monosodium phosphate, sodium biphosphate, monosodium dihydrogen monophosphate, and acid sodium phosphate. It is prepared by reacting orthophosphoric acid (H_3PO_4) with sodium carbonate (Na_2CO_3). The product can be obtained either by direct crystallization or by drum drying. It is usually anhydrous or the monohydrate.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as an antioxidant as defined in § 170.3(o)(3) of this chapter, emulsifier as defined in § 170.3(o)(8) of this chapter, flavor enhancer as defined in § 170.3(o)(11) of this chapter, formulation aid as defined in § 170.3(o)(14) of this chapter, leavening agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(17) of this chapter, nutrient supplement as defined in § 170.3(o)(20) of this chapter, pH control agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter, stabilizer and thickener as defined in § 170.3(o)(28) of this chapter, and texturizer as defined in § 170.3(o)(32) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 0.9 percent for baked goods as defined in § 170.3(n)(1) of this chapter, 0.12 percent for nonalcoholic beverages as defined in § 170.3(n)(3) of this chapter, 3.0 percent for cheeses as defined in § 170.3(n)(5) of this chapter, 0.36 percent for imitation dairy products as defined in § 170.3(n)(10) of this chapter, 0.5 percent for egg products as defined in § 170.3(n)(11) of this chapter, 0.18 percent for gelatin and puddings as defined in § 170.3(n)(22) of this chapter, 1.0 percent for poultry products as defined in § 170.3(n)(34) of this chapter, 0.3 percent for snack foods as defined in § 170.3(n)(37) of this chapter, and 0.08 percent or less for all other food categories.

§ 184.1781 Sodium phosphate, tribasic.

(a) Sodium phosphate, tribasic (Na_3PO_4, CAS Reg. No. 007601–54–9) is also referred to as trisodium phosphate and trisodium monophosphate. It is prepared by reacting orthophosphoric acid (H_3PO_4) with sodium hydroxide (NaOH) and subsequent crystallization. The anhydrous form can be prepared by heating a solution containing three moles of (Na_2O and one mole of P_2O_5 at temperatures greater than 400° C. Based upon the method of preparation, the product is either anhydrous, or contains 1 or 12 molecules of water of hydration.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as an emulsifier as defined in § 170.3(o)(8) of this chapter, formulation aid as defined in § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter, processing aid as defined in § 170.3(o)(14) of this chapter, pH control agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(24) of this chapter, sequestrant as defined in § 170.3(o)(26) of this chapter, stabilizer and thickener as defined in § 170.3(o)(28) of this chapter, and surface-active agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(29) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 0.21 percent for baked goods as defined in § 170.3(n)(1) of this chapter, 0.003 percent for nonalcoholic beverages as defined in § 170.3(n)(3) of this chapter, 0.23 percent for breakfast cereals as defined in § 170.3(n)(4) of this chapter, 3.0 percent for cheeses as defined in § 170.3(n)(5) of this chapter, 0.47 percent for fats and oils as defined in § 170.3(n)(12) of this chapter, 0.2 percent for gravies as defined in § 170.3(n)(24) of this chapter, 0.4 percent for meat products as defined in § 170.3(n)(29) of this chapter, 0.39 percent for snack foods as defined in § 170.3(n)(37) of this chapter, and 0.07 percent or less for all other food categories.

§ 184.1810 Sodium tripolyphosphate.

(a) Sodium tripolyphosphate ($Na_5P_3O_{10}$, CAS Reg. No. 007758–29–4) is also referred to as pentasodium triphosphate and tripolyphosphate. It is prepared by heating an intimate mixture of mono- and disodium orthophosphates. Anhydrous sodium tripolyphosphate occurs in two forms: The low temperature variety (Form II) is obtained by heating to a temperature of 350–450° C, which can be converted to the high temperature variety (Form I) by heating to 500–550° C.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as an antioxidant as defined in § 170.3(o)(3) of this chapter, curing agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(5) of this chapter, flavor enhancer as defined in § 170.3(11) of this chapter, humectant as defined in § 170.3(o)(16) of this chapter, pH control agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter, sequestrant as defined § 170.3(o)(26) of this chapter, stabilizer and thickener and defined in § 170.3(o)(28) of this chapter, and texturizer as defined in § 170.3(o)(32) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 0.5 percent for fish products as defined in § 170.3(n)(13) of this chapter, 0.7 percent for gelatin and puddings as defined in § 170.3(n)(22) of this chapter 0.5 percent for seasonings and flavorings as defined in § 170.3(n) of this chapter, 0.6 percent for meat products as defined in § 170.3(n)(29) of this chapter, and 0.5 percent for poultry products as defined in § 170.3(n)(34) of this chapter.

§ 184.1870 Tetrapotassium pyrophosphate.

(a) Tetrapotassium pyrophosphate ($K_4P_2O_7$, CAS Reg. No. 007320–34–5) is also referred to as potassium pyrophosphate. It is prepared by heating dipotassium phosphate (K_2HPO_4) at temperatures above 400° C.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as specified in § 184.1872(c) for tetrasodium pyrophosphate.

(d) The ingredient is used in food, at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in maximum levels, as served, as provided for in § 184.1872(d) for tetrasodium pyrophosphate.

§ 184.1872 Tetrasodium pyrophosphate.

(a) Tetrasodium pyrophosphate. ($Na_4P_2O_7$CAS Reg. No. 007722–88–5) is also referred to as sodium phyrphosphate and tetrasodium diphosphate. It is prepared by heating disodium phosphate (Na_2HPO_4) at temperatures above 400° C but below its melting point of 880° C.

(b) The ingredient meets the specifications of the Food Chemicals Codex, 2d Ed. (1972).[1]

(c) The ingredient is used as an antioxidant as defined in § 170.3(o)(3) of this chapter, curing agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(5) of this chapter, emulsifier as defined in § 170.3(o)(8) of this chapter, formulation aid as defined in § 170.3(o)(14) of this chapter, humectant as defined in § 170.3(o)(16) of this chapter, leavening agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(17) of this chapter, nutrient supplement as defined in § 170.3(o)(17) of this chapter, nutrient supplement as defined in § 170.3(o)(20) of this chapter, pH control agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(23) of this chapter, sequestrant as defined in § 170.3(o)(26) of this chapter, stabilizer and thickener as defined in § 170.3(o)(28) of this chapter, surface-active agent as defined in § 170.3(o)(30) of this chapter, and synergist as defined in § 170.3(o)(31) of this chapter.

(d) The ingredient is used in food at levels not to exceed good manufacturing practice in accordance with § 184.1(b)(1). Current good manufacturing practice results in a maximum level, as served, of 1.4 percent for baked goods as defined in § 170.3(n)(1) of this chapter, 0.001 percent for nonalcoholic beverages as defined in § 170.3(n)(3) of this chapter, 3.0 percent for cheeses as defined in § 170.3(n)(5) of this chapter, 0.92 percent for imitation dairy products as defined in § 170.3(n)(10) of this chapter, 2.2 percent for gelatin and puddings as defined in § 170.3(n)(22) of this chapter, and 0.5 percent or less for all other food categories.

The agency hereby gives notice that it is unaware of any prior sanctions for the use of these ingredients in foods under conditions different from those proposed herein. Any person who intends to assert or rely on such a sanction shall submit proof of its existence in response to this proposal. The regulation proposed above will constitute a determination that excluded uses would result in adulteration of the food in violation of section 402 of the act (21 U.S.C. 342), and the failure of any person to come forward with proof of such an applicable prior sanction in response to this proposal constitutes a waiver of the right to assert or rely on such sanction at any later time. This notice also constitutes a proposal to establish a regulation under Part 181 (21 CFR Part 181) incorporating the same provisions, in the event that such a regulation is determined to be appropriate as a result of submission of proof of such an applicable prior sanction in response to this proposal.

Interested persons may, on or before February 19, 1980 submit to the Hearing Clerk (HFA–305), Food and Drug Administration, Rm. 4–65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857, written comments regarding this proposal. Four copies of all comments shall be submitted, except that individuals may submit single copies of comments, and shall be identified with the Hearing Clerk docket number found in brackets in the heading of this document. Received comments may be seen in the above office between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

In accordance with Executive Order 12044, the economic effects of this proposal have been carefully analyzed, and it has been determined that the proposed rulemaking does not involve major economic consequences as defined by that order.

Dated: August 7, 1979.

William F. Randolph,

Acting Associate Commissioner for Regulatory Affairs.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Office of Pension and Welfare Benefits Program

29 CFR Part 2550

Rules and Regulations for Fiduciary Responsibility; Proposed Regulations Relating to Definition of Plan Assets and to Establishment of Trust; Reopening of Comment Period

AGENCY: Department of Labor.

ACTION: Notice of reopening of comment period.

SUMMARY: The Department of Labor (the Department) is reopening the comment period on the proposed regulations which would clarify what will be regarded as assets of an employee benefit plan under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (the Act) and provide certain exemptions from the requirement that assets of an employee benefit plan be held in trust. The proposed regulations were set forth in the notice of rulemaking published in the Federal Register at 44 FR 50363 (August 28, 1979). In view of the importance of, and the wide-spread interest in, the proposed regulations, this action is being taken to provide interested persons an additional opportunity to present their views to the Department.

DATE: The comment period is reopened through January 7, 1980.

ADDRESS: Submit comments (preferably six copies) to: Office of Fiduciary Standards, Pension and Welfare Benefits Program, Room C–4526, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20216, Attention: Plan Asset Regulations.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Robert R. Bitticks, Esq., Office of the Solicitor, U.S. Department of Labor, Washington, D.C. (202) 523–8620.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On August 28, 1979, the Department issued a notice of proposed rulemaking concerning what constitutes "assets" of an employee benefit plan and proposing certain exemptions from the requirement that plan assets be held in trust. In that notice the Department invited all interested persons to submit written data, views or arguments concerning the proposed regulations. In a subsequent notice, published in the Federal Register on October 26, 1979, the period for public comment was extended until November 29, 1979.

As noted above, the Department believes that in view of the importance of, and the widespread interest in, the proposed regulations, it is appropriate to reopen the comment period. Accordingly, this notice reopens the comment period during which comments on the proposed regulation will be received until January 7, 1980.

Notice of Extension of Comment Period

Notice is hereby given that the period of time for the submission of public comments on the proposed regulations relating to what will be regarded as assets of an employee benefit plan under the Act and providing certain exemptions from the requirement that assets of an employee benefit plan be held in trust (proposed at 44 FR 50363, August 28, 1979), is hereby reopened through January 7, 1980. All interested persons are invited to submit written data, views or arguments concerning the regulations proposed at 44 FR 50363 (August 28, 1979) on or before January 7, 1980. These data, views or arguments (preferably six copies) should be submitted to the address set forth above.

Signed at Washington, D.C., this 14th day of December 1979.

Ian D. Lanoff,

Administrator, Pension and Welfare Benefits Program, Labor-Management Services Administration, United States Department of Labor.

Improving Government Regulations; Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Veterans Administration.

ACTION: Semiannual notice of agenda of regulations, significant and nonsignificant, under development or review.

SUMMARY: This agenda announces the regulations, both significant and nonsignificant, that the Veterans Administration will have under development and review during the 6-month period from December 17, 1979 through June 13, 1980. The Veterans Administration's purpose in publishing this agenda is to give the public notice for comment on those regulations under development or review during this 6-month period.

DATE: Comments must be received on or before February 19, 1980.

ADDRESSES: Send written comments to: Administrator of Veterans Affairs (271A), Veterans Administration, 810 Vermont Avenue NW., Washington, D.C. 20420.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Celia Fasone, Management Services (61), 810 Vermont Avenue NW., Washington, D.C. 20420, (202–389–3770).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Additional Comment Information

Comments should be addressed to Administrator of Veterans Affairs (271A), Veterans Administration, 810 Vermont Avenue NW., Washington, D.C. 20420. All written comments will be available for public inspection until February 29, 1980 at the above address, room 132, between the hours of 8 am and 4:30 pm Monday through Friday (except holidays). Persons visiting the VA Central Office for the purpose of inspecting any such comments will be received by the Central Office Veterans Services Unit (271A) in room 132. Persons visiting or calling VA field stations will be informed that the records are available for inspection only in Central Office.

Executive Order 12044, "Improving Government Regulations" requires that executive agencies publish, every 6 months, in the Federal Register a semiannual agenda of regulations under development and review. The Veterans Administration's next semiannual agenda of regulations will be published in the June 18, 1980 issue of the Federal Register.

Approved: December 12, 1979.

Max Cleland,

Administrator.

Approval and Promulgation of Implementation Plans; Ohio

AGENCY: U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: U.S. EPA proposes to approve a revision to the Ohio State Implementation Plan for sulfur dioxide as it applies to The Toledo Edison Company's Acme, Bay Shore and Water Street Stations which are located in Lucas County, Ohio. The proposed approval is based upon the results of an extensive air quality dispersion modeling study which demonstrates that the revised emission limitations will not jeopardize the attainment and maintenance of the ambient air quality standards and will result in an improvement in the air quality in Lucas County. The purpose of this notice is to invite public comment on U.S. EPA's proposed revision to the Ohio State Implementation Plan.

DATE: Comments must be received on or before January 17, 1980. Requests for a public hearing on this revisions must be received no later than January 2, 1980.

ADDRESSES: Comments and requests for a hearing should be submitted to Steve Rothblatt, Chief, Air Programs Branch, U.S. EPA, Region V, 230 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois 60604. The docket (#5A-79-6) for the revision is available for inspection and copying during normal business hours at the above address and at the Central Docket Section, Room 2903B, U.S. EPA, 401 M Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20460.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Debra Marcantonio, Air Programs Branch, U.S. EPA, Region V, 230 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois 60604, (312) 886-6048.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On May 31, 1977 (42 FR 27588) the U.S. EPA promulgated final regulations establishing a state implementation plan (SIP) for the control of sulfur dioxide (SO_2) in Ohio. This proposed rule would amend that SIP as it applies to certain sources operated by The Toledo Edison Company in Lucas County, Ohio.

On March 31, 1978, Toledo Edison requested a revision to the Ohio SIP for its sources located in Lucas County, Ohio. That request was accompanied by a dispersion modeling study which had been performed by the Company's consultant using U.S. EPA's Urban Ram Model. After reviewing this study, U.S. EPA requested further technical documentation from Toledo Edison in support of the revision request. An analysis of good engineering practice (GEP) stack heights at Bay Shore was submitted in December 1978. A supplemental dispersion modeling study was submitted to U.S. EPA in September 1979. The September 1979 dispersion modeling study employs a greatly expanded receptor network, five years of meteorological data, an updated and expanded emissions inventory, more critical days, and it models Lucas County as a unit rather than as four separate regions.

Based upon the results of the dispersion modeling study, it is proposed that the SO_2 emission limitation for the coal-fired units at the Acme Station be revised from 3.00 lbs. SO_2/MMBTU to 1.20 lbs. SO_2/MMBTU; the SO_2 emission limitation for the oil-fired units at the Water Street Station be revised from 1.06 lbs. SO_2/MMBTU to 1.00 lbs. SO_2/MMBTU; and the SO_2 emission limitation for the coal-fired units at the Bay Shore Station be revised from 1.20 lbs. SO_2/MMBTU to 1.94 lbs. SO_2/MMBTU. The emission limitations for the Acme oil-fired units and the Bay Shore peaking unit will remain unchanged.

The 1.94 lbs. SO_2/MMBTU emission limitation proposed for the Bay Shore Station takes into account the employment of a new stack that Toledo Edison has constructed at the Station. This new stack is expected to be on-line with all four of the coal-fired units by April 14, 1980.

Although the new stack is actually 475 feet in height, U.S. EPA has determined that Toledo Edison may only claim credit for 385 feet of stack height based upon the application of U.S. EPA's empirical GEP stack height equation. The GEP height of 385 feet was used in the air quality dispersion modeling. A stack height change at the Acme Station was also considered in the development of the proposed emission limitations. Due to structural deterioration, a 275 foot stack at Acme was reduced to 225 equation and was, thus, used in the modeling.

No PSD analysis was required because as of the applicable baseline date, all Toledo Edison sources were emitting at levels in excess of those which would be permitted under the proposed revision. Therefore, no air quality increment will be consumed.

Additionally, Toledo Edison has requested that the wording in § 52.1881(b)(39)(iii)(B) relating to the Bay Shore peaking unit be changed from "fossil fuel fired steam generating units" to "fossil fuel fired peaking unit" to accurately reflect the nature of the unit. U.S. EPA proposes this word change as requested, as the rewording does not change the intent of the original regulation.

Toledo Edison's petition for a revision includes a request for the establishment of a new compliance date of April 15, 1980 for the Acme coal-fired units and the Water Street Station steam plant oil-fired units. The Company's request is premised upon the fact that the proposed emission limitations for these stations are more stringent than the limitations promulgated by U.S. EPA. Thus, some period of time is necessary to consume fuel supplies on site and to secure compliance fuel. In its request, Toledo Edison points out that the existing fuel supplies which would be burned at these stations until April 15, 1980 would comply with the current U.S. EPA promulgated emission limitations. For the Bay Shore plant, the compliance date will not be extended since the new limits are less restrictive than the existing SIP. The Bay Shore station is being given two alternative emission limits, 1.20 pounds SO_2 per million BTU if the present stack is used and 1.94 pounds SO_2 per million BTU when emissions are vented through the new taller stack.

Based upon the Agency's review of the technical documentation submitted, U.S. EPA has determined that approval of the proposed SIP will result in an improvement in air quality in Lucas County and will not jeopardize the attainment and maintenance of the National Ambient Air Quality Standards. Thus, U.S. EPA proposes to approve the revised emission limitations for The Toledo Edison Company's Acme, Bay Shore and Water Street Stations. U.S. EPA also proposes to approve the new compliance dates for the Acme and Water Street Stations since the new limits are more stringent than the existing SIP, and the ultimate compliance date is a expeditious as practicable and prior to the June 17, 1980 attainment date.

Final promulgation of this revision will follow an analysis of all comments submitted and will depend on its consistency with section 110 of the Clean Air Act. Comments are being solicited.

Note.—The U.S. EPA has determined that this document is not a significant regulation and does not require preparation of regulatory analysis under Executive Order 12044.

(Section 110 of the Clean Air Act, as amended 42 U.S.C. 7410)

Dated: December 6, 1979.

John McGuire,

Regional Administrator.

Part 52 of Chapter I, Title 40 of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended as follows:

Subpart KK—Ohio

1. § 52.1881 is amended by revising paragraphs (b)(39)(iii)(B), adding a new paragraph (b)(39)(iii) (C), and by revising paragraphs (b)(39)(vii) and (ix).

§ 52.1881 Control Strategy: Sulfur Oxides (sulfur dioxide).

* * * * *

(b) Regulations for the control of sulfur dioxide in the State of Ohio

* * * * *

(39) In Lucas County * * *

* * * * *

(iii) The Toledo Edison Company or any subsequent owner or operator of the Bay Shore Station in Lucas County, Ohio shall not cause or permit sulfur dioxide emission from any stack at the Bay Shore Station in excess of the rates specified below:

(A) * * *

(B) 0.50 pound of sulfur dioxide per million BTU actual heat input for the fossil fuel-fired peaking unit burning oil.

(C) In the alternative to § 52.1881(b)(39)(iii)(A), 1.94 lbs. of sulfur dioxide per million BTU heat input for fossil fuel fired steam generating units burning coal and vented through a stack greater than or equal to 385 feet above grand level.

* * * * *

(vii) The Toledo Edison Company or any subsequent owner or operator of the Acme Power Plant in Lucas County, Ohio shall not cause or permit sulfur dioxide emissions from any stack in excess of the rates specified below:

(A) 1.20 pounds of sulfur dioxide per million BTU actual heat input for fossil fuel-fired steam-generating units burning coal.

(B) * * *

(ix) The Toledo Edison Company or any subsequent owner or operator of the Water Street Steam Plant in Lucas County, Ohio shall not cause or permit sulfur dioxide emissions from any stack at the Water Street Plant in excess of 1.00 pounds of sulfur dioxide per million BTU actual heat input.

* * * * *

2. § 52.1882(b) is amended as follows by adding a new subsection (8):

§ 52.1882 Compliance Schedules.

(b) * * *

(8)(i) Federal Compliance schedules for The Toledo Edison Acme Power Plant coal-fired units and the Water Street Steam plant oil-fired units is as set forth in § 52.1882(b) except that § 52.1882(b)(4)(iii)(G) is changed, for these units only, as follows:

(A) April 15,1980: Achieve final compliance with the emission limitation of § 52.1881(b) of this chapter, as applicable and notify the Adminstrator in writing that such action was taken within five working days of said date.

(ii) In the event that the Toledo Edison Bay Shore plant uses the alternative regulation of § 52.1881(b)(39)(iii)(C) and vents its fossil fuel fired steam generating units burning coal through a stack greater than or equal to 385 feet above ground level, the Administrator must be notified in writing that such action was taken within five working days of the connection of the new stack to all four of the coal-fired units.

[General Docket No. 79-188; RM-3247]

Allocating Spectrum for, and Establishing Other Rules and Policies Pertaining to the Use of Radio in Digital Termination Systems for the Provision on Common Carrier Digital Telecommunications Services; Order Extending Time for Filing Comments and Replies

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Extension of time for filing comments to Notice of Proposed Rulemaking and inquiry.

SUMMARY: The Commission further extends the dates for the filing of comments and of reply comments to the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking and Inquiry in Docket 79-188, released on August 29, 1979 and issued in response to the rulemaking petition filed by the Xerox Corporation.

DATES: The filing dates for comments and reply comments are extended one additional month. Comments and reply comments must be filed on or before January 14, 1980 and on or before February 14, 1980, respectively.

ADDRESSES: Federal Communications Commission, 1919 M Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20554.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION, CONTACT: J. Bertron Withers, Jr., Spectrum Allocation Division Office of Science & Technology (202) 632-6350.

Adopted: December 11, 1979.

Released: December 12, 1979.

In the matter amendment of Parts 2, 21, 87 and 90 of the Commission's rules to allocate spectrum for, and to establish other rules and policies pertaining to the use of radio in Digital Termination Systems for the provision on Common Carrier Digital Telecommunications Services, General Docket No. 79-188, RM-3247. See 44 FR 67191, Nov. 23, 1979.

1. On December 7, 1979 Microband Corporation of America (Microband), by its attorneys, pursuant to § 1.46 of the Commission's rules and regulations, 47 CFR 1.46 filed a request to further extend the time for filing comments to January 14, 1980 in the above-captioned matter. Comments on the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking and Inquiry in this matter, released by the Commission on August 29, 1979 are currently due on or before December 14, 1979—extended from the original filing date of November 14, 1979.

2. Microband's intention, it asserts, is to file substantial comments with detailed market and technical analyses. The preparation of these comments requires extensive work necessitating more time to prepare complete and meaningful comments. Microband further suggests that since it was one of those that filed comments to Xerox's petition intiating this proceeding, its responses to the Notice should be of particular interest to the Commission.

3. The Commission believes, as suggested in the previous order extending the comment date to December 14, 1979, that the development of the fullest record practicable could lead the Commission to develop final rules and policies in this matter at the end of the current comment/reply comment period—if the record developed so justifies. While Microband's justification is not wholly persuasive in itself, the Commission is convinced that a further extension will provide a sounder basis upon which the Commission may formulate these rules and policies. An extension of the 30 days requested by Microband appears appropriate since any reasonably shorter time period falls within or very shortly after the holiday period.

4. However, in the interest of not unduly delaying the resolution of the many important issues inherent in this complex proceeding, any further requests for extension of the comment period will require the presentation of very specific and substantial reasons along with the most extenuating of circumstances. Regarding this present request for the reasons given above, and since we have received no objections and perceive no harm or prejudice to any party, the request for extension of the comment period to Janurary 14, 1980 is granted.

5. Therefore, it is ordered, pursuant to § 0.241(d) of the Commission's rules and regulations, that the dates for filing comments and reply comments in this proceeding are extended from December 14, 1979 and January 14, 1980, respectively. Comments must now be filed on or before January 14, 1980; reply comments must now be filed on or before February 14, 1980.

Federal Communications Commission.

Basin Electric Power Cooperative, Final Environmental Impact Statement

Notice is hereby given that a Final Environmental Impact Statement, DOE/EIS–0025–F, Miles City-Baker-Hettinger-New Underwood 230 kV transmission line, Montana-North Dakota-South Dakota was issued and filed with the Environmental Protection Agency on July 30, 1979. The Western Area Power Administration assumed lead agency responsibility for the preparation of the Environmental Impact Statement for this project.

The Rural Electrification Administration participated in the preparation of this Environmental Impact Statement as Cooperating Agency No. USDA–REA–EIS (ADM 79–4–F) in accordance with Section 102(2)(C) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 and in connection with a proposed request for a loan guarantee commitment from the Rural Electrification Administration from Basin Electric Power Cooperative of Bismarck, North Dakota. This loan guarantee commitment is planned to assist Basin Electric Power Cooperative in obtaining financing for a 25 percent ownership interest in the Miles City-Baker-Hettinger-New Underwood 230kV transmission line.

Additional information may be secured by request submitted to the Assistant Administrator-Electric, Rural Electrification Administration, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250. Individual copies of the Final Environmental Impact Statement are available upon request addressed to James D. Davies, Area Manager, Western Area Power Administration, Department of Energy, P.O. Box EGY, Billings, Montana 59101. The Final Environmental Impact Statement may be examined during regular business hours (1) at the library, Room 1223, Department of Energy, 20 Massachusetts Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C., or (2) at DOE, Room GA, Forrestal Building, 1000 Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C., (3) at the offices of Basin Electric Power Cooperative, 1717 East Interstate Avenue, Bismarck, North Dakota, or (4) at the office of the USDA/REA, North Central Area-Electric, Room 5829, 14th & Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, D.C.

Final REA action with respect to this matter (including any release of funds) may be taken after 30 days, but only after REA has reached satisfactory conclusions with respect to environmental effects and after requirements set forth in the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 are met.

Dated at Washington, D.C., this 11 day of December 1979.

Robert W. Feragen,
Administrator, Rural Electrification Administration.

Soil Conservation Service

Newtown-Hoffman Watershed Project, New York; Notice of Intent To Prepare an Environmental Statement

AGENCY: Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

ACTION: Notice of Intent To Prepare an Environmental Impact Statement.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:
Mr. Robert L. Hilliard, State Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Courthouse and Federal Building, 100 S. Clinton Street, Room 771, Syracuse, New York 13260, telephone number (315) 423–5493.

NOTICE: Pursuant to section 102(2)(g) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969; the Council on Environmental Quality Guidelines (40 CFR Part 1500); and the Soil Conservation Service Guidelines (7 CFR Part 650); the Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, gives notice that an environmental impact statement is being prepared for the remaining works of improvement in the Newtown-Hoffman Watershed project, Chemung and Schuyler Counties, New York.

The environmental assessment of this federally-assisted action indicates that the project may cause significant local, regional, or national impacts on the environment. As a result of these findings, Mr. Robert L. Hilliard, State Conservationist, has determined that the preparation and review of the environmental impact statement is needed for the remaining works of improvement in this project. The project concerns a plan for the purpose of flood prevention. The remaining works of improvement include land treatment and floodwater retarding structure sites 12E, 5A, and 2.

A draft environmental impact statement will be prepared and circulated for review by agencies and the public. The Soil Conservation Service invites participation of agencies and individuals with expertise or interest in the preparation of the draft environmental impact statement. The draft environmental impact statement will be developed by Mr. Robert L. Hilliard, State Conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Courthouse and Federal Building, 100 S. Clinton Street, Room 771, Syracuse, New York 13260.

Applications for Duty-Free Entry of Scientific Articles

The following are notices of the receipt of applications for duty-free entry of scientific articles pursuant to Section 6(c) of the Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Materials Importation Act of 1966 (Public Law 89–651; 80 Stat. 897). Interested persons may present their veiws with respect to the question of whether an instrument or apparatus of equivalent scientific value for the purposes for which the article is intended to be used is being manufactured in the United States. Such comments must be filed in triplicate with the Director, Statutory Import Programs Staff, Bureau of Trade Regulation, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C. 20230, by January 7, 1980.

Regulations (15 CFR 301.9) issued under the cited Act prescribe the requirements for comments.

A copy of each application is on file, and may be examined between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, in Room 735 at 666 11th Street N.W., Washington, D.C.

Docket No.: 80–00023. Applicant: Duke University, Durham, North Carolina 27710. Article: 12KW High Brilliance Rotating Anode Generator and Accessories. Manufacturer: Rigaku Corporation, Japan. Intended use of article: The article is intended to be used for studies of human liver manganese superoxide dismutase and chicken liver sulfite oxidase. Experiments to be conducted will consist of: (1) the collection of complete 3-dimensional X-ray diffraction data on crystals of both enzymes, out to at least 3 Angstrons resolution, for both the native crystals and crystals containing heavy atom derivatives, (2) location of the heavy atoms and use of them to determine phases for the native data, and (3) calculation of electron density maps at 3 Angstroms resolution or better. The objective of these experiments is the determination of a backbone tracing and complete 3-dimensional structure for both the Mn superoxide dismutase and the sulfite oxidase molecules. In addition, the article will be used in the training of advanced graduate students. Application received by Commissioner of Cutoms: November 13, 1979.

Docket No.: 80–00024. Applicant: Princeton University, Plasma Physics Laboratory, P.O. Box CN17, Princeton, New Jersey 08544. Article: Two (2) Carcinotron Tubes, Model CO 10.1. Manufacturer: Thomson-CSF, France. Intended use of article: The articles are intended to be used as a swept local oscillators for a 290 GHz to 300 GHz interferrometer used in the electron density diagnostics of high temperature hydrogen plasmas associated with the development of nuclear fusion power generators. The articles will also be used as the millimeter microwave source for a microwave scattering system used to measure other plasma conditions. Application received by Commissioner of Customs: November 13, 1979.

Docket No.: 80–00025: Applicant: The University of Missouri-Rolla, Purchasing Department, Rolla, Missouri 65401. Article: Flow System for study of two-phase turbulent flow. Manufacturer: Swiss Federal Institute of Technology, Switzerland. Intended use of article: The article is intended to be used for studies of turbulent structure at fluid interfaces, wind-generated waves, structure of turbulent shear flow. Laser Droppler Anemometer measurements of mean and fluctuating velocities, including second order space-time correlations will be conducted in order to obtain a fundamental understanding of the basic phenomena cited above. In addition, the article will be used in the courses Graduate Research Ch. E.–490 and Fluid Mechanics Ch. E–231. Application received by Commissioner of Customs: November 13, 1979.

Docket No.: 80–00031. Applicant: Princeton University, Director of Purchases, P.O. Box 33, Princeton, New Jersey 08544. Article: 12KW High Brilliance Rotating Anode X-ray Generator. Manufacturer: Rigaku Corporation, Japan. Intended use of article: The article is intended to be used to study the structure of complex biological systems including vertebrate muscles and the rod outer segment disk membranes of the vertebrate eye. The article will also be an essential part of training of graduate students doing doctoral thesis work. Application received by Commissioner of Customs: November 16, 1979.

Docket No.: 80–00032. Applicant: University of Texas Medical Branch, Room 322, Administration Bldg., 915 Strand Street, Galveston, Texas 77550. Article: Electron Microscope, Model JEM 1000X. Manufacturer: JEOL Ltd., Japan. Intended use of article: The article is intended to be used for the study of the structure of biological cells and tissues primarily those of the nervous system including special sensory and cardiovascular organs. The study of structure is related to neurochemical transmission, excitable membranes and ultrastructural correlates of chemical interaction of nerve cells. Similarly the article will be used to determine the ultrastructural substrate and basis for chemical activity of the nervous system during normal and/or abnormally related functional state. Application received by Commissioner of Customs: November 16, 1979.

Docket No.: 80–00034. Applicant: U.S. Department of Commerce—National Bureau of Standards, 325 Broadway, Boulder, CO 80303. Article: Microfabrication System, Scanning Electron Microscope/Electron Beam, Type S150–1 and Accessories. Manufacturer: Cambridge Instrument Co., United Kingdom. Intended use of article: The article is intended to be used primarily for research in superconducting electronics, i.e., electronics based on superconducting materials. In addition, the article will be used in the development of linewidth measurement artifacts in the submicrometer dimensional regime. Application received by Commissioner of Customs: November 19, 1979.

Docket No.: 80–00035. Applicant: University of Oregon Health Sciences Center, 3181 SW Sam Jackson Pk. Road., Portland, OR 97201. Article: Biotec Replicator. Manufacturer: Biotec-Aktiengesellschaft, Switzerland. Intended use of article: the article is intended to be used for the study of antibody production by mouse lymphocytes to understand function development in B lymphocytes. Experiments will be conducted with the objective of answering the following questions:

1. Does the memory pool consist of both antigen sensitive and antigen insensitive precursors and from which fraction do allogeneic regulatory cells recruit additional TI–2 responsive B1*y* precursors?
2. Can graft vs host reactions during priming alter the subsequent B1*y* –B2*y* balance of the memory pool?
3. Does the alteration of this balance which we have observed when allogeneic cells are present during secondary stimulation reflect earlier events which can occur during the development of the memory pool?
4. Which genetic loci are involved in allogeneic suppression of B2*y* precursors and enhancement of B1*y* precursors?

Application received by Commissioner of Customs: November 19, 1979.

Docket No.: 80–00036. Applicant: Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, 1275 York Avenue, New York, New York 10021. Article: Afterloading-Irradiation Device for Tumor Therapy.

Manufacturer: Isotopen-Technik Dr. Sauerwein, GMBH, West Germany. Intended use of article: The article is intended to be used in various experimental studies aimed at a better understanding of treatment parameters. For example, and initial investigation planned would examine the relative doses of radiation required to reach the same degree of skin reaction, using mini-swine, for high dose rate treatments with the Remote Afterloader in (about 1 mg Ra eq) Ir–192 sources to the skin surface. Ir–192 remote afterloader treatments would provide normalizing data for a series of experiments investigating different types of sources and different time modes of treatment. The article will also be used for educational objectives in a Radiation Oncology Training program for residents and fellows. Application received by Commissioner of Customs: November 11, 1979.

Docket No.: 80–00030. Applicant: Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, 1275 York Avenue, New York N.Y. 10021 Article: Therac 20/Saturne Medical Linear Accelerator and Accessories. Manufacturer: AECL, Canada. Intended use of article: the article is intended to be used for the treatment and study of effects of many forms of head and neck cancers, breast cancer and other peripherally situated tumors in addition to more extensive and deep seated lesions. The research programs in which the article will be used will include the following studies:

(1) Total Nodal Irradiation for Hodgkin's Disease and Non-Hodgkin's Lymphoma.

(2) Interdisciplinary Study of the Management of Embryonal Rhabdomyosarcoma in Children.

(3) Combination Chemotherapy and Radical Radiation in Advanced Cancers of the Head and Neck.

(4) Gynecological Malignancies.

Application received by Commissioner of Customs: November 20, 1979.

National Oceanic and Atomospheric Administration

Intent To Prepare an Environmental Impact Statement

The Office of Coastal Zone Management in the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) is preparing and intends to distribute a draft environmental impact statement (DEIS) on the proposed approval of the Connecticut Coastal Zone Management Program under the provisions of section 306 of the Federal Coastal Zone Management Act of 1972 (Pub. L. 92–583, as amended).

Federal approval of the Connecticut Coastal Zone Management Program would allow program administrative grants to be awarded to the State and require that Federal actions be consistent with the program.

The program consists of numerous policies on diverse management issues which are enforced by various State laws, and is the culmination of five years of program development. The Connecticut Program will condition, restrict or prohibit some uses in parts of the coastal zone, while encouraging development and other uses in other parts. The program will improve the decision-making process for determining appropriate coastal land and water uses in light of resource considerations and increase public awareness of coastal resources. The program will result in some short-term economic impacts on coastal users but will lead to increased long-term protection of the State's coastal resources. Federal alternatives include delaying or denying approval if certain requirements of the Coastal Zone Management Act have not been met. The State could modify parts of the program or withdraw their application for Federal approval if either of the above Federal alternatives results from the circulation of the DEIS.

OCZM would be particularly interested in comments on the following areas:

(1) The extent to which the State should promulgate regulations to provide further specificity to local governments implementing the program,

(2) The extent to which beach access is adequately addressed in the program,

(3) The extent to which the State should promulgate regulations to provide further specificity to the Department of Environmental Protection in implementing the program,

(4) The adequacy of the mechanisms for State administrative review and enforcement of compliance of local government decisions.

OCZM feels that a scoping meeting is not necessary on this program due to the extensive legislative review of this program during hearings on the Connecticut Coastal Area Management Act of 1979, and numerous public meetings held by the State on the development of this program.

It is intended that the DEIS will be distributed in January, 1980. OCZM therefore requests that any interested party submit comments before December 29, 1979 to:

Ms. Kathryn Cousins or Mr. Dick O'Connor, North Atlantic Region, Office of Coastal Zone Management, 3300 Whitehaven St., NW., Washington, D.C. 20234 (202/634–4126).

Any comments received after this date will be considered as comments on the DEIS and responded to accordingly.

Dated: December 10, 1979.

Office of the Secretary

Summary of the International Laboratory Accreditation Conference (ILAC) Held in Sydney, Australia on October 22–26, 1979

The Third International Conference on Recognition of National Programs for Accreditation of Testing Laboratories, ILAC/79 was held in Sydney, Australia on October 22–28, 1979. The conference was officially renamed the International Laboratory Accreditation Conference during the proceeding and will henceforth be known by this name. ILAC is an informal assemblage of nations and international organizations interested in promoting international recognition of national laboratory accreditation systems. The objective of ILAC is to facilitate international trade of products and services for which reliable reports of test data are needed prior to their importation and/or exportation. The first conference, ILAC/77, was held in Copenhagen, Denmark, on October 24–28, 1977. The second conference, ILAC/78, was held in Washington, D.C., USA, on October 23–27, 1978.

Representatives from 21 countries and 7 international organizations attended ILAC/79 in Sydney. The United States Delegation consisted of Messrs. T. R. Flint, American Plywood Association, J. A. Grant, Amoco Oil Company, J. C. Herr, General Dynamics, W. McAdams, General Electric Co., L. J. Walker, Northern Testing Laboratories, Inc. and B. Whitaker, Underwriters Laboratories, Inc. from the private sector, L. D. Eicher and A. J. Farrar from the National Bureau of Standards, and H. I. Forman, J. W. Locke, and V. Travaglini from the Department of Commerce, with Dr. Forman serving as head of the delegation.

A public pre-conference briefing session was held at the National Bureau of Standards on September 26, 1979 in order to develop positions which the U.S. Delegation later advocated in Sydney. No public post-conference briefing is planned, partly because most of the work of the conference is to be continued by the previously designated task forces until ILAC/80 scheduled to be held in Paris on October 20–24, 1980, and partly because minutes of the conference will be available as soon as published by the conference chairman, Mr. H. F. Monaghan of Australia.

Substance of the Conference

The work of the conference was focused on the efforts of three task forces.

Task Force A. Mr. Allen J. Farrar (USA), Chairman

To prepare an analysis of legal problems raised by the recognition of national laboratory accreditation systems based on information obtained from a questionnaire on the subject.

Task Force B. Mr. J. Stanley Linton (UK), Chairman

To identify the scope and structure of a draft directory of organizations or bodies which operate laboratory accreditation systems or other schemes for testing laboratories, and to work with the chairman of the Australian delegation who has volunteered to prepare a draft of the directory for ILAC/79.

Task Force C. Mr. John A. Gilmour (Australia), Chairman

To prepare a paper on the needs, objectives, and the effects and consequences of laboratory accreditation and to prepare a list of basic terms and their definitions relative to laboratory accreditation or assessment.

Introduction to the Conference

Senator J. J. Webster, Minister of Science and the Environment of the Australian government opened the conference by welcoming the delegates and encouraging the development of laboratory accreditation systems. Chairman Monaghan followed by summarizing the proceedings of ILAC/78 and summarizing the efforts of the ILAC conferences to date.

Attachment A

Report of Task Force A

The chairman of this task force advised that, in response to the five categories of questions in the ILAC questionnaire, over 600 pages of information and data from 14 countries had been received and analyzed. He further advised that responses from 7 more countries had been received prior to the start of the Sydney Conference but after the first report of Task Force A had been prepared.

By way of introduction, the chairman pointed out that Task Force A, in reviewing the various responses, considered not only specific legal constraints to the formal recognition by one country of another country's laboratory accreditation programs or systems, but also other relevant factors bearing on such formal recognition.

In analyzing the responses to Question I of the questionnaire, which sought information on the legal aspects pertaining to laboratory testing in relation to product conformance, the task force found that, in many instances, mandatory requirements for testing products prescribe that only specific laboratories that are named in the laws or regulations of the countries having such requirements may carry out tests relevant to those requirements. It may therefore be necessary, in those instances, for such laws or regulations to be amended so as to allow other testing laboratories which have been accredited under a recognized laboratory accreditation program, to carry out the appropriate tests on the products covered by those laws or regulations.

In seeking information under Question II of the questionnaire which, in part, solicited information on whether laboratory accreditation programs could accredit foreign testing laboratories under such programs it appeared that while some accreditation programs are able to accredit foreign testing laboratories, others are not, and in some cases, the position was not clear.

In considering the responses to Question III, which, in part, sought information on whether countries impose requirements or obligations on foreign testing laboratories which do business in the host country that are different than those imposed on domestic laboratories, the task force found that, as a general rule, countries do not impose on foreign laboratories requirements which differ materially from those imposed on domestic laboratories.

With regard to Question IV, which was concerned with the issue of liability of accrediting bodies for acts of negligence in the accreditation of testing laboratories, the task force, on the basis of the responses considered, found relatively little evidence of specific laws or regulations which immunize an accrediting body from acts of negligence. However, some government laboratory accreditation programs provide some immunity, or limits on liability, on the basis of discretionary acts or where such programs are in compliance with formal regulations. The task force found no court decisions whereby accrediting bodies were found liable relative to any act of negligence in accrediting a testing laboratory under an established laboratory accreditation program.

Question V sought information about laws and procedures pertaining to recognition of foreign laboratory accreditation programs operating in the mandatory as well as the voluntary sectors. Based on the responses received, it appeared that most laws and regulations are silent on the subject of needed to be clarified; (2) a further analysis of these responses, as well as of the responses received after the report's preparation, was essential; and, (3) further study of the legal implications relating to various aspects associated with the accreditation of testing laboratories under a recognized laboratory accreditation program was necessary.

The task force indicated that it was prepared to continue its work and report more fully on its findings at the ILAC/80 meeting.

Report on Task Force B

The chairman of this task force described the general outline for the proposed directory. Part one of the directory would contain general testing arrangements describing how testing work was recognized in the various countries. This would allow the reader to understand how testing is accomplished and how test reports are recognized in the various countries. The second part of the directory would specifically summarize accreditation systems. Both government and non-government systems would be included but only systems meeting minimum criteria or minimum conditions of entry would be included in the directory as envisioned by the task force.

Mr. Monaghan who had prepared a draft of the directory based on these instructions then described the draft which had been distributed at the opening of the meeting to all of the delegates. There was some concern that this draft was not very inclusive, but Mr. Monaghan pointed out that the purpose of the draft was to describe the layout and format rather than to include all the information he had available at the time the draft was prepared.

There was considerable discussion over conditions which laboratory accreditation systems must meet in order to be included in the directory. The conditions were reviewed one at a time and comments recorded. The chairman of the U.S. delegation presented an argument for including all systems in the directory. He used several examples of the kind of systems which would be excluded if minimum criteria for entry were to be employed, and expressed the U.S. position that this was not as desirable as an all-encompassing directory from which the user could select the system of interest and determine if they met the user's requirements. In a straw vote the task force should review the situation again and try to decide if there was a way to include all systems which might be of interest without denying to those interested information concerning systems which are categorized as meeting stated minimum conditions for entry into the directory.

Report on Task Force C

The chairman of this task force reported that the Task Force C has attempted to coordinate its activities with the International Standards Organization (ISO) with only limited success. The task force met and prepared a document entitled "The Needs, Objectives, Effects and Consequences of Testing Laboratory Accreditation." This document was intended to provide an overview of the concept of laboratory accreditation and was well received by the conference. A second document presented by the task force was a set of terms and definitions prepared by that task force. During the discussion the ISO delegate indicated that ISO was prepared to work with ILAC in the preparation of a final set of definitions, and the conference indicated it was pleased to accept that offer. The task force also suggested that a comparison of criteria used by the major accreditation systems should be undertaken by the task force for the ILAC/80 meeting. Finally the task force recommended that a central inquiry point be established in each country to provide information on accreditation systems and accredited laboratories. The conference generally approved of these recommendations.

Resolutions

Each country was invited to present to the conference resolutions as a result of the presentations of the task forces during the meeting. The resolutions were listed in numerical sequence and reviewed by each of the delegations. On the final day each of the resolutions was considered one at a time and voted upon by the conference. Although the chairman of the conference attempted to establish voting rules which would provide consensus, the conference did not respond to his invitation to establish such rules. In the absence of such voting rules the chairman opened discussion and continued discussion on each proposed resolution until there seemed to be agreement by all parties involved. The exact wording of the resolutions must await the official transcript of the dealt with the following key issues:

(1) Mexico offered to host an ILAC conference in Mexico City in 1981. The European Economic Community was interested in postponing additional meetings until two or possibly three years after the Paris meeting. The conference agreed that it was appropriate to plan on the continuation of ILAC at Mexico City in 1981 at this time since the location of appropriate facilities and the planning of various necessary arrangements may take more than one year to accomplish satisfactorily. With this in mind, the head of the Mexican delegation was placed on the Planning and Agenda Committee for ILAC/80.

(2) ILAC/79 generally encouraged all nations to develop national systems for accrediting their laboratories along lines which will generally be recognized and utilized by the nations.

(3) ILAC/79 recommended that there be in each country a central inquiry point to provide information on accreditation systems, accredited laboratories and other national testing arrangements.

(4) ILAC/79 requested that Task Force C undertake a thorough comparison of criteria used by a representative selection of existing accreditation systems for the accreditation of testing laboratories to be considered at ILAC/80 with a view to providing the comparison to international organizations for further development of laboratory accreditation criteria following ILAC/80, and providing the due course minimum criteria for recognition of accreditation systems across national borders.

(5) ILAC/79 requested that a task force be established to prepare a bibliography of published information on laboratory accreditation systems and components of such systems.

(6) ILAC/79 agreed to accept the offer of the Australian delegate to prepare a second draft of the proposed directory of national testing arrangements and laboratory accreditation systems for consideration at ILAC/80.

(7) The objectives of the meeting of ILAC/80 in Paris were defined as follows: (a) to agree to a set of definitions to be used internationally when referring to laboratory accreditation as drawn up under the auspices of the ISO;

(b) to make a comparison of criteria used by laboratory accreditation systems and accreditation of testing laboratories to be considered at ILAC/80 with a view to providing the comparison to international organizations for further development of laboratory accreditation criteria following ILAC/80, and providing the due course minimum criteria for recognition of accreditation systems across national borders.

(5) ILAC/79 requested that a task force be established to prepare a bibliography of published information on laboratory accreditation systems and components of such systems.

(6) ILAC/79 agreed to accept the offer of the Australian delegate to prepare a second draft of the proposed directory of national testing arrangements and laboratory accreditation systems for consideration at ILAC/80.

(7) The objectives of the meeting of ILAC/80 in Paris were defined as follows: (a) to agree to a set of definitions to be used internationally when referring to laboratory accreditation as drawn up under the auspices of the ISO;

(b) to make a comparison of criteria used by laboratory accreditation systems and accreditation of testing laboratories to be considered at ILAC/80 with a view to providing the comparison to international organizations for further development of laboratory accreditation criteria following ILAC/80, and providing the due course minimum criteria for recognition of accreditation systems across national borders.

The comparison should be undertaken by the task force for the ILAC/80 meeting. Finally the task force recommended that a central inquiry point be established in each country to provide information on accreditation systems and accredited laboratories. The conference generally approved of these recommendations.

Each country was invited to present to the conference resolutions as a result of the presentations of the task forces during the meeting. The resolutions were listed in numerical sequence and reviewed by each of the delegations. On the final day each of the resolutions was considered one at a time and voted upon by the conference. Although the chairman of the conference attempted to establish voting rules which would provide consensus, the conference did not respond to his invitation to establish such rules. In the absence of such voting rules the chairman opened discussion and continued discussion on each proposed resolution until there seemed to be agreement by all parties involved. The exact wording of the resolutions must await the official transcript of the the recognition of laboratory accreditation systems at international levels; and (d) to improve a revised draft of the first international directory and to recommend means of publishing and updating such a directory.

(8) ILAC/79 recognized that product liability considerations and implementation of international agreements concerning technical barriers to trade are outside the scope of ILAC activities. With this in mind, ILAC/79 requested Task Force A to prepare its report of the results of its investigation into the reasons for which accreditation programs do or do not accredit foreign laboratories and the major difficulties arising from such mutual recognition.

(9) ILAC/79 recommended that Task Force B should review and where necessary revise minimum condition of entry into the proposed directory and should advise the National Association of Testing Authorities of Australia on the preparation of a second issue of the draft directory to be circulated to those attending the ILAC/80 conference. Task Force B is also encouraged to report on the problems encountered in collecting and presenting the information including costs and size of the directory and should make proposals for its further maintenance and dissemination.

(10) ILAC/79 noted with pleasure the decision of the ISO council (expressed in council resolution 42/1979) to request ISO/STACO to assist in the development of definitions required for the council decision and further expressed to ISO its wish to cooperative by participate in the work of ISO/STACO and development of the required definitions by nominating qualified persons from among ILAC delegations to assist in this work. ILAC/79 also expressed its wish for ISO to make a presentation of its work at the next meeting of ILAC.

(11) In responding to the ISO decision to request ISO's STACO to assist in developing definitions, the chairman of ILAC/80, with advice from Task Force C, is requested to nominate qualified persons to participate in the work of ISO/STACO.

(12) ILAC/79 commended the excellent work of Task Forces A and B and asked them to continue their work with a view to preparing updated reports in the light of discussions at the Sydney conference for presentation at ILAC/80.

(13) ILAC/79 requested that Task Force B be asked to review further the the recognition of laboratory accreditation systems at international levels; and (d) to improve a revised draft of the first international directory and to recommend means of publishing and updating such a directory.

(8) ILAC/79 recognized that product liability considerations and implementation of international agreements concerning technical barriers to trade are outside the scope of ILAC activities. With this in mind, ILAC/79 requested Task Force A to prepare its report of the results of its investigation into the reasons for which accreditation programs do or do not accredit foreign laboratories and the major difficulties arising from such mutual recognition.

Task Force B is also encouraged to report on the problems encountered in collecting and presenting the information including costs and size of the directory and should make proposals for its further maintenance and dissemination.

(10) ILAC/79 noted with pleasure the decision of the ISO council (expressed in council resolution 42/1979) to request ISO/STACO to assist in the development of definitions required for the council decision and further expressed to ISO its wish to cooperative by participate in the work of ISO/STACO and development of the required definitions by nominating qualified persons from among ILAC delegations to assist in this work. ILAC/79 also expressed its wish for ISO to make a presentation of its work at the next meeting of ILAC.

(11) In responding to the ISO decision to request ISO's STACO to assist in developing definitions, the chairman of ILAC/80, with advice from Task Force C, is requested to nominate qualified persons to participate in the work of ISO/STACO.

(12) ILAC/79 commended the excellent work of Task Forces A and B and asked them to continue their work with a view to preparing updated reports in the light of discussions at the Sydney conference for presentation at ILAC/80.

(13) ILAC/79 requested that Task Force B be asked to review further the known as "International Laboratory Accreditation Conferences: and that its official acronym shall be 'ILAC.'"

(15) ILAC/79 requested that all task force reports to be presented at ILAC/80 be made available to the convener of ILAC/80 before September 1, 1980.

(16) ILAC/79 commended the National Association of Testing Authorities of Australia for its excellent preparations and outstanding hospitality during the ILAC/79 Conference with special appreciation to Mr. H. Francis Monaghan, Chairman of ILAC/79, for the success of the Conference.

(17) ILAC/79 recognized that the International Electrotechnical Commission (IEC) shall be regarded together with ISO as an international standards producing body.

Future Activities

Task Forces A, B, and C are scheduled to meet in May 1980 to conclude their efforts in preparing reports for ILAC/80 which will be held in Paris, France, October 27–31, 1980. The official summary minutes of the meeting which are to be prepared by the Australian chairman of the conference may be reviewed at the Office of Product Standards, room 3876, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C. 20230, when they are received. Persons wishing to be notified when those minutes have been received may do so by contacting the undersigned either by letter or by telephone (202) 377–3221.

Signed: December 12, 1979.

Intent To Prepare a Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) for Proposed Bank Stabilization of the Kuskokwim River at Bethel, Alaska

AGENCY: U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, DOD.

ACTION: Notice of Intent to Prepare a Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS).

SUMMARY: 1. The proposed action calls for stabilizing the bank on the outer and public land, protect a vital medical facility, and obviate relocation of homes, buildings and fuel storage tanks away from the river.

2. The alternatives for the proposed action are: (a) River diversion, diversion of the water that now flows in the channel adjacent to Bethel into a channel on the opposite side of the Kuskokwim River; (b) relocation of the town; and (c) structural stabilization of the eroding bank.

3. a. A public workshop will be held in Bethel to collect public information and opinions on the alternatives.The workshop has not been scheduled at this time. The affected Federal, State, and local agencies, affected Alaska Natives regional and Village Corporations and other interested private organizations and parties are invited to participate in the EIS process.

b. The significant issues that will be analyzed in the DEIS are: the social and economic impacts on the Bethel community with no project; impacts to the river ecosystems; impacts on fishery resources; benefits from removing car bodies along the river that are presently used for bank stabilization; and possible short term increase in sediment load from construction activities.

c. Review and consultation will take place for compliance with the Clean Water Act of 1977 Section 404(b)(1); Coastal Zone Management; the Endangered Species Act of 1973; the Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act; the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966; Executive Order 11988, Flood Plain Management; and Executive Order 11990, Protection of Wetlands.

4. A scoping meeting has not been scheduled at this time.

5. It is estimated that the draft feasibility report and DEIS will be made available to the public in January 1981.

ADDRESS: Questions about the proposed action and DEIS can be answered by: William D. Lloyd, Chief, Environmental Section, Alaska District, Corps of Engineers, P.O. Box 7002, Anchorage, Alaska 99510.

Dated: December 10, 1979.

Army Science Board, Open Meeting

In accordance with Section 10(a)(2) of the Federal Advisory Committee Act (Pub. L. 92–463), announcement is made of the following Committee meeting:

Name of the committee: Army Science Board.
Date of meeting: January 3, 1980.
Place: The Pentagon, Washington, D.C. (exact location can be determined by contacting Mrs. Pipon at 202–697–9703).
Time: 0900 to 1700 hours, January 3, 1980 (Open).
Proposed agenda: The ASB Human Issues Study Group III will hold discussions and received briefings to assist the Group in developing personnel maps or models which could best support the planning and execution of an integrated human research agenda in the Army. The Group will also discuss plans for continued activities.

Federal Energy Regulatory Commission

[Docket No. GP80-31]

Cities Service Gas Co.; Third-Party Protests [1]

December 7, 1979.

Take notice that in accordance with the procedures established by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (Commission) in Order No. 23–B,[2] and "Order on Rehearing of Order No. 23–B," [3] the staff of the Commission protested on October 15, 1979, the assertion by the Cities Service Gas Company (Cities) and certain producers that the contracts identified in its protest constitute contractual authority for the producers to charge and collect any applicable maximum lawful price under the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 (NGPA).

Staff stated that the language of the contracts contained in Appendix A of this notice does not constitute authority for the producer to increase prices to the extent claimed by Cities in its evidentiary submission.

Take further notice that the Kansas State Corporation Commission (Kansas) also filed a third-party protest on October 15, 1979. Kansas protests that the contracts in Appendix B do not constitute contractual authority for the producer to increase prices o the applicable NGPA maximum lawful price. Kansas' position has been adopted and incorporated in protests by the Arizona Corporation Commission, the Associated Gas Distributors, "Florida Cities", the Gas Consumers Group, the Cities of Mangum, Oklahoma and Winfield, Kansas, Congressmen Andrew Maquire, the Memphis Light, Gas and Water Division, the Public Service Commission of the State of New York, the South Dakota Public Service Commission and the Minnesota Public Service Commission.

Any person, other than the pipeline and the seller, desiring to be heard or to make any response with respect to these protests should file with the Commission, on or before December 21, 1979, a petition to intervene in accordance with 18 C.F.R. 1.8. The seller need not file for intervention because under 18 C.F.R. § 154.94(j)(4)(ii), the seller in the first sale is automatically joined as a party.

Kenneth F. Plumb,
Secretary.

[Docket No. GP80-24]

Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp.; Third-Party Protests [1]

December 7, 1979

Take notice that in accordance with the procedures established by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (Commission) in Order No. 23-B [2], and "Order on Rehearing of Order No. 23-B," [3] The staff of the Commission protested on October 15, 1979, the assertion by the Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation (Transcontinental) and certain producers that the contracts identified in its protest constitute contractual authority for the producers to charge and collect any applicable maximum lawful price under the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 (NGPA).

Staff stated that the language of the contracts contained in Appendix A of this notice does not constitute authority for the producer to increase prices to the extent claimed by Transcontinental in its evidentiary submission.

Take further notice that the Associated Gas Distributors (AGD) also filed a third-party protest on October 15, 1979. AGD protests that the contracts in Appendix B do not constitute contractual authority for the producer to increase prices to the applicable NGPA maximum lawful price. AGD's position has been adopted and incorporated in protests filed by the Arizona Corporation Commission, the Florida Cities, the Gas Consumers Group, the Kansas State Corporation Commission, Congressman Andrew Maguire, the Cities of Mangum, Oklahoma and Winfield, Kansas, the Memphis Light, Gas and Water Division, the Public Service Commission of the State of New York, the South Dakota Public Service Commission and the Minnesota Public Service Commission.

Any person, other than the pipeline and the seller, desiring to be heard or to make any response with respect to these protests should file with the Commission, on or before December 21, 1979, a petition to intervene in accordance with 18 C.F.R. 1.8. The seller, need not file for intervention because under 18 C.F.R. § 154.94(j)(4)(ii), the seller in the first sale is automatically joined as a party.

Kenneth F. Plumb,
Secretary.

BILLING CODE 6450-01-M

[Docket No. EF80-2011]

Bonneville Power Administration; Filing

December 12, 1979.

The filing company submits the following:

Take notice that the Assistant Secretary for Resource Applications of the Department of Energy, pursuant to Delegation Order No. 0204-33, did confirm and approve, on an interim basis, Wholesale Power Rate Schedules EC-8, EC-9, IF-2, MF-2, F-7, F-8, J-2, and H-6. In addition, the Assistant Secretary has also approved, on an interim basis, Bonneville's General Rate Schedule provisions.

The Department requests that the rate schedules be approved for a period not to exceed 5 years.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said application should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before January 4, 1980. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this application are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

Kenneth F. Plumb,

Secretary.

[Docket No. SA80-45]

Carnegie Natural Gas Co.; Application for Adjustment

December 12, 1979.

On December 3, 1979, Carnegie Natural Gas Company, filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission an application for an adjustment pursuant to Section 1.41 of the Commission's Regulations from the tariff filing obligations of Order No. 49, Docket No. RM79-14. Carnegie Natural Gas Company requests exemption and waiver from said tariff filing obligations on the grounds of special hardship based on the inapplicability of the incremental pricing provisions of § 282.601, et seq. to Carnegie.

The procedures applicable to the conduct of this adjustment proceeding are found in § 1.41 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, Order No. 24 issued March 22, 1979.

Any person desiring to participate in this adjustment proceeding shall file a petition to intervene in accordance with the provisions of § 1.41. All petitions to intervene must be filed within 15 days after publication of this notice in the Federal Register.

Kenneth F. Plumb,

Secretary.

[Docket No. SA80-39]

Cerro Copper Products Co.; Application for Adjustment

December 12, 1979.

On November 27, 1979, Cerro Copper Product Co. (Cerro), filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission an application for an adjustment under the NGPA to Regulations prescribed by Order No. 49, particularly Section 282.203(a)(2), wherein Cerro requested that natural gas delivered to its Sauget, Illinois plant by Mississippi River Transmission Corporation for use as boiler fuel be declared exempt from incremental pricing.

The procedures applicable to the conduct of this adjustment proceeding are found in Section 1.41 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, Order No. 24 issued March 22, 1979.

Any person desiring to participate in this adjustment proceeding shall file a petition to intervene in accordance with the provisions of Section 1.41. All petitions to intervene must be filed within 15 days after publication of this notice in the Federal Register.

[Docket No. CP80-105]

Columbia Gulf Transmission Co.; Application

December 14, 1979.

Take notice that on November 26, 1979, Columbia Gulf Transmission Company (Applicant), P.O. Box 683, Houston, Texas 77001, filed in Docket No. CP80-105 an application pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act and Section 284.221(c) of the Commission's Rules for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the transportation of natrual gas for other interstate pipelines, all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant states that it requests blanket authorization to transport natural gas on behalf of other interstate pipelines for periods up to two years. It is further stated that Applicant would comply with the provisions and reporting requirements of Section 284.221 of the Commission's Rules.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before January 2, 1980, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20428, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by Sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission or its designee on this application if no petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

[Docket No. ER78-415]

Duke Power Co.; Filing

December 12, 1979.

The filing company submits the following:

Take notice that on November 13, 1979, Duke Power Company (Duke Power) filed the following documents with the Commission:

1. Attachment A—Schedule No. 10 for resale service to municipalities and public utility companies, which rates are the same as the industrial rates approved in Docket No. E-7, Sub 262.

2. Attachment B—Schedule No. 11 for resale service to nonprofit electric cooperatives. This schedule yields the same rate of return on rate base as that produced by Schedule No. 10 for Period II in accordance with Paragraph 2.1 C of the Agreement.

3. Attachment C—Rate Schedule F for service rendered to Yadkin, Inc. This schedule is the equivalent of Schedule No. 10 (Attachment A). A separate filing has been made to increase the contract demand from 40,000 kW to 55,000 kW and the Attachment C rate schedule reflects the change in rate blocks to the new level of contract demand.

4. Attachment D—This is a revenue summary which confirms that the Amended Settlement Rates do not produce electric operating revenues in excess of those originally requested in this docket. The Amended Settlement Rates produce an increase in revenues of $15,052,783 for Period II or $286,459 less than the $15,339,242 in revenues originally requested in this docket. The increase in Schedule No. 10 revenues shown under Column 2 ($8,855,830) includes the increase in Yadkin Schedule F rates.

5. Attachment E—Statement N—Period II (Revised) shows the effect of the Amended Settlement Rates on revenues, expenses, rate base and return. The return for both Schedule 10 (including Yadkin Schedule F) and Schedule 11 under the Amended Settlement Rates is 8.10%. This is less than the 8.14% return originally requested in this docket and less than the 9.51% return found reasonable based upon analysis by staff.

6. Attachment F—This attachment supports the 1.0439 cents per kWh fuel cost base contained in the Amended Settlement Rates required to maintain the parity concept of the Agreement.

The Company will make refunds to wholesale customers with interest at the appropriate rate in accordance with Paragraph 2.1 D of the Agreement and the Commission's letter order of July 3, 1979, as soon as practicable after the Commission has accepted the Amended Settlement Rates for filing.

A copy of this filing has been sent to Duke Power's wholesale customers.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.10). All such protests should be filed on or before January 4, 1980. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken. Copies of this filing are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

[Docket No. CP80-107]

El Paso Natural Gas Co.; Application

December 14, 1979.

Take notice that on November 26, 1979, El Paso Natural Gas Company (Applicant), P.O. Box 1492, El Paso, Texas 79978, filed in Docket No. CD80-107 an application pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing certain arrangements with its California customers during the period through April 30, 1980, for the purpose of diverting gas from its California customers in order to assist in protecting Applicant's east-of-California (EOC) customer's Priority 1 and 2 service requirements, all as more fully set forth in the application on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Specifically, Applicant states that it has entered into a letter agreement with Southern California Gas Company (So Cal) dated November 9, 1979, and a letter agreement with Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG and E) dated November 15, 1979, which provide for arrangements designed to allow Applicant to fulfill its EOC customer's peak day Priority 1 and 2 requirements during the 1979-80 heating season. Such arrangements, hereinafter referred to as the "California Back-off" arrangements, would permit Applicant to divert from its otherwise scheduled deliveries to So Cal and/or to PG and E during the 1979-80 heating season, such quantities of gas, not to exceed 200,000 Mcf daily from each company, as are required for use in protecting EOC Priority 1 and 2 service, it is asserted. Such diversions from otherwise scheduled deliveries to So Cal and/or PG and E would only be imposed on those peak days during the 1979-80 heating seasons when the quantities of gas otherwise available for service to Applicant's EOC customers, as augmented by maximum withdrawals from Applicant's Reservoir and Clay Basin Interim Storage projects, are not alone sufficient to protect full service to the EOC cutomer's Priority 1 and 2 requirements, it is asserted. Additionally, it is stated that diversions of gas from othewise scheduled deliveries to either So Cal or PG and E under the back-off arrangements can only be made during periods when, in that California customer's sole judgement, no impairment would result in (i) its ability to meet the requirements of service, including storage operations, to its high priority customers and those of its wholesale customers; (ii) its ability to maintain service levels to its remaining customers as required by the Public Utilities Commission of the State of California; or (iii) its ability to meet its obligations to the other California customer of Applicant pursuant to that certain contract between them dated August 31, 1965, as amended or superseded. It is stated that diversions of gas from otherwise scheduled deliveries to either California customer are not to exceed a cumulative net total of 2,000,000 Mcf at any one time.

Applicant further states that the in-kind restoration (pay-back) to So Cal and/or PG and E by Applicant of gas diverted from either or both of those customers under the back-off arrangements would be accomplished as soon as operationally possible after the diversions to which the pay-back relates through the withdrawals from Applicant's Rhodes Reservoir storage facility, and secondly from Applicant's Clay Basin Interim Storage facility.

It is stated that in consideration of the respective participation of PG and E and So Cal in such California back-off arrangements, Applicant would reduce its montly billings to each of those customers by an amount equal to $1.06 per Mcf (in the case of So Cal) and $1.52 Mcf (in the case of PG and E), multipled by the volumes actually diverted from otherwise scheduled deliveries to that California customer during the proceeding month.

Further, each agreement provides that none of the cost incurred by Applicant would be allocated in any of Applicant's rate proceeding to the cost of rendering service to its California customers, and that any Commission order authorizing the instant proposal must so specifically provide.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before January 2, 1980, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by Sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission or its designee on this application if no petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Florida Power & Light Corp.; Filing

December 12, 1979.

The filing Company submits the following:

Take notice that on December 6, 1979, Florida Power & Light Corporation ("Florida Power") tendered for filing an executed transmission service agreement with the Jacksonville Electric Authority ("JEA"). Florida Power states that the form of service agreement was provided in its transmission tariff on file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. Florida Power requests that the service agreement with JEA be made effective on February 5, 1980. Florida Power states that copies of the filing have been served on JEA an the Florida Public Service Commission.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). Gas Gathering Corp.; Application for Adjustment

December 12, 1979.

On November 26, 1979, Gas Gathering Corporation (GGC) filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission an application for an adjustment under Part 282 of the Commission's Regulations under the NGPA wherein GGC sought to be exempted from the requirements of Part 282 and Title II of the NGPA upon condition (1) that GGC provide its sole sales customer, Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corporation, (Transco) with all data and/or estimates necessary for the computation of incremental pricing costs and surcharges applicable to the volumes of natural gas acquired by GGC, and (2) that GGC notify the FERC and Transco of any operational change which would affect the basis for the requested exemption.

The procedures applicable to the conduct of this adjustment proceeding are found in § 1.41 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, Order No. 24 issued March 22, 1979.

Any person desiring to participate in this adjustment proceeding shall file a petition to intervene in accordance with the provisions of § 1.41. All petitions to intervene must be filed within 15 days after publication of this notice in the Federal Register.

Iowa Power & Light Co.; Application

December 12, 1979.

Take notice that on December 5, 1979, Iowa Power and Light Company (Applicant) of Des Moines, Iowa, filed an application seeking authority pursuant to Section 204 of the Federal Power Act to issue bank notes maturing no later than December 31, 1986, to evidence borrowings not to exceed $40,000,000 principal amount at any one time.

Applicant is incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa with its principal business office at Des Moines, Iowa, and is engaged in the electric and gas utility business within the State of Iowa.

The notes are to be issued to a commercial banking institution to evidence loans made and are to bear interest at said commercial bank's floating prime rate through December 31, 1981, and then if still in effect, at 103% of said floating prime rate through December 31, 1983, and thereafter, if still in effect, at 105% of said floating prime rate. The proceeds from the issuance of notes will be used to pay short-term debt and for general corporate purposes.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to the application should on or before December 26, 1979, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, petitions or protests in accordance with the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10). [Docket No. CP80-104]

Mississippi River Transmission Corp.; Application

December 14, 1979.

Take notice that on November 23, 1979, Mississippi River Transmission Corporation (Applicant), P.O. Box 14521, St. Louis, Missouri 63124, filed in Docket No. CP80-104 an application pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the transportation of natural gas for United Gas Pipe Line Company (United), all as more fully set forth in the application on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant states that it has entered into a gas transportation agreement with United dated October 5, 1979, which would provide for the receipt, by Applicant on a best-efforts basis, of up to 20,000 Mcf per day of natural gas made available by United at the outlet side of the Woodlawn Field processing plant of Dorchester Gas Processing Company located in Harrison County, Texas. It is further stated that Applicant would redeliver equivalent quantities to United at Applicant's Perryville Compressor site located in the Monroe Field, Ouachita Parish, Louisiana, by reducing quantities of gas Applicant would otherwise receive from United at that point under a separate purchase arrangement.

Applicant states that the proposed transportation would provide United with an immediate means of receiving natural gas, purchased from East Texas Industrial Gas Company, into its system without a substantial investment in additional facilities. It is further stated that other sales and services now rendered by Applicant would not be affected.

Applicant proposes to charge United 22.73 cents per Mcf for providing the transportation service and would retain 1.0 percent of the quantities received as compensation for fuel and company-use gas. It is stated that any imbalances would be corrected during the month following the month in which such imbalances occur.

Applicant states that the primary term of the transportation agreement is for two years from the date of initial delivery and year-to-year thereafter.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before January 3, 1980, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by Sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission or its designee on this application if no petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

[Docket No. CP80-102]

Mountain Fuel Supply Co. and Mountain Fuel Resources, Inc.; Application

December 13, 1979.

Take notice that on November 23, 1979, Mountain Fuel Supply Company (Mountain Fuel), 180 East First South Street, Salt Lake City, Utah 84139, and Mountain Fuel Resources, Inc. (Resources), Suite 1540, Beneficial Life Tower, 36 South State Street, Salt Lake City, Utah 84111, filed in Docket No. CP80-102 a joint application pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of facilities required to facilitate the delivery of natural gas produced from the Dakota Formation of the Clay Basin Gas Storage Reservoir, Daggett County, Utah, all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicants state that the Dakota Formation was converted to a gas storage field by Resources, and pursuant to an agreement between Mountain Fuel and Resources, dated March 1, 1976, as amended June 7, 1978, Mountain Fuel agreed to assign to Resources the operating rights to all oil and as leases in the then existing participating area for the Dakota Formation of the Clay Basin Field.

It is further stated that the amended agreement provides that Resources deliver to Mountain Fuel the remaining recoverable reserves from the Dakota Formation for a period of five to twenty-five years commencing on July 1, 1979, at a daily volume of up to 15,000 Mcf per day, in a manner which would not inhibit or preclude Resources' obligations in connection with the Clay Basin Storage Project.

In order to effectuate the delivery of recoverable reserves to Mountain Fuel, Resources proposes to modify a relief valve assemby located on the downstream side of the Kastler Compressor Station at an estimated cost of $3,950, which would be financed by Resources from funds on hand.

Mountain Fuel proposes to construct and operate 2,600 feet of 6-inch pipeline and appurtenant facilities to tie into Resources relief valve. It is stated such facilities are estimated to cost $59,315 which would be financed from funds on hand.

Resources proposes to charge Mountain Fuel a delivery fee of 5.0 per cents Mcf, and Mountain Fuel states it would reimburse Resources for all other production expenses relating to the remaining recoverable reserves.

The stated purpose of the subject proposal is to insure that Mountain Fuel would be able to meet its peak system requirements during the 1979-80 heating season.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before January 3, 1980, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by Sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission or its designee on this application if no petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicants to appear or be represented at the hearing.

BILLING CODE 6450-01-M

[Docket No. CP80-78]

Mountain Fuel Supply Co.; Application

December 13, 1979.

Take notice that on November 13, 1979, Mountain Fuel Supply Company (Applicant), 180 East First South Street, Salt Lake City, Utah 84139, filed in Docket No. CP80-78 an application pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of certain facilities and the transportation and exchange of natural gas in interstate commerce, all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant states that by application filed January 17, 1979, in Docket No. CP79-150, Northwest Pipeline Corporation (Northwest) proposed the construction and operation of jurisdictional gathering facilities to be located in the Overthrust belt of Southwestern Wyoming. It is stated that Northwest indicated that Northern Natural Gas Company (Northern Natural) has acquired approximately 50 percent of the gas reserves presently developed in the Painter Reservoir Field of Uinta County, Wyoming, and that Northwest proposed to provide a transportation service for Northern Natural of up to 35,000 Mcf per day from the Painter Reservoir Field. It is stated that Northwest would construct and operate facilities and transport gas from the Painter Reservoir Field through such facilities and through Northwest's main line facilities for redelivery to El Paso Natural Gas Company (El Paso) at an existing point of interconnection in La Platte County, Colorado, for Northern Natural's account for further transportation and/or exchange by El Paso for ultimate redelivery to Northern Natural. Northwest proposed to charge an initial area gathering rate of 16.81 cents per Mcf.

Northwest further stated that it has purchased 50 percent (approximately 16,500 Mcf per day) of the volumes of gas produced by Chevron, U.S.A., Inc. from the Ryckman Creek Field in Uinta County, Wyoming, and that it proposes to construct a pipeline from the Ryckman Creek Field to a point of interconnection with the pipeline proposed to be constructed from the Painter Reservoir Field together with necessary compression facilities at Ryckman Creek. Northwest has stated that in order to implement its proposed plan, it would construct and operate facilities which would cost approximately $19,932,000.

authorization to transport and exhange up to 16,500 Mcf of natural gas per day for Northwest and up to 35,000 Mcf of natural gas per day for Northern Natural, and for the construction and operation of related transmission and compression facilities necessary to effectuate the transportation and exchange service proposed.

Applicant further states that in order to effectuate the contemplated transportation and exchange of natural gas for Northern Natural and Northwest, Applicant proposes to construct and operate the following facilities:

(1) 3.56 miles of 10-inch pipeline interconnecting the Painter Reservoir with Applicant's existing 10-inch Overthrust lateral located in Uinta County, Wyoming, and/or the 20-inch pipeline to be constructed, as noted in Item 3 below;

(2) 4.73 miles of 10-inch pipeline interconnecting the Ryckman Creek facilities with Applicant's existing 10-inch Overthrust lateral line located in Sweetwater County, Wyoming;

(3) 24.80 miles of 20-inch loop pipeline from the vicinity of the Painter Reservoir producing area in Uinta County, Wyoming, to Applicant's main line located in Summit County, Utah;

(4) Minor modifications to Applicant's existing Eakin Compressor Station, located in Uinta County, Wyoming, to facilitate a two-way flow of natural gas through the station;

(5) Compression totaling 2,678 horsepower to be located at the Ryckman County producing area; and

(6) Miscellaneous metering, regulating and other appurtenant facilities.

It is stated that the proposed facilities would cost approximately $11,680,000. Applicant states, by reason of its 10-inch facilities and its existing main line transmission facilities, it would be able to render precisely the same service proposed by Northwestern at a a total capital cost of $11,680,000, as contrasted to the projected $19,932,000 for the proposed facilities of Northwest. Such cost, it is stated, would be financed from funds on hand.

Applicant states that inasmuch as its application is competitive, it has not yet negotiated any transportation and exchange arrangement with Northwest or Northern Natural.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before January 3, 1980, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by Sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission or its designee on this application if no petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

NCR Corp.; Application for Adjustment

December 12, 1979.

On November 30, 1979, NCR Corporation ("NCR") filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission ("FERC") an application for an adjustment under Order No. 49, Docket No. RM79-14, wherein NCR sought an exemption from the incremental pricing program for a small industrial boiler fuel facility located in Dayton, Ohio. NCR states that its use of natural gas in its manufacturing operations at this location has changed dramatically since 1977, the base period used by the Commission to determine eligibility for exemption for existing small boiler fuel facilities, and that the subject boilers now use less than an average of 300 Mcf per day during any month.

National Fuel Gas Supply Corp.; Proposed PGA Rate Adjustment

December 12, 1979.

Take notice that on December 6, 1979, National Fuel Gas Supply Corporation (National) tendered for filing as part of its FERC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, Twenty-Ninth Revised Sheet No. 4, and Original Sheet No. 4A proposed to be effective January 1, 1980.

National states that the purpose of these revised tariff sheets is to adjust National's rates pursuant to Section 17 (PGA) and Section 18 (GRIA) of the General Terms and Conditions and in compliance with FERC Order No. 49 and Opinion No. 64. National further states that Twenty-Ninth Revised Sheet No. 4 reflects an adjustment in National's rates of 18.36¢ per Mcf.

It is stated that copies of the filing have been mailed to all of its jurisdictional customers and affected state regulatory commissions.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 27, 1979. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make protestants party to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this filing are on file with the Commission and available for public inspection.

December 14, 1979.

Take notice that on November 14, 1979, Southern Natural Gas Company (Petitioner), P.O. Box 2563, Birmingham, Alabama 35202, filed in Docket No. CP70-7 (Phase II) a petition to amend the order issued October 29, 1969,[1] as amended, in the instant docket, pursuant to Section 7 of the Natural Gas Act so as to authorize an increase in contract demand volume sales of natural gas to Atlanta Gas Light Company (Atlanta), the delivery of such additional gas at the delivery point formerly used to serve the City of Bowdon, Georgia, and the deletion of authorization to sell natural gas to the City of Bowdon, all as more fully set forth in the petition to amend which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Petitioner states that the order issued on October 29, 1969, authorized Petitioner, inter alia, to sell and deliver to the City of Bowden, Georgia, a maximum delivery obligation of 1,457 Mcf per day. It is further stated that on September 27, 1979, Atlanta received approval from the Georgia Public Service Commission to purchase the City of Bowdon's natural gas distribution system and for the asssignment to Atlanta of Petitioner's service agreement with the City of Bowdon.

It is stated that Petitioner's maximum delivery obligation to the City of Bowdon of 1,457 per day was assigned to Atlanta. Peitioner, therefore, proposes to: (1) increase Atlanta's contract demand volumes with Petitioner from 744,535 Mcf per day to 745,992 Mcf per day, (2) add as a delivery point to Atlanta for service to the City of Bowdon the former delivery point of the Southern Natural Gas Co., et al.; Petition To Amend

December 14, 1979.

Take notice that on November 16, 1979, Southern Natural Gas Company (Southern), P.O. Box 2563, Birmingham, Alabama 35202, Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America (Natural), 122 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60603, Columbia Gulf Transmission Company (Columbia Gulf), P.O. Box 683, Houston, Texas 77001, and United Gas Pipe Line Company (United), P.O. Box 1478, Houston, Texas 77001, filed in Docket No. CP77-489 a joint petition to amend the order issued pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act on September 7, 1977,[1] in the instant docket so as to authorize an increase in the volumes of gas to be exchanged for Southern's account, all as more fully set forth in the petition to amend which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Southern has arranged to purchase additional volumes of gas from Sea Robin Pipeline Company (Sea Robin) at Texaco Inc.'s Henry Plant located in Vermilion Parish, Louisiana. The Sea Robin gas to be sold to Southern is produced from West Cameron Block 563, offshore Louisiana, and would be delivered for Southern's account near the tailgate of the Henry Plant. In order for Sea Robin to sell such gas to Southern at the Henry Plant, it is stated that the gas would be moved onshore through Southern's capacity in the Sea Robin system and United's capacity in the systems of Stingray Pipeline Company and Natural for transportation to an existing interconnection between United and Natural near the Henry Plant (Earth Point).

Applicants propose to amend an exchange agreement dated June 14, 1977, by increasing the volume of gas purchased by Southern from the West Cameron, offshore Louisiana, area to a total of 33,000 Mcf per day. Applicants further propose to amend the exchange agreement by deleting the one-half cent per Mcf charge received by Natural from Southern at the Earth Point as consideration for Southern's agreement to transport gas for Natural from the Knox Field, Walthall County, Mississippi.

Columbia Gulf would continue to redeliver to Southern thermally equivalent volumes of gas at the Venice Plant of up to 8,000 Mcf per day. The remaining 25,000 Mcf of gas would be exchanged and transported by Columbia Gulf and Southern pursuant to a gas exchange and transportation agreement between Southern, Columbia Gulf and Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation dated September 4, 1979, and amended October 5, 1979.

Applicants state that they have sufficient capacity to exchange the additional volumes of West Cameron gas at the designated locations and in the proposed quantity, and therefore, no new facilities would be required for Southern to receive its additional gas.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said petition to amend should on or before January 3, 1980, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Southwest Gas Corp.; Change in Rates Pursuant to Purchased Gas Cost Adjustment

December 12, 1979.

Take notice that on Dec. 4, 1979, Southwest Gas Corporation ("Southwest") tendered for filing Sixth Revised Sheet No. 10 constituting the Statement of Rates of its FERC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1. According to Southwest, the purpose of this filing is to adjust rates of Southwest under its Purchased Gas Adjustment Clause in Section 9 of the General Terms and Conditions contained in said tariff, as a result of changes in rates from its supplier, Northwest Pipeline Corporation ("Northwest"), effective January 1, 1980. The proposed effective date for Southwest's proposed change in rates is January 1, 1980.

Southwest states that copies of the filing have been mailed to the Public Service Commission of Nevada, the California Public Utilities Commission, Sierra Pacific Power Company and CP National.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing, should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 27, 1979. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this filing are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

TCP Gathering Co.; Application

December 13, 1979.

Take notice that on November 28, 1979, TCP Gathering Co. (Applicant), 2334 East Third Avenue, Denver, Colorado 80206, filed in Docket No. CP80-108 an application pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of approximately 15 miles of 8-inch pipeline in San Juan County, Utah, and San Miguel County, Colorado, and the transportation of natural gas for its parent, Trans-Colorado Pipeline Company (Trans-Colorado) pursuant to a gas transportation agreement dated May 31, 1979, all as more fully set forth in the application on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant states that Trans-Colorado, a public utility subject to the jurisdiction of the Colorado Public Utilities Commission, has purchased gas produced by its wholly-owned subsidiary, Cordillera Corporation, from the State No. 1 well in the Little Valley Field, San Juan County, Utah. Trans-Colorado's exemption issued by the Commission on November 15, 1979, was conditioned upon Applicant's receiving authorization to construct and operate an 8-inch pipeline and to transport and deliver the subject gas to Trans-Colorado at its Slick Rock sweetening plant.

Applicant states that the cost of constructing the 8-inch pipeline is $1,130,000 which would be financed by long-term debt. It is further stated that Trans-Colorado would be charged an initial rate of 11.64 cents per Mcf for the transportation service.

Applicant states that the transportation agreement between Applicant and Trans-Colorado is for a primary term of fifteen years, commencing on the first day of the month following the initiation of deliveries thereunder and on a year-to-year basis thereafter. It is further stated that the estimated total volumes of gas to be delivered from the State No. 1 well would initially be approximately 2,500 Mcf per day.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before January 3, 1980, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by Sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission or its designee on this application if no petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

[Docket No. CP77-620]

Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co., a Division of Tenneco, Inc.; Petition To Amend

December 14, 1979.

Take notice that on November 15, 1979, Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company, a Division of Tenneco, Inc. (Petitioner), P.O. Box 2511, Houston, Texas 77001, filed in Docket No. CP77-620 a petition to amend the order issued November 14, 1977, in the instant docket pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act so as to authorize the transportation of a maximum daily quality of 600 Mcf of natural gas for the account of Burlington Industries, Inc. (Burlington) for an additional two-year period commencing November 22, 1979, all as more fully set forth in the petition to amend which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

By order issued November 14, 1977, Petitioner was authorized to transport up to 1,000 Mcf of gas per day for Burlington, which gas Burlington owns as a participant in an oil and gas exploration development joint venture operated by C & K Petroleum Company. The transportation service, as authorized, was for a period of two years from the date of initial deliveries, it is stated. Petitioner now requests an extension of this transportation service for an additional two-year period commencing November 21, 1979, and for a maximum daily quantity of 600 Mcf per day.

Petitioner states the transportation service would be performed pursuant to a contract between it and Burlington. Petitioner asserts that the contract provides for Burlington to pay Petitioner each month:

(1) A demand charge to be determined by multiplying 7.0 cents by the specified maximum daily transportation quantity; and

(2) A monthly volume charge equal to the product of 93.0 cents per Mcf multiplied by the greater of (a) the total scheduled daily volumes delivered during such month or (b) the minimum monthly volume determined by multiplying the number of days in such month by 66⅔ percent of the specified maximum daily transportation quantity.

Petitioner states the transportation service would enable Burlington to receive natural gas to offset curtailments in sales and deliveries which Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation is forced to make.

Petitioner states no new facilities are required to continue the transportation service, nor would the service have any impact on any existing service now rendered by it.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said petition to amend should on or before January 3, 1980, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Trunkline Gas Co.; Application

December 13, 1979.

Take notice that on November 14, 1979, Trunkline Gas Company (Applicant), P.O. Box 1642, Houston, Texas 77001, filed in Docket No. CP80-81 an application pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act and Section 157.7(b) of the Regulations thereunder (18 CFR 157.7(b)) for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction during a one-year period commencing January 1, 1980, and year to year thereafter, and operation of facilities to enable Applicant to take into its certificated main pipeline system natural gas supplies, all as more fully set forth in the application on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

The stated purpose of this budget-type application is to augment Applicant's ability to act with reasonable dispatch in connecting to its pipeline system supplies of natural gas which may become available from various producing areas generally coextensive with its pipeline system or the systems of other pipeline companies which may be authorized to transport gas for the account of or exchange gas with Applicant and supplies of natural gas from Applicant's own production or acquired for system supply under Sections 311 and 312 of the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978.

Applicant states that the total cost of the proposed facilities would not exceed $20,000,000, with no single onshore project to exceed a cost of $2,500,000 and no single offshore project to exceed a cost of $3,500,000. Applicant states it would finance such costs with internally generated funds and short-term bank borrowing as necessary.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before January 3, 1980 file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission by Sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission or its designee on this application if no petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Trunkline Gas Co.; Application

December 13, 1979.

Take notice that on November 14, 1979, Trunkline Gas Company (Applicant), P.O. Box 1642, Houston, Texas 77001, filed in Docket No. CP80-79 an application pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the transportation of natural gas on behalf of Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company (Panhandle), all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant proposes to transport and deliver on a firm basis up to 2,500 Mcf of natural gas per day purchased by Panhandle from Pan Eastern Exploration Company in Jackson Parish, Louisiana, pursuant to a transportation agreement between Applicant and Panhandle dated September 28, 1979. Applicant states that pursuant to said transportation agreement, Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company, a Division of Tenneco Inc., (Tennessee), would receive the gas from Applicant at Tennessee's facilities in Jackson Parish, Louisiana, and would transport the gas to the existing interconnection between the facilities of Applicant and Tennessee at Kinder, Louisiana. Applicant states that it would then transport said gas from Kinder, Louisiana, with redelivery to Panhandle at an existing point of interconnection between the facilities of Applicant and Panhandle in Douglas County, Illinois.

It is stated that Applicant would transport on a firm basis a daily volume of 2,500 Mcf of natural gas per day at 14.73 psia saturated, less 5 percent reduction for fuel usage and line losses. Applicant further states that the term of the transportation contract would be for ten years from the date of initial delivery, and from year to year thereafter.

It is stated that for this transportation service, Panhandle would pay a monthly charge of $13,425, with an adjustment rate of 17.66 cents per Mcf to be applied for any excess or deficiency in quantities taken. Applicant states that the monthly charge is further subject to an increase or decrease pursuant to a rate proceeding of Applicant or increase upon installation of facilities to maintain capacity or to provide transportation for Panhandle thereunder.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should on or before January 3, 1980, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). United Gas Pipe Line Co.; Petition To Amend

December 13, 1979.

Take notice that on November 15, 1979, United Gas Pipe Line Company (Petitioner), P.O. Box 1478, Houston, Texas 77001, filed in Docket No. CP78-167 a petition to amend the order issued August 22, 1978, in the instant docket pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act so as to authorize the construction of metering and regulating facilities necessary to deliver natural gas to St. John the Baptist Parish, Louisiana (St. John), all as more fully set forth in the petition to amend which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

It is stated that the order issued August 22, 1978, authorized Petitoner, Inter alia, to construct at St. John's expense, such metering and regulating facilities as are necessary to deliver gas volumes to St. John on the west bank of the Mississippi River near the Town of Garyville, Louisiana. It is stated that, pursuant to a new agreement between the parties dated October 1, 1979, said metering and regulating facilities which would be utilized in making deliveries of natural gas volumes to St. John at the proposed delivery point, would be constructed by Petitioner but financed and owned by St. John and not by Petitioner.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protests with reference to said petition to amend should on or before January 3, 1980, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the Regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). [Docket No. SA80-44]

Valley Gas Transmission, Inc.; Application for Adjustment and Request for Interim Relief

December 12, 1979.

On November 30, 1979, Valley Gas Transmission, Inc. ("Valley") filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission an application for an adjustment under Section 502(c) of the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 ("NGPA"). Valley seeks relief from Part 282 of the Commission's Regulations—"Incremental Pricing" as set forth in Order No. 49 (Docket No. RM79-14) and in particular Subparts E and F of Part 282 which establish various accounting and filing requirements for interstate pipelines to follow in implementing the Commission's Regulations under Title II of the NGPA. Valley also requests interim relief pending determination of the application.

Subpart E (in particular Sections 282.501 and 282.502) and Subpart F (in particular Sections 282.601 through 282.603) establish the accounting rules and filing requirements applicable to interstate pipelines for implementing incremental pricing under Title II of the NGPA. In lieu of the requirements of Subparts E and F, Valley proposes to report to its interstate pipeline purchasers its natural gas purchase costs expected to exceed the threshold level for incremental pricing and the total volumes expected to be purchased for its next PGA period. Valley's interstate pipeline purchasers will then treat those volumes of natural gas required to be incrementally priced as though purchased directly by them from the seller and pass those costs through pursuant to their own procedures for implementation of incremental pricing. Under this proposal Valley's PGA clause would not change.

Valley states that it acquires no gas from any interstate pipeline. All of its purchased gas costs which would be subject to incremental pricing are incurred directly as purchases. Further, Valley has only three purchasers which are all interstate pipelines. These interstate pipelines are Tennessee Gas Transmission Company, United Gas Pipe Line Company, and Natural Fuel Gas Supply Corporation.

Valley also requests, as interim relief pursuant to Section 1.41(m) of the Regulations, authority to report its incremental pricing surcharges in accordance with the implementation plan for which an adjustment is being sought.

The procedures applicable to this adjustment proceeding are found in 18 CFR Section 1.41 et seq. (See also Commission Order No. 24 issued March 22, 1979.)

Any person desiring to participate in this adjustment proceeding shall file a petition to intervene in accordance with the provisions of Section 1.41. All petitions to intervene must be filed within 15 days after the publication of this notice in the Federal Register and should be sent to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426.

Designation of Processing Sites and Establishment of Priorities Under the Uranium Mill Tailings Radiation Control Act of 1978

AGENCY: DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY.

ACTION: Notice of designation of processing sites and establishment of priorities as requried by Section 102(c) of Public Law 95–604, Uranium Mill Tailings Radiation Control Act of 1978, enacted on November 8, 1978.

SUMMARY: The purpose of the Uranium Mill Tailings Radiation Control Act of 1978 is to provide, in cooperation with interested States, Indian tribes, and persons who own or control inactive mill tailings sites, a program of assessment and remedial action at these sites to stabilize and control the tailings in a safe and environmentally sound manner and to minimize or eliminate radiation health hazards.

Consistent with the provision of Sections 102(a) and 102(c) of Public Law 95–604, this notice announces the designation of 25 processing sites by the Secretary of Energy on November 8, 1979. These processing sites are at or near the following locations:

Monument Valley, Arizona
Tuba City, Arizona
Durango, Colorado
Grand Junction, Colorado
Gunnison, Colorado
Maybell, Colorado
Naturita, Colorado
Rifle, Colorado (2 sites)
Slick Rock, Colorado (2 sites)
Lowman, Idaho
Ambrosia Lake, New Mexico
Shiprock, New Mexico
Belfield, North Dakota
Bowman, North Dakota
Lakeview, Oregon
Canonsbury, Pennsylvania
Falls City, Texas
Green River, Utah
Mexican Hat, Utah
Salt Lake City, Utah
Baggs, Wyoming
Converse County, Wyoming
Riverton, Wyoming

Additionally, the Secretary on November 8, 1979 established priorities for carrying out remedial action at each of the 15 processing sites. In establishing priorities, the Secretary relied primarily on the advice of the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency. The priority ranking for the 25 cities is as follows:

Monument Valley, Arizona; Low
Tuba City, Arizona; Medium
Durango, Colorado; High
Grand Junction, Colorado; High
Gunnison, Colorado; High
Maybell, Colorado; Low
Naturita, Colorado; Medium
New Rifle, Colorado; High

Bonneville Power Administration

Fiscal Year 1981 Program Draft Environmental Impact Statement and Allston-Portland Area Service Draft Facility Planning Supplement Public Meetings

The Bonneville Power Administration (BPA) hereby gives notice of two public meetings to be held to discuss and solicit comments on BPA's Fiscal Year 1981 Construction and Maintenance Program Draft Environmental Impact Statement (EIS), which includes the Allston-Portland Area Service 500–kV Line Draft Facility Planning Supplement. This draft EIS generally describes BPA's proposed construction and maintenance actions for Fiscal Year 1981, including discussion of impacts and alternatives. Also included is the Allston-Portland Draft Facility Planning Supplement which describes more specific potential impacts associated with alternative plans for reinforcing service to the Portland, Oregon, area.

The public is invited to attend the meetings, which are scheduled as follows:

Wednesday, January 16, 1980—7:30 p.m.–10:00 p.m.: Fort Vancouver Regional Library, 1007 East Mill Plain Boulevard, Vancouver, WA 98663.

Thursday, January 17, 1980—7:30 p.m.–10:00 p.m.: Rainier Elementary School, 305 3rd West, Rainer, OR 97048.

BPA invites all interested parties to attend and welcomes comments in order to fully evaluate the environmental factors relating to the proposed and alternative actions. All comments will be considered in the preparation of the final EIS.

For those unable to attend the meetings, written comments will be accepted until the close of comment date, January 31, 1980. Copies of the draft EIS, as well as additional or clarifying information, may be obtained by writing the Environmental Manager's Office, Bonneville Power Administration, P.O. Box 3621—SJ, Portland, Oregon 97208, or by calling 503–234–3361, extension 5137.

Dated at Portland, Oregon, this 10 day of December, 1979.

Sterling Munro,

Administrator.

Economic Regulatory Administration

Action Taken on Consent Order

AGENCY: Economic Regulatory Administration, DOE.

ACTION: Notice of Action Taken on Consent Orders.

SUMMARY: The Economic Regulatory Administration (ERA) of the Department of Energy (DOE) hereby gives Notice that Consent Orders were entered into between the Office of Enforcement, ERA, and the firms listed below during the months of September and October 1979. These Consent Orders concern prices charged by retail motor gasoline dealers in excess of the maximum lawful selling price for motor gasoline since August 1, 1979, failure to properly post the maximum lawful selling price on certification and engaging in business practices which are either discriminatory with respect to purchasers of motor gasoline, resulting in a higher price than permitted, or tied the sale of gasoline to the purchase of another service. The purpose and effect of these Consent Orders is to bring the consenting firms into compliance with the Mandatory Petroleum Allocation and Pricing Regulations from August 1, 1979, and they do not address or limit any liability with respect to consenting firm's prior compliance or possible violation of the aforementioned regulations Pursuant to the Consent Orders, the consenting firms agree to the following actions:

A. With respect to selling prices:
1. Reduce prices for each grade of gasoline to no more than the maximum lawful selling price;
2. Roll back prices to achieve refund of overcharges;
3. Properly maintain records required under the aforementioned regulations.

B. With respect to business practices:
1. Cease and desist from employing any form of discriminatory practice;
2. Cease and desist from employing any practice designed to obtain a price higher than is permitted by the regulations;
3. Cease and desist from employing any practice making the sale of gasoline contingent upon the purchase of another service, charging for services by means of a fee computed on a cents per gallon basis, or charging a fee to dispense gasoline.

C. With respect to posting requirements:
1. Properly post the maximum lawful selling price or certification;
2. Rollback the maximum lawful selling price for failure to post.

For further information regarding these Consent Orders, please contact Edward F. Momorella, Program Manager for Product Retailers, Department of Energy, Northeast Enforcement District, 1421 Cherry Street, Philadelphia, Pa. 19102 Telephone Number (215) 597–2633.

Bernard A. Krouse d.b.a. Bak Ltd. et al; Action Taken on Consent Order

AGENCY: Economic Regulatory Administration, Department of Energy.

ACTION: Notice of action taken and opportunity for comment on Consent Order.

SUMMARY: The Economic Regulatory Administration (ERA) of the Department of Energy (DOE) announces action taken to execute a Consent Order and provides an opportunity for public comment on the Consent Order and on potential claims against the refunds deposited in an escrow account established pursuant to the Consent Order.

EFFECTIVE DATE: August 16, 1979.

COMMENTS BY: January 16, 1980.

ADDRESS: Send comments to: Arthur H. Shaw, Deputy District Manager of Enforcement, Northeast District, Economic Regulatory Administration, Room 700, 150 Causeway Street, Boston, MA 02114.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Arthur H. Shaw, Deputy District Manager of Enforcement, Northeast District, Economic Regulatory Administration, Room 700, 150 Causeway Street, Boston, MA 02114 617–223–5265..

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: "On August 16, 1979, the Office of Enforcement of the ERA executed a Consent Order with BAK Ltd, et al, with its home office located in Narberth, Pennsylvania, is a firm engaged in the reselling and retailing of No. 2 Fuel Oil and is subject to the Mandatory Petroleum Price and Allocation Regulations at 10 CFR, Parts 210, 211, 212. To resolve certain civil actions which could be brought by the Office of Enforcement of the Economic Regulatory Administration as a result of its audit of BAK Ltd, et al the Office of Enforcement, ERA, and BAK Ltd, et al entered into a Compromise Consent Order, the significant terms of which are as follows:

1. The Consent Order settles all issues involved in BAK's sales of No. 2 Fuel Oil during the period November 1, 1973 through July 31, 1974.

2. The ERA alleges that BAK sold the above covered product at prices in excess of those permitted under 10 CFR 212.93 as preceded by 6 CFR 150.359.

3. BAK in executing the Consent Order does not admit that it violated any applicable regulation but agrees to refund $250,000 as specified in the Consent Order.

4. The provisions of 10 CFR 205.199J, including the publication of this Notice, are applicable to the Consent Order.

II. Disposition of Refunded Overcharges

In this Consent Order, BAK Ltd. agrees to refund, in full settlement of any civil liability with respect to actions which might be brought by the Office of Enforcement, ERA, arising out of the transactions specified in I.1. above, the sum of $250,000 on or before August 1, 1982. Refunded overcharges will be in the form of a certified check made payable to the United States Department of Energy and will be delivered to the Assistant Administrator for Enforcement, ERA. These funds will remain in a suitable account pending the determination of their proper disposition.

The DOE intends to distribute the refund amounts in a just and equitable manner in accordance with applicable laws and regulations. Accordingly, distribution of such refunded overcharges requires that only those "persons" (as defined at 10 CFR 205.2) who actually suffered a loss as a result of the transactions described in the Consent Order receive appropriate refunds. Because of the petroleum industry's complex marketing system, it is likely that overcharges have either been passed through as higher prices to subsequent purchasers or offset through devices such as the Old Oil Allocation (Entitlements) Program, 10 CFR 211.67. In fact, the adverse effect sof the overcharges may have become so diffused that it is a practical impossibility to identify specific, adversely affected persons, in which case disposition of the refunds will be made in the general public interest by an appropriate means such as payment to the Treasury of the United States pursuant to 10 CFR 205.199I(a).

III. Submission of Written Comments

A. Potential Claimants: Interested persons who believe that they have a claim to all or a portion of the refund amount should provide written notification of the claim to the ERA at this time. Proof of claims is not now being required. Written notification to the ERA at this time is requested primarily for the purpose of identifying valid potential claims to the refund amount. After potential claims are identified, procedures for the making of proof of claims may be established. Failure by a person to provide written notification of a potential claim within the comment period for this Notice may result in the DOE irrevocably disbursing the funds to other claimants or to the general public interest.

B. Other Comments: The ERA invites interested persons to comment on the terms, conditions, or procedural aspects of this Consent Order.

You should sent your comments or written notification of a claim to Arthur H. Shaw, Deputy District Manager of Enforcement, Northeast District, Economic Regulatory Administration, Room 700, 150 Causeway Street, Boston, MA, 02114. You may obtain a free copy of this Consent Order by writing to the same address or by calling 617–223–5265.

You should identify your comments or written notification of a claim on the outside of your envelope and on the documents you submit with the designation, "Comments on BAK Ltd. Consent Order." We will consider all comments we receive by 4:30 p.m., local time on January 16, 1980. You should identify any information or data which, in your opinion, is confidential and submit it in accordance with the procedures in 10 CFR 205.9(f).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: "On September 4, 1979, the Office of Enforcement of the ERA executed a Consent Order with Davis and Daggett Company of Sringfield, MA. Under 10 CFR 205.199J(b), a Consent Order which involves a sum of less than $500,000 in the aggregate, excluding penalties and interest, becomes effective upon its execution."

I. The Consent Order

Davis and Daggett Company, with its home office located in Springfield, MA, is a firm engaged in the marketing of No. 2 Heating Oil, and is subject to the Mandatory Petroleum Price and Allocation Regulations at 10 CFR, Parts 210, 211, 212. To resolve certain civil actions which could be brought by the Office of Enforcement of the Economic Regulatory Administration as a result of its audit of Davis and Daggett Company, the Office of Enforcement, ERA, and Davis and Daggett Company entered into a Compromise Consent Order, the significant terms of which are as follows:

1. The Consent Order settles all issues involved in Davis and Daggett Company's sales of No. 2 Heating Oil during the period November 1, 1973 through April 30, 1974.

2. The ERA alleges that Davis and Daggett Company sold No. 2 Heating Oil at prices in excess of those permitted under 10 CFR 212.93, as preceded by 6 CFR 150.359.

3. Davis and Daggett Company in executing the Consent Order does not admit to having violated the price regulations but in order to avoid further disruptions of its business and the expense of further litigation agrees to refund $40,000 as specified in the Consent Order.

4. The provisions of 10 CFR 205.199J, including the publication of this Notice, are applicable to the Consent Order.

II. Disposition of Refunded Overcharges

In this Consent Order, Davis and Daggett Company agrees to refund, in full settlement of any civil liability with respect to actions which might be brought by the Office of Enforcement, ERA, arising out of the transactions specified in I.1. above, the sum of $40,000 on or before July 1, 1982. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: "On October 9, 1979, the Office of Enforcement of the ERA executed a Consent Order with Eastern of New Jersey, Inc. of Jersey City, New Jersey. Under 10 CFR 205.199J(b) a Consent Order which involves a sum of less than $500,000 in the aggregate, excluding penalties and interest, becomes effective upon its execution."

I. The Consent Order

Eastern of New Jersey, Inc., with its home office located in Jersey City, New Jersey, is a firm engaged in the reselling and retailing of petroleum products, and is subject to the Mandatory Petroleum Price and Allocation Regulations at 10 CFR, Parts 210, 211, 212. To resolve certain civil actions which could be brought by the Office of Enforcement of the Economic Regulatory Administration as a result of its audit of Eastern of New Jersey, Inc., the Office of Enforcement, ERA, and Eastern of New Jersey entered into a Compromise Consent Order, the significant terms of which are as follows:

1. The Consent Order settles all issues involved in Eastern's sales of No. 4 Residual Fuel Oil during the period November 1, 1973 through March 31, 1974.

2. The ERA alleges that Eastern sold the above covered product at prices in excess of those permitted under 10 CFR 212.93, as preceded by 6 CFR 150.359.

3. Eastern in executing the Consent Order vigorously disputes that it has violated any DOE regulation. However, to avoid costly and time consuming litigation and without admitting it violated any statute or regulation and for purposes of settlement only agrees to refund $425,000 as specified in the Consent Order.

4. The provisions of 10 CFR 205.199J, including the publication of this Notice, are applicable to the Consent Order.

II. Disposition of Refunded Overcharges

In this Consent Order, Eastern of New Jersey, Inc. agrees to refund, in full settlement of any civil liabilty with respect to actions which might be brought by the Office of Enforcement, ERA, arising out of the transactions specified in I.1. above, the sum of $425,000 on or before July 1, 1982. Refunded overcharges will be in the form of a certified check made payable to the United States Department of Energy and will be delivered to the Assistant Administrator for Enforcement, ERA. These funds will remain in a suitable account pending the determination of their proper disposition.

The DOE intends to distribute the refund amounts in a just and equitable manner in accordance with applicable laws and regulations. Accordingly, distribution of such refunded overcharges requires that only those "persons" (as defined at 10 CFR 205.2) who actually suffered a loss as a result of the transactions described in the Consent Order receive appropriate refunds. Because of the petroleum industry's complex marketing system, it is likely that overcharges have either been passed through as higher prices to subsequent purchasers or offset through devices such as the Old Oil Allocation (Entitlements) Program, 10 CFR 211.67. In fact, the adverse effects of the overcharges may have become so diffused that it is a practical impossibility to identify specific, adversely affected persons, in which case disposition of the refunds will be made in the general public interest by an appropriate means such as payment to the Treasury of the United States pursuant to 10 CFR 205.199I(a).

III. Submission of Written Comments

A. Potential Claimants: Interested persons who believe that they have a claim to all or a portion of the refund amount should provide written notification of the claim to the ERA at this time. Proof of claims is not now being required. Written notification to the ERA at this time is requested primarily for the purpose of identifying valid potential claims to the refund amount. After potential claims are identified, procedures for the making of proof of claims may be established. Failure by a person to provide written notification of a potential claim within the comment period for this Notice may result in the DOE irrevocably disbursing the funds to other claimants or to the general public interest.

B. Other Comments: The ERA invites interested persons to comment on the terms, conditions, or procedural aspects of this Consent Order.

You should send your comments or written notification of a claim to Arthur H. Shaw, Deputy District Manager of Enforcement, Northeast District, Economic Regulatory Administration, Room 700, 150 Causeway Street, Boston, MA 02114. You may obtain a free copy of this Consent Order by writing to the same address or by calling 617–223–5265.

You should identify your comments or written notification of a claim on the outside of your envelope and on the documents you submit with the designation, "Comments on Eastern of New Jersey, Inc. Consent Order." We will consider all comments we receive by 4:30 p.m., local time on January 16, 1980. You should identify any information or data which, in your opinion, is confidential and submit it in accordance with the procedures in 10 CFR 205.9(f).

Issued in Philadelphia, PA on the 30th day of November 1979.

[ERA Case No. 50904-6223-22-77]

Energy Center Unit No. 2; Empire District Electric Co.; Determination to Classify as an Existing Facility

AGENCY: Economic Regulatory Administraton, Department of Energy.

ACTION: Determination to Classify the Empire District Electric Company Energy Center Unit No. 2 as an Existing Facility.

SUMMARY: On June 7, 1979, Empire District Electric Company (Empire) requested the Economic Regulatory Administration (ERA) of the Department of Energy (DOE) to classify Energy Center Unit No. 2 as an existing facility pursuant to Section 515.6 of the Revised Interim Rule to Permit Classification of Certain Powerplants and Installations as Existing Facilities (Revised Interim Rule) issued by ERA on March 15, 1979 (44 FR 17464), and pursuant to the provisions of the Powerplant and Industrial Fuel Use Act of 1978, 42 U.S.C. 6401 et seq. (FUA).

ERA has completed its analysis of Empire's request and has determined that Empire has satisfactorily demonstrated that it would suffer a substantial financial penalty. Empire had expended, in nonrecoverable outlays, more than 25 percent of the total projected project cost as of November 9, 1978, for Energy Center Unit No. 2 within the meaning of Section 515.6 of the Revised Interim Rule.

ERA has classified Empire's Energy Center Unit No. 2 as "existing" facility and it is therefore subject to the provisions of Title III of FUA.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: (1) On June 7, 1979, pursuant to ERA's Revised Interim Rule to Permit Classification of Certain Powerplants and Installations as Existing Facilities (Revised Interim Rule) issued by ERA on March 15, 1979, Empire requested that ERA classify Energy Center Unit No. 2 as an "existing" facility. On November 5, 1979, ERA published a summary of Empire's request for classification in the Federal Register and requested comments by interested persons on or before November 26, 1979. ERA has not received any comments.

(2) ERA has analyzed the material submitted by Empire applicable to the Energy Center Unit No. 2 and has classified the unit an existing facility on the basis that Empire has satisfactorily demonstrated that it would suffer a substantial financial penalty because it had expended, in nonrecoverable outlays, more than 25 percent of the total projected project cost as of November 9, 1978, for Energy Center Unit No. 2 within the meaning of § 515.6 of the Revised Interim Rule. A copy of ERA's Summary of Analysis dated November 19, 1979, is available for examination in the Office of Public Information, at the above address.

Issued in Washington, D.C., December 12, 1979.

General Motors Corp.; Acceptance of Petitions for Exemptions Pursuant to Interior Rules Implementing the Powerplant and Industrial Fuel Use Act of 1978

AGENCY: Economic Regulatory Administration.

ACTION: Notice of Acceptance of Petition for Exemptions Pursuant to the Interim Rules Implementing the Powerplant and Industrial Fuel Use Act of 1978.

SUMMARY: On October 29, 1979, the General Motors Corporation (GM) filed a petition with the Economic Regulatory Administration (ERA) of the Department of Energy (DOE) for an order exempting three major fuel burning installations (MFBI's) from the prohibitions of the Powerplant and Industrial Fuel Use Act of 1978 (FUA or the Act) (42 U.S.C. 8301 et seq.), which prohibits the use of petroleum and natural gas as a primary energy source in new MFBI's. Criteria for petitioning for exemptions from the prohibitions of FUA are published at 44 FR 28530 (May 15, 1979) and at 44 FR 28950 (May 17, 1979) (Interim Rules). The MFBI's for which the petition is filed are three field-erected boilers (identified as Boilers number 1, 2, and 3) installed at GM's Assembly Division (GMAD) Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Each boiler has a design heat input rate of 182 million Btu's per hour with a steam generating capacity of 150,000 pounds per hour and is capable of burning fuel oil, coal, and natural gas. Under Section 505.28 of the Interim Rules, GM has requested a permanent exemption for certain fuel mixtures for each of three units.

Prior to the filing of this petition, and pursuant to Part 515 of the Revised Interim Rule—Transitional Facilities (44 FR 17464, March 21, 1979), GM submitted a request on May 7, 1979, that the three boilers be classified as existing facilities so that they would not be subject to the statutory prohibitions applicable to new boilers under FUA. That request was not accepted by ERA since the three units had been issued Construction Orders pursuant to Section 2(c) of the Energy Supply and Environmental Coordination Act of 1974 (ESECA) which orders were pending on May 8, 1979, the date FUA became effective. Section 762(a) of FUA provides that MFBI's subject to pending ESECA Construction Orders on May 8, 1979, are new units and therefore cannot be classified as existing facilities.

FUA imposes statutory prohibitions against the use of natural gas and petroleum as a primary energy source by new MFBI's which consist of a boiler. ERA's decision in this matter will determine whether the three boilers will be granted permanent exemptions to use certain fuel mixtures.

Concurrent with this petition, GM requested temporary public interest exemptions under § 505.15 of the Interim Rules to permit operation of the three boilers until permanent fuel mixtures exemptions for the three units were granted by ERA. ERA determined that the petition for the temporary public interest exemptions is incomplete and in accordance with § 501.3(d) of the Interim Rules, ERA notified GM by letter dated November 28, 1979, that its petition for temporary public interest exemptions, as filed, was not acceptable.

ERA has determined that the petition for permanent fuel mixtures exemptions is complete in accordance with the Interim Rules. Pursuant to § 501.3(c) of the Interim Rules, ERA notified GM, by letter dated November 28, 1979, that its petition for permanent exemptions, as filed, was acceptable. ERA retains the right to request additional relevant information from GM at any time during the pendency of these proceedings where circumstances or procedural requirements may so require. A review of the petition is provided in the SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION section below.

As provided for in Sections 701 (c) and (d) of FUA and §§ 501.31 and 501.33 of the Interim Rules, interested persons are invited to submit written comments in regard to this matter, and any interested person may submit a written request that ERA convene a public hearing.

DATES: Written comments are due on or before February 1, 1980. A request for public hearing must also be made within this same 45 day period.

ADDRESSES: Fifteen copies of written comments or a request for a public hearing shall be submitted to: Economic Regulatory Administration, Case Control Unit, Box 4629, Room 2313, 2000 M Street, NW, Washington, DC 20461.

Docket Number ERA–FC–79–012, should be printed clearly on the outside of the envelope and the document contained therein.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: ERA published in the Federal Register on May 15 and 17, 1979, its Interim Rules implementing the provisions of Title II of FUA. The Act prohibits the use of natural gas and petroleum as a primary energy source in certain new MFBI's unless an exemption to do so has been granted by ERA.

The MFBI's for which the permanent fuel mixtures exemptions are requested are three identical field-erected boilers. Each boiler has a design heat input rate of 182 million Btu's per hour, a steam generating capacity of 150,000 pounds per hour and is designed to burn coal, natural gas or fuel oil. GM states that the steam generated will be used for process equipment in the Assembly building, for auxiliary powerhouse steam, and for building heating and air conditioning.

Section 505.28 of the Interim Rule provides for a permanent exemption from the prohibitions of FUA for certain fuel mixtures containing natural gas or petroleum. To qualify, a petitioner must demonstrate to the satisfaction of ERA that:

(1) It proposes to use a mixture of natural gas or petroleum and an alternate fuel as a primary energy source; and

(2) The amount of petroleum or natural gas proposed for use in the mixture will not exceed the minimum percentage of the total annual Btu heat input needed to maintain operational reliability of the installation consistent with maintaining a reasonable level of fuel efficiency.

If the exemptions are granted, ERA will not require that the percentage of petroleum or natural gas used in the mixture be less than 25 percent of the total annual Btu heat input of the installation.

In addressing these eligibility requirements, and the evidentiary requirements in § 505.28(a)(1) and (c)(4), GM states that it will be using a coal-natural gas mixture as a primary energy source. The alternate fuel (coal) will be used alternately with natural gas. They further certify that the total amount of natural gas, which is proposed to be used in the three boilers, will not exceed 25% of the total annual Btu heat input of each of the three boilers. GM contends that, although it has obtained all necessary permits to consume coal at this facility, without the ability to use natural gas in a mixture with coal in these boilers, GM will be forced to waste coal energy during periods of reduced steam demand and, in addition, continued operation of the boilers solely on coal would create opacity and noise pollution problems.

In accordance with Part 502 of the Interim Rules, in support of its petition, GM has addressed the remaining Fuels Decision Report (FDR) requirements by including design specifications for the units for which these exemptions are requested and an engineering assessment of the proportions of natural gas needed to maintain operational reliability and a reasonable level of fuel efficiency.

ERA hereby accepts the filing of the petition for fuel mixtures exemptions as adequate for filing. ERA retains the right to request additional relevant information from GM at any time during the pendency of these proceedings where circumstances or procedural requirements may so require. As set forth in § 501.3(g) of the Interim Rules, the acceptance of the petition by ERA does not constitute a determination that GM is entitled to the exemptions requested.

The public file, containing documents on these proceedings and supporting materials is available for inspection upon request at: ERA, Room B-110, 2000 M Street, NW, Washington, DC, Monday to Friday, 8:00 am to 4:30 pm.

Issued in Washington, DC, on December 11, 1979.

McCleary Oil Co., Inc.; Action Taken on Consent Order

AGENCY: Economic Regulatory Administration, Department of Energy.

ACTION: Notice of action taken and opportunity for comment on Consent Order.

SUMMARY: The Economic Regulatory Administration (ERA) of the Department of Energy (DOE) announces action taken to execute a Consent Order and provides an opportunity for public comment on the Consent Order and on potential claims against the refunds deposited in an escrow account established pursuant to the Consent Order.

EFFECTIVE DATE: August 15, 1979.

COMMENTS BY: January 16, 1980.

ADDRESS: Send comments to: Arthur H. Shaw, Deputy District Manager of Enforcement, Northeast District, Economic Regulatory Administration, Room 700, 150 Causeway Street, Boston, MA 02114.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Arthur H. Shaw, Deputy District Manager of Enforcement, Northeast District, Economic Regulatory Administration, Room 700, 150 Causeway Street, Boston, MA 02114 617-223-5265.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On August 15, 1979, the Office of Enforcement of the ERA executed a Consent Order with McCleary Oil Co., Inc. of Chambersburg, PA. Under 10 CFR 205.199J(b), "a Consent Order which involves a sum of less than $500,000 in the aggregate, excluding penalties and interest, becomes effective upon its execution."

I. The Consent Order

McCleary Oil Co., Inc. with its home office located in Chambersburg, PA, is a firm engaged in the reselling and retailing of petroleum products, and is subject to the Mandatory Petroleum Price and Allocation Regulations at 10 CFR, Parts 210, 211, 212. To resolve certain civil actions which could be brought by the Office of Enforcement of the Economic Regulatory Administration as a result of its audit of McCleary Oil Co., Inc., the Office of Enforcement, ERA, and McCleary Oil Co., Inc. entered into a Compromise Consent Order, the significant terms of which are as follows:

1. The Consent Order settles all issues involved in McCleary's sales of No. 2 Heating Oil, No. 4 and 5 fuel oil, gasoline, kerosene and diesel fuel during the period November 1, 1973 through April 30, 1974.

2. The ERA alleges that McCleary Oil sold the above covered products at prices in excess of those permitted under 10 CFR 212.93, as preceded by 6 CFR 150.359.

3. McCleary in executing the Consent Order does not admit to having violated the price regulations but in order to bring the disputes between the parties to a speedy resolution and for settlement purposes only agrees to refund $61,000 as specified in the Consent Order.

4. The provisions of 10 CFR 205.199J, including the publication of this Notice, are applicable to the Consent Order.

Disposition of Refunded Overcharges

In this Consent Order, McCleary Oil Co., Inc. agrees to refund, in full settlement of any civil liability with respect to actions which might be brought by the Office of Enforcement, ERA, arising out of the transactions specified in I.1. above, the sum of $61,000 on or before August 1, 1981. Refunded overcharges will be in the form of a certified check made payable to the United States Department of Energy and will be delivered to the Assistant Administrator for Enforcement, ERA. These funds will remain in a suitable account pending the determination of their proper disposition.

The DOE intends to distribute the refund amounts in a just and equitable manner in accordance with applicable laws and regulations. Accordingly, distribution of such refunded overcharges requires that only those "persons" (as defined at 10 CFR 205.2) who actually suffered a loss as a result of the transactions described in the Consent Order receive appropriate refunds. Because of the petroleum industry's complex marketing system, it is likely that overcharges have either been passed through as higher prices to subsequent purchasers or offset through devices such as the Old Oil Allocation (Entitlements) Program, 10 CFR 211.67. In fact, the adverse effects of the overcharges may have become so diffused that it is a practical impossibility to identify specific, adversely affected persons, in which case disposition of the refunds will be made in the general public interest by an appropriate means such as payment to the Treasury of the United States pursuant to 10 CFR 204.199I(a).

III. Submission of Written Comments

A. Potential Claimants: Interested persons who believe that they have a claim to all or a portion of the refund amount should provide written notification of the claim to the ERA at this time. Proof of claims is not now being required. Written notification to the ERA at this time is requested primarily for the purpose of identifying valid potential claims to the refund amount. After potential claims are identified, procedures for the making of proof of claims may be established. Failure by a person to provide written notification of a potential claim within the comment period for this Notice may result in the DOE irrevocably disbursing the funds to other claimants or to the general public interest.

B. Other Comments: The ERA invites interested persons to comment on the terms, conditions, or procedural aspects of this Consent Order.

You should send your comments or written notification of a claim to Arthur H. Shaw, Deputy District Manager of Enforcement, Northeast District, Economic Regulatory Administration, Room 700, 150 Causeway Street, Boston, MA 02114. You may obtain a free copy of this Consent Order by writing to the same address or by calling 617-223-5265.

You should identify your comments or written notification of a claim on the outside of your envelope and on the documents you submit with the designation, "Comments on McCleary Oil Co., Inc. [ERA Docket No. 79-Cert-101]

Allied Chemical Corp.; Certification of Eligible Use of Natural Gas To Displace Fuel Oil

Allied Chemical Corporation (Allied) filed an application for certification of an eligible use of natural gas to displace fuel oil at its ammonia plant in Omaha, Nebraska, with the Administrator of the Economic Regulatory Administration (ERA) pursuant to 10 CFR Part 595 on October 4, 1979. Notice of that application was published in the Federal Register (44 FR 67704, November 27, 1979) and an opportunity for public comment was provided for a period of ten (10) calendar days from the date of publication. No comments were received.

The ERA has carefully reviewed Allied's application in accordance with 10 CFR Part 595 and the policy considerations expressed in the Final Rulemaking Regarding Procedures for Certification of the Use of Natural Gas To Displace Fuel Oil (44 FR 47920, August 16, 1979). The ERA has determined that Allied's application satisfies the criteria enumerated in 10 CFR Part 595, and, therefore, has granted the certification and transmitted that certification to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. A copy of the transmittal letter and the actual certification are appended to this notice.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 12, 1979.

Doris J. Dewton,

Assistant Administrator, Office of Petroleum Operations, Economic Regulatory Administration.

Certification

Based upon a review of the information contained in the application, as well as other information available to ERA, the ERA hereby certifies, pursuant to 10 CFR Part 595, that the use of 7,600 Mcf of natural gas per day at Allied's Omaha Plant, purchased from Peoples is an eligible use of gas within the meaning of 10 CFR Part 595.

Effective Date

This certification is effective upon the date of issuance, and expires one year from that date, unless a shorter period of time is required by 18 CFR Part 284, Subpart F. It is effective during this period of time for the use of up to the same certified volume of natural gas at the same facility purchased from the same eligible seller.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on December 12, 1979.

Re ERA Certification of Eligible Use, ERA Docket No. 79-CERT-101, Allied Chemical Corporation.

Mr. Kenneth F. Plumb,
Secretary, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Plumb: Pursuant to the provisions of 10 CFR Part 595, I am hereby transmitting to the Commission the enclosed certification of an eligible use of natural gas to displace fuel oil. This certification is required by the Commission as a precondition to interstate transportation of fuel oil displacement gas in accordance with the authorizing procedures in 18 CFR Part 284, Subpart F. As noted in the certificate, it is effective for one year from the date of issuance, unless a shorter period of time is required by 18 CFR Part 284, Subpart F. A copy of the enclosed certification is also being published in the Federal Register and provided to the applicant.

Should the Commission have any further questions, please contact Mr. Finn K. Neilson, Director, Import/Export Division, Economic Regulatory Administration, 2000 M Street, N.W., Room 4126, Washington, D.C. 20461, telephone (202) 254-8202. All correspondence and inquiries regarding the certification should reference ERA Docket No. 79-CERT-101.

Sincerely,

Doris J. Dewton,

Assistant Administrator, Office of Petroleum Operations, Economic Regulatory Administration.

Enclosure.

Certification by the Economic Regulatory Administration to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission of the Use of Natural Gas for Fuel Oil Displacement by the Allied Chemical Corp.; ERA Docket No. 79–Cert–101

Application for Certification

Pursuant to 10 CFR Part 595, Allied Chemical Corporation (Allied) filed an application for certification of an eligible use of 7,600 Mcf of natural gas per day at its ammonia plant in Omaha, Nebraska with the Administrator of the Economic Regulatory Administration (ERA) on October 4, 1979. The application and supplemental information state that the eligible seller of the gas is Peoples Natural Gas Division of Northern Natural Gas Company (Peoples) and that the gas will be transported by the Northern Natural Gas Company and the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Company. The application indicates that the use of this natural gas is estimated to displace 49,450 barrels of No. 5 fuel oil (1.8–2.3 percent sulfur) per year and 45,050 barrels of No. 2 fuel oil (0.5–0.6 percent sulphur) per year at Allied's Omaha Plant. The application also indicates that neither the gas nor the displaced fuel oil will be used to displace coal in the applicant's facilities.

Alabama-Tennessee Natural Gas Co.; Proposed GHA Rate Adjustment

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that on November 30, 1979, Alabama-Tennessee Natural Gas Company (Alabama-Tennessee), P.O. Box 918, Florence, Alabama 35630, tendered for filing as part of its FPC Gas Tariff, Third Revised Volume No. 1, the following tariff sheets:

Substitute Thirty-First Revised Sheet No. 3–A
Original Sheet No. 3–B

These tariff sheets are proposed to become effective as of January 1, 1980.

Alabama-Tennessee states that the purpose of this tariff filing is to adjust its rates to conform to the proposed changes in the rates of Tennessee Gas Pipeline, a Division of Tenneco Inc., filed today in Docket Nos. RP73–114, et al. Alabama-Tennessee states that the rate changes have been made in conformity with the PGA and related provisions of its tariff.

The tariff sheets provide for the following rates:

Rate schedule	Rate after current adjustment
G–1:
Demand	$2.17
Commodity	214.32
SG–1: Commodity	230.15
I–1: Commodity	221.45

Original Sheet No. 3–B also shows the incremental pricing surcharges for various resale and direct sale customers.

Alabama-Tennessee states that copies of the filings have been mailed to all of its jurisdictional customers and affected State regulatory Commissions.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 26, 1979. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this filing are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

Benton County Public Utility District No. 1; Application for Exemption

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that Benton County Public Utility District No. 1 (Benton County PUD), on November 6, 1979, filed an application for exemption from certain requirements of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations (Order 48, 44 FR 58687). Exemption is sought from the requirement to file, on or before November 1, 1980, information on the costs of providing electric service as specified in Subparts B, C, D, and E of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations issued pursuant to Section 133 of PURPA.

In its application for exemption, Benton County PUD states that it should not be required to file the specified data because "the gathering of such information will not be likely to carry out the purposes of PURPA. To require applicant to comply with PURPA reporting standards would not materially enhance the level or quality of cost information, but would greatly burden the applicant with revisions and implementations of new programs."

Copies of the application for exemption are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection. The Commission's regulations require that said utility also apply to any State regulatory authority having jurisdiction over it to have the application published in any official State publication in which electric rate change applications are usually noticed, and that a summary of the application be published in newspapers of general circulation in the affected jurisdiction.

Any person desiring to present written views, arguments, or other comments on the application for exemption should file such information with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street NE., Washington, D.C. 20426, on or before January 31, 1980.

Central Lincoln People's Utility District; Application for Exemption

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that Central Lincoln People's Utility District (Central Lincoln PUD), on November 6, 1979, filed an application for exemption from certain requirements of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations (Order 48, 44 FR 58687). Exemption is sought from the requirement to file, on or before November 1, 1980, information on the costs of providing electric service as specified in Subparts B, C, D, and E of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations issued pursuant to Section 133 of PURPA.

In its application for exemption, Central Lincoln PUD states that it should not be required to file the specified data because "compliance is unlikely to carry out the purposes of PURPA to any greater degree than the applicant's present procedures which provide generally comparable information on cost of service on a timely basis which is readily available to everyone concerned."

Copies of the application for exemption are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection. The Commission's regulations require that said utility also apply to any State regulatory authority having jurisdiction over it to have the application published in any official State publication in which electric rate change applications are usually noticed, and that a summary of the application be published in newspapers of general circulation in the affected jurisdiction.

Any person desiring to present written views, arguments, or other comments on the application for exemption should file such information with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, on or before January 31, 1980.

City of Colorado Springs, Department of Public Utilities; Application for Exemption

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that the City of Colorado Springs, Department of Public Utilities (Colorado Springs), on November 6, 1979, filed an application for exemption from certain requirements of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations (Order 48, 44 FR 58687). Exemption is sought from the requirement to file, on or before November 1, 1980, information on the costs of providing electric service as specified in Sections 290.202(a), 290.205(a)(14), 290.302, 290.303(a)(d)(g)(h)(i), and 290.404(d) of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations issued pursuant to Section 133 of PURPA.

In its application for exemption, Colorado Springs states that it should not be required to file the specified data for the following reasons:

(1) Under Section 290.202(a), "The Department can not supply the data called for starting with the words 'Additionally, the estimated hourly average energy costs' and continuing through the remainder of this paragraph. The information is not now available."

(2) Under Sections 290.205(a)(14) and 290.302, "The Department can not supply the information, as such information is not now available."

(3) Under Section 290.303(a)(d)(g)(h)(i), "The Department has insufficient data base and accounting system to be able to determine these marginal costs in an accurate and supportable manner.

(4) Under Section 290.404(d), "The Department has some load research data available, however, our customers have not been identified by end uses and any best estimate that could be made by November 1, 1980 would be meaningless."

Copies of the application for exemption are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection. The Commission's regulations require that said utility also apply to any State regulatory authority having jurisdiction over it to have the application published in any official State publication in which electric rate change applications are usually noticed, and that a summary of the application be published in newspapers of general circulation in the affected jurisdiction.

Any person desiring to present written views, arguments, or other comments on the application for exemption should file such information with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, on or before January 31, 1980.

Consolidated Edison Co. of New York, Inc.; Filing

December 11, 1979.

The filing Company submits the following:

Take notice that on December 5, 1979, Consolidated Edison Company of New York, Inc. ("Con Edison") tendered for filing, copies of a transmission agreement (the "Agreement") between Con Edison and the Power Authority of the State of New York ("PASNY") and of a supplement thereto (the "Supplement").

The Agreement, dated June 16, 1976, provides for the transmission of interruptible power and energy by Con Edison from PASNY to Long Island municipalities that are customers of PASNY: Villages of Freeport, Greenport and Rockville Centre. The Supplement dated June 14, 1977 extends the term of the Agreement.

A copy of the filing has been served upon PASNY.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street NE., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 31, 1979. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this filing are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

[Docket No. RE80–22]

Commonwealth Edison Co.; Application for Exemption

(December 11, 1979.

Take notice that Commonwealth Edison Company (Commonwealth Edison), on November 1, 1979, filed an application for exemption from certain requirements of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations (Order 48, 44 FR 58687). Exemption is sought from the requirement to file, on or before November 1, 1980, information on the costs of providing electric service as specified in Sections 290.403(a)(1), 290.403(a)(4), 290.404(d), 290.404(g)(5), and 290.406(a)(3) of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations issued pursuant to Section 133 of PURPA.

In its application for exemption, Commonwealth Edison states that it should not be required to file the specified data for the following reasons:

(1) Under Section 290.403(a)(1), it such loads have no cost consequences the utility fails to see that making estimates of them serves any purpose of PURPA, and the utility believes that it should not be required to make them in view of the substantial manual analytical effort that would be required.

(2) Under Section 290.403(a)(4), the utility believes such a requirement to be unreasonable in view of the limited potential usefulness of such typical day data. The utility believes the effort required to estimate typical day class hourly loads, as apparently defined, cannot be justified.

(3) Under Section 290.404(d), the classes are not well defined and the Company is not sure what constitutes a "commercial office building". Any attempt at classification of the Company's nearly quarter million commercial and industrial customers to pick out those operating commercial office buildings would be a massive undertaking, particularly in view of an uncertain definition as to who belongs in the class. The Company does not believe that an end use class consisting of customers operating commercial office buildings would provide any useful information for rate design, and thus would fail to meet any of the objectives of PURPA.

(4) Under Section 290.404(g)(5), the Company proposes that it be required to make such an estimate of accuracy only for customer groups for which it has statistical basis for making the estimate.

(5) Under Section 290.406(a)(3), the Company is not able to report the change in number of customers by voltage level because such information is not available from its records.

Copies of the application for exemption are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection. The Commission's regulations require that said utility also apply to any State regulatory authority having jurisdiction over it to have the application published in any official State publication in which electric rate change applications are usually noticed, and that a summary of the application be published in newspapers of general circulation in the affected jurisdiction.

Any person desiring to present written views, arguments, or other comments on the application for exemption should file such information with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, on or before January 31, 1980.

Distrigas Corp. and Distrigas of Massachusetts Corp.; Rate Change Pursuant to Purchased Gas Cost Adjustment Provision

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that Distrigas Corporation (Distrigas) and Distrigas of Massachusetts Corporation (DOMAC) on November 30, 1979, tendered for filing Fourth Revised Sheet No. 1 and Fourth Revised Sheet No. 3A to their respective FERC Gas Tariffs.

These sheets are being filed pursuant to Distrigas' and DOMAC's purchased LNG Cost Adjustment provision set forth in their respective tariffs. The Distrigas rate change is being filed to reflect in its sales rate to DOMAC a redetermination (increase) of the price paid for the purchase of LNG from its supplier SONATRACH in accordance with the Distrigas-SONATRACH Agreement for Sale and Purchase of Liquefied Natural Gas and the amortization over the six-month period, January 1, 1980 through June 30, 1980, of the balance in the unrecovered purchased LNG cost account.

The DOMAC rate change is being filed to reflect the Distrigas rate change in DOMAC's rates for resale to its distribution customer companies and the amortization over the six-month period, January 1, 1980 through June 30, 1980, of the balance in DOMAC's unrecovered purchased LNG cost account.

Distrigas and DOMAC request that the proposed tariff sheets become effective January 1, 1980, to coincide with the change in LNG costs from SONATRACH.

A copy of this filing is being served on all affected parties and interested State commissions.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). High Island Offshore System (HIOS); Tariff Filing

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that on November 30, 1979, the High Island Offshore System (HIOS) filed a proposed change in its tariff, Original Volume No. 1, pertaining to a decrease in the charge applicable to separation facilities and a corresponding and offsetting increase in the charge for transportation of gas. HIOS proposes an effective date of January 1, 1979. HIOS states that the current charges applicable to the separation function were established on the basis of a limited review of the costs associated therewith in late 1978, in order to support rates to be effective January 1, 1979. HIOS further states that, as indicated in a filing made August 21, 1979 in docket Nos. CP75-104, et al., it has requested the operators of the facilities to conduct a more thorough review of the methodology of allocating costs to the separation function. The studies made, together with an explanation of the manner in which costs have been allocated, are set forth in Appendices to the above referenced filing.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before January 2, 1980. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. BILLING CODE 6450-01-M

[Project No. 2952]

City of Idaho Falls; Application for Preliminary Permit

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that the City of Idaho Falls filed on August 21, 1979, and supplemented October 30, 1979, an application for preliminary permit [pursuant to the Federal Power Act, 16 U.S.C., § 791(a)—825(r)] for a proposed water power project to be known as the Gem State Dam and Power Plant Project, FERC No. 2952, on the Snake River, in the counties of Bingham and Bonneville, Idaho. The proposed project would affect lands of the United States under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Bureau of Land Management (BLM).

Correspondence with the Applicant should be directed to: Mr. G. S. Harrison, Manager, Electric Light Division, P.O. Box 220, Idaho Falls, Idaho 83401, and Mr. E. R. Mooney, CH2M Hill, 1600 S.W. Western Blvd., P.O. Box 428, Corvallis, Oregon 97330.

Purpose of Project.—The power and energy developed by the project would be utilized locally in Idaho Falls to meet the increasing loads of the City's residential, farm, commercial, industrial, and municipal customers. At present, Idaho Falls provides power to about 16,000 customers located primarily within the city limits.

Proposed Scope and Cost of Studies Under Permit.—Applicant seeks issuance of a preliminary permit for a period of 36 months, during which time it would perform geotechnical, engineering, economic, and environmental studies, make a feasibility study, prepare preliminary plans, and prepare a FERC license application. The estimated cost of the work to be performed under the preliminary permit is $485,000.

Project Description.—The proposed Gem State Dam and Power Plant Project would consist of: (1) the rehabilitation of an existing timber-crib dam; (2) the rehabilitation of an existing powerhouse canal; and (3) the construction of a new powerhouse. The project would be operated on a run-of-the-river basis. The dam would divert water to the powerhouse canal which is 100 feet wide by 4,000 feet long. The powerhouse would be located at the end of the canal and would contain a turbine-generator with a capacity of 10 to 12 megawatts. The estimated average annual energy generation is 79 million kWh.

Purpose of Preliminary Permit.—A preliminary permit does not authorize construction. A permit, if issued, gives the Permittee, during the term of the permit, the right of priority of application for license while the Permittee undertakes the necessary studies and examinations to determine the engineering, economic, and environmental feasibility of the proposed project, the market for the power, and all other necessary information for inclusion in an application for a license. In this instance, Applicant seeks a 36-month permit.

Agency Comments.—Federal, State, and local agencies that receive this notice through direct mailing from the Commission are invited to submit comments on the described application for preliminary permit. (A copy of the application may be obtained directly from the Applicant.) Comments should be confined to substantive issues relevant to the issuance of a permit and consistent with the purpose of a permit as described in this notice. No other formal requests for comments will be made. If any agency does not file comments within the time set below, it will be presumed to have no comments.

Comments, Protests, or Petitions to Intervene.—Anyone desiring to be heard or to make any protest about this application should file a petition to intervene or a protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 18 CFR, § 1.8 or § 1.10 (1979). Comments not in the nature of a protest may also be submitted by conforming to the procedures specified in § 1.10 for protests. In determining the appropriate action to take, the Commission will consider all protests or other comments filed, but a person who merely files a protest or comments does not become a party to the proceeding. To become a party, or to participate in any hearing, a person must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules. Any comments, protest, or petition to intervene must be filed on or before February 11, 1980. The Commission's address is: 825 N. Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426. The application is on file with the Commission and is available for public inspection.

Competing Applications.—Anyone desiring to file a competing application must submit to the Commission, on or before February 11, 1980, either the competing application itself or a notice of intent to file a competing application. Submission of a timely notice of intent allows an interested person to file the competing application no later than April 11, 1980. A notice of intent must conform with the requirements of 18 CFR 4.33 (b) and (c), (as amended, 44 FR 61328, October 25, 1979). A competing application must conform with the requirements of 18 CFR, 4.33 (a) and (d), (as amended, 44 FR 61328, October 25, 1979).

Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co., Inc.; Proposed Changes in FERC Gas Tariff

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Company, Inc. (Kansas-Nebraska) on November 30, 1979 tendered for filing proposed changes in its FERC Gas Tariff, Third Revised Volume No. 1. The proposed changes will adjust its rates charged its jurisdictional customers pursuant to the Purchased Gas Cost Adjustment provision (Section 19), its Incremental Pricing Surcharges provision (Section 20) and its Gas Research Institute Charge Adjustment provision (Section 21) of the General Terms and Conditions of its FERC Gas Tariff, Third Revised Volume No. 1. The proposed changes would increase the commodity rate under each of Kansas-Nebraska's jurisdictional schedules by $0.0820 per MCF.

This filing is made to enable Kansas-Nebraska to reflect in its rates the increases in its purchased gas costs adjusted for the effects of incremental pricing and the GRI funding unit approved by the Commission in Docket No. RP79-75 of 4.8 mills. This filing is proposed to become effective January 1, 1980.

Copies of the filing were served upon the company's jurisdictional customers, interested public bodies and all direct and indirect customers which will be subject to the incremental pricing provisions.

Any person desiring to be heard or make any protest with reference to this filing should, on or before December 26, 1979, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) under the regulations of the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR 157.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules. December 11, 1979.

Take notice that on November 30, 1979, Montana-Dakota Utilities Co. ("MDU"), 400 North Fourth Street, Bismarck, North Dakota 58501, submitted for filing the following revised tariff sheets to its FERC Gas Tariff

Original Volume No. 4

Substitute Twelfth Revised Sheet No. 3A

First Revised Volume No. 2

Substitute Fifth Revised Sheet No. 10

The proposed effective date is November 1, 1979.

On October 1, 1979, MDU submitted for filing Twelfth Revised Sheet No. 3A to FERC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 4 and Fifth Revised Sheet No. 10 to FERC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 2. In a Letter Order dated October 31, 1979 in this docket, the Commission accepted the sheets for filing conditioned on MDU's filing revised sheets within 30 days reflecting the elimination of certain unauthorized costs from producer suppliers. The instant sheets are submitted pursuant to the Commission's Letter Order and reflect the elimination of such costs.

MDU's filing also contains, in compliance with the Commission's Letter Order, information showing the adjustments made to the original tariffs. It also sets forth information concerning supply sources covered by certain maximum price ceiling levels under the NGPA as required by Appendix A to the order.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said application should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426 in accordance with the Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedures (18 C.F.R. 1.8 or 1.10). North Penn Gas Co.; Application for Adjustment and Request for Interim Relief

December 11, 1979.

On December 3, 1979, North Penn Gas Company ("North Penn") filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission an application for an adjustment under Section 502(c) of the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 ("NGPA"). North Penn seeks relief from Part 282—Incremental Pricing as set forth in Order 49 (RM79-14) and particularly Sections 282.601 and 282.602 of the Commission's Regulations under Title II of the NGPA. North Penn requests interim relief pending determination of the application.

Sections 282.601 and 282.602 require: (i) the filing of an Incremental Pricing Surcharge provision and a revised Purchased Gas Adjustment provision by November 1, 1979; (ii) the filing of tariff sheets on or before December 1, 1979 reflecting the projected Incremental Pricing Surcharges by month for each of the direct sale, non-exempt industrial boiler fuel facilities; and (iii) the monthly aggregate amount applicable to each sale-for-resale customer on the pipeline system. North Penn has no "non-exempt" industrial boiler fuel users on its system in Pennsylvania. Its sale-for-resale customer in New York, Corning Natural Gas Company, reports only four "non-exempt" industrial boiler fuel users and a maximum surcharge absorption capability of $5,700.

North Penn contends that the requirements of Part 282 as established in Order 49 and Sections 282.601 and 282.602 in particular would cause special hardship and result in an unfair distribution of burdens on North Penn, and consequently, North Penn requests an exemption from the requirements set forth in Part 282 as established by Order 49 and the filing requirements of § 282.601 and § 282.602.

The procedures applicable to the conduct of this adjustment proceeding are found in § 1.41 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, Order No. 24 issued March 22, 1979.

Any person desiring to participate in this adjustment proceeding shall file a petition to intervene in accordance with the provisions of § 1.41. All petitions to intervene must be filed on or before January 2, 1980.

Orlando Utilities Commission; Application for Exemption

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that Orlando Utilities Commission (OUC), on November 1, 1979, filed an application for exemption from certain requirements of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations (Order 48, 44 FR 58687). Exemption is sought from the requirement to file, on or before November 1, 1980, information on the costs of providing electric service as specified in Sections 290.303(a), 290.303(b), 290.303(g), 290.303(h), 290.303(i), 290.404(d), 290.501, and 290.502 of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations issued pursuant to Section 133 of PURPA.

In its application for exemption, OUC states that it should not be required to file the specified data for the following reasons:

(1) At the present time OUC does not have the tools (computer models) with which to determine hourly costs pursuant to Sections 290.303(a), 290.303(b), 290.303(g), 290.303(h), and 290.303(i). In addition, OUC has no means of determining contiguous hours of similar cost.

(2) OUC does not presently divide its customers into the categories described in Section 290.404(d).

(3) Although OUC expects to respond fully to the Commission's regulations, the utility will not be able to supply cost information for various voltage levels and costing periods for the first report pursuant to Sections 290.501 and 290.502.

Copies of the application for exemption are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection. The Commission's regulations require that said utility also apply to any State regulatory authority having jurisdiction over it to have the application published in any official State publication in which electric rate change applications are usually noticed, and that a summary of the application be published in newspapers of general circulation in the affected jurisdiction.

Any person desiring to present written views, arguments, or other comments on the application for exemption should file such information with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street NE., Washington, D.C. 20426, on or before January 31, 1980.

[Docket No. RE80-25]

Pacific Gas and Electric Co.; Application for Exemption

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), on November 1, 1979, filed an application for exemption from certain requirements of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations (Order 48, 44 FR 58687). Exemption is sought from the requirement to file, on or before November 1, 1980, information on the costs of providing electric service as specified in Sections 290.201(d)(2), 290.205, and 290.501(a) of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations issued pursuant to Section 133 of PURPA.

In its application for exemption, PG&E states that it should not be required to file the specified data for the following reasons:

(1) Under Section 290.201(d)(2), exemption from reporting CWIP on non-major projects by function would have a negligible impact on the accuracy of the reporting. The omission of this level of detail would appear to in no way hamper the fulfillment of the goals set forth in PURPA.

(2) Under Section 290.205: "Since California regulators do not require this information and there is no generally accepted method for the use of costing periods for accounting costs, PG&E requests an exemption from reporting costing periods under Subpart 290.205"

(3) Under Section 290.501(a): "No state regulatory proceeding requires calculated accounting costs by costing periods, nor has a need for these data been demonstrated by any party in California. There seems to be no need to provide a new variation of accounting costs under PURPA."

Copies of the application for exemption are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection. The Commission's regulations require that said utility also apply to any State regulatory authority having jurisdiction over it to have the application published in any official State publication in which electric rate change applications are usually noticed, and that a summary of the application be published in newspapers of general circulation in the affected jurisdiction.

Any person desiring to present written views, arguments, or other comments on the application for exemption should file such information with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, on or before January 31, 1980.

[Docket No. TA80-1-28 (PGA80-1, IPR80-1 & GRI80-1)]

Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co.; Change in Tariff

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that on November 30, 1979 Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company tendered for filing the following revised sheets to its FERC Gas Tariff, Original volume No. 1:

Thirty-Third Revised Sheet No. 3-A
Tenth Revised Sheet No. 3-B
First Revised Sheet No. 3-C.1
First Revised Sheet No. 3-C.2
First Revised Sheet No. 3-C.3

An effective date of January 1, 1980 is proposed.

Panhandle states that such filing reflects:

(1) A rate adjustment pursuant to Opinion No. 64 issued October 2, 1979 in Docket No. RP79-75. Ordering Paragraph (B) of that Opinion provides that jurisdictional members of Gas Research Institute (GRI), such as Panhandle, may file a general RD&D cost adjustment which will permit the collection of 4.8 mills per Mcf (4.7 mills when adjusted to Panhandle's pressure base) of Program Funding Services for payment to GRI.

(2) A rate adjustment pursuant to Section 282.602 of the Commission's Regulations for the period January 1, 1980 through February 29, 1980 reflecting (a) a "reduced PGA" rate as determined by Commission Regulations, and (b) projected incremental pricing surcharges for each direct sale non-exempt industrial boiler fuel facility and each sale-for-resale customer.

Panhandle states that copies of its filing have been served on all customers subject to the tariff sheets and applicable state regulatory agencies.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before Dec. 26, 1979. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this filing are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

Public Utility District No. 1 of Grays Harbor County; Application for Exemption

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that Public Utility District No. 1 of Grays Harbor County (Grays Harbor), on November 1, 1979, filed an application for exemption from certain requirements of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations (Order 48, 44 FR 58687). Exemption is sought from the requirement to file, on or before November 1, 1980, information on the costs of providing electric service as specified in Subparts B, C, D, and E of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations issued pursuant to Section 133 of PURPA.

In its application for exemption, Grays Harbor states that it should not be required to file the specified data because "compliance is unlikely to carry out the purposes of PURPA Section 133 to any greater degree than the applicant's present procedure which provides generally comparable information on costs of service on a timely basis which is readily available to everyone concerned."

Copies of the application for exemption are on file with the Commission and are available for public

Public Utility District No. 2 of Grant County; Application for Exemption

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that Public Utility District No. 2 of Grant County (PUD No. 2 of Grant Coutny), on November 1, 1979, filed an application for exemption from certain requirements of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations (Order 48, 44 FR 58687). Exemption is sought from the requirement to file, on or before November 1, 1980, information on the costs of providing electric service as specified in Subparts B, C, D, and E of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations issued pursuant to Section 133 of PURPA.

In its application for exemption, PUD No. 2 of Grant County states that it should not be required to file the specified data because "compliance is unlikely to carry out the purposes of PURPA to any greater degree than applicant's present procedures which are in substantial compliance and will provide information on cost of service on a timely basis."

Copies of the application for exemption are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection. The Commission and are available for public inspection. [Docket No. RE80-34]

Puget Sound Power & Light Co.; Application for Exemption

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that Puget Sound Power & Light Company (Puget Sound), on November 6, 1979, filed an application for exemption from certain requirements of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations (Order 48, 44 FR 58687). Exemption is sought from the requirement to file, on or before November 1, 1980, information on the costs of providing electric service as specified in Sections 290.404(d)(5)(6), 290.202(a), 290.303(a)(g)(h), 290.501(a), and 290.502(a) of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations issued pursuant to Section 133 of PURPA.

In its application for exemption, Puget Sound states that it should not be required to file the specified data for the following reasons:

(1) Under Section 290.404(d)(5)(6), "Any best estimate information submitted related to commercial office building consumption patterns or costs would be, of necessity, purely speculative and unusable for rate making or policy decisions. Therefore, such information would not be of assistance in carrying out the purposes of Section 133 of PURPA."

(2) Under Section 290.202(a), "Both the planning and operation of generation resources by Puget in the Pacific Northwest are unique when compared with the planning and operation of utilities in all other regions of the country. Because of this unique generation resource mix, it is virtually impossible to determine meaningful average hourly variable energy costs for any particular day."

(3) Under Section 290.303(a)(g)(h), "The required hourly information would not be likely to carry out the purposes of Section 133 because Puget's system is operated on an economic scheduling, rather than an economic dispatch basis to meet total system requirements, including non-firm sales for resale."

(4) Under Section 290.501(a), "It will * * * not be possible to complete a disaggregated cost-of-service analysis by costing period by November 1, 1980."

(5) Under Section 290.502(a), "It will * * * not be possible to complete a disaggregated cost-of-service analysis by costing period by November 1, 1980."

Copies of the application for exemption are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection. BILLING CODE 6450-01-M

[Project No. 2101]

Sacramento Municipal Utility District; Application for Amendment of License

December 10, 1979.

Take notice that on August 13, 1979, Sacramento Municipal Utility District (Licensee) filed an application for amendment of its license for the existing Upper American River Project No. 2101, located on the Rubicon River and tributaries, Silver Creek and tributaries, and South Fork of the American River in El Dorado County, California. Correspondence concerning the application should be sent to Mr. William C. Walbridge, General Manager, and Mr. David S. Kaplan, General Counsel, Sacramento Municipal Utility District, P.O. Box 1583, Sacramento, California 95813.

The license for the Upper American River Project was issued on August 28, 1957, for a period of 50 years. The Commission has, since that time, issued several orders approving additional power facilities. The project, as it presently exists, consists of: three main dams and storage reservoirs; eight diversion dams and regulating reservoirs; 6 powerhouses with total installed capacity of 596,000 kW; and associated tunnels and penstocks.

Proposed Project Description—The Licensee now seeks authorization to construct: (1) a reinforced concrete powerhouse, to be located on the downstream face of Slab Creek Dam, containing one turbine generating unit with an installed capacity of 400 kW; and (2) approximately 200 feet of transmission line which would connect to an existing 12-kV transmission line. The existing outlet works for the Slab-Creek Dam would be modified for power development. The power plant and the 200-foot transmission line would be located the existing project boundary.

Estimated Cost—The licensee estimates the capital cost of the proposed project at $716,000.

Purpose of the Project—The plant would generate about 2.95 million kWhs annually and would be connected, through the Licensee's interconnected system, to the Northern California Power Grid System.

Recreation Facilities—The Licensee states, in the application, that the recreation facilities of the Upper American River Project have been fully developed under the original license and that the economics of the proposed power plant do not justify any new recreation facilities at this time.

Agency Comments—Federal, State, and local agencies that receive this notice through direct mailing from the Commission are requested to provide comments pursuant to the Federal Power Act, the Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act, the Endangered Species Act, the National Historic Preservation Act, the Historical and Archeological Preservation Act, the National Environmental Policy Act, Pub. L. No. 88-29, and other applicable statutes. No other formal requests for comments will be made.

Comments should be confined to substantive issues relevant to the issuance of an order amending project license. A copy of the application may be obtained directly from the applicant. If an agency does not file comments within the time set below, it will be presumed to have no comments.

Protests and Petitions to Intervene—Anyone desiring to be heard or make any protest about this application should file a petition to intervene or a protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 18 C.F.R. Section 1.8 or Section 1.10 (1979). In determining the appropriate action to take, the Commission will consider all protests filed, but a person who merely files a protest does not become a party to the proceeding. To become a party or to participate in any hearing, a person must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Any protest, petition to intervene, or agency comments must be filed on or before January 21, 1980. The Commission's address is: 825 N. Capitol Street NE., Washington, D.C. 20426.

The application is on file with the Commission and is available for public inspection.

December 11, 1979.

By letter of October 9, 1979, Mr. Lawrence P. Terrell, has advised the Commission that due to the recent death of O. C. York, a former trustee of the above-captioned trusts, and the subsequent appointment, effective August 3, 1979, of Richard S. Shannon, III as successor trustee, he is requesting that the certificate of public convenience and necessity issued by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission on January 24, 1979 pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act, be redesignated, as set out in the above caption, to reflect a change in one of the trustees of the above-captioned trusts from O. C. York to Richard S. Shannon, III and Robert S. Brown.

Accordingly, the small producer certificate of public convenience and necessity issued pursuant to Section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act in Docket No. CS71-286 to O. C. York and Robert S. Brown, Trustees under separate trusts for Richard Stoll Shannon III, et al., is redesignated as that of Richard S. Shannon, III and Robert S. [Project No. 2703]

Sierra Pacific Power Co.; Application for Surrender of License

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that on March 19, 1979, the Sierra Pacific Power Company (Applicant) filed an application for surrender of its minor-part license for the transmission line Project No. 2703. [1] The project is located in Esmeralda and Nye Counties, Nevada on lands of the United States in Toiyabe National Forest and on public lands. Correspondence regarding the application should be sent to: Mr. Dan Asikainen, Supervisor, Right of Way Acquisition, Sierra Pacific Power Company, P.O. Box 10100, Reno, Nevada 89510.

The facilities that are under license are: (1) a 55-kV, 67.65-mile-long transmission line extending from a point on the Nevada-California border (in T5S, R37E MDB&M) via Silver Peak and Alkali to Tonopah and from Alkali to Goldfield; (2) a 55-kV, 38.24-mile-long transmission line extending from the same point via Silver Peak and Millers to Tonopah; (3) a 55-kV, 38.24-mile-long transmission line extending from Millers to Manhattan; (4) an 11-kV, 13.01-mile-long transmission line extending from Manhattan to Round Mountain; (5) an 11-kV, 2.3-mile-long transmission line extending from a point near the Manhattan Substation to the Manhattan Gold Mine Company mine; (6) an 11-kV, 0.64-mile-long transmission line extending from Silver Peak Substation to Survey Station 33 + 81.4; and (7) the Silver Peak Substation.

The Applicant seeks to surrender its license because the transmission lines are distribution lines rather than primary lines of a hydroelectric project as defined in section 3(11) of the Federal Power Act, and are, therefore, not subject to the licensing authority of the Commission. The Applicant also plans to seek permits from the United States Forest Service and the Bureau of Land Management for continued occupancy of the Federal lands utilized by the facilities.

Anyone desiring to be heard or to make any protest about this application should file a petition to intervene or a protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 18 CFR § 1.8 or § 1.10 (1979). Comments not in the nature of a protest may also be submitted by conforming to the procedures specified in § 1.10 for protests. In determining the appropriate action to take, the Commission will consider all protests filed, but a person who merely files a protest does not become a party to the proceeding. To become a party, or to participate in any hearing, a person must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules. Any protest or petition to intervene must be filed on or before January 21, 1980. The Commission's address is: 825 N. Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426.

[Docket No. TA80-1-10; PGA80-1 & IPR80-1)]

Tennessee Natural Gas Lines, Inc.; PGA Tariff Filing

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that, on November 30, 1979, Tennessee Natural Gas Lines, Inc. ("TNGL") tendered for filing a rate change, pursuant to the purchased gas cost adjustment ("PGA") provisions of its F.E.R.C. Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1 and pursuant to Section 282.602(a)(ii) of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission's ("Commission") regulations under the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 ("NGPA"), consisting of the following tariff sheets:

Thirty-Second Revised Sheet No. PGA-1, and Original Sheet No. PGA 1-A

TNGL states that the purposes of its filing are: to reflect in its rates the changed rates of its sole supplier, Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company, a Division of Tenneco, Inc. ("TGP"), which will become effective on January 1, 1980; and, to comply with Section 282.602(a)(ii) of the Commission's regulations under the NGPA.

TNGL requests an effective date of January 1, 1980.

TNGL states that copies of the filing were served upon its jurisdictional customer, the interested state regulatory commission, and its non-jurisdictional customer estimated to be billed for NGPA incremental pricing surcharges.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 26, 1979. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this filing are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

Tennessee Natural Gas Lines, Inc.; Tariff Filing and Application for Adjustment

December 11, 1979

Take notice that, on November 30, 1979, Tennessee Natural Gas Lines, Inc. ("TNGL") tendered for filing the following-listed sheets to its F.E.R.C. Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1:

Fourteenth Revised Sheet No. 4
Seventh Revised Sheet No. 4-A Second Revised Sheet No. 4-B(1)
Second Revised Sheet No. 4-C
Original Sheet Nos. 24l-24L

TNGL states that the purpose of its filing is to make changes in its tariff to bring the same into conformity with the Commission's incremental pricing regulations under the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 ("NGPA"). TNGL states that § 282.601(c) of the Commission's regulations required it to make such filing by November 1, 1979 but that it was unable to do so. It requests an adjustment of such filing deadline pursuant to § 1.41 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure and further requests waiver of the notice provisions of the Commission's regulations so as to permit the tendered tariff sheets to become effective on December 1, 1979. It states that no person will be prejudiced by acceptance of its late filing since the same will not affect billings for natural gas service until after January 1, 1980.

Procedures applicable to TNGL's request for adjustment of the filing deadline are found in § 1.41 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, Order No. 24 issued March 22, 1979. Any petition to intervene with respect to such request must be filed within on or before January 2, 1980.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said tariff filing, should, on or before December 26, 1979, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, a petition to intervene or a protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10). All protests filed with the Commission will be considered by it in determining the appropriate action to be taken but will not serve to make the protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party to a proceeding or to participate as a party in any hearing therein must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules.

Take notice that Texas Gas Transmission Corporation (Texas Gas) on November 30, 1979, tendered for filing proposed changes in Twenty-Seventh Revised Sheet No. 7 and Original Sheet No. 7-B to its FERC Gas Tariff, Third Revised Volume No. 1.

The revised tariff sheets are being filed to reflect implementation of the incremental pricing provisions of the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 as set forth in the Commission's Order No. 49, issued on September 28, 1979.

The proposed effective date of the above tariff sheets is January 1, 1980.

Copies of the filing were served upon the company's jurisdictional customers and interested state commissions.

Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp.; Tariff Filing

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation (Transco) tendered for filing Sixteenth Revised Sheet No. 15 and Original Sheet No. 16 to Second Revised Volume No. 1 of Transco's FERC Gas Tariff. These tariff sheets, which are proposed to be effective January 1, 1980 are filed pursuant to Section 282.602 of the Commission's Regulations and the Purchased Gas Adjustment Clause and Incremental Pricing Surcharge Provisions contained in Section 22 of the General Terms and Conditions of Transco's FERC Gas Tariff, Second Revised Volume No. 1.

Transco states that the instant filing is made pursuant to the requirements of the Commission's Order No. 49 issued September 28, 1979 in Docket No. RM79-14. The purpose of such filing is to reflect estimated incremental pricing surcharges to be effective January 1, 1980, and to reflect the reduction in average cost of purchased gas. Pursuant to incremental pricing procedures, Transco has reduced its current purchased gas cost, which became effective September 1, 1979 under its PGA clause, by the projected Maximum Surcharge Absorption Capability (MSAC) on its system, which totals approximately $50,000 for the months of January and February, 1980, as detailed on Sheet No. 16. This reduction in the current average cost which is reflected on Sheet 15 amounts to 0.04¢ per dekatherm (dt) and is insufficient to trigger a change in rates under Transco's PGA clause.

The Company states that copies of the filing are being mailed to each of its jurisdictional customers and interested State Commissions.

Any persons desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). Trunkline Gas Co.; Change in Tariff

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that on November 30, 1979, Trunkline Gas Company (Trunkline) tendered for filing the following revised sheets to its FERC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1:

Thirtieth Revised Sheet No. 3-A
First Revised Sheet No. 3-B

An effective date of January 1, 1980 is proposed.

Trunkline states that such filing reflects:

(1) A rate adjustment pursuant to Opinion No. 64 issued October 2, 1979 in Docket No. RP79-75. Ordering Paragraph (B) of that Opinion provides that jurisdictional members of Gas Research Institute (GRI), such as Trunkline, may file a general RD&D cost adjustment which will permit the collection of 4.8 mills per Mcf (4.7 mills when adjusted to Trunkline's pressure base) of Program Funding Services for payment to GRI.

(2) A rate adjustment pursuant to Section 282.602 of the Commission's Regulations for the period January 1, 1980 through February 29, 1980 reflecting a) a "reduced PGA" rate as determined by Commission Regulations, and b) projected incremental pricing surcharges for each direct sale non-exempt industrial boiler fuel facility and each sale-for-resale customer.

Trunkline states that copies of its filing have been served on all customers subject to the tariff sheets and applicable state regulatory agencies.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, NE., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with §§ 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 26, 1979. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this filing are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

[Project No. 1992]

Donald R. Townsend; Application for Short-Form License (Minor) for a Constructed Project

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that on August 23, 1979, Donald R. Townsend filed an application for license [pursuant to the Federal Power Act, 16 U.S.C. § 791(a)-825(r)] for an existing water power project known as the Fire Mountain Hydroelectric Project, FERC No. 1992. The project is located on Fern Springs Creek in Tehama County near the Town of Chester, California. The license for the project expired on December 31, 1962. The project has been subsequently operating under a U.S. Forest Service Special Use Permit. Correspondence with the Applicant should be directed to Donald R. Townsend, Fire Mountain Lodge, Mill Creek, California 96061.

Purpose of the Project

The project provides most of the power for several families and Fire Mountain Lodge, a recreational facility with a store, cabins, a trailer park, and a lodge.

Project Description

The constructed Fire Mountain Hydroelectric Project consists of: (1) a 3-foot-high rockfill dam diverting water into two 10-inch-diameter corrugated pipes approximately 2,000 feet long; (2) a 6-foot-high and 30-foot-long concrete, earth and rockfill diversion dam impounding water from a collection of springs; (3) an 18-inch-diameter pipe 1,527 feet in length; (4) a frame powerhouse containing a generating unit rated at 31.25 kW; and (5) a short transmission line to Fire Mountain Lodge. The project occupies approximately 0.94 acre of U.S. land within the Lassen National Forest.

Agency Comments

Federal, State, and local agencies that receive this notice through direct mailing from the Commission are requested to provide comments pursuant to the Federal Power Act, the Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act, the Endangered Species Act, the National Historic Preservation Act, the Historical and Archaeological Preservation Act, the National Environmental Policy Act, Pub. L. No. 88–29, and other applicable statutes. No other formal requests for comments will be made.

Comments should be confined to substantive issues relevant to the issuance of a license. A copy of the application may be obtained directly from the applicant. If any agency does not file comments within the time set below, it will be presumed to have no comments.

Competing Applications

Anyone desiring to file a competing application must submit to the Commission, on or before February 11, 1980, either the competing application itself or a notice of intent to file a competing application. Submission of a timely notice of intent allows an interested person to file the competing application no later than June 11, 1980. A notice of intent must conform with the requirements of 18 CFR 4.33 (b) and (c), (as amended, 44 FR 61328, Oct. 25, 1979). A competing application must conform with the requirements of 18 CFR, 4.33 (a) and (d), (as amended, 44 FR 61328, Oct. 25, 1979).

Protests, and Petitions to Intervene

Anyone desiring to be heard or to make any protest about this application should file a petition to intervene or a protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 18 CFR § 1.8 or § 1.10 (1979). Comments not in the nature of a protest may also be submitted by conforming to the procedures specified in § 1.10 for protests. In determing the appropriate action to take, the Commission will consider all protests or other comments filed, but a person who merely files a protest or comment does not become a party to the proceeding. To become a party, or to participate in any hearing, a person must file a petition to intervene in accordance with the Commission's Rules. Any comment, protest, or petition to intervene must be filed on or before February 11, 1980. The Commission's address is: 825 N. Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426.

The application is on file with the Commission and is available for public inspection.

United Gas Pipe Line Co.; Filing

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that on November 30, 1979, United Gas Pipe Line Company (United) filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (Commission) the following revised tariff sheets as a part of its FERC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 2:

Tenth Revised Sheet No. 187
Fourth Revised Sheet No. 397
Fourth Revised Sheet No. 401
Fourth Revised Sheet No. 407
Fourth Revised Sheet No. 909
Fifth Revised Sheet No. 957
Third Revised Sheet No. 1156

These tariff sheets reflect in United's transportation rates to distributors and pipelines for resale the Gas Research Institute (GRI) adjustment charge approved by the Commission in Opinion No. 64, issued October 2, 1979 at Docket No. RP79–75. United requests that the tariff sheets listed above be accepted for filing and permitted to become effective January 1, 1980.

Copies of the revised tariff sheets and letter of transmittal are being mailed to the transportation customers affected by these tariff revisions.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said filing should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 26, 1979. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. [Docket No. GP79–76]

West Virginia Sec. 108 NGPA Determinations; Allegheny Land & Mineral Co.; Final Order on Well Category Determination

December 7, 1979.

On August 10, 1979, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission issued a Notice of Preliminary Finding that determinations made by the State of West Virginia Department of Mines, Oil and Gas Division (West Virginia), that the subject wells [1] qualify for a maximum lawful price under section 108 of the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 (NGPA), 15 U.S.C. § 3301, et seq., were not supported by substantial evidence in the records on which the determinations were based.

The preliminary finding reversed the West Virginia determinations of eligibility on the basis of section 108(b)(1) of the NGPA which provides, among other things, that in order for a well to qualify as a stripper well, the production of non-associated natural gas at such well's maximum efficient rate of flow may not exceed an average of 60 Mcf per day during a 9-day production period. Section 271.804(d)(2) of our interim regulations [2] provided that a well which has produced non-associated gas at an average rate of 60 Mcf per day or less during the 90-day period is presumed to have produced at its maximum efficient rate of flow it, during the 12-month period ending concurrently with the 90-day period, the well produced non-associated natural gas at an average rate of 60 Mcf per day or less. In this regard, the production records accompanying the notices of determinations show that the average daily production of natural gas from each of the subject wells during the 90-day period upon which each application is based did not exceed 60 Mcf per day. However, no current production capability test establishing a maximum efficient rate of flow was reported and production records for the 12-month period, ending on the last day of the 90-day qualifying period, show average production in excess of 60 Mcf of gas per day.

Subsequent to this preliminary reversal, West Virginia submitted to the Commission a copy of its August 22, 1979, letter addressed to the applicant, Allegheny Land & Mineral Co., wherein

[1] FERC control No. and well name: JD79–10995, A–603; JD79–11000, A–534; JD79–11020, A–533; JD79–11037, A–374; and JD79–11042, A–602.

[2] Section 271.804(d) of our interim regulations, still applicable here, has since been revised and incorporated into section 271.807 of our final regulations, pursuant to our Order No. 44 issued August 22, 1979, in Docket No. RM79–73.

West Virginia reversed its initial determinations on four [1] of the subject wells because production from such wells exceeded an average of 60 Mcf per day during the applicable 12-month period. With respect to the remaining well (Well A–603, JD79–10995), on September 17, 1979, West Virginia forwarded to the Commission additional production data supplied by the applicant which indicates that such well produced less than 60 Mcf per day during the 12-month period and now qualifies as a stripper well.

The Commission orders: Pursuant to section 275.202(e) of our regulations, the Commission orders:

(A) that West Virginia's determination, that Allegheny Land & Mineral Co.'s A–603 Well qualifies as a stripper well under section 108 of the NGPA, is affirmed.

(B) that West Virginia's initial determinations, that Allegheny Land & Mineral Co.'s four wells (A–534, A–533, A–374, A–602) qualify as stripper wells under section 108 of the NGPA, are reversed.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

West Texas Utilities Co.; Filing

December 11, 1979.

The filing Company submits the following:

Take notice that West Texas Utilities Company ("WTU") on December 5, 1979, tendered for filing a Service Agreement providing for the sale of electricity to the City of Baird, a municipal corporation of the State of Texas. Under the Service Agreement submitted for filing, WTU will provide all the power and energy required by the City for the operation of its electric distribution system. Power and energy will be provided through three separate points of delivery provided for in the contract, with a maximum contract load of 1,000 kilowatts per month and a minimum contract load of 500 kilowatts per month at each such point of delivery. The contract has an effective date of December 1, 1979. The revenue estimated to be derived from service under the revenue estimated to be derived from service under the contract for the 12 months ending November 30, 1980 is $285,831.21.

[1] FERC control No. and well name: JD79–11000, A–534; JD79–11020, A–533; JD79–11037, A–374; and JD79–11042, A–602.

WTU also states that a copy of the complete filing was served upon the City of Baird, Texas, and the Public Utility Commission of Texas, Austin, Texas.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said application should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with paragraphs 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commissions Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before December 31, 1979. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this application are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

Western Area Power Administration; Application for Exemption

December 11, 1979.

Take notice that Western Area Power Administration (Western), on November 6, 1979, filed an application for exemption from certain requirements of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations (Order 48, 44 FR 58687). Exemption is sought from the requirement to file, on or before November 1, 1980, information on the costs of providing electric service as specified in Subparts B, C, D, E, and F of Part 290 of the Commission's regulations issued pursuant to Section 133 of PURPA.

In its application for exemption, Western states that it should not be required to file the specified data "because the gathering of the information by or for WAPA will not be likely to carry out the purposes of Section 133 of the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act (PURPA)."

Copies of the application for exemption are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection. The Commission's regulations require that said utility also apply to any State regulatory authority having jurisdiction over it to have the application published in any official State publication in which electric rate change applications are usually noticed, and that a summary of the application be published in newspapers of general circulation in the affected jurisdiction.

Any person desiring to present written views, arguments, or other comments on the application for exemption should file such information with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, on or before January 31, 1980.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

[FRL 1377–4]

Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Co., Austin Township, Mich.; Final Determination

In the matter of the applicability of Title I, Part C of the Clean Air Act (Act), as amended, 42 U.S.C. 7401 et seq., and the Federal regulations promulgated thereunder at 40 CFR 52.21 (42 FR 26388, June 19, 1978) for Prevention of Significant Deterioration of Air Quality (PSD), to Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company (MWPLC), Austin Township, Michigan.

On December 7, 1978, MWPLC submitted an application to the United States Environmental Protection Agency (U.S. EPA), Region V office, for an approval to construct an additional natural gas compressor as their Woolfolk station. The application was submitted pursuant to the regulations for PSD.

On January 3, 1979, MWPLC was notified that its application was complete and preliminary approval was granted.

On March 28, 1979, U.S. EPA published notice of its decision to grant a preliminary approval to MWPLC. No comments or request for a public hearing were received.

After review and analysis of all materials submitted by MWPLC, the Company was notified on October 3, 1979, that the U.S. EPA had determined that the proposed new construction in Austin Township, Michigan would be utilizing the best available control technology and that emissions from the facility will not adversely impact air quality, as required by Section 165 of the Act.

This approval to construct does not relieve MWPLC of the responsibility to comply with the control strategy and all local, State and Federal regulations which are part of the applicable State Implementation Plan, as well as all other applicable Federal, State and local requirements.

This determination may now be considered final agency action which is locally applicable under Section 307(b)(1) of the Act and therefore, a petition for review may be filed in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit by any appropriate party. In accordance with Section 307(b)(1), petitions for review must be filed sixty days from the date of this notice.

For further information contact Eric Cohen, Chief, Compliance Section, Region V, U.S. EPA, 230 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois 60604, (312) 353–2090.

John McGuire,

Regional Administrator, Region V.

[EPA–5–A–80–2]

In the matter of Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company, Austin Township, Michigan, Proceeding Pursuant to the Clean Air Act, as amended; Approval to Construct.

Authority

The approval to construct is issued pursuant to the Clean Air Act, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 7401 et seq., (the Act), and the Federal regulations promulgated thereunder at 40 CFR 52.21 for the prevention of Significant Deterioration of Air Quality (PSD).

Findings

1. The Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company (MWPLC) proposes to construct an additional natural gas compressor at their Woolfolk station in Austin Township, Michigan.

2. MWPLC proposes to use a Cooper Energy Services 4,000 horsepower natural gas fueled reciprocating internal combustion engine.

3. The proposed natural gas compressor station is subject to the requirements of 40 CFR 52.21 and the applicable sections of the Act. The proposed source is not subject to the Interpretative Ruling (44 FR 3274, January 16, 1979) due to the attainment designation of the construction site and source impact area.

4. MWPLC submitted a completed PSD application on December 7, 1978, the preliminary approval was issued on January 3, 1979. On March 28, 1979, notice was published in the Tri-County Shopper's Guide seeking written comments from the public and giving an opportunity for a public hearing. There were no comments received nor requests for a public hearing.

5. After review and analysis of all materials submitted by MWPLC, U.S. EPA has determined that emissions from the proposed construction and operation of the natural gas fueled reciprocating internal combustion engine will not violate the air quality increments applicable in the area nor will it violate the air quality increments applicable in any other area.

6. There are presently no established control techniques to minimize NO_x emissions from natural gas fueled reciprocating internal combustion engines. U.S. EPA issued a draft summary of recommended New Source Performance Standards (NSPS). The proposed standard will be published in the Federal Register in the near future. NSPS for internal combustion reciprocating engines will not be effective for approximately four years.

7. MWPLC shall use no more than one 4,000 HP Cooper Energy Services reciprocating internal combustion engine, as proposed.

8. The maximum allowable emission rate for the above-named engine shall be as follows:

NO_x—11.7 gm/HP hour
HC—0.31 gm/HP hour
CO—0.50 gm/HP hour

Conditions 7 and 8 represent emission limitations as required by Section 165 of the Act.

Approval

9. Approval to construct a natural gas compressor station is hereby granted to MWPLC subject to the conditions expressed herein and consistent with the materials and data included in the application filed by the Company. Any departure from the conditions of this approval or the terms expressed in MWPLC's application must receive the prior written authorization of U.S. EPA.

10. This approval to construct does not relieve MWPLC of the responsibility to comply with the control strategy and all local, State and Federal regulations which are part of the applicable State Implementation Plan, as well as all other applicable local, State and Federal requirements.

11. This approval is effective immediately. This approval to construct shall become invalid if construction or expansion is not commenced within 18 months after receipt of this approval or if construction is discontinued for a period 18 months or more. The Administrator may extend such time period upon a satisfactory showing that an extension is justified. Written notification shall be made to U.S. EPA five days after construction is commenced.

12. A copy of this approval has been forwarded for public inspection to the Big Rapids Community Library, 426 S. Michigan, Big Rapids, Michigan 49307.

13. In addition, the United States Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit has issued a ruling in the case of Alabama Power Co. vs. Douglas M. Costle (78–1006 and consolidated cases) which has significant impact on the EPA prevention of significant deterioration (PSD) program and approvals issued thereunder. Although the court has stayed its decision pending resolution of petitions for reconsideration, it is possible that the final decision will require modification of the PSD regulations and could affect approvals issued under the existing program. Examples of potential impact areas include the scope of best available control technology (BACT), source applicability, the amount of increment available (baseline definition), and the extent of preconstruction monitoring that a source may be required to perform. The applicant is hereby advised that this approval may be subject to reevaluation as a result of the final court decision and its ultimate effect.

Dated: October 3, 1979.

John McGuire,

Regional Administrator.

FEDERAL MARITIME COMMISSION

Agreements Filed

The Federal Maritime Commission hereby gives notice that the following agreements have been filed with the Commission for approval pursuant to section 15 of the Shipping Act, 1916, as amended (39 Stat. 733, 75 Stat. 763, 46 U.S.C. 814).

Interested parties may inspect and obtain a copy of each of the agreements and the justifications offered therefor at the Washington Office of the Federal Maritime Commission, 1100 L Street, N.W., Room 10218; or may inspect the agreements at the Field Offices located at New York, N.Y.; New Orleans, Louisiana; San Francisco, California; Chicago, Illinois; and San Juan, Puerto Rico. Interested parties may submit comments on each agreement, including requests for hearing, to the Secretary, Federal Maritime Commission, Washington, D.C. 20573, by January 7, 1980. Comments should include facts and arguments concerning the approval, modification, or disapproval of the proposed agreement. Comments shall discuss with particularity allegations that the agreement is unjustly discriminatory or unfair as between carriers, shippers, exporters, importers, or ports, or between exporters from the United States and their foreign competitors, or operates to the detriment of the commerce of the United States, or is contrary to the public interest, or is in violation of the Act.

A copy of any comments should also be forwarded to the party filing the agreements and the statement should indicate that this has been done.

Filing Party: W. H. Wittren, Manager, Waterfront Real Estate, Port of Seattle, P.O. Box 1209, Seattle, Washington 98111.
Summary: Agreement No. T-3788-1, between the Port of Seattle, (Port), and Japan Line; Kawasaki Kisen Kaisha, Ltd., Mitsui-O.S.K. Lines, Ltd., Nippon Yusan Kaisha, Ltd., Showa Line, Ltd., and Yamashita-Shinnihon Steamship Company, Ltd., (Lines), modifies the parties' basic agreement which provides for the Port's 20 month lease (with renewal options) to the Lines of certain premises at Terminal 37, Seattle, Washington to be used for the Lines' container freight station warehouse and operations incidental thereto. The modification provides for the Lines to lease the remaining 18,800 sq. ft. of transit shed area to a total of 98,800 sq. ft., with corresponding increase in the monthly rent.
Filing Party: H. H. Wittren Manager, Waterfront Real Estate, Port of Seattle, P.O. Box 1209, Seattle, Washington 98111.
Summary: Agreement No. T-3814-1, between the the Port of Seattle (Port) and Seacon Terminals Inc. (Seacon) modifies the parties' basic agreement which provides for the one year lease by the port to Seacon of 15 acres container terminal facilities at Pier 42 together with preferential use of port-owned cranes. The modification provides certain deletions and additions in the equipment provided for lessee's use at the leased premises and to revise the rental as a result of the change in equipment.
Agreement: No: T-3880.
Filing Party: Randall V. Adams, Administrative Assistant, Port of Palm Beach, P.O. Box 9935, Riviera Beach, Florida 33404.
Summary: Agreement No. T-3880, between the Port of Palm Beach, Florida (Port) and Birdsall, Inc. (Birdsall) is a consolidation of seven existing lease agreements between the Port and Birdsall, (i.e., Nos. T-2933, T-2938, T-3317, T-3374, T-3240, T-3284 and T-3608). The new lease combines these existing lease agreements and adds two new undeveloped land areas.
Agreement No: 9238-10.
Filing Party: Jeffrey F. Lawrence, Billig, Sher & Jones, P.C., Suite 300, 2033 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.
Summary: Agreement No. 9238-10 amends the Greece/United States Atlantic Rate Agreement for the purpose of extending the geographic scope of the agreement to include U.S. Atlantic and Gulf ports, thereby encompassing U.S. South Atlantic and Gulf ports from Brownsville, Texas to Portland, Maine.
Agreement No: 10272-1.
Filing Party: Stanley O. Sher, Esquire, Billig, Sher & Jones, P.C., 2033 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.
Summary: Agreement No. 10272-1 is a proposal by Barber-Blue Sea Line and East Asiatic Company Limited to extend indefinitely their sailing agreement that is scheduled to expire on March 10, 1980. The basic agreement permits the parties to coordinate their sailings in certain eastbound Far East/U.S. Pacific Coast and Canada trades, and to file a common tariff in any trade within the scope of the agreement where there is not a conference tariff to which the parties are members.
Agreement No.: 10380.
Filing Party: Russell T. Weil, Esquire, Kirlin, Campbell & Keating, 1150 Connecticut Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.
Summary: Agreement No. 10380 establishes a Joint Service Agreement between Navigazine San Paolo, doing business as Medafrica Line, and Nigeria America Shipping Line Limited in the trade between the Atlantic and Gulf ports of the United States, Canadian Atlantic and St. Lawrence ports not west of Montreal and ports in West Africa and will operate under the name of Medafrica-Nigeria America Shipping Line Limited Joint Service.

By Order of the Federal Maritime Commission.
Francis C. Hurney,
Secretary.

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

Bank of New Hampshire Corp.; Formation of Bank Holding Company

Bank of New Hampshire Corporation, Manchester, New Hampshire, has applied for the Board's approval under § 3(a)(1) of the Bank Holding Company Act (12 U.S.C. 1842(a)(1)) to become a bank holding company by acquiring 100 per cent (less directors' qualifying shares) of the voting shares of the successor by merger to Bank of New Hampshire, National Association, Manchester, New Hampshire. The factors that are considered in acting on the application are set forth in § 3(c) of the Act (12 U.S.C. 1842(c)).

The application may be inspected at the offices of the Board of Governors or at the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston. Any person wishing to comment on the application should submit views in writing to the Reserve Bank, to be received not later than January 10, 1980. Any comment on an application that requests a hearing must include a statement of why a written presentation would not suffice in lieu of a hearing, identifying specifically any questions of fact that are in dispute and summarizing the evidence that would be presented at a hearing.

Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, December 11, 1979.

Bank Holding Companies; Proposed "De Novo" Nonbank Activities

The bank holding companies listed in this notice have applied, pursuant to section 4(c)(8) of the Bank Holding Company Act (12 U.S.C. § 1843(c)(8)) and § 225.4(b)(1) of the Board's Regulation Y (12 CFR § 225.4(b)(1)), for permission to engage de novo (or continue to engage in an activity earlier commenced de novo), directly or indirectly, solely in the activities indicated, which have been determined by the Board of Governors to be closely related to banking.

With respect to each application, interested persons may express their views on the question whether consummation of the proposal can "reasonably be expected to produce benefits to the public, such as greater convenience, increased competition, or gains in efficiency, that outweigh possible adverse effects, such as undue concentration of resources, decreased or unfair competition, conflicts of interest, or unsound banking practices." Any comment on an application that requests a hearing must include a statement of the reasons a written presentation would not suffice in lieu of a hearing, identifying specifically any questions of fact that are in dispute, summarizing the evidence that would be presented at a hearing, and indicating how the party commenting would be aggrieved by approval of that proposal.

Each application may be inspected at the offices of the Board of Governors or at the Federal Reserve Bank indicated for that application. Comments and requests for hearings should identify clearly the specific application to which they relate, and should be submitted in writing and received by the appropriate Federal Reserve Bank not later than the date indicated for each notice.

Violations of the 1980 Requirements of the Bank Holding Company Act; Policy Statement AGENCY: Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

ACTION: Statement of Policy.

SUMMARY: This Policy Statement outlines the penalties for violations of the 1980 divestiture requirements by companies that became bank holding companies as a result of the 1970 Amendments to the Bank Holding Company Act.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Bronwen Mason, Senior Attorney (202/452-3564), Legal Division, Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Board has issued the following statement of policy:

Policy Statement Regarding Violations of the 1980 Requirements of the Bank Holding Company Act

Pursuant to the provisions of section 4(a)(2) of the Bank Holding Company Act ("BHCA"), bank holding companies that became subject to the BHCA in 1970, as a result of the 1970 amendments to the BHCA, generally may not retain nonbanking subsidiaries or activities beyond December 31, 1980. In statements dated October 13, 1977, and December 20, 1978, the Board advised bank holding companies to file on or before June 30, 1978, and September 30, 1979, respectively, plans of divestiture with respect to each subsidiary or activity that is subject to the divestiture requirements of section 4(a)(2) of the BHCA. At the same time, the Board urged bank holding companies wishing to retain any of such nonbanking subsidiaries or activities under the provisions of section 4(c)(8) of the BHCA to file applications for retention by these dates in order to allow sufficient time for Board action on applications well before December 31, 1980. While a substantial number of affected bank holding companies have responded to the Board's statements, the Board is concerned about those companies that have failed to respond or have only partially responded.

In its statements the Board stressed that it has no authority to extend the December 31, 1980, divestiture deadline in general, or in particular hardship situations. Thus, absent an approved application under section 4(c)(8) or some other exemption under section 4 of the BHCA, retention by a bank holding company of any nonbanking subsidiaries or activities beyond December 31, 1980, will be a violation of the BHCA. Moreover, the Board notes that Congress allowed a very liberal period of time for bank holding companies to comply with the provisions of section 4 of the Act. Accordingly, the Board believes that there has been ample time for affected companies to inform themselves of their responsibilities under section 4(a)(2) of the BHCA and take steps to meet those responsibilities in a timely and orderly manner.

The Board will regard a violation of section 4 of the BHCA resulting from failure to divest or obtain approval for retention prior to December 31, 1980, as an extremely serious matter. With respect to such violations, the Board intends to enforce the provisions of the BHCA through appropriate actions, including initiation of cease-and-desist proceedings under the Financial Institutions Supervisory Act, and assessment of civil money penalties or referral for criminal prosecution pursuant to section 8 of the BHCA, against the bank holding company as well as its officers and directors. Generally, the severity of a violation will not be mitigated because a bank holding company has an application for retention under section 4(c)(8) pending at the Board December 31, 1980, or has appealed the Board's action on an application.

Finally, the Board recognizes that efforts by most bank holding companies to comply with the provisions of section 4(a)(2) will necessitate some Board action. In its previous statements the Board has emphasized the need for prompt filing of all retention applications and requests concerning 1980 divestitures, in order to ensure timely Board action. While the Board intends to act as expeditiously as possible on such applications and requests, companies are also reminded to allow sufficient time for divestiture in the event of denial of retention applications. Moreover, the Board wishes to call attention to the fact that under the provisions of the Bank Holding Company Tax Act of 1976, a bank holding company would forfeit its tax benefits for all divestitures in the event of its failure to make one timely divestiture. (5 U.S.C. 1101(e)).

Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, effective December 12, 1979.

Theodore E. Allison,

Secretary of the Board.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

Food and Drug Administration

Merck Sharp & Dohme; Sulfastrep and Propak Sulfastrep Boluses; Withdrawal of Approval of NADA

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The Director of the Bureau of Veterinary Medicine withdraws approval of a new animal drug application (NADA) providing for use of Sulfastrep and Propak Sulfastrep Boluses for the prevention of bacterial scours in newborn calves and bacterial diarrhea in pigs. The sponsore, Merck Sharp & Dohme Research Laboratories, requested the withdrawal of approval.

EFFECTIVE DATE: December 28, 1979.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Charles E. Haines, Bureau of Veterinary Medicine (HFV-138), Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857, 301-443-3410.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Merck Sharp & Dohme Research Laboratories, P.O. Box 2000, Rahway, NJ 07065, is the sponsor of NADA 65-070 which provides for use of Sulfastrep and Propak Sulfastrep Boluses for the prevention of bacteria scours in newborn calves and bacterial diarrhea in pigs. The product, originally approved January 4, 1957, contains streptomycin sulfate, sulfamethazine, phthalylsulfathiazole, and kaolin.

The product was the subject of a National Academy of Sciences/National Research Council (NAS/NRC) review [DESI 0120 NV] published in the Federal Register of June 16, 1970 (35 FR 9870). The Academy concluded, and the agency concurred, that these products are probably effective for prevention and treatment of bacterial intestinal infections in calves and pigs. The Academy stated that (1) each disease claim should be properly qualified as to causative pathogen or the claim dropped, (2) claims "for prevention of" or "to prevent" should be replaced with "as an aid in control of" or "to aid in the control of," (3) substantial evidence be presented to establish that each ingredient designated as active makes a contribution to the total claimed effect for the combination, and (4) the boluses disintegrate in the gastrointestinal tract to produce the desired therapeutic effect.

In addition, the Federal Register notice stated that the evaluation is concerned only with the drug's effectiveness and safety to the treated animal and does not take into account safety of food derived from treated animals. The sponsor was allowed 6 months to submit adequate documentation in support of the labeling, and to update the application with current information regarding drug manufacture, components and composition, and manufacturing methods, facilities, and controls.

These products were among several which were the subject of a notice of opportunity for hearing published in the Federal Register of September 16, 1976 (41 FR 39823). The notice stated that no interested persons had submitted substantial evidence based on adequate and well-controlled investigations to establish that the drug products will have the effect they are purported to have under the conditions of use prescribed in the labeling. In addition, the notice stated that § 510.450 (21 CFR 510.450) requires that adequate data be submitted to establish appropriate withdrawal periods for all sulfa-containing drugs subject to the provisions of this section.

Merck responded to the notice of opportunity for hearing by stating that it was doing the required efficacy studies, that it had submitted subacute toxicity studies as required by § 510.450 for phthalylsulfathiazole, and that it had authorization from its sulfamethazine supplier to use their safety information. The Director of the Bureau of Veterinary Medicine determined that Merck's response was an adequate basis for delaying withdrawal of approval of NADA 65-070. By letter of September 19, 1977, the Director required the firm to revise labeling of the products within 6 months to conform to the NAS/NRC notice, to submit updated manufacturing and control information, and to provide adequate efficacy information by April 8, 1978.

Subsequently, Merck advised FDA that it had decided to discontinue marketing these products and requested that approval of NADA 65-070 for Sulfastrep and Propak Sulfastrep Boluses be withdrawn because the product is no longer being manufactured or marketed.

Therefore, under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 512(e), 82 Stat. 345-347 (21 U.S.C. 360b(e))), under authority delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs (21 CFR 5.1) and redelegated to the Director of the Bureau of Veterinary Medicine (21 CFR 5.84), and in accordance with § 514.115 Withdrawal of approval of applications (21 CFR 514.115), notice is given that approval of NADA 65-070 and all supplements for Sulfastrep and Propak Sulfastrep Boluses is hereby withdrawn, effective December 28, 1979.

Dated: December 10, 1979.

Lester M. Crawford,

Director, Bureau of Veterinary Medicine.

Proposed Model Food Salvage Ordinance; Availability

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) announces the availability of a proposed Model Food Salvage Ordinance and invites public comment on it. The purpose of this ordinance is to provide the food salvage industry with appropriate standards and guidelines for food salvaging, and State and local governments with a comprehensive model law and recommended enforcement procedures for the regulation of the food salvage industries.

DATES: Comments by March 17, 1980

ADDRESS: Written comments to the Hearing Clerk (HFA-305), Food and Drug Administration, Rm. 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Robert A. Tucker, Division of Federal-State Relations (HFO-320), Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857, 301-443-3360.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Salvage outlets offer to the public and to institutions food that may not have been properly reconditioned and/or is packaged in unlabeled, leaking, swollen, rusted, or badly dented containers. A May 20, 1975 General Accounting Office (GAO) Report to Congress estimated that there were more than 1,000 salvage outlets nationwide. Annual sales volumes for these outlets ranged from $5,000 to $1.5 million per outlet. About 75 percent of the salvage outlets are located in cities, and about 50 percent of those are in low-income areas.

GAO auditors visited 30 salvage outlets and 25 rest homes, children's homes, schools, and other institutions. Of the 30 food salvage outlets GAO visited, 23 were selling processed food products with absent, misleading, and/or incomplete labels. As a result, the institutions who feed persons on special diets are not getting the information needed to choose those products best suited to their specific needs or preferences. Furthermore, 26 of the outlets GAO visited had food for sale that was insect infested or in leaking, rusted, stained, swollen, or badly damaged containers.

According to the findings of the GAO report, about 90 percent of all processed food is initially transported interstate. Therefore, most foods that are salvaged have been involved in interstate commerce. In addition, many operators of salvage outlets buy salvaged food from interstate carriers, such as railroads, and from grocery warehouses, which generally fall under FDA regulatory control.

The Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 301 et seq.) and the Fair Packing and Labeling Act (15 U.S.C. 1451 et seq.) give FDA authority over food held for sale after shipment in interstate commerce. However, FDA does not have the resources to regulate retail food establishments effectively. Furthermore, it has recognized the primary jurisdiction of State and local governments over retail establishments. The great majority of food salvage operations are retail establishments and are therefore being regulated by State and local authorities.

For many years, the Public Health Service has provided assistance to State and local health agencies in the establishment and maintenance of food protection programs within their jurisdictions. This assistance has included the distribution of model ordinances for food service establishments, the vending of food and beverages, and the retail food store industry. However, a model ordinance for the food salvage industry has not previously been issued.

Eighty percent of the States and 81 percent of the cities responding to a GAO questionnaire favored the promulgation and adoption of regulatory controls over salvage outlets. Also, 48 percent of the State and local health agencies responding said they would like food salvaging guidelines from FDA.

In a February 14, 1979 report to Congress, GAO reiterated its recommendations that the food salvage industry is in need of uniform regulatory control.

Based on the foregoing, the agency has decided that there is a need to provide State and local governments with uniform and comprehensive standards and guidelines to regulate food salvage outlets effectively. Therefore, FDA, in conjunction with the Association of Food and Drug Officials (AFDO), has developed guidelines for regulatory control of the food salvage industry. These guidelines, initially prepared by AFDO, will be in the form of a Model Food Salvage Ordinance designed for use primarily at the State and local level. FDA prefers this approach over a formal regulation because the agency does not have the resources to regulate the food salvage establishments effectively. In addition, because most of the salvage operations are retail, FDA believes that they can best be handled by the State and local food control agencies.

To provide an opportunity for comments, copies of the proposed model ordinance are being distributed to Federal, State, and local agencies.

Food salvage firms, in particular, and other persons interested in obtaining copies of the proposed ordinance for review and comment should write to the Division of Federal-State Relations (HFO-320), Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857.

Written comments on the proposed ordinance should be sent on or before March 17, 1980 to the Hearing Clerk (HFA-305), Food and Drug Administration, Rm. 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857. Comments should be submitted in four copies, except that individuals may submit one copy. All comments should be identified with the Hearing Clerk docket number found in brackets in the heading of this document.

Dated: November 26, 1979.

Family Median Income by State; Eligibility for Social Services

Under the provision of §§ 2002(a)(5)(B), 2002(a)(6) (A) and (B), and 2002(a)(14)(A) of title XX of the Social Security Act, promulgation is made of the median income of a family of four for each State, the District of Columbia, and the States as a whole, applicable to the period October 1, 1980 through September 30, 1981. For those States whose 1981 fiscal year begins before or after October 1, 1980, this promulgation is also applicable. The purpose of the promulgation is for determining the extent of Federal financial participation (FFP) in State expenditures under title XX. The above listed sections impose certain limitations with respect to the availability of FFP based upon the relationship of the income of the family of a service recipient to the median income of a family of four in the State.

Estimates of the median income of families of four persons for each State and the District of Columbia were developed by the Bureau of the Census. In developing the median income scales, the Bureau of the Census used three sources of data:

(1) The March 1979 Current Population Survey, (2) The 1970 Census of Population, and (3) The per capita personal income estimates from the Bureau of Economic Analysis. The methodology for adjusting median income for families of different sizes is specified in 45 CFR 228.60.

The median income for a family of four, by State for fiscal year 1981 with calculation at the 80 percent, 90 percent, and 115 percent levels, is set forth below for use by States in establishing incoming ceilings and fee schedules under title XX of the Social Security Act:

Median Income for Families of Four

Marine Mammal Annual Report; Availability

AGENCY: U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Interior.

ACTION: Notice of availability of marine mammal annual report.

SUMMARY: The Director, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, on October 18 signed the annual report on the Service's administration of the marine mammals under its jurisdiction, as required by section 103(f) of the Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972. The report covers the period April 1, 1978, to March 31, 1979, and was submitted to the Congress on December 6. By this notice, the Director informs the public that the report is available and that any interested individual may secure a single copy by requesting same in writing from the Service.

ADDRESS: Write for a copy to Director (OWA), U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Rupert R. Bonner, Marine Mammal Coordinator, Office of Wildlife Assistance, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240, 202-632-2202.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is responsible for eight species of marine mammals under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior, as assigned by the Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972 (MMPA). These species are polar bears, sea and marine otters, walruses, manatees (three species), and dugongs. The report reviews the Service's marine mammal-related activities during the report period and summarizes the following status information for each species: Distribution and migration, abundance and trends, general biology, ecological problems, allocation problems, regulations, and current research. Administrative actions discussed include the amendment of the MMPA to reauthorize funding of the Act for fiscal years 1979, 1980, and 1981, financial grants to States to help them develop and implement programs for protecting and managing marine mammals in their waters, updated service marine mammal regulations, the waiver of the moratorium for nine species of marine mammals, the walrus waiver, marine mammal care and maintenance standards, endangered marine mammal species (specifically the West Indian and West African manatees and the sea otters in California), legal actions against the Department of the Interior, law enforcement activities, scientific research and public display permits, certificates of registration, research, Outer Continental Shelf environmental studies, ecological characterizations of U.S. coastal areas, and international activities.

This notice was prepared by Jackson E. Lewis, Marine Biologist, Office of Wildlife Assistance, 202-632-2202.

Dated: December 11, 1979.

National Park Service

Badlands National Park; Availability of Draft Development Concept Plan and Addendum to the Environmental Review for Cedar Pass

The Draft Development Concept Plan and an Addendum to the Environmental Review for Cedar Pass, Badlands National Park has been prepared and is ready to be distributed for review and comment.

The document identifies the overall concept for development at Cedar Pass and provides a conceptual framework for the design of the visitor contact and concession complex. The document also identifies the program for development, preliminary cost estimate, and an addendum to the environmental review relative to adjustments in the size and consolidation of visitor facilities and functions.

The review indicates that the amendments and additions are not major with a potential for causing significant environmental impact or controversy, therefore, an environmental impact statement will not be required.

Copies of the document may be secured by contacting either of the following: Superintendent, Badlands National Park, P.O. Box 6, Interior, South Dakota 57750 or Regional Director, Rocky Mountain Region, National Park Service, 655 Parfet Street, P.O. Box 25287, Denver, Colorado 80225.

Any comments should be submitted to the Superintendent at the above address on or before January 16, 1979.

National Capital Memorial Advisory Committee; Meeting

Notice is hereby given in accordance with the Federal Advisory Committee Act that a meeting of the National Capital Memorial Advisory Committee will be held at 1:30 p.m. on Friday, January 4, 1980, in Room 234 at the National Capital Region Headquarters, 1100 Ohio Drive, SW., Washington, D.C. 20242.

The Committee was established for the purpose of preparing and recommending to the Secretary broad criteria, guidelines, and policies for memorializing persons and events on Federal lands in the National Capital Region (as defined in the National Capital Planning Act of 1952, as amended) through the media of monuments, memorials, and statues. It is to examine each memorial proposal for adequacy and appropriateness, make recommendations to the Secretary with respect to site location on Federal land in the National Capital Region and to serve as an information focal point for those seeking to erect memorials on Federal land in the National Capital Region.

The members of the Committee are as follows:

Mr. William J. Whalen, Chairman, Director, National Park Service, Washington, D.C.
Mr. George M. White, Architect of the Capitol, Washington, D.C.
General Mark W. Clark, Chairman, American Battle Monuments Commission, Washington, D.C.
Mr. J. Carter Brown, Chairman, Fine Arts Commission, Washington, D.C.
Mr. David Childs, Chairman, National Capital Planning Commission, Washington, D.C.
Honorable Marion S. Barry, Mayor of the District of Columbia, Washington, D.C.
Mr. A. R. Marschall, Commissioner, Public Buildings Service, Washington, D.C.

The purpose of this meeting is to discuss the appropriateness of several proposals and review site designs for memorials to be erected in the Nation's Capital. Among the proposals to be considered are:

1. Design for memorial to 56 signers of the Declaration of Independence to be located in Constitution Gardens.

2. S.J. Res. 119 and H.J. Res. 431 to authorize the Vietnam Memorial Fund, Incorporated to erect a memorial in Constitution Gardens.

3. H.R. 4788 (Sec. 423a) to authorize the Corps of Engineers Historical Foundation to design and erect a memorial in the District of Columbia.

In addition to the above discussion, this meeting will serve to provide an opportunity for all interested parties to comment on the Environmental Assessment for the Memorial to the 56 Signers of the Declaration of Independence to be located in Constitution Gardens. Copies of the assessment are available for review at the address listed below.

The meeting will be open to the public. Any person may file with the Committee a written statement concerning the matters to be discussed. Persons who wish to file a written statement or who want further information concerning the meeting may contact Mr. John Parsons, Associate Regional Director, Land Use Coordination, National Capital Region, at (202) 426-6715. Minutes of the meeting will be available for public inspection and copying 2 weeks after the meeting at the Office of National Capital Region, Room 208, 1100 Ohio Drive, SW., Washington, D.C.

Dated: December 10, 1979.

Joint Committee for Agricultural Development of the Board for International Food and Agricultural Development; Meeting

Pursuant to Executive Order 11769 and the provisions of Section 10(a), (2), P.L. 92-463, Federal Advisory Committee Act, notice is hereby given of the meeting of the Joint Committee on Agricultural Development (JCAD) of the Board for International Food and Agricultural Development (BIFAD) on January 14 and 15, 1980.

The purpose of the meeting is to: review and coordinate the reports and activities of the Regional Work Groups (RWGs); and reorganize the functioning of JCAD with the Agency for International Development (AID) and with the International Development Cooperation Administration (IDCA).

The meeting on January 14, 1980 will convene from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. in the form of Regional Work Groups: Africa RWG in Room 2941, New State Department Building, Washington, D.C. 20523 (Mr. William Johnson, A.I.D. Federal Designee for this meeting, can be contacted at (202) 632-3650); Latin America RWG in Room 2242 New State Department Bldg. (Mr. Blair Allen, A.I.D. Federal Designee for this meeting can be contacted at (202) 632-8126); Near East RWG in Room 6484 New State Department Bldg. (Mr. Keith Sharper, A.I.D. Federal Designee for this meeting, can be contacted at (202) 632-9256); and the Asia RWG in Room 216 Rosslyn Plaza Bldg., 1601 North Kent Street, Rosslyn, Virginia (Mr. David Lundberg, A.I.D. Federal Designee for this meeting can be contacted at (703) 235-8870). The Full JCAD Committee will convene on January 14 from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. in Room 5941 New State Department Bldg. The Full JCAD Committee will meet also on January 15 from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. in Room 5941 New State Department Bldg. The meeting of the JCAD Executive Committee and AID will meet on January 15 from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. in Room 5941 New State Department Building. The meetings are open to the public. Any interested person may attend, may file written statements with the Committee before or after the meetings, or may present oral statements in accordance with procedures established by the Committee, and to the extent the time available for the meetings permit.

Dr. Frank H. Madden, Office of Title XII Coordination and University Relations, Development Support Bureau, is designated A.I.D. Advisory Committee Representative at the January 14 and 15 meetings. It is suggested that those desiring further information write to him in care of the Agency for International Development, State Department, Washington, D.C. 20523, or telephone him at (703) 235-9085.

Dated: December 10, 1979.

Frank H. Madden,

AID Advisory Committee Representative, Joint Committee on Agricultural Development, Board for International Food and Agricultural Development.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Occupational Safety and Health Administration

Occupational Exposure to Vinyl Chloride and Polyvinyl Chloride

AGENCY: Occupational Safety and health Administration, Department of Labor.

ACTION: Request for information on vinyl chloride and polyvinyl chloride.

SUMMARY: This notice requests information on vinyl chloride (CAS No. 75–01–4) and on polyvinyl chloride (CAS No. 9002–86–2). Vinyl chloride (VC), a synthetic chemical, was once synthesized by the addition of hydrogen chloride to acetylene. Currently, the most common route of production is by the halogenation of ethylene. In this latter process, ethylene is reacted with hydrogen chloride and oxygen to give ethylene dichloride, which is subsequently cracked thermally to produce vinyl chloride and hydrogen chloride. Vinyl chloride is used primarily to produce polyvinyl chloride (PVC), a plastic resin, through conversion of the VC monomer into a polymer or copolymer form. Vinyl chloride is also used in the production of methyl chloroform and in the production of resins as a comonomer with vinylidene chloride. PVC is used in the manufacture of a variety of industrial and consumer products, such as containers, wrapping film, electrical insulation, and pipes.

In 1975, OSHA regulated vinyl chloride as a carcinogen, based primarily on evidence of excess liver angiosarcoma incidence following VC exposure (29 CFR 1910.1017). OSHA did not regulate exposure to PVC dust in the same standard. Therefore, it continues to be regulated as an inert or nuisance air contaminant (29 CFR 1910.1000, Table Z–3).

Research since 1975 has provided considerably more information concerning the carcinogenic and other toxic effects of VC and PVC exposure. OSHA is currently in the process of evaluating the available evidence pertaining to the potential occupational health hazards of VC and of PVC and, by this notice, is requesting information related to several important issues.

DATE: The information requested in this notice must be submitted in quadruplicate on or before February 10, 1980.

ADDRESS: The information requested in this notice should be submitted to the Docket Officer, Docket No. H–034, Room S6212, U.S. Department of Labor, OSHA, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20210, (202–523–7894).

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Dr. Peter Infante, Office of Carcinogen Identification and Classification, Directorate of Health Standards Programs, Room N3718, U.S. Department of Labor, OSHA, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20210, (202–357–0325).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Vinyl chloride (C_2H_3Cl; CAS No. 75–01–4; chloroethene) is a colorless gas at room temperature and pressure. After synthesis from VC monomer, polyvinyl chloride ($(C_2H_3Cl)_n$; CAS No. 9002–86–2; chloroethene homopolymer) is in the form of white or colorless granules. Residual vinyl chloride monomer can become trapped in the PVC particles. However, recent processing methods can reduce considerably the amount of residual VC trapped in the polymer resins.

The vinyl chloride industry can be divided into three major components: VC synthesis, VC polymerization, and PVC fabrication. It has been estimated that in the U.S., 15 plants manufacture vinyl choride, 43 plants polymerize polyvinyl chloride, and at least 7,500 plants are engaged in the fabrication of PVC. During 1978, 3.47 million tons of VC and 2.94 million tons of PVC were produced.

The present permissible limit for occupational exposure to vinyl chloride is 1.0 ppm averaged over any 8-hour period, and 5.0 ppm averaged over any period not exceeding 15 minutes (29 CFR 1910.1017). For polyvinyl chloride dust, the standard is 15 mg/m³, averaged over any 8-hour period (29 CFR 1919.1000).

Laboratory Studies

Experimental bioassays have demonstrated the induction of cancer by VC at levels of exposure lower than those previously reported. In VC inhalation studies of rats, Maltoni (1) has induced liver angiosarcomas at 25 ppm and mammary carcinomas at one ppm. In addition, several different test systems have provided evidence for the mutagenic potential of VC, i.e., E. coli, S. typhimurium, S. pombe, insects, plants, and cultured mammalian cells (2). VC also has been demonstrated to have a transplacental effect in rats. Inhalation exposure of pregnant rats to VC concentrations of 6,000 and 10,000 ppm have resulted in VC-dependent tumors in their offspring (1).

There is also evidence from animal studies that PVC may induce non-malignant respiratory disease. It has been reported that after seven months of exposure, rats and guinea pigs caged in work areas where sacks were being filled with PVC powder developed pulmonary pathological changes and granulomatous lesions containing foreign particles thought to be PVC dust (3).

Epidemiologic Studies

Several investigations of employee populations have indicated that VC/PVC exposure is associated with an increased carcinogenic risk to several organ sites in addition to the liver. A NIOSH retrospective cohort study of workers from four VC polmerization plant showed an excess number of deaths due to cancer of the liver, lung, lympho-hematopoietic system, and central nervous system (4).

Of further concern is the finding that the carcinogenic risk may extend to industries fabricating polyvinyl chloride. A proportionate mortality study of plastic workers in Great Britain, which included PVC fabricators, demonstrated a statistically significant excess of stomach cancer (5). Also, an excess of mortality from digestive system cancer among PVC fabricators of both sexes was found by Chiazze et. al. in the U.S. (6). Among white females in the study, observed deaths from breast and urinary tract cancers were also greater than expected. Waxweiler et. al. performed a detailed study of the excess lung cancer risk previously observed at a synthetic plastics and rubber plant (7). Analysis of lung cancer cases by cell type demonstrated a greater frequency of adenocarcinomas (Type 3) and large cell undifferented (Type 4) cancer. Neither cell type is believed to be strongly assoicated with cigarette smoking. Of 12 chemicals analyzed, only PVC dust exposure proved to be statistically significant. The authors suggested that the excess of Type 3 and 4 lung cancer cases in this plant was related to PVC dust exposure.

A recent epidemiologic study suggests that PVC may be related to pneumoconiosis (8). Employees of a polyvinyl chloride production factory in Italy were submitted to chest X-ray examination. Twenty subjects were diagnosed as having pneumoconiosis. All of these cases had worked five or more years in departments with demonstrated PVC dust pollution. No pneumoconiosis was observed in subjects who worked in areas free of PVC dust. These findings are consistent with earlier case reports of pneumoconiosis among workers exposed to PVC dust (9,10). The Institute of Oncology and Tumor Center in Bologna, Italy has demonstrated a higher frequency of cytolgoically abnormal sputum cells among the workers employed in the VC/PVC industry in contrast either to workers in the general chemical industry or to individuals who are heavy smokers (11).

Epidemiologic studies also exist which demonstrate the mutagenicity of VC in humans. Chromosomal aberrations in lymphocytes of male workers, in excess of the number observed in non-exposed workers, have been reported in several studies (2). Morever, a study of miscarriages among the wives of men occupationally exposed to VC detected a significant excess in fetal mortality following the husband's exposure to VC (12).

Information requested on vinyl chloride and polyvinyl chloride

The date recently received by OSHA suggest that a reassessment of the known health effects of vinyl chloride and polyvinyl chloride is appropriate at this time. Additional information in several areas is needed before a reassessment can be completed. The requested information includes, but is not limited to, the following:

(1) Experimental test results for carcinogenicity of vinyl chloride at atmospheric exposures of less than 50 ppm.

(2) Studies of transplacental carcinogenic and teratogenic effects in humans or animals at any level of exposure to vinyl chloride.

(3) Experimental studies of carcinogenicity and other toxic manifestions for any level of polyvinyl chloride exposure. These effects should include, but are not limited to, mutagenicity, teratogenicity, embryotoxicity, and other transplacental effects, as well as cytotoxic and cytogenetic effects on sperm cells. To the greatest extent possible, complete information concerning the industrial source of the polyvinyl chloride, the size and characteristics of the particles, and exposure levels or concentrations of PVC and residual VC should be included for each study.

(4) Epidemiologic studies of either vinyl chloride or of polyvinyl chloride (i.e. cohort, cross-sectional, or case-control).

(5) Case reports and case series of brain, lympho-hematopoietic, lung, and liver cancers by facility and relevant demographic variables, such as age, sex, race, date of diagnosis, date of death, date of first exposure, and length of exposure for either vinyl chloride or polyvinyl chloride.

(6) Mutagenicity study results of vinyl chloride or polyvinyl chloride as measured by the analysis of human body fluids, e.g., direct mutagenic testing with peripheral blood lymphocytes, non-disjunction in humans with YFF sperm test, and in vivo cytogenetics.

(7) Body burden measurements of vinyl chloride in humans.

(8) For operations involving polyvinyl chloride, the types of resin in use, the concentration of vinyl chloride trapped in the resin, and the concentration of VC and PVC dust in the atmosphere where individuals are working. This information should include estimates of the particles sizes and concentrations of particles that fall within the respirable range.

(9) In PVC bagging and milling operations, atmospheric levels of PVC and VC, monitoring devices used to detect VC, and the type of respirator protection program for individuals working in these operations. This should include the sensitivity and validity of analytic techniques in use.

(10) Types of occupations, job classifications, and industries where exposure to either VC or PVC at any level may occur, and the numbers of employees involved in each vinyl chloride and polyvinyl chloride exposure situation, separated by sex and race.

(11) Appropriate engineering controls, work practices, and personal protective equipment available to reduce levels of exposure to VC or PVC below the current standards, or to the lowest levels feasible.

SUBMITTALS OF INFORMATION REQUESTED

Interested persons are invited to submit written data, views, and comments with respect to the issues described abve. All communications should be submitted in quadruplicate, by February 10, 1980, to the Docket Officer, Docket H–034, Room S6212, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20210 (202–523–7894).

Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs

(Prohibited Transaction Exemption 79–79; Exemption Application No. D–837)

Exemption from the Prohibitions for Certain Transactions Involving College Retirement Equities Fund

AGENCY: Department of Labor.

ACTION: Grant of individual exemption.

SUMMARY: This exemption permits the payment of compensation to certain trustees of the College Retirement Equities Fund (CREF).

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 1, 1975.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ivan Strasfeld of the Office of Fiduciary Standards, Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, Room C–4526, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20216, (202) 523–8971. (This is not a toll-free number.)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On September 21, 1979, notice was published in the Federal Register (44 FR 54791) of the pendency before the Department of Labor (the Department) of a proposal to grant an exemption from the restrictions of section 406(a) and 406(b) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (the Act) and from the taxes imposed by section 4975(a) and (b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (the Code) by reason of section 4975(c)(1) of the Code, for transactions described in an application filed by CREF. The notice set forth a summary of facts and representations contained in the application for exemption and referred interested persons to the application for a complete statement of the facts and representations. The application has been available for public inspection at the Department in Washington, D.C. The notice also invited interested persons to submit comments on the requested exemption to the Department. In addition the notice stated that any interested person might submit a written request that a public hearing be held relating to this exemption. No requests for a hearing were received by the Department.

Seven comments were received, six of which were in favor of the exemption being granted in the same form in which it was proposed. The remaining commentator objected to the proposed exemption in general terms stating that trustees of CREF should provide their expertise on a voluntary basis.

After consideration of the comments received, the Department has decided to grant the requested exemption as proposed.

This application was filed with both the Department and the Internal Revenue Service. However, the notice of pendency was issued and the exemption is being granted solely by the Department because, effective December 31, 1978, section 102 of Reorganization Plan No. 4 of 1978 (43 FR 47713, October 17, 1978) transferred the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue exemptions of the type proposed to the Secretary of Labor.

General Information

The attention of interested persons is directed to the following:

(1) The fact that a transaction is the subject of an exemption granted under section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code does not relieve a fiduciary or other party in interest or disqualified person with respect to a plan to which the exemption is applicable from certain other provisions of the Act and the Code. These provisions include any prohibited transactions provisions to which the exemption does not apply and the general fiduciary responsibility provisions of section 404 of the Act, which among other things require a fiduciary to discharge his or her duties respecting the plan solely in the interest of the participants and beneficiaries of the plan and in a prudent fashion in accordance with section 404(a)(1)(B) of the Act; nor does the fact the transaction is the subject of an exemption affect the requirement of section 401(a) of the Code that a plan must operate for the exclusive benefit of the employees of the employer maintaining the plan and their beneficiaries.

(2) This exemption is supplemental to, and not in derogation of, any other provisions of the Act and the Code, including statutory or administrative exemptions and transitional rules. Furthermore, the fact that a transaction is subject to an administrative or statutory exemption or transitional rule is not dispositive of whether the transaction is, in fact, a prohibited transaction.

Exemption

In accordance with section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code and the procedures set forth in ERISA Procedure 75–1 (40 FR 18471, April 28, 1975), and based upon the entire record, the Department makes the following determinations: (a) The exemption is administratively feasible; (b) It is in the interests of the plan and of its participants and beneficiaries; and (c) It is protective of the rights of the participants and beneficiaries of the plan.

Effective January 1, 1975, the restrictions of section 406(a) and 406(b) of the Act and the taxes imposed by section 4975(a) and (b) of the Code, by reason of section 4975(c)(1) of the Code, shall not apply to the payment of quarterly stipends and fees for attendance at meetings to trustees of CREF who also receive full-time compensation from participating institutions provided that the amount of such stipends and fees is reasonable in light of the particular facts and circumstances.

The availability of this exemption is subject to the express condition that the material facts and representations contained in the application are true and complete, and that the application accurately describes all material terms of the transaction to be consummated pursuant to this exemption.

Signed at Washington, D.C., this 12th day of December, 1979.

Administrator for Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, Labor-Management Services Administration, U.S. Department of Labor.

(Prohibited Transaction Exemption 79–78; Exemption Application No. D–200)

Exemption From the Prohibitions for a Certain Transaction Involving A. J. Tuck Company Profit Sharing Trust

AGENCY: Department of Labor.

ACTION: Grant of individual exemption.

SUMMARY: This exemption exempts the loan of $24,000 by the A. J. Tuck Company Profit Sharing Trust (the Trust) to the A. J. Tuck Company (the Employer). The loan was entered into before the effective date of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (the Act), but after July 1, 1974, the date specified in the transition rules contained in sections 414 and 2003 of the Act.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On October 19, 1979, notice was published in the Federal Register (44 FR 60440) of the pendency before the Department of Labor (the Department) of a proposal to grant an exemption from the restrictions of section 406(a), 406(b)(1) and 406(b)(2) of the Act and from the taxes imposed by section 4975 (a) and (b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (the Code) by reason of section 4975(c)(1) (A) through (E) of the Code, for a transaction described in an application filed by the Employer and the Administrative Committee of the Trust.

The notice set forth a summary of facts and representations contained in the application for exemption and referred interested persons to the application for a complete statement of the facts and representations. The application has been available for public inspection at the Department in Washington, D.C. The notice also invited interested persons to submit comments on the requested exemption to the Department. In addition the notice stated that any interested person might submit a written request that a public hearing be held relating to this exemption. The Employer has represented that it provided notification to all interested persons of the pendency of the proposed exemption. No public comments and no requests for a hearing were received by the Department.

This application was filed with both the Department and the Internal Revenue Service. However, the notice of pendency was issued and the exemption is being granted solely by the Department because, effective December 31, 1978, section 102 of Reorganization Plan No. 4 of 1978 (43 FR 47713, October 17, 1978) transferred the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue exemptions of the type requested to the Secretary of Labor.

General Information

The attention of interested persons is directed to the following:

(1) The fact that a transaction is the subject of an exemption granted under section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code does not relieve a fiduciary or other party in interest or disqualified person with respect to a plan to which the exemption is applicable from certain other provisions of the Act and the Code. (2) This exemption does not extend to transactions prohibited under section 406(b)(3) of the Act and section 4975(c)(1)(F) of the Code.

(3) This exemption is supplemental to, and not in derogation of, any other provisions of the Act and the Code, including statutory or administrative exemptions and transitional rules. Furthermore, the fact that a transaction is subject to an administrative or statutory exemption or transitional rule is not dispositive of whether the transaction is, in fact, a prohibited transaction.

Exemption

In accordance with section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code and the procedures set forth in ERISA Procedure 75–1 (40 FR 18471, April 28, 1975), and based upon the entire record, the Department makes the following determinations: (a) The exemption is administratively feasible; (b) It is in the interests of the Plan and of its participants and beneficiaries; and (c) It is protective of the rights of the participants and beneficiaries of the Plan.

Accordingly, the restrictions of section 406(a), 406(b)(1) and 406(b)(2) of the Act and the taxes imposed by section 4975 (a) and (b) of the Code by reason of section 4975(c)(1) (A) through (E) of the Code shall not apply, effective January 1, 1975, to the loan of $24,000 by the Trust to the Employer that was entered into on July 23, 1974, and was repaid in full on June 9, 1977.

The availability of this exemption is subject to the express condition that the material facts and representations contained in the application are true and complete, and that the application accurately describes all material terms of the transaction which is the subject of this exemption.

Furthermore, the fact that a transaction is subject to an administrative or statutory exemption or transitional rule is not dispositive of whether the transaction is, in fact, a prohibited transaction.

Exemption

In accordance with section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code and the procedures set forth in ERISA Procedure 75–1 (40 FR 18471, April 28, 1975), and based upon the entire record, the Department makes the following determinations:

(a) The exemption is administratively feasible;

(b) It is in the interests of the Plan and of its participants and beneficiaries; and

(c) It is protective of the rights of the participants and beneficiaries of the Plan.

Accordingly, the restrictions of section 406(a) and 406(b)(1) and (b)(2) of the Act, and the taxes imposed by section 4975(a) and (b) of the Code, by reason of section 4975(c)(1)(A) through (E) of the Code, shall not apply to the transfer of stock of Security State Bank and Seminary State Bank from the Plan to the Employer, in exchange for stock of the Employer plus cash: Provided however, that pursuant to such exchange the Plan receives property having a fair market value of no less than the fair market value of the stock of Security State Bank and Seminary State Bank as of the date of such exchange, and further provided that the value of Security State Bank and Seminary State Bank stock as of such date be deemed to be no less than $66.50 per share for Security State Bank stock and $23.50 per share for Seminary State Bank stock.

The availability of this exemption is subject to express condiction that the material facts and representations contained in the application are true and complete, and that the application accurately describes all material terms of the transaction to be consummated pursuant to this exemption.

Signed at Washington, D.C., this 12th day of December 1979.

Exemption From the Prohibitions for a Certain Transaction Involving the Peninsular Supply Co. Employees' Pension Plan

AGENCY: Department of Labor.

ACTION: Grant of individual exemption.

SUMMARY: This exemption permits the sale for cash of real property by the Peninsular Supply Company Employees' Pension Plan (the Plan) to the ITT Grinnell Corporation (the Corporation), the parent corporation of the Penisular Supply Company (the Employer). The applicant has given notice to interested persons as set forth in the Notice of Proposed Exemption.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ms. Linda Hamilton of the Office of Fiduciary Standards, Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, Room C–4526, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20216. (202) 523–7462. (This is not a toll-free number.)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On October 12, 1979 notice was published in the Federal Register (44 FR 59016) of the pendency before the Department of Labor (the Department) of a proposal to grant an exemption from the restrictions of section 406(a) and 406(b) (1) and (2) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (the Act) and from the taxes imposed by section 4975(a) and (b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (the Code) by reason of section 4975(c)(1)(A) through (E) of the Code, for a transaction described in an application filed by the Corporation. The notice set forth a summary of facts and representations contained in the application for exemption and referred interested persons to the application for a complete statement of the facts and representations. The application has been available for public inspection at the Department in Washington, D.C. The notice also invited interested persons to submit comments on the requested exemption to the Department. In addition the notice stated that any interested person might submit a written request that a public hearing be held relating to this exemption. No public comments and no requests for a hearing were received by the Department.

This application was filed with both the Department and the Internal Revenue Service. However, the notice of pendency was issued and the exemption is being granted solely by the Department because, effective December 31, 1978, section 102 of Reorganization Plan No. 4 of 1978 (43 FR 47713, October 17, 1978) transferred the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue exemptions of the type proposed to the Secretary of Labor.

General Information

The attention of interested persons is directed to the following:

(1) The fact that a transaction is the subject of an exemption granted under section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code does not relieved a fiduciary or other party in interest or disqualified person with respect to a plan to which the exemption is applicable from certain other provisions of the Act and the Code. These provisions include any prohibited transaction provisions to which the exemption does not apply and the general fiduciary responsibility provisions of section 404 of the Act, which among other things require a fiduciary to discharge his or her duties respecting the plan solely in the interest of the participants and beneficiaries of the plan and in a prudent fashion in accordance with section 404(a)(1)(B) of the Act; nor does the fact the transaction is the subject of an exemption affect the requirement of section 401(a) of the Code that a plan must operate for the exclusive benefit of the employees of the employer maintaining the plan and their beneficiaries.

(2) This exemption does not extend to transactions prohibited under section 406(b)(3) of the Act and section 4975(c)(1)(F) of the Code.

(3) This exemption is supplemental to, and not in derogation of, any other provisions of the Act and the Code, including statutory or administrative exemptions and transitional rules.

Furthermore, the fact that a transaction is subject to an administrative or statutory exemption or transitional rule is not dispositive of whether the transaction is, in fact, a prohibited transaction.

Exemption

In accordance with section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code and the procedures set forth in ERISA Procedures 75–1 (40 FR 18471, April 28, 1975), and based upon the entire record, the Department makes the following determinations:

(a) The exemption is administratively feasible;

(b) It is in the interest of the Plan and of its participants and beneficiaries; and

(c) It is protective of the rights of the participants and benficiaires of the Plan.

Accordingly, the restrictions of section 406(a), 406(b)(1) and (b)(2) of the Act and the taxes imposed by section 4975(a) and (b) of the Code, by reason of section 4975(c)(1)(A) through (E) of the Code, shall not apply to the sale for cash of a tract of land located in Swain County, North Carolina by the Plan to the Corporation for $142,750 provided that this amount is not less than the fair market value of the property at the time of sale.

The availability of this exemption is subject to the express condition that the material facts and representations contained in the application are true and complete, and that the application accurately describes all material terms of the transaction to be consummated pursuant to this exemption.

Signed at Washington, D.C., this 12th day of December, 1979.

Proposed Exemption for a Certain Transaction Involving the General Welding Works, Inc., Retirement Plan and Trust

AGENCY: Department of Labor.

ACTION: Notice of Proposed Exemption.

SUMMARY: This document contains a notice of pendency before the Department of Labor (the Department) of a proposed exemption from certain of the prohibited transaction restrictions of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (the Act) and from certain taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (the Code). The proposed exemption would exempt the sale of real property by the General Welding Works, Inc. Retirement Plan and Trust (the Plan) to General Welding Works, Inc. (the Employer). The proposed exemption, if granted, would affect the participants and beneficiaries of the Plan, the Employer, and other persons participating in the transaction.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be received by the Department of Labor on or before January 18, 1980.

ADDRESS: All written comments and requests for a hearing (at least three copies) should be sent to the Office of Fiduciary Standards, Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, Room C–4526, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Consitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20216, Attention: Application No. D–1470. The application for exemption and the comments received will be available for public inspection in the Public Documents Room of Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, U.S. Department of Labor, Room N–4677, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20216.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ms. Linda Hamilton, of the Department of Labor, telephone (202) 523–7462. (This in not a toll-free number.)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Notice is hereby given of the pendency before the Department of an application for exemption from the restrictions of section 406(a) and 406(b) (1) and (2) of the Act and from the taxes imposed by section 4975 (a) and (b) of the Code, by reason of section 4975(c)(1) (A) through (E) of the Code. The proposed exemption was requested in an application filed by the Employer, pursuant to section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code, and in accordance with procedures set forth in ERISA Procedure 75–1 (40 FR 18471, April 28, 1975). Effective December 31, 1978, section 102 of Reorganization Plan No. 4 of 1978 (43 FR 47713, October 17, 1978) transferred the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue exemptions of the type requested to the Secretary of Labor. Therefore, this notice of pendency is issued solely by the Department.

Summary of Facts and Representations

The application contains representations with regard to the proposed exemption which are summarized below. Interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Department for the complete representations of the applicant.

1. The Plan is a defined benefit plan with approximately 218 participants. The Plan had total assets of $2,070,000 as of October 1, 1978. The Plan is administered by the Administrative Committee, which has sole responsibility for investing the assets of the Plan. The Administrative Committee is composed of three officers of the Employer. The trustee of the Plan is the American Industries Retirement Company.

2. The Employer is engaged in the business of fabrication of pressure vessels for the oil and chemical business. The business facilities and general offices of the Employer are located in Harrison County, Texas.

3. On January 19, 1966 the Plan purchased a parcel of land for $246,924. This parcel is now divided into two tracts: Tract A which is presently leased to the Employer by the Plan pursuant to a binding contract that was in effect on and prior to July 1, 1974; and Tract B, which is leased to an unrelated party. At the time of the purchase, $92,107 of the total purchase price was allocable to Tract B. The appraisal value of Tract B, as determined by V.P. Ringer, MAI–CRE, is $199,788 as of April 1979.

4. The lease on Tract B expires on December 31, 1979. The Employer is requesting an exemption to permit it to purchase Tract B from the Plan when its lease arrangement has terminated. The Employer proposes to purchase Tract B for $219,767 in cash, an amount equal to 110% of the fair market value. This amount factors in its premium value as Tract B is adjacent to the Employer's present business premises. The purchase price will be determined on the basis of an updated independent appraisal and no real estate sales commissions or other administrative costs will be involved.

5. Tract B currently yields a return of less than 5% per year. The Plan represents that the sale of Tract B will provide it with funds which could be invested more productively and more than double the present low yield to the Plan.

In summary, the applicant represents that the criteria of section 408(a) of the Act will be satisfied by the proposed sale because:

(1) It will be a one-time transaction for cash;

(2) The Plan will receive 110% of the fair market value of the property;

(3) The Plan will be able to dispose of a low income-producing asset without incurring additional administrative costs; and

(4) The Administrative Committee has determined that the proposed transaction is appropriate for the Plan and is in the best interests of its participants and beneficiaries.

Notice to Interested Persons

All present Plan participants and beneficiaries receiving benefits and all former employees with vested benefits in the Plan will be notified of the pendency of the exemption by copy of the Notice of Pendency as published in the Federal Register within 10 days of its publication. These persons will also be informed of their right to comment within the period set forth in the Notice of Pendency.

General Information

The attention of interested persons is directed to the following:

(1) The fact that a transaction is the subject of an exemption under section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code does not relieve a fiduciary or other party in interest or disqualified person from certain other provisions of the Act and the Code, including any prohibited transaction provisions to which the exemption does not apply and the general fiduciary responsibility provisions of section 404 of the Act, which among other things require a fiduciary to discharge his or her duties respecting the plan solely in the interests of the participants and beneficiaries of the plan and in a prudent fashion in accordance with section 404(a)(1)(B) of the Act; nor does it affect the requirement of section 401(a) of the Code that the plan must operate for the exclusive benefit of the employees of the employer maintaining the plan and their beneficiaries;

(2) The proposed exemption, if granted, will not extend to transactions prohibited under section 406(b)(3) of the Act and section 4975(c)(1)(F) of the Code;

(3) Before an exemption may be granted under section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code, the Department must find that the exemption is administratively feasible, in the interests of the plan and of its participants and beneficiaries and protective of the rights of participants and beneficiaries of the plan; and

(4) The proposed exemption, if granted, will be supplemental to, and not in derogation of, any other provisions of the Act and the Code, including statutory or administrative exemptions and transitional rules. Furthermore, the fact that a transaction is subject to an administrative or statutory exemption is not dispositive of whether the transaction is in fact a prohibited transaction.

Written Comments and Hearing Requests

All interested persons are invited to submit written comments or requests for a hearing on the pending exemption to the address above, within the time period set forth above. All comments will be made a part of the record. Comments and requests for a hearing should state the reasons for the writer's interest in the pending exemption. Comments received will be available for public inspection with the application for exemption at the address set forth above.

Proposed Exemption

Based on the facts and representations set forth in the application, the Department is considering granting the requested exemption under the authority of section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code and in accordance with the procedures set forth in ERISA Procedure 75–1 (40 FR 18471, April 28, 1975). If the exemption is granted, the restrictions of section 406(a) and 406(b) (1) and (2) of the Act and the taxes imposed by section 4975 (a) and (b) of the Code, by reason of section 4975(c)(1) (A) through (E) of the Code shall not apply to the sale to the Employer by the Plan of one 6-acre parcel of real property located in the 6800 block of Katy Road, Houston, Texas for $219,767 in cash provided that this amount is not less than 110% of the fair market value of the property at the time of the sale.

The proposed exemption, if granted, will be subject to the express conditions that the material facts and representations contained in the application are true and complete, and that the application accurately describes all material terms of the transaction to be consummated pursuant to the exemption.

Signed at Washington, D.C., this 12th day of December, 1979.

Administrator for Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, Labor-Management Services Administration, Department of Labor.

Proposed Exemption for Certain Transactions Involving the Iowa Operating Engineers Apprentice and Training Program

AGENCY: Department of Labor.

ACTION: Notice of Proposed Exemption.

SUMMARY: This document contains a notice of pendency before the Department of Labor (the Department) of a proposed exemption from certain of the prohibited transaction restrictions of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (the Act). The proposed exemption would exempt the sale by the Iowa Operating Engineers Apprenticeship and Training Program (the Plan) of an unimproved parcel of real property (the Property) to the Operating Engineers Local 234, Building Corporation (the Corporation), a wholly owned subsidiary of the Local 234 Iowa Operating Engineers (the Union), a party in interest with respect to the Plan. The proposed exemption, if granted, would affect trustees, participants and beneficiaries of the Plan, the Union, officers and directors of the Corporation, and any other persons participating in the proposed transaction.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be received by the Department on or before February 1, 1980.

ADDRESS: All written comments and requests for a hearing (at least three copies) should be sent to the Office of Fiduciary Standards, Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, Room C–4526, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20216, Attention: Application No. L–1595. The application for exemption and the comments received will be available for public inspection in the Public Documents Room of Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, U.S. Department of Labor, Room N–4677, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20216.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. David J. Stander of the Department, telephone (202) 523–8195. (This is not a toll free number.)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Notice is hereby given of the pendency before the Department of an application for exemption from the restrictions of section 406(a), 406(b)(1) and 406(b)(2) of the Act. The proposed exemption was requested in an application filed on October 10, 1979, pursuant to section 408(a) of the Act and in accordance with procedures set forth in ERISA Procedure 75–1 (40 FR 18471, April 28, 1975).

Summary of Facts and Representations

The application contains representations with regard to the proposed exemption which are summarized below. Interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Department for the complete representations of the applicants.

1. The Plan is a welfare plan as defined in Section 3(a) of the Act and was established in accordance with section 302(c)(6) of the Labor-Management Relations Act of 1947, as amended. The estimated number of plan participants is 2,000. The Plan provides training opportunities through an apprenticeship program to persons interested in a career as a heavy construction equipment operator or heavy equipment mechanic. The Plan also provides skill improvement training for journeyman members of the Union. The geographical jurisdiction of the Union embraces the entire State of Iowa, except for seven counties in the eastern part of the State.

As of November 5, 1979, the Plan had net assets of approximately $437,000.

2. The Plan seeks to sell the Property to the Corporation. The Property is an irregularly shaped parcel of land consisting of 7.41 acres located at the northeast corner of S.W. 60th Street and Army Post Road, in the southwest quadrant of Des Moines, Iowa. The site is zoned M–1 Light Industrial and has no water or sewer.

The Property is part of a 25 acre parcel of land (the Land) which the Plan purchased on October 24, 1978, pursuant to a bankruptcy proceeding (the Proceeding) in a Nebraska Federal District Court. The Plan paid a total consideration of $78,000 for the Land, the average price of which is $3,120 per acre. The Property has, to date, produced less than $1,600 dollars in income to the Plan.

3. The circumstances surrounding the Proceeding necessitated that only one party purchase the Land pursuant to the Proceeding. The Plan and the Union had agreed, in August 1978, that the Plan would sell to the Corporation a part of the Land which it would purchase pursuant to the Proceeding. The Property is that part of the Land which the Corporation had hoped to acquire pursuant to the Proceeding. The Corporation intends to construct an office building upon the Property. The Plan is presently constructing training facilities upon the part of the Land which it is retaining.

4. A complete appraisal of the Property prepared by Arthur J. Frahm, an independent MAI appraiser, estimates that, as of July 24, 1979, the fair market value of the Property was $6,800 per acre. The proposed total sales price for the Property will be at the appraised value of $6,800 per acre, for a total sum of $50,388.00, provided that this price is not less than the fair market value of the Property at the time of sale. The transaction will be for cash. The Plan will not pay a commission with respect to the sale.

5. In summary, the applicant represents that the proposed sale of the Property by the Plan to the Corporation satisfies the criteria of section 408(a) of the Act because (a) the sale is a one-time transaction for cash, (b) the sale will allow the Plan to dispose of an asset which is producing little income; (c) the sales price was determined by an independent appraiser; (d) the proposed sales price is approximately 117% more than the price of the Property when purchased by the Plan in October 1978; and (e) the proximity of Union office and meeting accommodations to training facilities of the Plan will provide for increased efficiency in the operation of the Plan, as well as provide many conveniences for the Plan's participants and beneficiaries.

Notice to Interested Persons

A copy of this notice of the proposed exemption will be posted in the Union's offices in Council Bluffs, Sioux City, Mason City, Waterloo, Dubuque, Cedar Rapids, Ottumwa and Des Moines, Iowa. Copies of the notice of proposed exemption will also be mailed to several employer associations which are parties to the trust agreement creating and governing the Plan. Notice will be provided within fifteen (15) days after publication of this notice in the Federal Register.

General Information

The attention of interested persons is directed to the following:

(1) The fact that a transaction is the subject of an exemption under section 408(a) of the Act does not relieve a fiduciary or other party in interest from certain other provisions of the Act including any prohibited transaction provisions to which the exemption does not apply and the general fiduciary responsibility provisions of section 404 of the Act, which among other things require a fiduciary to discharge his duties respecting the plan solely in the interest of the participants and beneficiaries of the plan and in a prudent fashion in accordance with section 404(a)(1)(B) of the Act.

(2) The proposed exemption, if granted, will not extend to transactions prohibited under section 406(b)(3) of the Act;

(3) Before an exemption may be granted under section 408(a) of the Act the Department must find that the exemption is administratively feasible, in the interests of the plan and of its participants and beneficiaries and protective of the rights of participants and beneficiaries of the plan; and

(4) The proposed exemption, if granted, will be supplemental to, and not in derogation of, any other provisions of the Act, including statutory or administrative exemptions and transitional rules. Furthermore, the fact that a transaction is subject to an administrative or statutory exemption is not dispositive of whether the transaction is in fact a prohibited transaction.

Written Comments and Hearing Requests

All interested persons are invited to submit written comments or requests for a hearing on the pending exemption to the address above, within the time period set forth above. All comments will be made a part of the record. Comments and requests for a hearing should state the reasons for the writer's interest in the pending exemption. Comments received will be available for public inspection with the application for exemption at the address set forth above.

Proposed Exemption

Based on the facts and representations set forth in the application, the Department is considering granting the requested exemption under the authority of section 408(a) of the Act and in accordance with the procedures set forth in ERISA Procedure 75–1 (40 FR 18471, April 28, 1975). If the exemption is granted, the restrictions of section 406(a), 406(b)(1) and 406(b)(2) of the Act shall not apply to the sale by the Plan to the Corporation of a 7.41 acre parcel of unimproved real property located at the northeast corner of S.W. 60th Street and Army Post Road, in the southwest quadrant of Des Moines, Iowa, for a total sales price of $50,388.00 cash, provided that this sum is not less than the fair market value of the Property as of the date of sale.

The proposed exemption, if granted, will be subject to the express conditions that the material facts and representations contained in the application are true and complete, and that the application accurately describes all material terms of the transaction to be consummated pursuant to the exemption.

Signed at Washington, D.C., this 12th day of December, 1979.

Administrator, Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, Labor-Management Services Administration, Department of Labor.

Proposed Exemption for a Certain Transaction Involving the Raleigh Lithograph Corp. Profit-Sharing Retirement Plan

AGENCY: Department of Labor.

ACTION: Notice of Proposed Exemption.

SUMMARY: This document contains a notice of pendency before the Department of Labor (the Department) of a proposed exemption from certain of the prohibited transaction restrictions of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (the Act) and from certain taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (the Code). The proposed exemption would exempt a loan of $400,000 from the Raleigh Lithograph Corporation Profit-Sharing Retirement Plan (the Plan) to the Raleigh Lithograph Corporation (the Employer). The proposed exemption, if granted, would affect the participants and beneficiaries of the Plan, the Employer, and other persons participating in the proposed transaction.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be received by the Department of Labor on or before January 18, 1980.

ADDRESS: All written comments and requests for a hearing (at least three copies) should be sent to the Office of Fiduciary Standards, Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, Room C-4526, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20216, Attention: Application No. D-1297. The application for exemption and the comments received will be available for public inspection in the Public Documents Room of Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, U.S. Department of Labor, Room N-4677, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20216.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ms. Linda Hamilton of the Department of Labor, telephone (202) 523-7462. (This is not a toll-free number.)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Notice is hereby given of the pendency before the Department of an application for exemption from the restrictions of section 406(a) and 406(b) (1) and (2) of the Act and from the taxes imposed by section 4975 (a) and (b) of the Code, by reason of section 4975(c)(1)(A) through (E) of the Code. The proposed exemption was requested in an application filed by the Employer and the trustees of the Plan, pursuant to section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c) (2) of the Code, and in accordance with procedures set forth in ERISA Procedure 75-1 (40 FR 18471, April 28, 1975). Effective December 31, 1978, section 102 of Reorganization Plan No. 4 of 1978 (43 FR 47713, October 17, 1978) transferred the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue exemptions of the type requested to the Secretary of Labor. Therefore, this notice of pendency is issued solely by the Department.

Summary of Facts and Representations

The application contains representations with regard to the proposed exemption which are summarized below. Interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Department for the complete representations of the applicants.

1. The Plan was established as a profit sharing plan in 1956 and had total assets of $1,445,385 as of December 31, 1978 for the benefit of 21 participants.

2. The Employer, a privately held lithographing and printing organization, is a New York corporation which has been in operation for 30 years. The principal shareholders of the Employer, Mrs. Belle Packer and Mr. Philip J. Lack, are the trustees of the Plan and have sole authority to select investments for the Plan.

On October 17, 1978, the Employer executed a contract to purchase a six-color offset press, (the Press) at a cost of $595,160. The Employer seeks this exemption to borrow $400,000 from the Plan toward the purchase of the Press. This amount represents 28% of total Plan assets.

4. The Employer proposes to borrow $400,000 from the Plan and to repay it during a period not to exceed 5 years at a rate of interest 1½% above the prime rate offered by a local bank (the Bank). This rate of interest would be determined and the loan repaid on a quarterly basis. The loan would be prepayable at any time with interest to the date of prepayment. The Plan represents that the proposed loan would provide a much greater rate of return than that of its present investments, which averaged 7.1% for the years 1976 through 1978, inclusive.

5. As security for the loan, Mrs. Packer and Mr. Lack will post marketable collateral which will remain equal to 150% of the outstanding balance of the loan. This collateral will be posted with an independent escrow agent, the Bank, to be held during the period of the loan. The Bank will also serve as the Plan's agent for collection of the loan from the Employer. If any repayment installment is not timely made by the Employer, the Bank must sell so much of the marketable collateral as necessary to pay that installment, and pay the proceeds of the sale over to the Plan.

6. Mrs. Packer and Mr. Lack will execute and deliver to the Plan their individual personal guarantees that they will repay to the Plan, upon any default in payment by the Employer, or upon failure by the Employer to comply with any terms or conditions of the loan, the then outstanding balance of the loan together with any accrued interest due. Henry Warner & Co., the accountants for the various business ventures of Mrs. Packer and Mr. Lack, as well as the preparers of their personal tax returns, are of the opinion that the net worth of each is in excess of $1,000,000.

7. The Plan engaged in seven loan transactions with Mrs. Packer and Mr. Lack between 1961 and 1972 involving a total of $350,000. All loans were repaid to the Plan at the then prevailing interest rates.

8. The loan will be further secured by a security interest in the Press. The Employer will execute a security agreement and a Uniform Commercial Code financing statement in favor of the Plan, and will file it in the appropriate recording office of New York County and with the Secretary of State of New York. The security agreement will contain the warranty of the Employer to the effect that it has full right, title and interest to the Press, except for the security interest granted to the Plan, and that the Employer will keep the collateral free from any adverse claim or lien. The Press will be insured by the Employer against fire and other hazards for the full value thereof, and the insurance policy will contain a loss payable clause providing payment to the Plan equal to the outstanding balance of the loan.

9. The Employer has obtained a letter from the Bank summarizing the general terms under which it would consider making a $400,000 loan to the Employer. The Bank would currently consider lending the Employer $400,000 for 5 years, secured only by marketable collateral valued at 150% of the outstanding loan balance, with the personal unlimited guarantees of Mrs. Packer and Mr. Lack, and repayable in predetermined quarterly or monthly payments. Prepayment would be accepted without penalty in inverse order of maturity. The loan would be priced at 1¼% over the Bank's prime rate on a floating basis. The Bank's terms are comparable to those the Employer is offering to the Plan except that the Employer will pay a ¼% higher interest rate to the Plan (1½% above the prime rate of the Bank) and the Employer will also give the Plan a security interest in the Press.

10. The Press is being purchased through Coastal Graphics, Inc. (Coastal), which has stated that the value of the Press has increased by 87% since 1975 and, as of March 14, 1979, is valued at $760,000. Coastal also stated that this Press has maintained an unusual place in the used press market over many years and expressed the opinion that the resale value and marketability of the Press as used equipment is excellent at present and will be in the foreseeable future.

In summary, the applicants represent that the proposed transaction will satisfy the criteria of section 408(a) of the Act because:

(1) It can be easily verified;

(2) It will provide an excellent rate of return to the Plan which exceeds that of its present investments;

(3) The marketable collateral, the security interest in the Press, and the personal guarantees give assurances that the Plan will not suffer a loss; and

(4) The trustees of the Plan have determined that the proposed transaction is appropriate for the Plan and in the best interests of its participants and beneficiaries.

Notice to Interested Persons

Notice of the proposed exemption will be given to all active Plan participants by posting the Notice of Pendency, as it appears in the Federal Register, about the Employer's place of business. Terminated participants and beneficiaries who have the right to receive benefits from the Plan, will be notified by mail, addressed to them at their last known addresses. Notice of the pending exemption will be given within 10 days of its publication in the Federal Register.

General Information

The attention of interested persons is directed to the following:

(1) The fact that a transaction is the subject of an exemption under section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Codes does not relieve a fiduciary or other party in interest or disqualified person from certain other provisions of the Act and the Code, including any prohibited transaction provisions to which the exemption does not apply and the general fiduciary responsibility provisions of section 404 of the Act, which among other things require a fiduciary to discharge his or her duties respecting the plan solely in the interest of the participants and beneficiaries of the plan and in a prudent fashion in accordance with section 404(a)(1)(B) of the Act; nor does it affect the requirement of section 401(a) of the Code that the plan must operate for the exclusive benefit of the employees of the employer maintaining the plan and their beneficiaries;

(2) The proposed exemption, if granted, will not extend to transactions prohibited under section 406(b)(3) of the Act and section 4975(c)(1)(F) of the Code;

(3) Before an exemption may be granted under section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code, the Department must find that the exemption is administratively feasible, in the interests of the plan and of its participants and beneficiaries and protective of the rights of participants and beneficiaries of the plan; and

(4) The proposed exemption, if granted, will be supplemental to, and not in derogation of, any other provisions of the Act and the Code, including statutory or administrative exemptions and transitional rules. Furthermore, the fact that a transaction is subject to an administrative or statutory exemption is not dispositive of whether the transaction is in fact a prohibited transaction.

Written Comments and Hearing Requests

All interested persons are invited to submit written comments or requests for a hearing on the pending exemption to the address above, within the time period set forth above. All comments will be made a part of the record. Comments and requests for a hearing should state the reasons for the writer's interest in the pending exemption. Comments received will be available for public inspection with the application for exemption at the address set forth above.

Proposed Exemption

Based on the facts and representations set forth in the application, the Department is considering granting the requested exemption under the authority of section 408(a) of the Act and section 4975(c)(2) of the Code and in accordance with the procedures set forth in ERISA Procedure 75-1 (40 FR 18471, April 28, 1975). If the exemption is granted, the restrictions of section 406(a) and 406(b) (1) and (2) of the Act and the taxes imposed by section 4975 (a) and (b) of the Code, by reason of section 4975(c)(1) (A) through (E) of the Code shall not apply to the loan of $400,000 by the Plan to the Employer for the purchase of an offset press as described herein provided that the terms of the transaction are not less favorable to the Plan than those obtainable from an unrelated party at arm's length at the time of the consummation of the transaction.

The proposed exempton, if granted, will be subject to the express conditions that the material facts and representations contained in the application are true and complete, and that the application accurately describes all material terms of the transaction to be consummated pursuant to the exemption.

Signed at Washington, D.C., this 12th day of December, 1979.

Ian D. Lanoff,

Administrator for Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, Labor-Management Services Administration, Department of Labor.

[Application No. L-1008]

Proposed Exemption for Certain Transactions Involving the United Hatters, Cap & Millinery Workers International Union Health and Welfare Fund of Local 45 and United Hatters, Cap & Millinery Workers International Union Retirement Plan of Local 45

AGENCY: Department of Labor.

ACTION: Notice of Proposed Exemption.

SUMMARY: This document contains a notice of pendency before the Department of Labor (the Department) of a proposed exemption from certain of the prohibited transaction restrictions of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (the Act). The proposed exemption would exempt the proposed transfer of assets from the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International Union Health and Welfare Fund of Local 45 (the Fund) to the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International Union Retirement Plan of Local 45 (the Plan). The proposed exemption, if granted, would affect participants and beneficiaries of the Plan, the Fund and other persons participating in the proposed transaction.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be received by the Department of Labor on or before January 28, 1980.

ADDRESS: All written comments and requests for a hearing (at least three copies) should be sent to the Office of Fiduciary Standards, Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, Room C-4526, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20216, Attention: Application No. L-1008. The application for exemption and the comments received will be available for public inspection in the Public Documents Room of Pension and Welfare Benefit Programs, U.S. Department of Labor, Room N–4677, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20216.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ronald D. Allen, of the Department of Labor, telephone (202) 523–7901. (This is not a toll-free number.)

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Notice is hereby given of the pendency before the Department of an application for exemption from the restrictions of section 406(b)(2) of the Act. The proposed exemption was requested in an application filed by the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers International Union (the Union) on behalf of the Plan, pursuant to section 408(a) of the Act and in accordance with procedures set forth in ERISA Procedure 75–1 (40 FR 18471, April 28, 1975).

Summary of Facts and Representations

The application contains representations with regard to the proposed exemption which are summarized below. Interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Department for the complete representations of the applicants.
